(1) In order to be deductible, the allowance must be authorized by the laws of the jurisdiction in which the estate is being administered, and not in excess of what is reasonably required.

(2) The allowance for which deduction may be made is limited to support during the settlement of the estate. Any allowance for a more extended period is not deductible.

(3) There must be an actual disbursement from the estate to the dependents, but after payment has been made the right of deduction is not affected by the fact that the dependents do not expend the entire amount for their support during the settlement of the estate.

Deductions—Property Previously Taxed

SEC. 303. For the purpose of the tax the value of the net estate shall be determined—

(a) (as amended by section 403 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1934). In the case of a citizen or resident of the United States, by deducting from the value of the gross estate— • • •

(2) (as amended by section 806 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932 and by section 402 of the Revenue Act of 1934) An amount equal to the value of any property (A) forming a part of the gross estate situated in the United States of any person who died within five years prior to the death of the decedent, or (B) transferred to the decedent by gift within five years prior to his death, where such property can be identified as having been received by the decedent from the donors by gift, or from such prior decedent by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance, or which can be identified as having been acquired in exchange for property so received. This deduction shall be allowed only where a gift tax imposed under the Revenue Act of 1932, or an estate tax imposed under this or any prior Act of Congress, was finally determined and paid by or on behalf of such donor, or the estate of such prior decedent, as the case may be, and only in the amount finally determined as the value of such property in determining the value of the gift, or the gross estate of such prior decedent, and only to the extent that the value of such property is included in the decedent's gross estate, and only if in determining the value of the net estate of the prior decedent no deduction was allowable under this paragraph in respect of the property or property given in exchange therefor. Where a deduction was allowed of any mortgage or other lien in determining the gift tax, or the estate tax of the prior decedent, which was paid in whole or in part prior to the decedent's death, then the deduction allowable under this paragraph shall be reduced by the amount so paid. The deduction allowable under this paragraph shall be reduced by an amount which bears the same ratio to the amounts allowed as deductions under paragraphs (1), (3), and (4) of this subdivision as the amount otherwise deductible under this paragraph bears to the value of the decedent's gross estate. Where the property referred to in this paragraph consists of two or more items the aggregate value of such items shall be used for the purpose of computing the deduction. • • •

SEC. 303. (a) (as originally enacted) In the case of a resident, by deducting from the value of the gross estate— • • •

(2) An amount equal to the value of any property (A) forming a part of the gross estate situated in the United States of any person who died within five years prior to the death of the decedent, or (B) transferred to the decedent by gift within five years prior to his death, where such property can be identified as having been received by the decedent from such donor by gift or from such prior decedent by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance, or which can be identified as having been acquired in exchange for property so received. This deduction shall be allowed only where a gift tax imposed under the Revenue Act of 1924, or an estate tax imposed under this or any prior Act of Congress was paid by or on behalf of the donor or the estate of such prior decedent as the case may be, and only in the amount of the value placed by the Commissioner on such property in determining the value of the gift or the gross estate of such prior decedent, and only to the extent that the value of such property is included in the decedent's gross estate and not deducted under paragraph (1) or (3) of this subdivision; • • •

NOTE.—All of the amendments to the above paragraph were made by section 806 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932, except that the following clause was inserted by section 402 of the Revenue Act of 1934: "and only if in determining the value of the net estate of the prior decedent no deduction was allowable under this paragraph in respect of the property or property given in exchange therefor."

ART. 41. Deduction of the value of transfers previously taxed.—Should there be included in the decedent's gross estate property received by him by gift from any person within five years prior to his death, or received by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance from any person who died within five years prior to his death, or property acquired in exchange for property so received, the statute authorizes a deduction in behalf thereof, subject to the following conditions and limitations, namely:

(a) Conditions.—

(1) The property respecting which the deduction is sought must have been received by the decedent as a gift within five years of the date of his death, or received by him by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance from a prior decedent who died within five years of the date of the decedent's death.

(2) The property must be identified either as the same which the decedent so received or acquired in exchange therefor.

(3) The property must have formed a part of the gross estate, situated in the United States, of such prior decedent, or have been included in the total amount of gifts of a donor.

(4) An estate tax by or on behalf of the estate of such prior decedent, or a gift tax by or on behalf of the donor, must have actually been paid (the mere filing of a return for such estate or donor not being sufficient).

(5) If the decedent died after 11:40 a. m., eastern standard time, May 10, 1934, no such deduction, in respect to the property or property given in exchange therefor, must have been allowable in determining the value of the net estate of the prior decedent.

(b) Limitations.—

(A) If the decedent died prior to 5 p. m., eastern standard time, June 6, 1932—

(1) The deduction is limited to the value of the property finally determined for the purpose of the gift tax or for the purpose of the prior estate tax, or to the value of such property (or property acquired in exchange therefor) included in the decedent's gross estate, whichever is the lower.

(2) The deduction, as limited in (1), is reduced by the total amount paid prior to the decedent's death on any mortgage or other lien on the property previously taxed, provided such mortgage or other lien was deducted in determining the estate tax of the prior decedent, or the gift tax of the donor.

(3) The deduction for property previously taxed, or that acquired in exchange therefor, is not diminished by amounts deducted under paragraph (1) or (3) of subdivision (a) of section 303 merely because such amounts were paid out of said property. On the other hand, however, the deduction is diminished to the extent that the value of the property so taxed, or of that acquired in exchange therefor, is deducted under said paragraph (1) or (3) on account of such losses arising from casualty or theft as are incurred with respect to said property during the settlement of the estate, or on account of such transfers of specific items of said property as the decedent made in his lifetime or by his will, for public, religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, and the deduction is further diminished to the extent that the amounts allowed under said paragraph (1) or (3), other than those relating to said losses or transfers, are in excess of the value of the decedent's property not previously taxed but subject to debts and charges. The burden of proving that the estate is entitled to the deduction rests upon the executor. The provisions of this paragraph apply in like manner to cases controlled by the Revenue Acts of 1921 and 1924.

(B) If the decedent died after 5 p. m., eastern standard time, June 6, 1932—

(1) The deduction is limited to the value of the property, or the aggregate value of such property if more than one item, as finally determined for the purpose of the gift tax or for the purpose of the prior estate tax, or to the value of such property or aggregate items thereof (or property acquired in exchange therefor) included in the decedent's gross estate, whichever is the lower.

(2) The deduction, as limited in (1), is reduced by the total amount paid prior to the decedent's death on any mortgage or other lien on the property previously taxed, provided such mortgage or other lien was deducted in determining the estate tax of the prior decedent or the gift tax of the donor.

(3) The deduction is further reduced on account of the deductions allowed under paragraphs (1), (3), and (4) of subdivision (a) of section 303. The amount of this further reduction is that proportion of such deductions which the amount otherwise deductible for property previously taxed bears to the value of the decedent's gross estate.

Under the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1918 the deduction was available only in the case the prior decedent died after October 3, 1917, the date of the passage of the Revenue Act of 1917, and the decedent's death occurred subsequent to the effective date of the Revenue Act of 1918. But under the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1921 the right to such deduction is made available to the estates of all decedents dying since September 8, 1916. If, under the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1918, or any prior Act of Congress imposing an estate tax, the deduction was not available, the right thereto is to be determined in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (2) of subdivision (a) of section 403 of the Revenue Act of 1921, but if available under the Revenue Act of 1918, it is governed by paragraph (2) of subdivision (a) of section 403 of that Act. Section 1100 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1924 provides that the retroactive benefit of section 403 of the Revenue Act of 1921 is not lost by the repeal thereof. If the tax has been paid without taking the deduction, a claim for refund may be made, as provided by article 99.

Example (1): The decedent died June 15, 1931. The value of his gross estate for the purpose of the estate tax is $1,000,000, of which $200,000 is the value of insurance in excess of $40,000 payable to beneficiaries other than the estate, $600,000 is the value of property previously taxed, and $200,000 is the value of stocks and bonds not previously taxed. The property previously taxed was inherited from the decedent's father, who died on June 1, 1929. The tax on the father's estate was paid. The property previously taxed may be set forth as follows:

| | Decedent's estate | Prior estate | Lower value |
|---|---|---|---|
| Item 1 | $150,000 | $100,000 | $100,000 |
| Item 2 | 40,000 | 85,000 | 40,000 |
| Item 3 | 110,000 | 125,000 | 110,000 |
| Item 4 | 130,000 | 120,000 | 120,000 |
| Item 5 | 90,000 | 115,000 | 90,000 |
| Item 6 | 80,000 | 50,000 | 50,000 |
| Total | 600,000 | 595,000 | 510,000 |

Item 1, $150,000, is specifically bequeathed to a charitable organization. Administration expenses and debts of the decedent amount to $250,000.

The decedent having died prior to 5 p. m., eastern standard time, June 6, 1932, the deduction is limited to the value of each item placed upon it by the Commissioner in the prior estate or gift, or to the value of each item included in the decedent's gross estate, whichever is the lower. Accordingly, the total amount of the deduction thus ascertained is $510,000. In accordance with paragraph (A) (3) of this article the deduction must be diminished to the extent of the value of any specific item bequeathed to a charitable organization. As item 1 was so bequeathed the amount of $510,000 is diminished by $100,000, the value of item 1 as included in the deduction for property previously taxed. Also, in accordance with paragraph (A) (3) of this article the deduction must be further diminished to the extent that the deductions for administration expenses and debts, or $250,000, exceed the value of the decedent's property subject to debts and charges and not previously taxed, or $200,000. This excess is $50,000. The deduction for property previously taxed is, therefore, further diminished by $50,000, and the amount of the deduction allowable for property previously taxed is $360,000. The total deductions of $860,000 (administration expenses and debts, $250,000; charitable bequest, $150,000; property previously taxed, $360,000; and specific exemption, $100,000) subtracted from the total gross estate of $1,000,000 leaves a net estate of $140,000.

Example (2): The decedent died June 15, 1936. The value of his gross estate for the purpose of the estate tax is $1,000,000, of which $200,000 is the value of insurance in excess of $40,000 payable to beneficiaries other than the estate, $600,000 is the value of property previously taxed, and $200,000 is the value of stocks and bonds not so taxed. The property previously taxed was inherited from the decedent's father who died on June 1, 1932. The tax on the father's estate was paid. The property previously taxed may be set forth as follows:

| | Decedent's estate | Prior estate |
|---|---|---|
| Item 1 | $150,000 | $100,000 |
| Item 2 | 40,000 | 85,000 |
| Item 3 | 110,000 | 125,000 |
| Item 4 | 130,000 | 120,000 |
| Item 5 | 90,000 | 115,000 |
| Item 6 | 80,000 | 50,000 |
| Total | 600,000 | 595,000 |

Item 1, $150,000, is specifically bequeathed to a charitable organization free of estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes. Administration expenses and debts of the decedent amount to $150,000. At the time of the father's death there was an unpaid mortgage of $60,000 on item 5 which was deducted in determining the estate tax liability of the father's estate. This mortgage was entirely paid before the sons' death.

The decedent having died after 5 p. m., eastern standard time, June 6, 1932, the deduction for property previously taxed is limited to the aggregate value of the items constituting such property as finally determined in the case of the prior decedent or donor, or to the aggregate value of such property included in the decedent's gross estate, whichever is the lower. Accordingly, the amount of the deduction for property previously taxed thus ascertained is $595,000. In accordance with paragraph (B) (2) of this article this deduction is reduced by $60,000, the amount paid in the discharge of the mortgage on item 5. The deduction thus reduced is $535,000.

The deduction is further reduced by a proportionate amount computed under the provisions of paragraph (B) (3) of this article. As the amount of the specific exemption authorized by the Revenue Act of 1926 is greater than the amount of the specific exemption authorized by the Revenue Act of 1932, the amount so computed in determining the deduction for the purpose of the estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1926 differs from the amount so computed in determining the deduction for the purpose of the additional tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932.

In the present example the deductions, except for property previously taxed, amount to $400,000, as follows: $150,000 for the charitable bequest, $150,000 for administration expenses and debts, and $100,000 for the specific exemption authorized by the Revenue Act of 1926. The proportionate amount by which the deduction for property previously taxed is further reduced for the purpose of the estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1926 is ascertained by multiplying the above mentioned $400,000 by 0.535, the ratio which the said $535,000 bears to the value of the gross estate, $1,000,000, and amounts to $214,000. The difference between $535,000 and $214,000 is $321,000, the amount in which the deduction for property previously taxed is allowable in determining the tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1926. The total amount of the deductions, $721,000, subtracted from the value of the gross estate, $1,000,000, leaves a net estate of $279,000 the transfer of which is subject to the tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1926.

The Revenue Act of 1932, as amended by the Revenue Act of 1935, provides for a specific exemption of $40,000. Accordingly, the deductions, other than the deduction for property previously taxed, allowable under that Act, as amended, amount to $340,000, and 0.535 of that amount is $181,900, the proportionate amount by which the deduction for property previously taxed is further reduced for the purposes of the additional tax. The difference between $535,000 and $181,900 is $353,100, the amount in which the deduction for property previously taxed is allowable in determining the additional tax. The total amount of the deductions, $693,100, subtracted from the value of the gross estate, $1,000,000, leaves a net estate of $306,900, the transfer of which is subject to the additional tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932, as amended by the Revenue Act of 1935.

ART. 42. Property originally received.—If the property originally received from a donor or prior decedent is included in the decedent's gross estate, the executor must describe it fully and prove its identity.

ART. 43. Property acquired in exchange.—The deduction for substituted property is not limited to property acquired by a single exchange of property received from the donor or the prior decedent, but extends to substituted property acquired by the process of exchange, whether through the medium of money or otherwise, irrespective of the number of conversions involved, including the proceeds of the sale or other disposition of property so received or acquired, as well as property acquired by purchase with the proceeds of the sale or other disposition of such property so long as such proceeds can be conclusively identified as such and clearly traced to the property originally so received.

The executor must describe and fully identify both the property originally received from the donor or the prior decedent and the substituted property for which deduction is claimed, giving the date and stating the nature of the transaction by which the substituted property was acquired, together with the name and address of the transferee. If the transaction was evidenced by written instrument of public record, precise reference to such record must be made, and if by instrument not of record, a verified copy thereof must be supplied. If there was no written instrument, there must be furnished the affidavit of one or more persons having personal knowledge of the matter, setting forth the facts in connection therewith.

The burden of identifying property as acquired in exchange for property included in the gross estate of the prior decedent for Federal estate tax purposes rests upon the executor.

Deductions—Transfers for Public, Charitable, Religious, Etc., Uses

SEC. 303. For the purpose of the tax the value of the net estate shall be determined—

(a) (as amended by section 403 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1934) In the case of a citizen or resident of the United States, by deducting from the value of the gross estate— • • •

(3) (as amended by section 807 of the Revenue Act of 1932 and by section 406 of the Revenue Act of 1934) The amount of all bequests, legacies, devises, or transfers, to or for the use of the United States, any State, Territory, any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, for exclusively public purposes, or to or for the use of any corporation organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, including the encouragement of art and the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual, and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting to influence legislation, or to a trustee or trustees, or a fraternal society, order, or association operating under the lodge system, but only if such contributions or gifts are to be used by such trustee or trustees, or by such fraternal society, order, or association, exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals. If the tax imposed by section 301, or any estate, succession, legacy, or inheritance taxes, are, either by the terms of the will, by the law of the jurisdiction under which the estate is administered, or by the law of the jurisdiction imposing the particular tax, payable in whole or in part out of the bequests, legacies, or devises otherwise deductible under this paragraph, then the amount deductible under this paragraph shall be the amount of such bequests, legacies, or devises reduced by the amount of such taxes. The amount of the deduction under this paragraph for any transfer shall not exceed the value of the transferred property required to be included in the gross estate; and • • •

SEC. 303. (a) (as originally enacted) In case of a resident, by deducting from the value of the gross estate— • • •

(3) The amount of all bequests, legacies, devises, or transfers, to or for the use of the United States, any State, Territory, any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, for exclusively public purposes, or to or for the use of any corporation organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, including the encouragement of art and the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual, or to a trustee or trustees, or a fraternal society, order, or association operating under the lodge system, but only if such contributions or gifts are to be used by such trustee or trustees, or by such fraternal society, order, or association, exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals. The amount of the deduction under this paragraph for any transfer shall not exceed the value of the transferred property required to be included in the gross estate; and • • •.

NOTE.—The second sentence of section 303 (a) (3), as amended, was added by section 807 of the Revenue Act of 1932. The clause, "and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting, to influence legislation." was added by section 406 of the Revenue Act of 1934.

ART. 44. Transfers for public, charitable, religious, etc., uses.—Deduction may be taken of the value of all property transferred by will or by the decedent in his lifetime not to exceed the value of the transferred property required to be included in the gross estate if in either case the property was transferred (1) to or for the use of the United States, any State, Territory, any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, for exclusively public purposes; or (2) to or for the use of any corporation or association organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes (including the encouragement of art and the prevention of cruelty to children or animals), if no part of the net earnings of the corporation or association inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual, and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting to influence legislation; or (3) to a trustee or trustees, or a fraternal society, order, or association operating under the lodge system, if such transfers, legacies, bequests, or devises are to be used by such trustee, trustees, fraternal society, order, or association exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals.

If a trust is created for both a charitable and a private purpose, deduction may be taken of the value of the beneficial interest in favor of the former only insofar as such interest is presently ascertainable, and hence severable from the interest in favor of the private use. Article 10 indicates the principles to be applied in the computation of the present worth of deferred uses, but such computation will not be made by the Commissioner on behalf of the executor. Thus, if money or property is placed in trust to pay the income to an individual during his life, or for a term of years, and then to pay or deliver the principal to a charitable corporation, or to apply it to a charitable purpose, the present value of the remainder is deductible. To determine the present value of such remainder, use the appropriate factor in column 3 of Table A or B of article 10. If the present worth of a remainder bequeathed for a charitable use is dependent upon the termination of more than one life, or in any other manner rendering inapplicable Table A or B of article 10, the claim for the deduction must be supported by a full statement, in duplicate, of the computation of the present worth made, in accordance with the principles set forth in article 10, by one skilled in actuarial computations.

The deduction is not limited, in the estates of residents (or of citizens who died after the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934), to transfers to domestic corporations or associations, or to trustees for use within the United States.

If the decedent died after 5 p. m., eastern standard time, June 6, 1932, and under the terms of the will, or the law of the jurisdiction wherein the estate is administered, or the law of the jurisdiction imposing the particular tax, the Federal estate tax (including the additional estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932, or by that Act as amended), or any estate, succession, legacy, or inheritance tax is payable in whole or in part out of any bequest, legacy, or devise deductible under section 303 (a) (3), the sum deductible is the amount of such bequest, legacy, or devise so reduced. Thus, if $50,000 is bequeathed for a charitable purpose and is subjected to a State inheritance tax of $5,000, the amount deductible is $45,000; or if a life estate is bequeathed to an individual with remainder over to a charitable corporation, and by the local law the legacy tax upon the life estate is taken out of the corpus with the result that the charitable corporation will be entitled to receive only the amount of the fund less the tax, the deduction is limited to the present worth, as of the date of the testator's death, of the remainder of the fund so reduced; or if the testator bequeaths his residuary estate, or a portion thereof, to charity, and his will contains a direction that certain inheritance taxes, otherwise payable from legacies in respect to which they were laid, shall be payable out of such residuary estate, the deduction may not exceed the bequest to charity thus reduced pursuant to the direction of the will; or if a residuary estate, or a portion thereof, be bequeathed to charity, and by the local law the Federal estate tax is payable out of the residuary estate, the deduction may not exceed that portion of the residuary estate bequeathed to charity as reduced by the Federal estate tax. The statute in effect provides that the deduction shall be based on the amount actually available for charitable uses, that is, the amount of the fund remaining after the payment of all death taxes. The return should fully disclose the computation of the amount to be deducted. If such amount is dependent upon the amount of any death tax which has not been paid before the filing of the return, Form 706, there should be submitted with the return a computation of such tax.

ART. 45. Religious, charitable, scientific, and educational corporations.—A corporation or association to which such a transfer was made must meet four tests: (1) It must be organized and operated for one or more of the specified purposes; (2) it must be organized and operated exclusively for such purpose or purposes; (3) no part of its net earnings shall inure to the benefit of private stockholders or individuals; and (4) no substantial part of its activities shall be carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting, to influence legislation.

The estate is not deprived of the right to deduct the value of property so transferred by reason of the fact that private individuals are the recipients of the benefits which the corporation or association dispenses. Such right is, however, lost if any part of the net earnings of the corporation or association inures to the benefit of a private stockholder or individual.

ART. 46. Proof required.—In establishing the right of the estate to this deduction, the executor must submit:

(1) Duplicate copies of the will of the decedent, and of the order admitting the will to probate, one copy of each of which should be certified, if the deduction is claimed of property transferred by such will. Duplicate copies of any instrument in writing by which the decedent made a transfer of property in his lifetime the value of which is required by the statute to be included in his gross estate, if the deduction is claimed of property so transferred. If the instrument is of record one copy thereof should be certified, and if not of record, one copy should be verified. The certified or verified copy should be forwarded by the collector to the Commissioner.

(2) An affidavit by the executor stating whether any action has been instituted to contest the will, or any bequest or devise therein, the deduction of which from the gross estate is claimed, and whether, according to his information and belief, any such action is designed or contemplated.

(3) Such other documents or evidence as may be requested by the Commissioner.

ART. 47. Conditional bequests.—If the transfer is dependent upon the performance of some act or the happening of some event in order to become effective, it is necessary that the performance of the act or the occurrence of the event shall have taken place before the deduction can be allowed.

If the legatee, devisee, donee, or trustee is empowered to divert the property or fund, in whole or in part, to a use or purpose which would have rendered it, to the extent that it is subject to such power, not deductible had it been directly so bequeathed, devised, or given by the decedent, deduction will be limited to that portion, if any, of the property or fund which is exempt from an exercise of such power.

Specific Exemption

A specific exemption should also be deducted in the case of the estate of a citizen, regardless of residence, if the decedent died after 11.40 a. m., eastern standard time, May 10, 1934. The specific exemption deductible in determining the net estate upon which the tax is imposed by the Revenue Act of 1926 (in effect after 10.25 a. m., eastern standard time, February 26, 1926), is $100,000. The specific exemption deductible in determining the net estate upon which the additional tax is imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932 (in effect after 5 p. m., eastern standard time, June 6, 1932) is $50,000 if the decedent died prior to August 31, 1935, and $40,000 if the decedent died on or after August 31, 1935. If the decedent died prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1926, the specific exemption is $50,000. No specific exemption is authorized in the case of the estate of a nonresident alien, and no specific exemption is authorized in the case of the estate of a nonresident, regardless of citizenship, if the decedent died prior to 11.40 a. m., eastern standard time, May 10, 1934.

ART. 49. Gross estate.—The gross estate of a citizen, alien, resident, and nonresident are made up in the same way. For computation of net estate of a nonresident alien (or a nonresident, regardless of citizenship, if death occurred prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934), see article 51. For meaning of the terms "citizens," "residents," and "nonresidents," and the presumption applying as to the residence of missionaries, see article 5.

Certificates of stock, bonds, bills, notes, and other written evidences of intangible property which are treated as being the property itself are property situated in the United States if physically situated therein.

Except as provided in section 303 (e) intangible personal property has a situs within the United States if consisting of a property right issuing from or enforceable against a corporation (public or private) organized in the United States or a person who is a resident of the United States. As examples, the following may be given: Corporate stock issued by such a corporation, or a simple debt, bond, note, or other chose in action for which such a corporation or individual is liable. Under the provisions of section 303 (e) the amount receivable as insurance upon the life of a nonresident decedent (non-resident alien decedent if death occurred after the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934) and any moneys deposited with any person carrying on the banking business by or for such a decedent not engaged in business in the United States at the time of his death shall not be deemed property within the United States.

Property of which the decedent has made a transfer taxable under the provisions of article 15 of these regulations is deemed to be situated in the United States if so situated either at the time of the transfer or at the time of the decedents' death. (See articles 15 to 21, inclusive.)

Deductions—Estates of Nonresident Aliens

SEC. 303. For the purpose of the tax the value of the net estate shall be determined— • • •

(b) (as amended by section 403 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1934) In the case of a nonresident not a citizen of the United States, by deducting from the value of that part of his gross estate which at the time of his death is situated in the United States—

(1) (as amended by section 401 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1928) That proportion of the deductions specified in paragraph (1) of subdivision (a) of this section which the value of such part bears to the value of his entire gross estate, wherever situated;

(2) (as amended by section 806 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1932 and by section 402 of the Revenue Act of 1934) An amount equal to the value of any property (A) forming a part of the gross estate situated in the United States of any person who died within five years prior to the death of the decedent, or (B) transferred to the decedent by gift within five years prior to his death where such property can be identified as having been received by the decedent from the donor by gift, or from such prior decedent by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance, or which can be identified as having been acquired in exchange for property so received. This deduction shall be allowed only where a gift tax imposed under the Revenue Act of 1932, or an estate tax imposed under this or any prior Act of Congress, was finally determined and paid by or on behalf of such donor, or the estate of such prior decedent, as the case may be, and only in the amount finally determined as the value of such property in determining the value of the gift, or the gross estate of such prior decedent, and only to the extent that the value of such property is included in that part of the decedent's gross estate which at the time of his death is situated in the United States, and only if in determining the value of the net estate of the prior decedent no deduction was allowable under this paragraph in respect of the property or property given in exchange therefor. Where a deduction was allowed of any mortgage or other lien in determining the gift tax, or the estate tax of the prior decedent, which was paid in whole or in part prior to the decedent's death, then the deduction allowable under this paragraph shall be reduced by the amount so paid. The deduction allowable under this paragraph shall be reduced by an amount which bears the same ratio to the amounts allowed as deductions under paragraphs (1) and (3) of this subdivision as the amount otherwise deductible under this paragraph bears to the value of that part of the decedent's gross estate which at the time of his death is situated in the United States. Where the property referred to in this paragraph consists of two or more items the aggregate value of such items shall be used for the purpose of computing the deduction.

(3) (as amended by section 807 of the Revenue Act of 1932 and by section 406 of the Revenue Act of 1934) The amount of all bequests, legacies, devises, or transfers, to or for the use of the United States, any State, Territory, any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, for exclusively public purposes, or to or for the use of any domestic corporation organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, including the encouragement of art and the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual, and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting, to influence legislation, or to a trustee or trustees, or a fraternal society, order, or association operating under the lodge system, but only if such contributions or gifts are to be used within the United States by such trustee or trustees, or by such fraternal society, order, or association, exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals. If the tax imposed by section 301, or any estate, succession, legacy, or inheritance taxes, are, either by the terms of the will, by the law of the jurisdiction under which the estate is administered, or by the law of the jurisdiction imposing the particular tax, payable in whole or in part out of the bequests, legacies, or devises otherwise deductible under this paragraph, then the amount deductible under this paragraph shall be the amount of such bequests, legacies, or devises reduced by the amount of such taxes. The amount of the deduction under this paragraph for any transfer shall not exceed the value of the transferred property required to be included in the gross estate.

(c) (as amended by section 403 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1934) No deduction shall be allowed in the case of a nonresident not a citizen of the United States unless the executor includes in the return required to be filed under section 304 the value at the time of his death of that part of the gross estate of the nonresident not situated in the United States. * * *

SEC. 303 (as originally enacted). For the purpose of the tax the value of the net estate shall be determined— * * *

(b) In the case of a nonresident, by deducting from the value of that part of his gross estate which at the time of his death is situated in the United States—

(1) That proportion of the deductions specified in paragraph (1) of subdivision (a) of this section which the value of such part bears to the value of his entire gross estate, wherever situated, but in no case shall the amount so deducted exceed 10 per centum of the value of that part of his gross estate which at the time of his death is situated in the United States;

(2) An amount equal to the value of any property (A) forming a part of the gross estate situated in the United States of any person who died within five years prior to the death of the decedent, or (B) transferred to the decedent by gift within five years prior to his death, where such property can be identified as having been received by the decedent from such donor by gift or from such prior decedent by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance, or which can be identified as having been acquired in exchange for property so received. This deduction shall be allowed only where a gift tax imposed under the Revenue Act of 1924, or an estate tax imposed under this or any prior Act of Congress was paid by or on behalf of the donor or the estate of such prior decedent as the case may be, and only in the amount of the value placed by the Commissioner on such property in determining the value of the gift or the gross estate of such prior decedent, and only to the extent that the value of such property is included in that part of the decedent's gross estate which at the time of his death is situated in the United States and not deducted under paragraph (1) or (3) of this subdivision; and

(3) The amount of all bequests, legacies, devises, or transfers, to or for the use of the United States, any State, Territory, any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, for exclusively public purposes, or to or for the use of any domestic corporation organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, including the encouragement of art and the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual, or to a trustee or trustees, or a fraternal society, order, or association operating under the lodge system, but only if such contributions or gifts are to be used within the United States by such trustee or trustees, or by such fraternal society, order, or association, exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals. The amount of the deduction under this paragraph for any transfer shall not exceed the value of the transferred property required to be included in the gross estate.

(c) No deduction shall be allowed in the case of a nonresident unless the executor includes in the return required to be filed under section 304 the value at the time of his death of that part of the gross estate of the nonresident not situated in the United States. * * *

(b) Section 303 (b) of such Act, as amended, is amended by striking out "In the case of a nonresident" and inserting in lieu thereof "In the case of a nonresident not a citizen of the United States".

SEC. 401. Revenue Act of 1928.

(a) Section 303 (b) (1) of the Revenue Act of 1926 (relating to deductions from the gross estate of a nonresident decedent) is amended by striking out ", but in no case shall the amount so deducted exceed 10 per centum of the value of that part of his gross estate which at the time of his death is situated in the United States."

(b) Subsection (a) of this section shall apply in the case of nonresident decedents dying after the enactment of this Act.

NOTE.—All of the amendments to section 303 (b) (2), as originally enacted, were made by section 806 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1932, except that the following clause was inserted by section 402 of the Revenue Act of 1934: "and only if in determining the value of the net estate of the prior decedent no deduction was allowable under this paragraph in respect of the property or property given in exchange therefor".

SEC. 807. Revenue Act of 1932.

Sections 303 (a) (3) and 303 (b) (3) of the Revenue Act of 1926 are amended by inserting after the first sentence of each a new sentence to read as follows:

"If the tax imposed by section 301, or any estate, succession, legacy, or inheritance taxes, are, either by the terms of the will, by the law of the jurisdiction under which the estate is administered, or by the law of the jurisdiction imposing the particular tax, payable in whole or in part out of the bequests, legacies, or devises otherwise deductible under this paragraph, then the amount deductible under this paragraph shall be the amount of such bequests, legacies, or devises reduced by the amount of such taxes."

SEC. 406. Revenue Act of 1934.

Section 303 (a) (3) and section 303 (b) (3) of the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended, are amended by inserting after "individual", wherever appearing therein, a comma and the following: "and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting, to influence legislation".

ART. 51. Net estate.—The statute imposes the tax upon the transfer of only the portion of the estate of a nonresident alien (or of a nonresident, regardless of citizenship, if the decedent died prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934) that was situated in the United States. In determining the net estate, the deductions specifically authorized for this class of cases may be taken from the portion of the gross estate situated in the United States.

ART. 52. Deductions of administration expenses, claims, etc.—In estates of nonresident aliens (or of nonresidents, regardless of citizenship, if the decedents died prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934), deductions from the gross estate may be taken, subject to the limitations set forth in articles 29 to 40, inclusive, and to the limitations hereinafter stated, for the following: Funeral expenses; administration expenses; claims against the estate; unpaid mortgages; losses incurred during the settlement of the estate arising from fires, storms, shipwrecks, or other casualties, or from theft, if such losses are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise; and amounts reasonably required and actually expended for the support during the settlement of the estate of those dependent upon the decedent. It is immaterial whether the amounts to be deducted were incurred or expended within or without the United States, but certain limitations are imposed which do not apply to estates of residents or citizens (or of residents only, without regard to citizenship, if the decedents died prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934), namely:

(1) Only that proportion of the aggregate thereof is deductible which the value of that part of the gross estate situated (within the meaning of the statute) in the United States, bears to the value of the entire gross estate, wherever situated; and if the decedent died prior to the effective date of the Revenue Act of 1928, no sum may be deducted in excess of 10 per cent of the value of that part of the gross estate situated in the United States. (See article 55.) The 10 per cent limitation does not apply to the deductions hereafter considered in articles 53 and 54.

(2) No deduction whatever may be taken unless the executor includes in the return the value of that part of the gross estate not situated in the United States. Such part of the gross estate must be valued as of the date of the decedent's death; or, if the option authorized by section 302 (j) is exercised, such part must be valued in accordance with the provisions of article 11.

In order that the Commissioner may properly pass upon the items claimed as deductions, the executor should submit a certified copy of the schedule of liabilities, claims against the estate, and expenses of administration filed under the foreign death-duty act; or, if no such schedule was filed, a certified copy of the schedule of such liabilities, claims, and expenses filed with the foreign court in which administration was had; or, if items of deduction allowable under section 303 (b) (1) were not included in either such schedule, or if no such schedules were filed, then the affidavit of the foreign executor setting forth the facts relied upon as entitling the estate to the benefit of the particular deduction or deductions.

ART. 53. Deduction of the value of property previously taxed.—The right to deduct the value of property received by a nonresident alien decedent (or by a nonresident, regardless of citizenship, if the decedent died prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934) by gift from any person within five years prior to his death, or by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance from any person who died within five years prior to his death, or of the value of property acquired in exchange for property so received, is governed by the same rules as those applying to estates of residents (articles 41 to 43 inclusive), subject to the four following exceptions:

(1) The deduction is not available to any extent unless the executor includes in the return the value of that part of the gross estate not situated in the United States. Such part of the gross estate must be valued as of the date of the decedent's death; or, if the option authorized by section 302 (j) is exercised, such part must be valued in accordance with the provisions of article 11.

(2) The property for which the deduction is claimed must be included in that part of the gross estate situated in the United States at the time of the decedent's death.

(3) If the decedent died prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1932, references in article 41 (b) (A) (3) to paragraphs (1) and (3) of subdivision (a) of section 303, shall be deemed to refer to paragraphs (1) and (3) of subdivision (b) of section 303.

(4) If the decedent died after the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1932, instead of the amount of the deduction being reduced in accordance with the third limitation set forth under article 41 (b) (B), the amount of the deduction is reduced by the proportion of the total other deductions, allowed under paragraphs (1) and (3) of subdivision (b) of section 303, which the amount otherwise deductible for property previously taxed bears to the value of the part of the gross estate situated in the United States at the time of the decedent's death.

ART. 54. Deduction of value of transfers for public, charitable, religious, etc., uses.—The right to deduct the value of property transferred by nonresident aliens (or nonresidents, regardless of citizenship, if decedents died prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934) for public, religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes is governed by the same rules as those applying to estates of resident decedents (articles 44 to 47, inclusive), subject, however, to the two following exceptions:

(1) The right is limited to transfers to corporations and associations created or organized in the United States, or to trustees for use within the United States.

(2) The right is available only if the executor includes in the return the value of that part of the gross estate not situated in the United States. Such part of the gross estate must be valued as of the date of the decedent's death; or, if the option authorized by section 302 (j) is exercised, such part must be valued in accordance with the provisions of article 11.

Instead of duplicate copies of the documents specified in article 46, only one copy is required to be filed.

ART. 55. Determination of net estate.—The following example will show the manner of determining the net estate of a nonresident alien. The gross estate, wherever situated, amounts to $1,000,000, of which $200,000 represents the value of the property having its situs within the United States (the term "United States" including not only the several States, but also the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, and the District of Columbia). The funeral expenses, administration expenses, and claims against the estate aggregate $150,000, and there are charitable bequests, for use within the United States, amounting to $25,000. Hence the property situated within the United States constitutes 20 per cent of the entire gross estate wherever situated, and a like percentage of the $150,000 is $30,000. The following result is accordingly obtained:

| | | |
| Gross estate within the United States | | $200,000 |
| 20 percent of $150,000 | $30,000 | |
| Charitable bequests for use within the United States | 25,000 | |
| | | 55,000 |
| Net estate | | 145,000 |

For the manner of computing the tax on the net estate, see article 8.

In the example given, had the decedent died prior to the effective date of the Revenue Act of 1928, 20 per cent of the funeral expenses, administration expenses, and claims against the estate, or $30,000, would not have been deductible, for the reason that it would have exceeded 10 per cent of the value of the property situated in the United States. The deduction in such case would have been limited to 10 per cent of $200,000, plus the charitable bequests, or a total of $45,000, and the resultant net estate would have been $155,000, instead of the amount given in the example.

ART. 56. Payment of tax.—The provisions relating to credits (see article 9) and to rates and payment of the tax are the same in estates of nonresident aliens (or of nonresidents, regardless of citizenship, if the decedents died prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934) and of residents or citizens (or of residents only, without regard to citizenship, if the decedents died prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934). The statute provides that the executor shall pay the tax. If there is no executor or administrator appointed, qualified, and acting within the United States, every person in either the actual or constructive possession of any property of the decedent is constituted by the statute an executor for the purpose of tax payment, and is liable for the tax to the extent of the property so in his possession. (See articles 78 to 85, inclusive.) All checks, drafts, or money orders should be made payable to the order of Collector of Internal Revenue.

Preliminary Notice—Estates of Residents or Citizens

SEC. 304. (a) The executor, within two months after the decedent's death, or within a like period after qualifying as such, shall give written notice thereof to the collector. • • •

SEC. 403. Revenue Act of 1932, as amended by section 403 (f) of the Revenue Act of 1934 and by section 201 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1935.

Except as provided in section 402, the tax imposed by section 401 of this Act shall be assessed, collected, and paid, in the same manner, and shall be subject to the same provisions of law (including penalties), as the tax imposed by section 301 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1926, except that in the case of a citizen or resident of the United States a return shall be required if the value of the gross estate at the time of the decedent's death exceeds $40,000.

SEC. 403. Revenue Act of 1932, as originally enacted.

Except as provided in section 402, the tax imposed by section 401 of this Act shall be assessed, collected, and paid, in the same manner, and shall be subject to the same provisions of law (including penalties), as the tax imposed by section 301 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1926, except that in the case of a resident decedent a return shall be required if the value of the gross estate at the time of the decedent's death exceeds $50,000.

NOTE.—The words "resident decedent" were stricken out and the words "citizen or resident of the United States" substituted by section 403 (f) of the Revenue Act of 1934. This section was further amended by section 201 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1935 by striking out "$50,000" and substituting "$40,000". Section 201 (d) of the Revenue Act of 1935 reads as follows:

"The amendments made by this section shall be effective only with respect to transfers of estates of decedents dying after the date of the enactment of this Act."

ART. 57. When notice required.—A preliminary notice is required to be filed in the case of every resident or citizen (or of a resident only, without regard to citizenship, if the decedent died prior to 11.40 a. m., eastern standard time, May 10, 1934), whose gross estate exceeded $40,000 in value at the date of death, except that if the decedent died (1) after September 8, 1916, and prior to 10.25 a. m., eastern standard time, February 26, 1926, or (2) after 5 p. m., eastern standard time, June 6, 1932, and prior to August 31, 1935, notice is required only if the gross estate exceeded $50,000 in value at the date of death, and except that if the decedent died after 10.25 a. m., eastern standard time, February 26, 1926, and prior to 5 p. m., eastern standard time, June 6, 1932, notice is required only if the gross estate exceeded $100,000 in value at the date of death. The value of the gross estate at the date of death governs with respect to the filing of the notice regardless of whether the value of the gross estate is, at the executor's election, finally determined as of a date subsequent to the date of death pursuant to the provisions of section 302 (j) as added by section 202 of the Revenue Act of 1935. The notice must be filed in duplicate within two months after the decedent's death or within two months after the executor has qualified. In the case of a resident, it must be filed with the collector in whose district the decedent had his domicile at the time of death. In the case of a nonresident citizen, it must be filed with the collector in whose district the gross estate in the United States was situated; or, if the gross estate in the United States was situated in more than one district, or, if no part of the gross estate was situated in the United States, it must be filed with the collector for the second district of New York, or with such collector as the Commissioner may designate. If there is doubt as to whether the gross estate exceeded $40,000, or exceeded $50,000 or exceeded $100,000, as the case may be, the notice should be filed as a matter of precaution in order to avoid the possibility of penalties attaching.

ART. 58. Notice by executor or administrator.—The duly qualified executor or administrator is required to file such preliminary notice on Form 704, copies of which may be obtained from the collector, within two months after qualifying as such, if notice has not already been filed. The primary purpose of the notice is to advise the Government of the existence of taxable estates, and filing should not be delayed beyond the two months' period because of uncertainty as to the exact value of the assets. The filing of the notice within the prescribed period is mandatory, and the estimate of the gross estate called for by the notice should be the best approximation of value which can be made within the time allowed. The instructions upon the back of the form should be read carefully before executing the notice. The signature of one executor or administrator upon Form 704 is sufficient. For penalties for delinquency in filing notice, or for filing a false or fraudulent notice, see articles 91, 92, and 94.

ART. 59. Notice by others than duly qualified executor or administrator.—The term "executor" embraces any person in actual or constructive possession of any property of the decedent at the time of the latter's death, if within two months after the decedent's death no executor or administrator qualifies. The notice on Form 704 must be filed by such persons in every case in which an executor or administrator has not duly qualified within such period. If, within the period mentioned, an executor or administrator qualifies, the duty of filing the notice devolves upon him, and all other persons are relieved therefrom.

Preliminary Notice—Estates of Nonresident Aliens

ART. 60. Estates of nonresident aliens; preliminary notice.—In estates of nonresident aliens (or of nonresidents, regardless of citizenship, if the decedent died prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934), notice on Form 705, copies of which may be obtained from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., or from any collector of internal revenue, is required if any part of the gross estate was situated (see article 50) in the United States. The notice must be filed, in duplicate, by every appointed, qualified, and acting executor or administrator within the United States with the collector of internal revenue of the district in which such part of the gross estate was situated, or, if such part of the gross estate was situated in more than one district, it must be filed with the collector for the second district of New York or with such collector as the Commissioner may designate. The notice is necessary if any part of the decedent's gross estate was situated, within the meaning of the statute, in the United States, regardless of the value of that part of the entire gross estate. If no executor or administrator has qualified, notice must be filed within two months after the date of death by every person in either the actual or constructive possession of any property of the decedent so within the United States at the time of his death. If such person has no knowledge of the decedent's death within two months following its occurrence, he should file the notice immediately upon obtaining such knowledge. The term "person in actual or constructive possession of any property of the decedent" (section 300) includes, among others, the decedent's agents and representatives; safe-deposit companies, warehouse companies, and other custodians of property in this country; brokers holding, as collateral, securities belonging to the decedent or investment funds owned by the decedent, and debtors of the decedent in this country. As to any moneys deposited by or for a decedent of this class with any person, corporation, or association carrying on the banking business, no notice is required, unless, however, the decedent was engaged in business in the United States at the time of his death.

ART. 61. Information return by corporation or transfer agent.—Upon notification from the Bureau of Internal Revenue a corporation (organized or created in the United States), or its transfer agent will be required to file a return disclosing the following information pertaining to stocks or bonds registered in the name of a nonresident decedent (regardless of citizenship): (1) Name of decedent as registered; (2) date of death, residence, place of death, and names and addresses of executors, attorneys, or other representatives, within and without the United States, if known; and (3) a description of the securities and the number of shares or bonds and the par values. Treasury Department Form 714, which will be supplied by the Bureau upon request, may be used for the return.

ART. 62. Transfer certificates.—Certificates permitting the transfer of property of nonresident decedents (regardless of citizenship) without liability will be issued by the Commissioner when he is satisfied that the tax imposed upon the estate, if any, has been fully discharged or provided for. The tax will be considered fully discharged for the purpose of the issuance of a transfer certificate only when investigation has been completed and payment of the tax, including any deficiency finally determined, has been made. If the tax liability has not been fully discharged transfer certificates may be issued permitting the transfer of particular items of property without liability upon the filing with the Commissioner of such security as he may require. No corporation or its transfer agent should transfer stock or bonds registered in the name of a nonresident decedent without first requiring this transfer certificate covering all of the decedent's stock and bonds of the corporation and showing that such transfer may be made without liability. A bank, trust company, or other custodian in possession of bills, notes, cash, mortgages, securities, money due on open accounts by domestic debtors, or any other property situated in the United States of a nonresident decedent's estate should also require the certificate before transferring such property. Corporations, transfer agents, banks, trust companies, or other custodians can insure avoidance of liability for tax and penalties only by demanding and receiving transfer certificates prior to transfer of property of nonresident decedents (regardless of citizenship).

The requirements of this and the preceding article do not apply if there is an executor or administrator appointed, qualified, and acting within the United States.

The Return—Estates of Residents or Citizens

SEC. 304 (as amended by section 403 (e) of the Revenue Act of 1934). (a) • • • The executor shall also, at such times and in such manner as may be required by regulations made pursuant to law, file with the collector a return under oath in duplicate, setting forth (1) the value of the gross estate of the decedent at the time of his death, or, in case of a nonresident not a citizen of the United States, of that part of his gross estate situated in the United States; (2) the deductions allowed under section 303; (3) the value of the net estate of the decedent as defined in section 303; and (4) the tax paid or payable thereon; or such part of such information as may at the time be ascertainable and such supplemental data as may be necessary to establish the correct tax.

(b) Return shall be made in all cases where the gross estate at the death of the decedent exceeds $100,000, and in the case of the estate of every nonresident not a citizen of the United States any part of whose gross estate is situated in the United States. If the executor is unable to make a complete return as to any part of the gross estate of the decedent, he shall include in his return a description of such part and the name of every person holding a legal or beneficial interest therein, and upon notice from the collector such person shall in like manner make a return as to such part of the gross estate.

SEC. 403. Revenue Act of 1932, as amended by section 403 (f) of the Revenue Act of 1934 and by section 201 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1935.

Except as provided in section 402, the tax imposed by section 401 of this Act shall be assessed, collected, and paid, in the same manner, and shall be subject to the same provisions of law (including penalties), as the tax imposed by section 301 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1926, except that in the case of a citizen or resident of the United States a return shall be required if the value of the gross estate at the time of the decedent's death exceeds $40,000.

SEC. 304 (as originally enacted). (a) • • • The executor shall also, at such times and in such manner as may be required by regulations made pursuant to law, file with the collector a return under oath in duplicate, setting forth (1) the value of the gross estate of the decedent at the time of his death, or, in case of a nonresident, of that part of his gross estate situated in the United States; (2) the deductions allowed under section 303; (3) the value of the net estate of the decedent as defined in section 303; and (4) the tax paid or payable thereon; or such part of such information as may at the time be ascertainable and such supplemental data as may be necessary to establish the correct tax.

(b) Return shall be made in all cases where the gross estate at the death of the decedent exceeds $100,000, and in the case of the estate of every nonresident any part of whose gross estate is situated in the United States. If the executor is unable to make a complete return as to any part of the gross estate of the decedent, he shall include in his return a description of such part and the name of every person holding a legal or beneficial interest therein, and upon notice from the collector such person shall in like manner make a return as to such part of the gross estate.

SEC. 403. Revenue Act of 1932, as originally enacted.

Except as provided in section 402, the tax imposed by section 401 of this Act shall be assessed, collected, and paid, in the same manner, and shall be subject to the same provisions of law (including penalties), as the tax imposed by section 301 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1926, except that in the case of a resident decedent a return shall be required if the value of the gross estate at the time of the decedent's death exceeds $50,000.

SEC. 403. Revenue Act of 1934. • • •

(e) Section 304 (a) and (b) of such Act, as amended, are amended by striking out "nonresident" wherever such word appears and inserting in lieu thereof in each case "nonresident not a citizen of the United States."

(f) Section 403 of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended by striking out "resident decedent" and inserting in lieu thereof "citizen or resident of the United States".

SEC. 201. Revenue Act of 1935. • • •

(c) Section 403 of the Revenue Act of 1932, as amended, (relating to the requirement for filing a return under such additional estate tax) is amended by striking out "$50,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "$40,000".

(d) The amendments made by this section shall be effective only with respect to transfers of estates of decedents dying after the date of the enactment of this Act.

ART. 63. When return required—Date of filing.—A return on Form 706 is required in the case of every resident or citizen (or resident, without regard to citizenship, if the decedent died prior to 11.40 a. m., eastern standard time, May 10, 1934), whose gross estate, as defined in the statute, exceeded $40,000 in value at the date of death, except that if the decedent died (1) after September 8, 1916, and prior to 10.25 a. m., eastern standard time, February 26, 1926, or (2) after 5 p. m., eastern standard time, June 6, 1932, and prior to August 31, 1935, the return is required only if the gross estate exceeded $50,000 in value at the date of death, and except that if the decedent died after 10.25 a. m., eastern standard time, February 26, 1926, and prior to 5 p. m., eastern standard time, June 6, 1932, the return is required only if the gross estate exceeded $100,000 in value at the date of death. The duty to file a return depends upon the value of the gross estate on the date of the decedent's death, regardless of any valuation as of a subsequent time that the executor may use by virue of his election under subdivision (j) of section 302, as added by section 202 of the Revenue Act of 1935, since such election may be made only upon the return. In the case of a resident, the return must be filed with the collector in whose district the decedent had his domicile at the time of death. In the case of a nonresident citizen, it must be filed with the collector in whose district the gross estate in the United States was situated; or, if the gross estate in the United States was situated in more than one district, or, if no part of the gross estate was situated in the United States, it must be filed with the collector for the second district of New York, or with such collector as the Commissioner may designate. The return on Form 706 must be filed in duplicate within 15 months after the date of death, if the decedent died on or after August 31, 1935, and within 1 year after the date of death, if the decedent died before August 31, 1935. If the return is due 15 months after the decedent's death, the due date is the day of the fifteenth calendar month after his death numerically corresponding to the day of the calendar month in which death occurred, except that, if there is no numerically corresponding day in such fifteenth month, the last day of such fifteenth month is the due date. For example, if the decedent died on August 31, 1937, the due date is November 30, 1938. If the due date for filing the return falls on a Sunday or on a legal holiday, the due date for filing will be the day following such Sunday or legal holiday. If placed in the mails the return should be posted in ample time to reach the collector's office, under ordinary handling of the mails, on or before the date on which the return is required to be filed. If a return is made and placed in the mails in due course, properly addressed, and postage paid, in ample time to reach the office of the collector on or before the due date, no penalty will attach should the return not be actually received by such officer until subsequent to that date.

ART. 64. Persons liable for return.—The statute provides that the duly qualified executor or administrator shall file the return. If there is more than one executor or administrator, the return must be made jointly by all. If no executor or administrator has been appointed, every person in actual or constructive possession of any property of the decedent is constituted by the statute an executor for the purposes of the tax (section 300), and is required to make and file a return as provided by section 304. If, in any case, the executor is unable to make a complete return as to any part of the gross estate, he is required to give all the information he has as to such property, including a full description, and the name of every person holding a legal or beneficial interest in the property. If the executor is unable to make a return as to any property, the statute requires that every person holding a legal or beneficial interest therein shall, upon notice from the collector, make return as to such part of the gross estate. For penalties for delinquency in filing return, or for filing a false or fraudulent return, see articles 91, 92, and 94.

ART. 65. Preparation of return.—The return must be made on Form 706, copies of which will be supplied by the collector upon application. It must be filed in duplicate under oath and contain an itemized inventory by schedule of the property constituting the gross estate and lists of the deductions under the appropriate schedules. The return must set forth (1) the value of the gross estate (see articles 10–28), (2) the deductions allowed (see articles 29–48), (3) the value of the net estate, and (4) the tax paid or payable thereon. If the decedent died subsequent to the effective date of the Revenue Act of 1932 (5 p. m., eastern standard time, June 6, 1932), the return must set forth (1) both the net estate determined in accordance with the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1926, and the net estate for the purposes of the additional tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932, or by that Act as amended, which should be determined in the same manner except that in lieu of the exemption of $100,000 provided in section 303 (a) (4) of the Revenue Act of 1926, the exemption is $50,000 or $40,000, as the case may be (see article 48), and (2) both the tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1926 and the additional tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932, or by that Act as amended. The amount payable upon a return filed for an estate subject to both the tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1926 and the additional tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932, or by that Act as amended, is the total of said taxes. The instructions printed on the form should be carefully followed. All documents and vouchers used in preparing the return should be retained by the executor so as to be available for inspection whenever required. Duplicate copies of the will, if the decedent died testate, one of which should be certified, must be submitted with the return, together with copies of such other documents as in Form 706 and in the applicable articles of these regulations are required. There may also be filed in duplicate copies of any documents which the executor may desire to submit with the return in explanation thereof.

In every case of an estate of a nonresident citizen who died after the date of the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934, the executor should file the following documents with the return: (1) A copy of the inventory of property and the schedule of liabilities, claims against the estate and expenses of administration filed with the foreign court of probate jurisdiction, certified by a proper official of such court. (2) A copy of the return filed under the foreign inheritance, estate, legacy, or succession tax act, certified by a proper official of the foreign tax department, if the estate is subject to such a foreign tax.

ART. 66. Supplemental data.—The statute provides that the executor, in addition to filing notice and return, shall furnish such supplemental data as may be necessary to establish the correct tax (section 304). It is therefore the duty of the executor to furnish upon request copies of any documents in his possession relating to the estate, or on file in any court having jurisdiction over the estate, appraisal lists of any items included in the gross estate, copies of balance sheets or other financial statements relating to the value of stock, and any other information obtainable by him that may be found necessary in the determination of the tax. Failure to comply with such a request will render the executor liable to penalties (article 93), and proceedings may be instituted in the proper United States court to secure compliance therewith (section 1122 (a)).

Persons having possession or control of any records or documents containing or supposed to contain any information concerning the estate, or having knowledge or information of any fact or facts of a material bearing upon the liability, or the extent of liability, of the estate to the tax, shall, upon request of the Commissioner or any revenue agent or inspector designated by him for that purpose, make disclosure thereof. Failure on the part of any person to comply with such request will render him liable to penalties (article 93), and compliance with the request may be enforced in the proper United States court (section 1122 (a)).

Determination of Tax by Commissioner

SEC. 306. As soon as practicable after the return is filed the Commissioner shall examine it and shall determine the correct amount of the tax.

SEC. 313. • • • (b) If the executor makes written application to the Commissioner for determination of the amount of the tax and discharge from personal liability therefor, the Commissioner (as soon as possible, and in any event within one year after the making of such application, or, if the application is made before the return is filed, then within one year after the return is filed, but not after the expiration of the period prescribed for the assessment of the tax in section 310) shall notify the executor of the amount of the tax. The executor, upon payment of the amount of which he is notified, shall be discharged from personal liability for any deficiency in tax thereafter found to be due and shall be entitled to a receipt or writing showing such discharge.

ART. 67. Examination of return and determination of tax by the Commissioner.—As soon as practicable after returns are filed, they will be examined and the amount of the tax determined by the Commissioner under such procedure as he may from time to time prescribe.

If the executor makes written application to the Commissioner for a determination of the tax and discharge from personal liability therefor, the Commissioner will, within one year after receipt of such application, or if the application is made before the return is filed then within one year after the return is filed, notify the executor of the amount of the tax, and upon payment thereof, the executor will be discharged from personal liability for any deficiency in the tax thereafter found to be due.

Extension of Time for Filing Return

SEC. 3176. Revised Statutes (as amended by section 1103 of the Revenue Act of 1926 and by section 619 (d) of the Revenue Act of 1928 [U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 26, section 1524]).

• • • If the failure to file a return (other than a return of income tax) or a list is due to sickness or absence, the collector may allow such further time, not exceeding 30 days, for making and filing the return or list as he deems proper. • • •

ART. 68. Extension of time by collector.—In case of sickness or absence, collectors are authorized to grant an extension of time for filing the return for a period not in excess of 30 days from the due date, which extension may be granted either before or after the due date. An extension of time for filing the return does not in itself operate to extend the time for the payment of the tax, which is due and payable 15 months after the date of death if the decedent died on or after August 31, 1935, and 1 year after the date of death if the decedent died before August 31, 1935. For extension of time of payment, see article 82.

ART. 69. Extension of time by Commissioner.—In case it is impossible for the executor to file a reasonably complete return within 15 months from the date of death if the decedent died on or after August 31, 1935, or within 1 year from the date of death if the decedent died before August 31, 1935, the Commissioner may, upon application from the executor showing good and sufficient cause, grant an extension of time not to exceed 3 months from the due date if the decedent died on or after August 31, 1935, or 6 months from the due date if the decedent died before August 31, 1935. Before the expiration of the extension period granted a return as complete as possible must be filed. The return thus filed will be the return required by section 304 (a) and any tax shown thereon will be the "amount determined by the executor as the tax" referred to in section 305 (b) and section 307. Such return can not thereafter be amended, although supplemental information may subsequently be filed that may result in a finally determined tax different from the amount shown as the tax by the executor upon his return. An extension of time for filing the return does not operate to extend the time for payment of the tax, which is due 15 months after the date of death if the decedent died on or after August 31, 1935, and 1 year after the date of death if the decedent died before August 31, 1935. An extension of time in which to make payment of the tax may be secured as provided in article 82.

The Return—Estates of Nonresident Aliens

ART. 70. Return of estates of nonresidents.—A return on Form 706, copies of which may be obtained from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., or from any collector of internal revenue, is required in the case of every nonresident alien (or nonresident, regardless of citizenship, if the decedent died prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934) any part of whose gross estate was situated (see article 50) in the United States. The return must set forth an itemized list of that part of the gross estate situated in the United States and the total value thereof (see article 51), the deductions claimed, if any (see articles 52–54), the value of the net estate (see article 55), and the tax paid or payable thereon. If the decedent died after the effective date of the Revenue Act of 1932 (5 p. m., eastern standard time, June 6, 1932), the return must set forth both the tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1926 and any additional tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932, or that Act as amended. The return must be filed with the collector of internal revenue of the district in which such part of the gross estate was situated, or, if such part of the gross estate was situated in more than one district, it must be filed with the collector for the second district of New York, or with such collector as the Commissioner may designate. The return must be filed in duplicate and under oath within 15 months from the date of death if the decedent died on or after August 31, 1935, and within 1 year from the date of death if the decedent died before August 31, 1935, unless an extension is obtained pursuant to article 68 or 69. If the due date for filing the return falls on a Sunday or on a legal holiday, the due date for filing will be the day following such Sunday or legal holiday. If placed in the mails the return should be posted in ample time to reach the collector's office, under ordinary handling of the mails, on or before the date on which the return is required to be filed. If a return is made and placed in the mails in due course, properly addressed, and postage paid, in ample time to reach the office of the collector on or before the due date, no penalty will attach should the return not be actually received by such officer until subsequent to that date. The return should be made and filed by the executor or administrator appointed, qualified, and acting within the United States, or, if none, then by any person in actual or constructive possession of any property of the decedent situated in the United States, whatever its value. If the qualified executor or administrator is unable to make a complete return as to any part of the gross estate, he is required to give all the information available to him as to such part, including a description thereof and the name of every person holding a legal or beneficial interest therein. As to the meaning of the term "person in actual or constructive possession of any property of the decedent", see article 60.

ART. 71. Supplemental data.—Pursuant to the provisions of section 304 (a), with respect to furnishing supplemental data, if the decedent is a nonresident alien (or a nonresident, regardless of citizenship, if the decedent died prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934), the executor is required to file with the return:

(1) A certified copy of will, if decedent died testate, or, if the decedent left several wills to govern in different jurisdictions, certified copy of each will.

(2) If any deductions are claimed, copy of inventory of property filed under the foreign death-duty act; or, if no such inventory was filed, a certified copy of inventory filed with the foreign court of probate jurisdiction.

The Commissioner may require the documents specified in paragraph (2) regardless of whether deductions are claimed. For requirements dealing with the duty to furnish other documents or information relating to the tax liability of the estate, and penalties in connection therewith, see article 66.

Privileged Character of Returns

ART. 72. Returns confidential.—All estate tax returns and notices are treated as privileged communications and may not be exhibited, or the contents thereof divulged, to any person other than the executor or his duly authorized attorney or agent, except as prescribed in rules and regulations which may be separately issued upon the subject. This confidential treatment extends to records in possession of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, whether on file with the Commissioner, collector, or revenue agent, including information submitted or obtained in connection with a return. Internal revenue officers are not prohibited from disclosing the returned value of any item or the amount of any deduction, if such disclosure is necessary in order to arrive at the correct determination of the tax, but such right of disclosure does not extend to such information as the amount of the estate, the amount of tax, or other general data. If a copy of the return is desired because no copy was retained by the executor, or the retained copy has been lost or destroyed, or for other satisfactory reason, a copy may be furnished by the Commissioner to the executor, or to his authorized attorney or agent, upon payment of the fee prescribed.

ART. 73. Disclosure other than to executor.—If an attorney or other person asks a ruling on a question of law arising in a specific case, the Commissioner will require satisfactory evidence of the right to obtain such ruling. Hypothetical questions, however, can not be answered.

ART. 74. Attorneys must have authorization.—In all cases in which information is sought regarding an estate, or an interview is asked, by an attorney or by any agent of the executor or administrator, the information or interview will be denied unless the attorney or agent presents a duly executed power of attorney from the executor or administrator authorizing the attorney or agent to act in his behalf.

No attorney or agent will be recognized as representing an estate or executor unless such attorney or agent is enrolled to represent claimants or others before the Treasury Department. For regulations governing enrollment, reference should be made to Treasury Department Circular No. 230, as revised, copies of which may be obtained upon application to the Secretary of the Committee on Enrollment and Disbarment, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

Return by Collector or Commissioner

SEC. 3176. Revised Statutes (as amended by section 1103 of the Revenue Act of 1926 [U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 26, section 1512 (a), (b), and (c)]).

If any person, corporation, company, or association fails to make and file a return or list at the time prescribed by law or by regulation made under authority of law, or makes, willfully or otherwise, a false or fraudulent return or list, the collector or deputy collector shall make the return or list from his own knowledge and from such information as he can obtain through testimony or otherwise. In any such case the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may, from his own knowledge and from such information as he can obtain through testimony or otherwise, make a return or amend any return made by a collector or deputy collector. Any return or list so made and subscribed by the Commissioner, or by a collector or deputy collector and approved by the Commissioner, shall be prima facie good and sufficient for all legal purposes. • • •

ART. 75. No return filed, or a false or fraudulent return filed.—Section 3176 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, provides that if any person fails to make and file a return at the time required, or makes, willfully or otherwise, a false or fraudulent return, the collector or deputy collector shall make a return. The Commissioner may also make a return or amend any return made by a collector or deputy collector. A return so made by the Commissioner, or made by the collector or deputy collector and approved by the Commissioner, shall be prima facie good and sufficient for all legal purposes. If a tax is found to be due upon such a return, both the estate and the executor will be liable for penalties as well as for the tax.

Deficiency Tax

SEC. 307. As used in this title in respect of a tax imposed by this title the term "deficiency" means—

(1) The amount by which the tax imposed by this title exceeds the amount shown as the tax by the executor upon his return; but the amount so shown on the return shall first be increased by the amounts previously assessed (or collected without assessment) as a deficiency, and decreased by the amounts previously abated, refunded, or otherwise repaid in respect of such tax; or

(2) If no amount is shown as the tax by the executor upon his return, or if no return is made by the executor, then the amount by which the tax exceeds the amounts previously assessed (or collected without assessment) as a deficiency; but such amounts previously assessed, or collected without assessment, shall first be decreased by the amounts previously abated, refunded, or otherwise repaid in respect of such tax.

SEC. 308. (a) (as amended by section 501, Revenue Act of 1934) If the Commissioner determines that there is a deficiency in respect of the tax imposed by this title, the Commissioner is authorized to send notice of such deficiency to the executor by registered mail. Within 90 days after such notice is mailed (not counting Sunday or a legal holiday in the District of Columbia as the ninetieth day), the executor may file a petition with the Board of Tax Appeals for a redetermination of the deficiency. Except as otherwise provided in subdivision (d) or (f) of this section or in section 312 or 1001, no assessment of a deficiency in respect of the tax imposed by this title and no distraint or proceeding in court for its collection shall be made, begun, or prosecuted until such notice has been mailed to the executor, nor until the expiration of such 90-day period, nor, if a petition has been filed with the Board, until the decision of the Board has become final. Notwithstanding the provisions of section 3224 of the Revised Statutes the making of such assessment or the beginning of such proceeding or distraint during the time such prohibition is in force may be enjoined by a proceeding in the proper court.

(c) The Board shall have jurisdiction to redetermine the correct amount of the deficiency, even if the amount so redetermined is greater than the amount of the deficiency, notice of which has been mailed to the executor, and to determine whether any additional amount or addition to the tax should be assessed, if claim therefore is asserted by the Commissioner at or before the hearing or a rehearing.

(f) If after the enactment of this Act the Commissioner has mailed to the executor notice of a deficiency as provided in subdivision (a), and the executor files a petition with the Board within the time prescribed in such subdivision, the Commissioner shall have no right to determine any additional deficiency, except in the case of fraud, and except as provided in subdivision (e) of this section or in subdivision (c) of section 312. If the executor is notified that, on account of a mathematical error appearing upon the face of the return, an amount of tax in excess of that shown upon the return is due, and that an assessment of the tax has been or will be made on the basis of what would have been the correct amount of tax but for the mathematical error, such notice shall not be considered for the purposes of this subdivision or of subdivision (a) of this section, or of section 319, as a notice of a deficiency, and the executor shall have no right to file a petition with the Board of Tax Appeals based on such notice, nor shall such assessment or collection be prohibited by the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section.

SEC. 318. (a) If after the enactment of this Act the Commissioner determines that any assessment should be made in respect of any estate or gift tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1917, the Revenue Act of 1918, the Revenue Act of 1921, or the Revenue Act of 1924, or by any such Act as amended, the Commissioner is authorized to send by registered mail to the person liable for such tax notice of the amount proposed to be assessed, which notice shall, for the purposes of this Act, be considered a notice under subdivision (a) of section 308 of this Act. In the case of any such determination the amount which should be assessed (whether as deficiency or additional tax or as interest, penalty, or other addition to the tax) shall be computed as if this Act had not been enacted, but the amount so computed shall be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner and subject to the same provisions and limitations (including the provisions in case of delinquency in payment after notice and demand and the provisions prohibiting claims and suits for refund) as in the case of a deficiency in the tax imposed by this title, except that in the case of an estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1917, the Revenue Act of 1918, or the Revenue Act of 1921, or by any such Act as amended, the period of limitation prescribed in section 1109 of this Act shall be applied in lieu of the period prescribed in subdivision (a) of section 310.

(b) If before the enactment of this Act any person has appealed to the Board of Tax Appeals under subdivision (a) of section 308 of the Revenue Act of 1924 (if such appeal relates to a tax imposed by Title III of such Act or to so much of an estate tax imposed by any of the prior Acts enumerated in subdivision (a) of this section as was not assessed before June 3, 1924), and the appeal is pending before the Board at the time of the enactment of this Act, the Board shall have jurisdiction of the appeal. In all such cases the powers, duties, rights, and privileges of the Commissioner and of the person who has brought the appeal, and the jurisdiction of the Board and of the courts, shall be determined, and the computation of the tax shall be made, in the same manner as provided in subdivision (a) of this section, except as provided in subdivision (h) of this section and except that the person liable for the tax shall not be subject to the provisions of subdivision (a) of section 319.

(c) If before the enactment of this Act the Commissioner has mailed to any person a notice under subdivision (a) of section 308 of the Revenue Act of 1924 (whether in respect of a tax imposed by Title III of such Act or in respect of so much of an estate tax imposed by any of the prior Acts enumerated in subdivision (a) of this section as was not assessed before June 3, 1924), and if the 60-day period referred to in such subdivision has not expired before the enactment of this Act and no appeal has been filed before the enactment of this Act, such person may file a petition with the Board in the same manner as if a notice of deficiency had been mailed after the enactment of this Act in respect of a deficiency in a tax imposed by this title. In such cases the 60-day period referred to in subdivision (a) of section 308 of this Act shall begin on the date of the enactment of this Act, and the powers, duties, rights, and privileges of the Commissioner and of the person entitled to file the petition, and the jurisdiction of the Board and of the courts, shall, whether or not the petition is filed, be determined, and the computation of the tax shall be made, in the same manner as provided in subdivision (a) of this section.

(d) If any deficiency in any estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1917, the Revenue Act of 1918, or the Revenue Act of 1921, or by any such Act as amended, was assessed before June 3, 1924, but was not paid in full before the date of the enactment of this Act, and if the Commissioner, after the enactment of this Act, finally determines the amount of the deficiency, he is authorized to send by registered mail to the person liable for such tax notice of such deficiency, which notice shall, for the purposes of this Act, be considered a notice under subdivision (a) of section 308 of this Act. In the case of any such final determination the amount of the tax (whether as deficiency or additional tax or as interest, penalty, or other addition to the tax) shall be computed as if this Act had not been enacted, but the amount so computed shall be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner and subject to the same provisions and limitations (including the provisions in cases of delinquency in payment after notice and demand, and the provisions relating to claims and suits for refunds) as in the case of a deficiency in the tax imposed by this title, except as otherwise provided in subdivision (g) of this section, and except that the period of limitation prescribed in section 1109 of this Act shall be applied in lieu of the period prescribed in subdivision (a) of section 310.

(e) If any deficiency in any estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1917, the Revenue Act of 1918, or the Revenue Act of 1921, or by any such Act as amended, was assessed before June 3, 1924, but was not paid in full before that date, and if the Commissioner after June 2, 1924, but before the enactment of this Act, finally determined the amount of the deficiency, and if the person liable for such tax appealed before the enactment of this Act to the Board of Tax Appeals and the appeal is pending before the Board at the time of the enactment of this Act, the Board shall have jurisdiction of the appeal. In all such cases the powers, duties, rights, and privileges of the Commissioner and of the person who has brought the appeal, and the jurisdiction of the Board and of the courts, shall be determined, and the computation of the tax shall be made, in the same manner as provided in subdivision (d) of this section, except as provided in subdivision (h) of this section, and except that the person liable for the tax shall not be subject to the provisions of subdivision (a) of section 319.

(f) If any deficiency in any estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1917, the Revenue Act of 1918, or the Revenue Act of 1921, or by any such Act as amended, was assessed before June 3, 1924, but was not paid in full before the date of the enactment of this Act, and if the Commissioner after June 2, 1924, finally determined the amount of the deficiency, and notified the person liable for such tax to that effect less than 60 days prior to the enactment of this Act and no appeal has been filed before the enactment of this Act, the person so notified may file a petition with the Board in the same manner as if a notice of deficiency had been mailed after the enactment of this Act in respect of a deficiency in a tax imposed by this title. In such cases the 60-day period referred to in subdivision (a) of section 308 of this Act shall begin on the date of the enactment of this Act, and, whether or not the petition is filed, the powers, duties, rights, and privileges of the Commissioner and of the person who is so notified, and the jurisdiction of the Board and of the courts, shall be determined, and the computation of the tax be made, in the same manner as provided in subdivision (d) of this section.

(g) In cases within the scope of subdivision (d), (e), or (f), if the Commissioner believes that the collection of the deficiency will be jeopardized by delay, he may, despite the provisions of subdivision (a) of section 308 of this Act, instruct the collector to proceed to enforce the payment of the unpaid portion of the deficiency, and notice and demand shall be made by the collector for the payment thereof. Within 30 days after such jeopardy notice and demand the person liable for the tax may obtain a stay of collection of the whole or any part of the amount included in the notice and demand by filing with the collector a bond in like manner, under the same conditions, and with the same effect, as in the case of a bond to stay the collection of a jeopardy assessment under section 312 of this Act.

(h) In cases within the scope of subdivision (b) or (c) of this section where any hearing before the Board has been held before the enactment of this Act and the decision is rendered after the enactment of this Act, such decision shall, for the purposes of this title, be considered to have become final upon the date when it is rendered, and neither party shall have any right to petition for a review of the decision. The Commissioner may, within one year from the time the decision is rendered, begin a proceeding in court for the collection of any part of the amount disallowed by the Board, unless the statutory period of limitations properly applicable thereto has expired before the appeal was taken to the Board. The court shall include in its judgment interest upon the amount thereof in the same cases, at the same rate, and for the same period, as if such amount were collected otherwise than by proceeding in court. In any such proceeding by the Commissioner or in any suit by the taxpayer for a refund, the findings of the Board shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated.

(i) Where before the enactment of this Act a jeopardy assessment has been made under subdivision (d) of section 308 of the Revenue Act of 1924 (whether of a deficiency in the tax imposed by Title III of such Act or of a deficiency in an estate tax imposed by any of the prior Acts enumerated in subdivision (a) of this section) all proceedings after the enactment of this Act shall be the same as under the Revenue Act of 1924 as amended by this Act, except that—

(1) A decision of the Board rendered after the enactment of this Act where no hearing has been held by the Board before the enactment of this Act may be reviewed in the same manner as provided in this Act in the case of a tax imposed by this title;

(2) Where no hearing has been held by the Board before the enactment of this Act, the Commissioner shall have no right to begin a proceeding in court for the collection of any part of the deficiency disallowed by the Board; and

(3) In the consideration of the case the jurisdiction and powers of the Board shall be the same as provided in this Act in the case of a tax imposed by this title.

(j) In the case of any estate or gift tax imposed by prior Act of Congress, in computing the period of limitations provided in section 310 or 311 of this Act on the making of assessments and the beginning of distraint or a proceeding in court, the running of the statute of limitations shall be considered to have been suspended (in addition to the period of suspension provided for in subdivision (b) of section 310) for any period of time prior to the enactment of this Act during which the Commissioner was prohibited from making the assessment or beginning distraint or proceeding in court.

SEC. 606. Revenue Act of 1928.

(a) Authorization.—The Commissioner (or any officer or employee of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, including the field service, authorized in writing by the Commissioner) is authorized to enter into an agreement in writing with any person relating to the liability of such person (or of the person or estate for whom he acts) in respect of any internal-revenue tax for any taxable period ending prior to the date of the agreement.

(b) Finality of agreement.—If such agreement is approved by the Secretary, or the Undersecretary, within such time as may be stated in such agreement, or later agreed to, such agreement shall be final and conclusive, and, except upon a showing of fraud or malfeasance, or misrepresentation of a material fact—

(1) the case shall not be reopened as to the matters agreed upon or the agreement modified, by any officer, employee, or agent of the United States, and

(2) in any suit, action, or proceeding, such agreement, or any determination, assessment, collection, payment, abatement, refund, or credit made in accordance therewith, shall not be annulled, modified, set aside, or disregarded.

(c) Section 1106 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1926 is repealed, effective on the expiration of 30 days after the enactment of this Act, but such repeal shall not affect any agreement made before such repeal takes effect.

NOTE.—Section 308 (a) was amended by section 501 of the Revenue Act of 1934 by changing the period within which the executor may petition the Board of Tax Appeals from 60 days to 90 days, and by excluding from such period a legal holiday in the District of Columbia.

The last sentence of such section 501 reads as follows:

"The amendments made by this section shall apply only in respect of notices mailed after thirty days after the date of the enactment of this Act."

ART. 76. Deficiency, petitions, and closing agreements.—Section 307 by its definition of the word "deficiency" provides a term which will apply to any amount of tax determined to be due in excess of the amount of tax reported by the executor, or in excess of the amount reported by the executor as adjusted by way of prior assessments, abatements, refunds, or collections without assessment. In defining the term "deficiency" section 307 recognizes two classes of cases—one, in which the executor makes a return showing some tax liability; the other, in which the executor makes a return showing no tax liability, or in which the executor fails to make a return. Additional tax, resulting from supplemental information filed after the return has been filed, is a deficiency within the meaning of the Act.

When a case is considered for the first time, the deficiency is the excess of the amount determined to be the correct amount of the tax over the amount shown as the tax by the executor on his return, or, if it is a case in which no tax was reported by the executor, the deficiency is the amount determined to be the correct amount of the tax. Subsequent information sometimes discloses that the amount previously determined to be the correct amount of the tax is less than the correct amount, and that a redetermination of the tax is necessary. In such a case the deficiency on redetermination is the excess of the amount determined to be the correct amount of the tax over the sum of the amount of tax reported by the executor and the deficiency assessed in connection with the previous determination. If it is a case in which no tax was reported by the executor, the deficiency is the excess of the amount determined to be the correct amount of the tax over the amount of the deficiency disclosed by the previous determination. If the previous determination resulted in a refund to the executor, the deficiency upon the second determination is the excess of the amount determined to be the correct amount of the tax over the amount of tax reported by the executor decreased by the amount of the tax refunded.

In all cases in which a deficiency in respect of a tax (including penalties or other additions to the tax provided by law) is determined by the Commissioner, a notice thereof will be sent to the executor by registered mail in accordance with the provisions of section 308 (a) of the statute even though a jeopardy assessment (see article 77) is made. If, subsequent to the mailing of such notice, a jeopardy assessment is made in respect of the deficiency to which such notice relates no subsequent notice will be sent to the executor by the Commissioner, but if such jeopardy assessment is made, and the amount thereof is in excess of the deficiency to which the notice relates, the Commissioner will mail a notice to the executor as required by section 308 (a) of the determination of such additional deficiency provided no petition has theretofore been filed with the Board of Tax Appeals. If a deficiency is determined in respect of both the tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1926 and the additional tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932, notice of both deficiencies may be incorporated in the same communication.

Within 90 days (not counting Sunday or a legal holiday in the District of Columbia as the ninetieth day) after the mailing of the registered letter notifying him of the final determination of a deficiency by the Commissioner, the executor may file a petition with the Board of Tax Appeals for a redetermination of the deficiency, other than a deficiency resulting from the correction of a mathematical error appearing upon the return. If notice of the deficiency is mailed prior to, or within 30 days after, the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934, the period within which a petition may be filed with the Board is 60 days (not counting Sunday as the sixtieth day) after mailing of the notice. (See article 77.) The right to file a petition with the Board exists whether the decedent died prior or subsequent to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1926.

The executor and the Commissioner (or any officer or employee authorized by the Commissioner), subject to approval by the Secretary or the Under Secretary of the Treasury, may, under the provisions of section 606 of the Revenue Act of 1928, enter into a closing agreement in writing relating to the tax liability of the estate which will be final and conclusive except upon a showing of fraud or malfeasance, or misrepresentation of a material fact.

Assessment of Tax

SEC. 305. (b) (as amended by section 808 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932) Where the Commissioner finds that the payment on the due date of any part of the amount determined by the executor as the tax would impose undue hardship upon the estate, the Commissioner may extend the time for payment of any such part not to exceed eight years from the due date. In such case the amount in respect of which the extension is granted shall be paid on or before the date of the expiration of the period of the extension, and the running of the statute of limitations for assessment and collection, as provided in sections 310 (a) and 311 (b), shall be suspended for the period of any such extension. • • •

SEC. 308. • • • (b) If the executor files a petition with the Board, the entire amount redetermined as the deficiency by the decision of the Board which has become final shall be assessed and shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector. No part of the amount determined as a deficiency by the Commissioner but disallowed as such by the decision of the Board which has become final shall be assessed or be collected by distraint or by proceeding in court with or without assessment.

(c) If the executor does not file a petition with the Board within the time prescribed in subdivision (a) of this section, the deficiency, notice of which has been mailed to the executor, shall be assessed, and shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector.

(d) The executor shall at any time have the right, by a signed notice in writing filed with the Commissioner, to waive the restrictions provided in subdivision (a) of this section on the assessment and collection of the whole or any part of the deficiency.

(e) The Board shall have jurisdiction to redetermine the correct amount of the deficiency even if the amount so redetermined is greater than the amount of the deficiency, notice of which has been mailed to the executor, and to determine whether any additional amount or addition to the tax should be assessed, if claim therefor is asserted by the Commissioner at or before the hearing or a rehearing.

(f) If after the enactment of this Act the Commissioner has mailed to the executor notice of a deficiency as provided in subdivision (a), and the executor files a petition with the Board within the time prescribed in such subdivision, the Commissioner shall have no right to determine any additional deficiency, except in the case of fraud, and except as provided in subdivision (e) of this section or in subdivision (c) of section 312. If the executor is notified that, on account of a mathematical error appearing upon the face of the return, an amount of tax in excess of that shown upon the return is due, and that an assessment of the tax has been or will be made on the basis of what would have been the correct amount of tax but for the mathematical error, such notice shall not be considered, for the purposes of this subdivision or of subdivision (a) of this section, or of section 319, as a notice of a deficiency, and the executor shall have no right to file a petition with the Board of Tax Appeals based on such notice, nor shall such assessment or collection be prohibited by the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section.

(g) For the purposes of this title the date on which a decision of the Board becomes final shall be determined according to the provisions of section 1005. • • •

(i) (as amended by section 808 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1932) Where it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that the payment of a deficiency upon the date prescribed for the payment thereof will result in undue hardship to the estate, the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary (except where the deficiency is due to negligence, to intentional disregard of rules and regulations, or to fraud with intent to evade tax), may grant an extension for the payment of such deficiency or any part thereof for a period not in excess of four years. If an extension is granted, the Commissioner may require the executor to furnish a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount of the deficiency, and with such sureties as the Commissioner deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of the deficiency in accordance with the terms of the extension. In such case the running of the statute of limitations for assessment and collection, as provided in sections 310 (a) and 311 (b), shall be suspended for the period of any such extension, and there shall be collected, • • •

SEC. 310. (a) Except as provided in section 311, the amount of the estate taxes imposed by this title shall be assessed within three years after the return was filed, and no proceeding in court without assessment for the collection of such taxes shall be begun after the expiration of three years after the return was filed.

(b) (as amended by section 402 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1928) The running of the statute of limitations provided in this section or in section 311 on the making of assessments and the beginning of distraint or a proceeding in court for collection, in respect of any deficiency, shall (after the mailing of a notice under subdivision (a) of section 308) be suspended for the period during which the Commissioner is prohibited from making the assessment or beginning distraint or a proceeding in court (and in any event, if a proceeding in respect of the deficiency is placed on the docket of the Board, until the decision of the Board becomes final), and for 60 days thereafter.

SEC. 311. (a) In the case of a false or fraudulent return with intent to evade tax or of a failure to file a return the tax may be assessed, or a proceeding in court for the collection of such tax may be begun without assessment, at any time.

(b) Where the assessment of any tax imposed by this title or of any estate or gift tax imposed by prior Act of Congress has been made (whether before or after the enactment of this Act) within the statutory period of limitation properly applicable thereto, such tax may be collected by distraint or by a proceeding in court (begun before or after the enactment of this Act), but only if begun (1) within six years after the assessment of the tax, or (2) prior to the expiration of any period for collection agreed upon in writing by the Commissioner and the executor.

(c) This section shall not bar a distraint or proceeding in court begun before the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1924; nor shall it authorize the assessment of a tax or the collection thereof by distraint or by proceeding in court (1) if at the time of the enactment of this Act such assessment, distraint, or proceeding was barred by the statutory period of limitation properly applicable thereto, unless prior to the enactment of this Act the Commissioner and the executor agreed in writing thereto, or (2) contrary to the provisions of subdivision (a) of section 308 of this Act.

SEC. 312. (a) If the Commissioner believes that the assessment or collection of a deficiency will be jeopardized by delay, he shall immediately assess such deficiency (together with all interest, additional amounts, or additions to the tax provided for by law) and notice and demand shall be made by the collector for the payment thereof.

(b) If the jeopardy assessment is made before any notice in respect of the tax to which the jeopardy assessment relates has been mailed under subdivision (a) of section 308, then the Commissioner shall mail a notice under such subdivision within 60 days after the making of the assessment.

(c) The jeopardy assessment may be made in respect of a deficiency greater or less than that notice of which has been mailed to the executor, despite the provisions of subdivision (f) of section 308 and whether or not the executor has theretofore filed a petition with the Board of Tax Appeals. The Commissioner shall notify the Board of the amount of such assessment, if the petition is filed with the Board before the making of the assessment or is subsequently filed, and the Board shall have jurisdiction to redetermine the entire amount of the deficiency and of all amounts assessed at the same time in connection therewith.

(d) If the jeopardy assessment is made after the decision of the Board is rendered such assessment may be made only in respect of the deficiency determined by the Board in its decision.

(e) A jeopardy assessment may not be made after the decision of the Board has become final or after the executor has filed a petition for review of the decision of the Board.

(f) When a jeopardy assessment has been made the executor, within 30 days after notice and demand from the collector for the payment of the amount of the assessment, may obtain a stay of collection of the whole or any part of the amount of the assessment by filing with the collector a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount as to which the stay is desired, and with such sureties, as the collector deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of so much of the amount, the collection of which is stayed by the bond, as is not abated by a decision of the Board which has become final, together with interest thereon as provided in subdivision (j) of this section.

(g) If the bond is given before the executor has filed his petition with the Board under subdivision (a) of section 308, the bond shall contain a further condition that if a petition is not filed within the period provided in such subdivision, then the amount the collection of which is stayed by the bond will be paid on notice and demand at any time after the expiration of such period, together with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from the date of the jeopardy notice and demand to the date of notice and demand under this subdivision.

(i) When the petition has been filed with the Board and when the amount which should have been assessed has been determined by a decision of the Board which has become final, then any unpaid portion, the collection of which has been stayed by the bond, shall be collected as part of the tax upon notice and demand from the collector, and any remaining portion of the assessment shall be abated. If the amount already collected exceeds the amount determined as the amount which should have been assessed, such excess shall be refunded. If the amount determined as the amount which should have been assessed is greater than the amount actually assessed, then the difference shall be assessed and shall be collected as part of the tax upon notice and demand from the collector. • • •

SEC. 318. (a) If after the enactment of this Act the Commissioner determines that any assessment should be made in respect of any estate or gift tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1917, the Revenue Act of 1918, the Revenue Act of 1921, or the Revenue Act of 1924, or by any such Act as amended, the Commissioner is authorized to send by registered mail to the person liable for such tax notice of the amount proposed to be assessed, which notice shall, for the purposes of this Act, be considered a notice under subdivision (a) of section 308 of this Act. In the case of any such determination the amount which should be assessed (whether as deficiency or additional tax or as interest, penalty, or other addition to the tax) shall be computed as if this Act had not been enacted, but the amount so computed shall be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner and subject to the same provisions and limitations (including the provisions in case of delinquency in payment after notice and demand and the provisions prohibiting claims and suits for refund) as in the case of a deficiency in the tax imposed by this title, except that in the case of an estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1917, the Revenue Act of 1918, or the Revenue Act of 1921, or by any such Act as amended, the period of limitation prescribed in section 1109 of this Act shall be applied in lieu of the period prescribed in subdivision (a) of section 310. • • •

SEC. 1109 (as amended by section 619 (a), Revenue Act of 1928). (a) Except in the case of • • • estate, and gift taxes—

(1) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 3182 of the Revised Statutes or any other provision of law, all internal-revenue taxes shall (except as provided in paragraph (2) or (3) of this subdivision) be assessed within four years after such taxes became due, and no proceeding in court without assessment for the collection of such taxes shall be begun after the expiration of five years after such taxes became due.

(2) In case of a false or fraudulent return with intent to evade tax, of a failure to file a return within the time required by law, or of a willful attempt in any manner to defeat or evade tax, the tax may be assessed, or a proceeding in court for the collection of such tax may be begun without assessment, at any time.

(3) Where the assessment of any tax imposed by this Act or by prior Act of Congress has been made (whether before or after the enactment of this Act) within the statutory period of limitation properly applicable thereto, such tax may be collected by distraint or by a proceeding in court (begun before or after the enactment of this Act), but only if begun (A) within six years after the assessment of the tax, or (B) prior to the expiration of any period for collection agreed upon in writing by the Commissioner and the taxpayer.

(b) This section shall not bar a distraint or proceeding in court begun before the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1924; nor shall it authorize the assessment of a tax or the collection thereof by distraint or by proceeding in court if at the time of the enactment of this Act such assessment, distraint, or proceeding was barred by the statutory period of limitation properly applicable thereto, unless prior to the enactment of this Act the Commissioner and the taxpayer agreed in writing thereto.

SEC. 403. Revenue Act of 1932.

Except as provided in section 402, the tax imposed by section 401 of this Act shall be assessed, collected, and paid, in the same manner, and shall be subject to the same provisions of law (including penalties), as the tax imposed by section 301 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1926, • • •.

---

SEC. 310. (b) (as originally enacted) The running of the statute of limitations provided in this section or in section 311 on the making of assessments and the beginning of distraint or a proceeding in court for collection, in respect of any deficiency, shall (after the mailing of a notice under subdivision (a) of section 308) be suspended for the period during which the Commissioner is prohibited from making the assessment or beginning distraint or a proceeding in court, and for 60 days thereafter.

NOTE.—The above subdivision was amended by section 402 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1928, by inserting the following: "(and in any event, if a proceeding in respect of the deficiency is placed on the docket of the Board, until the decision of the Board becomes final)". Section 402 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1928 reads as follows:

"Subsection (a) of this section shall apply in all cases where the period of limitation has not expired prior to the enactment of this Act."

ART. 77. Assessments.—In any case in which the Commissioner believes that the assessment or collection of a deficiency tax will be jeopardized by delay, he will make an immediate assessment thereof. In such case the assessment may be made before the mailing of the notice provided by section 308 (a), or at any time thereafter prior to the filing of a petition for a review by the court of a decision rendered by the Board. If the jeopardy assessment is made subsequent to a decision of the Board, then the assessment is limited to the amount of the deficiency determined by the Board. If the jeopardy assessment is made before any notice in respect of the deficiency to which the jeopardy assessment relates has been mailed under subdivision (a) of section 308, the Commissioner will mail a notice as provided by such subdivision within 60 days after the making of such jeopardy assessment.

If an amount of tax in excess of that shown upon the return is determined to be due as a result of the correction of a mathematical error appearing upon the face of the return, the executor will be duly notified and an assessment made of the tax which would have been the correct tax but for the mathematical error. The notice that the correct amount of the tax has been assessed will not be a notice of a deficiency within the meaning of subdivision (a) of section 308 or section 319 and the executor has no right to file a petition with the Board of Tax Appeals based upon such notice.

If a petition is filed with the Board, the entire amount redetermined as the deficiency by the decision of the Board which has become final will be assessed, except such portion as may have been assessed as a jeopardy assessment. If no petition is filed with the Board within the time prescribed in section 308 (a), the deficiency, notice of which has been mailed to the executor, will be assessed. If the executor by a signed notice in writing filed with the Commissioner waives the restrictions on the assessment and collection of the whole or any part of a deficiency, assessment of such whole or part will be made immediately. (As to payment, see articles 78 to 85, inclusive.)

All assessments against executors (as to assessments against transferees and fiduciaries, see article 105), except in the case of a false or fraudulent return, or of a failure to file a return within the time required by law, must be made within three years after the return was filed (four years after the due date of the tax if the decedent died prior to the effective date of the Revenue Act of 1924). If notice of a deficiency is mailed in accordance with the provisions of subdivision (a) of section 308, then the period within which assessment thereof is required to be made is extended for the period during which the Commissioner is prohibited from making the assessment and for 60 days thereafter. If a proceeding in respect of the deficiency is placed on the docket of the Board, the period within which assessment is required to be made is extended until the decision of the Board becomes final and for 60 days thereafter. If an extension of time for payment of the tax is granted in accordance with section 305 (b) or section 308 (i), as amended by section 808 of the Revenue Act of 1932, the period within which assessment is required to be made is extended by the time covered by such extension.

In case of a false or fraudulent return with intent to evade the tax, or of a failure to file a required return, the tax may be assessed, or proceedings in court for collection may be begun without assessment, at any time.

Payment of and Receipts for Taxes

SEC. 305. (a) (as amended by section 203 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1935) The tax imposed by this title shall be due and payable fifteen months after the decedent's death, and shall be paid by the executor to the collector. • • •

SEC. 308. • • • (b) If the the executor files a petition with the Board, the entire amount redetermined as the deficiency by the decision of the Board which has become final shall be assessed and shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector. • • •

(c) If the executor does not file a petition with the Board within the time prescribed in subdivision (a) of this section, the deficiency, notice of which has been mailed to the executor, shall be assessed, and shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector. • • •

SEC. 313. (a) The collector shall grant to the person paying the tax duplicate receipts, either of which shall be sufficient evidence of such payment, and shall entitle the executor to be credited and allowed the amount thereof by any court having jurisdiction to audit or settle his accounts. • • •

SEC. 1118. (a) Collectors may receive, • • • uncertified checks in payment of income, war-profits, and excess-profits taxes and any other taxes payable other than by stamp, during such time and under such rules and regulations as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, shall prescribe; but if a check so received is not paid by the bank on which it is drawn the person by whom such check has been tendered shall remain liable for the payment of the tax and for all legal penalties and additions to the same extent as if such check had not been tendered.

SEC. 305. (a) (as originally enacted) The tax imposed by this title shall be due and payable one year after the decedent's death, and shall be paid by the executor to the collector. • • •

NOTE.—The above subdivision was amended by section 203 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1935 by substituting "fifteen months" for "one year". Section 203 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1935 reads as follows:

"The amendments made by this section shall be effective only with respect to transfers of estates of decedents dying after the date of the enactment of this Act."

ART. 78. Payment of tax; General.—The tax is due and must be paid within 15 months from the date of death if the decedent died on or after August 31, 1935, or within 1 year from the date of death if the decedent died before August 31, 1935, unless an extension of time for payment thereof has been granted by the Commissioner. (See also article 82.) If the tax is due 15 months after the decedent's death, the due date is the day of the fifteenth calendar month after his death numerically corresponding to the day of the calendar month in which death occurred, except that, if there is no numerically corresponding day in such fifteenth month, the last day of such fifteenth month is the due date. For example, if the decedent died on August 31, 1937, the due date is November 30, 1938. No discount will be allowed for payment in advance of the due date. The collector will grant to the person paying the tax duplicate receipts, either of which will be sufficient evidence of such payment and entitle the executor to be credited with the amount by any court having jurisdiction to audit or settle his accounts.

Following an investigation of the return, the tax liability will be determined by the Commissioner. If the amount of tax shown on the return has been paid and exceeds the amount of tax as determined, a certificate of overassessment will be prepared and issued, regardless of whether or not a claim for refund of such excess payment is filed unless refundment of such excess is barred by the statute of limitations, or such excess is otherwise not refundable, as in the case of a compromise (see article 101), a closing agreement (see article 76) conclusively fixing the amount of tax liability, or an estoppel. If the amount of tax as determined exceeds the amount of tax already paid but is less than the amount shown on the return, the executor will be notified of the amount of the unpaid tax and payment thereof should be made to the collector. If the audit of the return does not disclose a deficiency tax or overpayment the executor will be notified to that effect. If, as a result of the audit of the return, a deficiency in respect of the tax is finally determined and such deficiency is in whole or in part assessed (see article 77), the executor should pay the amount of the deficiency assessed upon notice and demand from the collector, except in the case a stay of the collection of a jeopardy assessment is obtained by the filing of a bond (see article 96), or an extension of time for payment is granted (see article 83). Until any tax determined by the Commissioner, including any deficiency, is assessed, the executor should reserve a sufficient portion of the estate to satisfy any unpaid assessment.

ART. 79. The executor shall pay the tax.—The statute provides that the executor shall pay the tax. This duty applies to the entire tax, regardless of the fact that the gross estate consists in part of property which will not come into his possession. If there is no duly qualified executor or administrator, all persons in actual or constructive possession of any property of the decedent are liable for and required to pay the tax to the extent of the value of such property. (See section 300 (a). As to the personal liability of the executor, see article 102.)

ART. 80. Payment by check.—Collectors may accept uncertified checks in payment of the tax, provided such checks are collectible at par, that is, for the full amount, without any deduction for exchange or other charges. The collector will stamp upon the face of each check before deposit thereof the words "This check is in payment of an obligation to the United States and must be paid at par. No protest." This should be followed by his name and title. The day on which the check is received will be considered the date of payment so far as the taxpayer is concerned, unless the check is returned dishonored. If the bank on which a check is drawn should refuse to pay it at par, the check should be returned through the depositary bank.

All expenses incident to the attempt to collect such a check and the return of it through the depositary bank must be paid by the drawer of the check to the bank on which it is drawn. (See section 3210 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, reenacted by section 1128 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1926.) In the case a check has been returned uncollected by the depositary bank, the collector should proceed to collect the tax as though no check had been given, and the taxpayer will remain liable for payment of the tax and for all interest, legal penalties and additions, if any attach, to the same extent as though such check had not been tendered. A taxpayer who tenders a certified check in payment of the tax is not released from his obligation until the check has been paid. (See U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 26, section 1546 (a).)

Treasury Department Circular No. 176, as amended, prescribes detailed regulations governing the deposit and collection of checks. Collectors are referred to paragraphs 13–16 and paragraph 26 thereof as to the deposit of taxpayers' checks and the handling of uncollected or lost items.

ART. 81. Payment with bonds of the United States.—Payment of the tax may be made with certain bonds of the United States in accordance with section 14 of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended (U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 31, section 765), and Department Circular 225, as amended and supplemented, issued pursuant thereto. Such bonds must bear interest at a higher rate than 4 per cent per annum, and are receivable at par value, together with interest accrued at the time of payment, provided they were owned by the decedent continuously for at least six months prior to the date of his death, and upon such date constituted a part of his gross estate.

Extension of Time for Payment of Tax

SEC. 305. * * * (b) (as amended by section 808 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932) Where the Commissioner finds that the payment on the due date of any part of the amount determined by the executor as the tax would impose undue hardship upon the estate, the Commissioner may extend the time for payment of any such part not to exceed eight years from the due date. In such case the amount in respect of which the extension is granted shall be paid on or before the date of the expiration of the period of the extension, and the running of the statute of limitations for assessment and collection, as provided in sections 310 (a) and 311 (b), shall be suspended for the period of any such extension. If an extension is granted, the Commissioner may require the executor to furnish a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount in respect of which the extension is granted, and with such sureties as the Commissioner deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of the amount in respect of which the extension is granted in accordance with the terms of the extension. * * *

(e) (as added by section 811 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932) Where there is included in the value of the gross estate the value of a reversionary or remainder interest in property, the payment of the part of the tax imposed by this title attributable to such interest may, at the election of the executor, be postponed until six months after the termination of the precedent interest or interests in the property, and the amounnt the payment of which is so postponed shall then be payable, together with interest thereon at the rate of 4 per centum per annum from eighteen months after the date of the decedent's death until such amount is paid. The postponement of payment of such amount shall be under such regulations as the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary may prescribe, and shall be upon condition that the executor, or any other person liable for the tax, shall furnish a bond in such an amount, and with such sureties, as the Commissioner deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment within six months after the termination of such precedent interest or interests of the amount the payment of which is so postponed, together with interest thereon, as above provided. Such part of any estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes allowable as a credit against the tax imposed by this title as is attributable to such reversionary or remainder interest may be allowed as a credit against the tax attributable to such interest, subject to the percentage limitation contained in section 301 (c), if such part is paid, and credit therefor claimed, at any time prior to the expiration of 60 days after the termination of the precedent interest or interests in the property.

NOTE.—Section 811 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1932 reads as follows: "The amendment to section 305 of the Revenue Act of 1926 made by subsection (a) of this section, shall not apply, in the case of estates of decedents dying prior to the date of the enactment of this Act, to that part of any payment of Federal estate taxes made prior to such date which is attributable to a reversionary or remainder interest in property."

SEC. 308. * * * (1) (as amended by section 808 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1932) Where it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that the payment of a deficiency upon the date prescribed for the payment thereof will result in undue hardship to the estate, the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary (except where the deficiency is due to negligence, to intentional disregard of rules and regulations, or to fraud with intent to evade tax), may grant an extension for the payment of such deficiency or any part thereof for a period not in excess of four years. If an extension is granted, the Commissioner may require the executor to furnish a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount of the deficiency, and with such sureties as the Commissioner deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of the deficiency in accordance with the terms of the extension. In such case the running of the statute of limitations for assessment and collection, as provided in sections 310 (a) and 311 (b), shall be suspended for the period of any such extension, and there shall be collected, as a part of the tax, interest on the part of the deficiency the time for payment of which is so extended, at the rate of 6 per centum per annum for the period of the extension, and no other interest shall be collected on such part of the deficiency for such period. If the part of the deficiency the time for payment of which is so extended is not paid in accordance with the terms of the extension, there shall be collected, as a part of the tax, interest on such unpaid amount at the rate of 1 per centum a month for the period from the time fixed by the terms of the extension for its payment until it is paid, and no other interest shall be collected on such unpaid amount for such period.

NOTE.—Section 404 of the Revenue Act of 1935 had the effect of changing the rate of interest of 1 per centum a month provided in the above subdivision to 6 per centum per annum for any period after August 30, 1935. Such section 404 reads as follows:

"Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, interest accruing during any period of time after the date of the enactment of this Act upon any internal-revenue tax (including amounts assessed or collected as a part thereof) or customs duty, not paid when due, shall be at the rate of 6 per centum per annum."

ART. 82. (a) Extension of time for payment of tax shown on return.—In any case in which the Commissioner finds that payment, on the due date, of the tax shown on the return would impose undue hardship upon the estate, an extension or extensions of time will be granted for the payment of the tax for a period not to exceed in all eight years from the due date. Extensions of time for tax payment will be granted only in exceptional cases, and those in which it is evident that the payment of the tax on or before the due date would impose upon the estate undue hardship. What constitutes "undue hardship" depends upon the facts in the particular case.

An application for an extension of time for the payment of the tax must be in writing and must contain, or be supported by, sufficient information under oath from which the Commissioner may determine whether undue hardship would result if the requested extension were refused.

As a condition to the granting of such an extension the Commissioner may require that a penal bond be furnished in an amount not exceeding double the amount for which the extension is desired. If a bond is to be furnished it must be filed with the collector within 10 days after notification by the Commissioner that such bond is required, and shall be conditioned upon the payment, in accordance with the terms of the extension granted, of the tax involved, including any interest thereon, and shall be executed by a surety or sureties, and shall be subject to the approval of the Commissioner. In lieu of such surety or sureties, the bond may be secured by the deposit of bonds or notes of the United States, any public debt obligations of the United States, or any bonds, notes, or other obligations which are unconditionally guaranteed as to both interest and principal by the United States, equal in their total par value to the amount of such bond. (See section 1126 of the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended by section 7 of the Act of February 4, 1935, U. S. C., 1934 edition, Sup. II, Title 6, section 15.)

No single extension for more than one year will be granted. Application for extension of time for payment should be filed with the collector, who will refer it to the Commissioner with suitable recommendations.

An extension of time to pay the tax does not relieve the executor from the duty of filing the return on or before the date fixed by the regulations, nor will it operate to prevent the running of interest. (See articles 84 and 85.) An extension of time to pay the tax may extend the period within which taxes allowed as a credit by section 301 (c) are required to be paid and the credit therefor claimed. (See article 9.) The running of the statute of limitations for assessment and collection, as provided in sections 310 (a) and 311 (b), is suspended for the period of the extension. (See articles 77 and 105.)

All applications for extensions of time for payment of tax must be made before the due date of such tax. If the executor desires to obtain an additional extension, the application therefor must be filed with the collector on or before the date of the expiration of the previous extension.

The granting of an extension of time for paying the tax is discretionary with the Commissioner and such authority will be exercised under such conditions as he may deem advisable.

(b) Extension of time for payment of tax attributable to a reversionary or remainder interest.—In the case there is included in the gross estate a reversionary or remainder interest in property, the payment of the part of the tax attributable to such interest, except such part of such tax as was paid prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1932, may, at the election of the executor, be postponed until six months after the termination of the precedent interest or interests in the property. This provision is limited to cases in which the reversionary or remainder interest is included in the decedent's gross estate as such and does not extend to cases in which the decedent creates future estates by his own testamentary act.

Notice of the exercise of the election to postpone the payment of the tax attributable to a reversionary or remainder interest should be filed with the Commissioner before the date prescribed for payment of the tax. There should be filed with the notice of election a certified copy of the will or other instrument under which the reversionary or remainder interest was created. The Commissioner may require the submission of such additional proof as is deemed necessary to disclose the complete facts. If the duration of the precedent interest is dependent upon the life of any person the application must show the date of birth of such person.

As a prerequisite to the postponement of the payment of the tax attributable to a reversionary or remainder interest, a bond must be furnished in such an amount (at least double the amount of the tax and interest for the estimated duration of the precedent interest), and with such sureties as the Commissioner deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of the tax and interest accrued thereon within six months after the termination of the precedent interest. In case the duration of the precedent interest is dependent upon the life or lives of any person or persons, or is otherwise indefinite, the bond must be further conditioned upon the principal or surety promptly notifying the Commissioner when such precedent interest terminates and upon the principal or surety notifying the Commissioner during the month of September of each year as to the continuance of the precedent interest. If after the acceptance of a bond it is determined that the amount of the tax attributable to the reversionary or remainder interest was understated in the bond, a new bond or a supplemental bond may be required, or such tax to the extent of the understatement may be collected.

If the decedent's gross estate consists of both a reversionary or remainder interest in property and other property, the tax attributable to the reversionary or remainder interest, within the meaning of section 305 (e) and this article, is an amount which bears the same ratio to the total tax which the value of the reversionary or remainder interests bears to the entire gross estate, subject to the following qualification: In determining the ratio, the value of the reversionary or remainder interest should be reduced by (1) the amount of claims, mortgages, and indebtedness which is a lien upon such interest; (2) losses in respect of such interest during the settlement of the estate which are deductible under the provisions of subdivisions (a) (1) and (b) (1) of section 303; (3) any amount in respect of such interest identified as previously taxed property under the provisions of subdivisions (a) (2) and (b) (2) of section 303; (4) any amount deductible on account of devises or bequests of such interests to charitable, etc., uses as described in subdivisions (a) (3) and (b) (3) of section 303. In determining the ratio, the gross estate should likewise be reduced by such deductions having similar relationship to items in the gross estate other than the remainder or reversionary interest.

If the time for payment of the Federal estate tax attributable to a reversionary or remainder interest in property is postponed, all estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes allowable as a credit under the provisions of section 301 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended, which are paid and for which credit is claimed within the period provided in such section, will be allowed not to exceed 80 per cent, respectively, of that portion of the Federal estate tax attributable to such interest and to that portion attributable to the other property, and will be applied first to the respective portion of the Federal estate tax which is attributable to the same interests in property to which the estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes are attributable. Estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes, as described in section 301 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended, which are attributable to the reversionary or remainder interest and which are paid and for which credit is claimed after the expiration of the period provided in section 301 (c) will also be allowed as a credit against the Federal estate tax attributable to such interest (limited by the requirement that the total credit may not exceed 80 per cent of the total Federal estate tax) if such taxes are paid and credit therefor is claimed prior to the expiration of 60 days after the termination of the preceding interest or interests in the property.

Example: The Federal estate tax attributable to the reversionary or remainder interest is $5,000, and that attributable to all other property is $10,000. The estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes paid to the State within the 4-year period are $9,000, all attributable to property other than the reversionary or remainder interest. Of this $9,000, the maximum of $8,000 is credited against the Federal estate tax of $10,000 attributable to property other than the reversionary or remainder interest, and the balance of $1,000 is credited to the Federal estate tax attributable to the reversionary interest. Accordingly, the estate will be required to pay $2,000 (Federal estate tax of $10,000 attributable to property other than the reversionary or remainder interest, minus the credit of $8,000) at once, and an extension will be allowed for payment of $4,000 (Federal estate tax of $5,000 attributable to the reversionary interest, minus credit of $1,000). After expiration of the 4-year period, but before expiration of 60 days after termination of the life estate or precedent interest, the estate pays additional State estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes of $5,000 attributable to the reversionary or remainder interest. As the maximum credit is $12,000 (80 per cent of $15,000, the total Federal estate tax) and $9,000 has already been allowed, there will be an additional allowance of $3,000, and the estate will be required to pay $1,000 at the end of the extension period.

If any estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes are imposed by any of the several States, Territories, or the District of Columbia upon a reversionary or a remainder interest in property and other property, without definitely apportioning the tax between such classes of property, for the purposes of this article the amount of such estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes which will be deemed to be attributable to the reversionary or remainder interest will be an amount which bears the same ratio to the total of such taxes as the value of such property bears to the value of the decedent's entire estate upon which the estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession tax was imposed. In determining the ratio, reduction will be made in the value of the reversionary or remainder interest and the value of the gross estate as previously provided in this article for determining the Federal estate tax attributable to the reversionary or remainder interest.

If any part of the tax was paid prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1932, and the gross estate consists of both a reversionary or remainder interest and other property, the portion of the tax so paid attributable to the reversionary or remainder interest is an amount which bears the same ratio to the total tax so paid which the entire tax attributable to the remainder or reversionary interest, computed as provided in this article, bears to the total tax.

The amount of tax the payment of which is postponed under the provisions of section 305 (c) bears interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum from 18 months after the date of the decedent's death until such amount is paid. (See article 84 (b).)

ART. 83. Extension of time for payment of deficiency tax.—In any case in which the Commissioner finds that payment of the deficiency tax upon the date prescribed for the payment thereof would impose undue hardship upon the estate, an extension or extensions of time will be granted for payment, with the approval of the Secretary, for a period not to exceed in all four years from the date prescribed for the payment of the deficiency. Extension of time for such payment will be granted only in exceptional cases and those in which it is evident that payment on or before the date prescribed for payment of the deficiency would impose undue hardship. This provision applies to all estates, regardless of the date of the decedents' death.

What constitutes "undue hardship" depends upon the facts in the particular case. No extension will be granted where the deficiency is due to negligence or intentional disregard of the rules and regulations, or to fraud with intent to evade the tax.

Any application for an extension of time for the payment of a deficiency must be in writing and must contain, or be supported by, information under oath showing wherein undue hardship would result if the extension were refused.

As a condition to the granting of such an extension the Commissioner may require that a penal bond be furnished in an amount not exceeding double the amount of the deficiency. If a bond is to be furnished it must be filed with the collector within 10 days after notification by the Commissioner that such bond is required, and shall be conditioned upon the payment of the deficiency in accordance with the terms of the extension granted, including interest upon the deficiency, as prescribed by the statute (see article 85), until the deficiency is paid, and shall be executed by a surety or sureties and shall be subject to the approval of the Commissioner. In lieu of such surety or sureties, the bond may be secured by the deposit of bonds or notes of the United States, any public debt obligations of the United States, or any bonds, notes, or other obligations which are unconditionally guaranteed as to both interest and principal by the United States, equal in their total par value to the amount of such bond. (See section 1126 of the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended by section 7 of the Act of February 4, 1935, U. S. C., 1934 edition, Sup. II, Title 6, section 15.) No single extension for more than one year will be granted. Application for extension of time for payment should be filed with the collector. The collector will refer the application to the Commissioner with suitable recommendations.

Application for extension of time for payment of a deficiency must be made on or before the date prescribed for payment thereof, as shown by the notice and demand from the collector. If the executor desires to obtain an additional extension, the application therefor must be filed with the collector on or before the date of the expiration of the previous extension.

An extension of time to pay the deficiency will not operate to prevent the running of interest. (See article 85.) An extension of time to pay the deficiency may extend the period within which taxes allowed as a credit by section 301 (c) are required to be paid and the credit therefor claimed. (See article 9.) The running of the statute of limitations for assessment and collection, as provided in sections 310 (a) and 311 (b), is suspended for the period of the extension. (See articles 77 and 105.) No extension of time for paying a deficiency will be granted until after the assessment thereof and notice and demand for payment has been made by the collector.

The granting of an extension of time for paying the deficiency is discretionary with the Commissioner and the Secretary, and such authority will be exercised under such conditions as may be deemed advisable.

Interest on Tax

SEC. 305. * * * (c) (as amended by section 203 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1935). If the time for the payment is thus extended there shall be collected, as a part of such amount, interest thereon at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from the expiration of three months after the due date of the tax to the expiration of the period of the extension. * * *

NOTE.—Section 305 (c) was amended by section 203 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1935 by substituting "three months" for "six months". Section 203 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1935 reads as follows:

"The amendments made by this section shall be effective only with respect to transfers of estates of decedents dying after the date of the enactment of this Act."

(e) (as added by section 811 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932). Where there is included in the value of the gross estate the value of a reversionary or remainder interest in property, the payment of the part of the tax imposed by this title attributable to such interest may, at the election of the executor, be postponed until six months after the termination of the precedent interest or interests in the property, and the amount the payment of which is so postponed shall then be payable, together with interest thereon at the rate of 4 per centum per annum from eighteen months after the date of the decedent's death until such amount is paid. * * *

SEC. 308. * * * (h) Interest upon the amount determined as a deficiency shall be assessed at the same time as the deficiency, shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector, and shall be collected as a part of the tax, at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from the due date of the tax to the date the deficiency is assessed, or, in the case of a waiver under subdivision (d) of this section, to the thirtieth day after the filing of such waiver or to the date the deficiency is assessed whichever is the earlier.

(i) (as amended by section 808 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1932) Where it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that the payment of a deficiency upon the date prescribed for the payment thereof will result in undue hardship to the estate, the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary (except where the deficiency is due to negligence, to intentional disregard of rules and regulations, or to fraud with intent to evade tax), may grant an extension for the payment of such deficiency or any part thereof for a period not in excess of four years. If an extension is granted, the Commissioner may require the executor to furnish a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount of the deficiency, and with such sureties as the Commissioner deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of the deficiency in accordance with the terms of the extension. In such case the running of the statute of limitations for assessment and collection, as provided in sections 310 (a) and 311 (b), shall be suspended for the period of any such extension, and there shall be collected, as a part of the tax interest on the part of the deficiency the time for payment of which is so extended, at the rate of 6 per centum per annum for the period of the extension, and no other interest shall be collected on such part of the deficiency for such period. If the part of the deficiency the time for payment of which is so extended is not paid in accordance with the terms of the extension, there shall be collected, as a part of the tax, interest on such unpaid amount at the rate of 1 per centum a month for the period from the time fixed by the terms of the extension for its payment until it is paid, and no other interest shall be collected on such unpaid amount for such period.

NOTE.—Section 404 of the Revenue Act of 1935 had the effect of changing the rate of interest of 1 per centum a month provided in the above subdivision to 6 per centum per annum for any period after August 30, 1935. Such section 404 reads as follows:

"Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, interest accruing during any period of time after the date of the enactment of this Act upon any internal-revenue tax (including amounts assessed or collected as a part thereof) or customs duty, not paid when due, shall be at the rate of 6 per centum per annum."

(j) The 50 per centum addition to the tax provided by section 3176 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, shall, when assessed after the enactment of this Act in connection with an estate tax, be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner as if it were a deficiency, except that the provisions of subdivision (h) of this section shall not be applicable.

SEC. 309. (a) (1) Where the amount determined by the executor as the tax imposed by this title, or any part of such amount, is not paid on the due date of the tax, there shall be collected as a part of the tax, interest upon such unpaid amount at the rate of 1 per centum a month from the due date until it is paid.

(2) Where an extension of time for payment of the amount so determined as the tax by the executor has been granted, and the amount the time for payment of which has been extended, and the interest thereon determined under subdivision (c) of section 305, is not paid in full prior to the expiration of the period of the extension, then, in lieu of the interest provided for in paragraph (1) of this subdivision, interest at the rate of 1 per centum a month shall be collected on such unpaid amount from the date of the expiration of the period of the extension until it is paid.

NOTE.—See note under section 308 (i).

(b) Where a deficiency, or any interest assessed in connection therewith under subdivision (h) of section 308, or any addition to the tax provided for in section 3176 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, is not paid in full within 30 days from the date of notice and demand from the collector, there shall be collected as part of the tax, interest upon the unpaid amount at the rate of 1 per centum a month from the date of such notice and demand until it is paid.

NOTE.—See note under section 308 (i).

(c) If a bond is filed, as provided in section 312, the provisions of subdivision (b) of this section shall not apply to the amount covered by the bond.

SEC. 312. * * * (f) When a jeopardy assessment has been made the executor, within 30 days after notice and demand from the collector for the payment of the amount of the assessment, may obtain a stay of collection of the whole or any part of the amount of the assessment by filing with the collector a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount as to which the stay is desired, and with such sureties, as the collector deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of so much of the amount, the collection of which is stayed by the bond, as is not abated by a decision of the Board which has become final, together with interest thereon as provided in subdivision (j) of this section.

(g) If the bond is given before the executor has filed his petition with the Board under subdivision (a) of section 308, the bond shall contain a further condition that if a petition is not filed within the period provided in such subdivision, then the amount the collection of which is stayed by the bond will be paid on notice and demand at any time after the expiration of such period, together with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from the date of the jeopardy notice and demand to the date of notice and demand under this subdivision. * * *

(l) When the petition has been filed with the Board and when the amount which should have been assessed has been determined by a decision of the Board which has become final, then any unpaid portion, the collection of which has been stayed by the bond, shall be collected as part of the tax upon notice and demand from the collector, and any remaining portion of the assessment shall be abated. If the amount already collected exceeds the amount determined as the amount which should have been assessed, such excess shall be refunded. If the amount determined as the amount which should have been assessed is greater than the amount actually assessed, then the difference shall be assessed and shall be collected as part of the tax upon notice and demand from the collector.

(j) In the case of the amount collected under subdivision (l) there shall be collected at the same time as such amount, and as a part of the tax, interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum upon such amount from the date of the jeopardy notice and demand to the date of notice and demand under subdivision (l) of this section, or, in the case of the amount collected in excess of the amount of the jeopardy assessment, interest as provided in subdivision (h) of section 308. If the amount included in the notice and demand from the collector under subdivision (l) of this section is not paid in full within 30 days after such notice and demand, then there shall be collected, as part of the tax, interest upon the unpaid amount at the rate of 1 per centum a month from the date of such notice and demand until it is paid.

NOTE.—See note under section 308 (i).

ART. 84. (a) Interest on tax shown on return.—If any portion of the tax shown on the executor's return is not paid on or before the due date, and no extension of time for payment thereof has been granted, such unpaid portion bears interest from the due date until payment is received by the collector at the rate of 6 per cent per annum (except that during any part of such period of time prior to August 31, 1935, interest accrues at the rate of 1 per cent a month).

If an extension of time has been granted for paying any portion of the tax shown on the executor's return, in accordance with article 82 (a), interest accrues thereon at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the expiration of 18 months after the decedent's death to the expiration of the period of the extension. If the amount of the tax, the time for payment of which has been extended, together with any interest accrued thereon, is not paid in full on or before that date of the expiration of the extension, the total unpaid amount (tax and any accrued interest) bears interest from the expiration of the extension until payment is received by the collector at the rate of 6 per cent per annum (except that during any part of such period of time prior to August 31, 1935, interest accrues at the rate of 1 per cent a month).

Interest at 6 per cent per annum is computed on the basis of 365 days to the year, or 366 days in a leap year. Interest at the rate of 1 per cent a month is computed on the basis of a calendar month, i. e., a period (save one beginning on the first day of a calendar month) terminating with the day of the succeeding calendar month numerically corresponding with the day preceding the beginning of the period. If there is no corresponding day of the succeeding calendar month, the last day of such succeeding month is the last day of the period. If interest at the rate of 1 per cent a month is to be computed for one or more months and a fraction of a month, it should be computed for the number of whole months, and then for the fraction upon the basis of the number of days of the calendar month in which the first day of the fraction falls. Thus, for example, a period beginning with February 14 and ending on March 13, is one month, and a period beginning with February 14 and ending on March 11, is twenty-six twenty-eighths of a month, except that if the year be a leap year the period is twenty-seven twenty-ninths of a month.

(b) Interest on tax attributable to a reversionary or remainder interest.—If the time for the payment of the tax attributable to a reversionary or remainder interest is postponed in accordance with the provisions of section 305 (e), as added by section 811 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932, the amount the payment of which is so postponed will bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum from 18 months after the date of the decedent's death until such amount is paid. However, if the amount of the tax, the time for payment of which is so postponed, together with interest accrued thereon, is not paid in full on or before the date of the expiration of the period of the postponement (six months after the termination of the precedent interest or interests in the property), the unpaid amount bears interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the date of the expiration of the period of the postponement until payment is received by the collector.

ART. 85. Interest on deficiency tax.—The statute provides that any deficiency shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the due date for payment of the tax (15 months after the date of death if the decedent died on or after August 31, 1935, or 1 year after the date of death if the decedent died before August 31, 1935) to the date the deficiency is assessed, except in the case of a waiver of the restrictions against the assessment and collection of the deficiency, and that such interest shall be assessed at the same time as the deficiency of which it becomes an integral part. The deficiency in respect to which the restrictions against the assessment and collection are waived under section 308 (d) bears interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the due date of the tax to the thirtieth day after the filing of such waiver or to the date the deficiency is assessed, whichever is the earlier. The term "deficiency" includes any tax resulting from the correction of a mathematical error appearing upon the face of a return. (See second paragraph of article 77.)

If any portion of the deficiency assessed is not paid within 30 days from the date of the notice and demand issued by the collector (except a deficiency or any part thereof with respect to which a jeopardy assessment is made and collection is stayed by the filing of a bond), and no extension of time for payment thereof has been granted, such unpaid portion bears interest from the date of the notice and demand until payment is received by the collector at the rate of 6 per cent per annum (except that during any part of such period of time prior to August 31, 1935, interest accrues at the rate of 1 per cent a month).

If an extension of time is granted for paying any portion of the deficiency assessed, in accordance with article 83, interest accrues thereon at the rate of 6 per cent per annum for the period of the extension, i. e., from the date prescribed for the payment (30 days after the date of the notice and demand) to the expiration of the period of the extension. If the amount of the deficiency, the time for payment of which has been extended, together with interest accrued thereon, is not paid in full on or before the date of the expiration of the extension, the total unpaid amount (tax, interest and any addition thereto) bears interest from the expiration of the extension until payment is received by the collector at the rate of 6 per cent per annum (except that during any part of such period of time prior to August 31, 1935, interest accrues at the rate of 1 per cent a month).

Any addition to the tax resulting from the imposition of an ad valorem penalty under the provisions of section 3176, Revised Statutes, as amended, or section 406 of the Revenue Act of 1935, is subject to the same provisions of law relating to the assessment, collection, and the accrual of interest, as the deficiency tax, except that such addition to the tax is not subject to any interest between the due date for payment of the tax (15 months after the date of death if the decedent died on or after August 31, 1935, or 1 year after the date of death if the decedent died before August 31, 1935) and the date of the assessment thereof.

If a stay of the collection of a jeopardy assessment of a deficiency tax, or any addition to the tax resulting from the imposition of an ad valorem penalty, is obtained and a petition for a redetermination of the deficiency is filed with the Board of Tax Appeals, interest accrues on such unpaid portion of the deficiency or penalty, if any, determined by a decision of the Board which is made final, at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the date of the notice and demand from the collector following the jeopardy assessment to the date of the notice and demand by the collector subsequent to the final action taken on the petition filed with the Board. If the amount which the Board determines should have been assessed is not paid in full within 30 days from the date of such notice and demand issued subsequent to the decision of the Board which has become final, interest accrues upon the unpaid amount from the date of such notice and demand until it is paid at the rate of 6 per cent per annum (except that during any part of such period of time prior to August 31, 1935, interest accrues at the rate of 1 per cent a month). If the amount (exclusive of any ad valorem penalty) determined by the Board as the amount which should be assessed is greater than the amount actually assessed the difference bears interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the due date of the tax until assessment of such difference. If the collection of the jeopardy assessment is stayed, and no petition is filed with the Board for a redetermination of the deficiency, interest accrues upon the deficiency so assessed at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the date of the jeopardy notice and demand to the date of the notice and demand made by the collector after the expiration of the 90 days from the mailing by the Commissioner of the notice of the deficiency. If such amount is not paid within 30 days from the date of such further notice and demand, interest accrues upon the unpaid amount from the date of such further notice and demand until it is paid at the rate of 6 per cent per annum (except that during any part of such period of time prior to August 31, 1935, interest accrues at the rate of 1 per cent a month).

For method of computing interest at 6 per cent per annum or at 1 per cent a month see last paragraph of article 84 (a).

Collection of Tax

SEC. 314. (a) If the tax herein imposed is not paid on or before the due date thereof the collector shall, upon instruction from the Commissioner, proceed to collect the tax under the provisions of general law, or commence appropriate proceedings in any court of the United States having jurisdiction, in the name of the United States, to subject the property of the decedent to be sold under the judgment or decree of the court. From the proceeds of such sale the amount of the tax, together with the costs and expenses of every description to be allowed by the court, shall be first paid, and the balance shall be deposited according to the order of the court, to be paid under its direction to the person entitled thereto. This subdivision in so far as it applies to the collection of a deficiency shall be subject to the provisions of section 308.

ART. 86. Remedy not exclusive.—The remedy by action, here provided, is not exclusive. For other available remedies for the collection of the tax, see article 105.

Reimbursement

SEC. 314. • • • (b) If the tax or any part thereof is paid by, or collected out of that part of the estate passing to or in the possession of, any person other than the executor in his capacity as such, such person shall be entitled to reimbursement out of any part of the estate still undistributed or by a just and equitable contribution by the persons whose interest in the estate of the decedent would have been reduced if the tax had been paid before the distribution of the estate or whose interest is subject to equal or prior liability for the payment of taxes, debts, or other charges against the estate, it being the purpose and intent of this title that so far as is practicable and unless otherwise directed by the will of the decedent the tax shall be paid out of the estate before its distribution. If any part of the gross estate consists of proceeds of policies of insurance upon the life of the decedent receivable by a beneficiary other than the executor, the executor shall be entitled to recover from such beneficiary such portion of the total tax paid as the proceeds, in excess of $40,000, of such policies bear to the net estate. If there is more than one such beneficiary the executor shall be entitled to recover from such beneficiaries in the same ratio.

ART. 87. Right to reimbursement not enforceable by Commissioner.—If any portion of the tax is paid by or collected out of that part of the estate passing to, or in the possession of, any person other than the duly qualified executor or administrator, such person may be entitled to reimbursement, either out of the undistributed estate or by contribution from other beneficiaries whose shares or interests in the estate would have been reduced had the tax been paid before distribution of the estate, or whose shares or interests are subject either to an equal or prior liability for the payment of taxes, debts, or other charges against the estate. The executor is entitled to require beneficiaries under insurance policies to bear their proportion of the tax. These provisions, however, are not designed to curtail the right of the Commissioner to collect the tax from any person, or out of any property, liable therefor. The Commissioner can not be required to apportion the tax among the persons liable, nor to enforce any right to reimbursement or contribution.

Lien

SEC. 315 (as amended by section 613 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1928, and as further amended by section 803 (c) and section 809 of the Revenue Act of 1932).

(a) Unless the tax is sooner paid in full, it shall be a lien for ten years upon the gross estate of the decedent, except that such part of the gross estate as is used for the payment of charges against the estate and expenses of its administration, allowed by any court having jurisdiction thereof, shall be divested of such lien. If the Commissioner is satisfied that the tax liability of an estate has been fully discharged or provided for, he may, under regulations prescribed by him with the approval of the Secretary, issue his certificate, releasing any or all property of such estate from the lien herein imposed.

(b) If (1) except in the case of a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, the decedent makes a transfer, by trust or otherwise, of any property in contemplation of or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death, or makes a transfer, by trust or otherwise, under which he has retained for his life or for any period not ascertainable without reference to his death or for any period which does not in fact end before his death (A) the possession or enjoyment of, or the right to the income from, the property, or (B) the right, either alone or in conjunction with any person, to designate the persons who shall possess or enjoy the property or the income therefrom, or (2) if insurance passes under a contract executed by the decedent in favor of a specific beneficiary, and if in either case the tax in respect thereto is not paid when due, then the transferee, trustee, or beneficiary shall be personally liable for such tax, and such property, to the extent of the decedent's interest therein at the time of such transfer, or to the extent of such beneficiary's interest under such contract of insurance, shall be subject to a like lien equal to the amount of such tax. Any part of such property sold by such transferee or trustee to a bona fide purchaser for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth shall be divested of the lien and a like lien shall then attach to all the property of such transferee or trustee, except any part sold to a bona fide purchaser for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth.

SEC. 313. • • • (b) If the executor makes written application to the Commissioner for determination of the amount of the tax and discharge from personal liability therefor, the Commissioner (as soon as possible, and in any event within one year after the making of such application, or, if the application is made before the return is filed, then within one year after the return is filed, but not after the expiration of the period prescribed for the assessment of the tax in section 310) shall notify the executor of the amount of the tax. The executor, upon payment of the amount of which he is notified, shall be discharged from personal liability for any deficiency in tax thereafter found to be due and shall be entitled to a receipt or writing showing such discharge.

(c) The provisions of subdivision (b) shall not operate as a release of any part of the gross estate from the lien for any deficiency that may thereafter be determined to be due, unless the title to such part of the gross estate has passed to a bona fide purchaser for value, in which case such part shall not be subject to a lien or to any claim or demand for any such deficiency, but the lien shall attach to the consideration received from such purchaser by the heirs, legatees, devisees, or distributees.

ART. 88. Property subject to lien.—The lien imposed by section 315 attaches at the date of the decedent's death to every part of the gross estate, whether or not the property comes into the possession of the duly qualified executor or administrator. It attaches to the extent of the tax shown to be due by the return and of any deficiency tax found to be due upon review and audit.

The lien upon the entire property constituting the gross estate continues for a period of 10 years after the decedent's death, except—

(1) If the tax is paid in full before the expiration of such period.

(2) Such portion of the gross estate as is used for the payment of charges against the estate and expenses of its administration allowed by any court having jurisdiction thereof.

(3) Such portion of the gross estate as has passed to a bona fide purchaser for value after payment of the full amount of tax determined by the Commissioner pursuant to a request of the executor for discharge from personal liability, as authorized by section 313 (b) and (c) (see article 67), but there is substituted a like lien upon the consideration received from such purchaser by the heirs, legatees, devisees, or distributees.

(4) Such property as was received from the decedent as a transfer by trust or otherwise in contemplation of or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death, or under which he has retained for his life or for any period not ascertainable without reference to his death or for any period which does not in fact end before his death (A) the possession or enjoyment of, or the right to the income from, the property, or (B) the right, either alone or in conjunction with any person, to designate the persons who shall possess or enjoy the property or the income therefrom (except in case the transfer was a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth), and was sold by the transferee to a bona fide purchaser for such a consideration. In such case the lien attaches to all the property of the transferee except such thereof as may be sold to a bona fide purchaser for such a consideration.

(5) If a certificate releasing such lien is issued. (See article 89.)

ART. 89. Release of lien.—The statute provides that if the Commissioner is satisfied that the tax liability of an estate has been fully discharged or provided for, he may issue his certificate releasing any or all property of the estate from the lien. The issuance of certificates releasing such lien is a matter resting within the discretion of the Commissioner, and certificates will be issued only in case there is actual need therefor. The primary purpose of such release is not to evidence payment or satisfaction of the tax, but to permit the transfer of property free from the lien in case it is necessary to clear title. Receipts for payment of the tax are issued by the collector.

If the tax liability has been fully discharged a certificate may be issued releasing the lien as to any or all property of the estate. If the tax liability has not been fully discharged, no general release of all property of the estate will be granted but certificates releasing the lien upon particular items of property may be issued by the Commissioner who may require as a prerequisite, in such an amount as he may designate, a partial payment of tax or the furnishing of an indemnity bond with such surety or sureties as he deems necessary. In lieu of such surety or sureties, the bond may be secured by the deposit of bonds or notes of the United States, any public debt obligations of the United States, or any bonds, notes, or other obligations which are unconditionally guaranteed as to both interest and principal by the United States, equal in their total par value to the amount of such bond. (See section 1126 of the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended by section 7 of the Act of February 4, 1935, U. S. C., 1934 edition, Sup. II, Title 6, section 15.) The tax will be considered fully discharged only when investigation has been completed and payment of the tax, including any deficiency finally determined, has been made.

The application for a release should be filed with the Commissioner and should explain the circumstances that require the release, fully describe the particular items for which the release is desired, and show the applicant's relationship to the estate, such as executor, heir, devisee, legatee, beneficiary, transferee, or purchaser. If the return, Form 706, has not been filed, an affidavit may be required showing the value of the property to be released, the basis for such valuation, the approximate value of the gross estate, the approximate value of the total real property included in the gross estate, and in case the property is to be sold or transferred, the name and address of the purchaser or transferee and the consideration to be received.

Penalties

SEC. 320. (a) Whoever knowingly makes any false statement in any notice or return required to be filed under this title shall be liable to a penalty of not exceeding $5,000, or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both.

(b) Whoever fails to comply with any duty imposed upon him by section 304, or, having in his possession or control any record, file, or paper, containing or supposed to contain any information concerning the estate of the decedent, or, having in his possession or control any property comprised in the gross estate of the decedent, fails to exhibit the same upon request to the Commissioner or any collector or law officer of the United States or his duly authorized deputy or agent, who desires to examine the same in the performance of his duties under this title, shall be liable to a penalty of not exceeding $500, to be recovered, with costs of suit, in a civil action in the name of the United States.

SEC. 1114. (a) Any person required under this Act to pay any tax, or required by law or regulations made under authority thereof to make a return, keep any records, or supply any information, for the purposes of the computation, assessment, or collection of any tax imposed by this Act who willfully fails to pay such tax, make such return, keep such records, or supply such information, at the time or times required by law or regulations, shall in addition to other penalties provided by law, be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both, together with the costs of prosecution.

(b) Any person required under this Act to collect, account for and pay over any tax imposed by this Act, who willfully fails to collect or truthfully account for and pay over such tax, and any person who willfully attempts in any manner to evade or defeat any tax imposed by this Act or the payment thereof, shall, in addition to other penalties provided by law, be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both, together with the costs of prosecution.

(c) Any person who willfully aids or assists in, or procures, counsels, or advises, the preparation or presentation under, or in connection with any matter arising under, the internal-revenue laws, of a false or fraudulent return, affidavit, claim, or document, shall (whether or not such falsity or fraud is with the knowledge or consent of the person authorized or required to present such return, affidavit, claim, or document) be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both, together with the costs of prosecution.

(e) Any person in possession of property, or rights to property subject to distraint, upon which a levy has been made, shall, upon demand by the collector or deputy collector making such levy, surrender such property or rights to such collector or deputy, unless such property or right is, at the time of such demand, subject to an attachment or execution under any judicial process. Any person who fails or refuses to so surrender any of such property or rights shall be liable in his own person and estate to the United States in a sum equal to the value of the property or rights not so surrendered, but not exceeding the amount of the taxes (including penalties and interest) for the collection of which such levy has been made, together with costs and interest from the date of such levy.

(f) The term "person" as used in this section includes an officer or employee of a corporation or a member or employee of a partnership, who as such officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.

SEC. 3176. Revised Statutes (as amended by section 1103 of the Revenue Act of 1926 [U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 26, section 1512 (d) and (e)]). * * * In case of any failure to make and file a return or list within the time prescribed by law, or prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue or the collector in pursuance of law, the Commissioner shall add to the tax 25 per centum of its amount, except that when a return is filed after such time and it is shown that the failure to file it was due to a reasonable cause and not to willful neglect, no such addition shall be made to the tax. In case a false or fraudulent return or list is willfully made, the Commissioner shall add to the tax 50 per centum of its amount.

The amount so added to any tax shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner and as a part of the tax unless the tax has been paid before the discovery of the neglect, falsity, or fraud, in which case the amount so added shall be collected in the same manner as the tax.

SEC. 406. Revenue Act of 1935.

In the case of a failure to make and file an internal-revenue tax return required by law, within the time prescribed by law or prescribed by the Commissioner in pursuance of law, if the last date so prescribed for filing the return is after the date of the enactment of this Act, if a 25 per centum addition to the tax is prescribed by existing law, then there shall be added to the tax, in lieu of such 25 per centum: 5 per centum if the failure is for not more than 30 days, with an addftional 5 per centum for each additional 30 days or fraction thereof during which failure continues, not to exceed 25 per centum in the aggregate.

SEC. 616. Revenue Act of 1928.

Any person who, in connection with any compromise under section 3229 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, or offer of such compromise, or in connection with any closing agreement under section 606 of this Act, or offer to enter into any such agreement, willfully (1) conceals from any officer or employee of the United States any property belonging to the estate of a taxpayer or other person liable in respect of the tax, or (2) receives, destroys, mutilates, or falsifies any book, document, or record, or makes under oath any false statement, relating to the estate or financial condition of the taxpayer or other person liable in respect of the tax, shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

SEC. 403. Revenue Act of 1932.

Except as provided in section 402, the tax imposed by section 401 of this Act shall be assessed, collected, and paid, in the same manner, and shall be subject to the same provisions of law (including penalties), as the tax imposed by section 301 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1926. * * *.

ART. 90. Nature of penalties.—Two kinds of penalties are provided for delinquency with respect to the duties imposed by the statute:

(1) A specific penalty, to be recovered by suit, unless previously paid or adjusted by the acceptance of an offer in compromise; and

(2) A penalty of a certain percentage of the tax, to be added to and collected in the same manner as the tax.

In any case in which more than one penalty is provided the Government may assert any one or more thereof.

ART. 91. Penalties for false or fraudulent notice or return.—In the case any statement in the notice or return is knowingly false, the person making it is subject to a penalty not exceeding $5,000, or imprisonment for not exceeding one year, or both, and for a false or fraudulent return, 50 per cent will be added to the amount of the tax. Any person required to file any notice or make a return who willfully fails to do so at the time required shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both, together with the costs of prosecution.

Any person who willfully aids or assists in the preparation or presentation of a false or fraudulent notice or return, or procures, counsels, or advises the preparation or presentation of such a notice or return, whether such falsity or fraud is with or without the knowledge or consent of the person required to make the notice or return, will be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction thereof, fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both, together with the costs of prosecution.

ART. 92. Penalty for failure to give notice or make and file return.—For failure to give the notice or make and file the return within the time prescribed, the person in default is subject to a penalty not exceeding $500.

For failure to make and file the return within the time prescribed by the Commissioner, or within an extension of time granted by the Commissioner or the collector, 5 per cent will be added to the tax if the failure is for not more than 30 days, with an additional 5 per cent for each 30 days or fraction thereof during which failure continues, not to exceed 25 per cent in the aggregate, except that if the last date allowed for filing the return is on or before August 30, 1935, 25 per cent will be added to the tax, and except that if the return is filed after the time allowed and it is shown that the failure to file within the time so allowed was due to a reasonable cause and not to willful neglect, no such addition will be made to the tax.

ART. 93. Penalty for failure to pay tax, exhibit property, keep or exhibit records, etc., and for concealment of assets.—Any person in possession or control of any record, file, or paper, containing or supposed to contain information relating to the estate, or having in his possession or control property comprised in the gross estate of the decedent, who fails to exhibit the same upon the request of the Commissioner or any collector or law officer of the United States, or his duly authorized deputy or agent, in the performance of his duties, or having knowledge or information of any fact or facts of a material bearing upon the liability, or the extent of liability, of the estate to the tax, who fails to make disclosure thereof upon request of the Commissioner or any revenue agent or inspector designated by him for that purpose, is liable to a penalty not to exceed $500, to be recovered by civil action. Such a request must be granted whether or not he believes that a compliance therewith is material.

Any person required to pay the tax, keep any records, or supply any information, for the purpose of the computation, assessment, or collection of the tax, who willfully fails to pay such tax, keep such records, or supply such information, as required by the law or regulations, shall, in addition to other penalties, be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both, together with the costs of prosecution.

Any person who willfully attempts in any manner to evade or defeat the tax or the payment thereof, shall, in addition to other penalties, be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both, together with the costs of prosecution.

Any person who in connection with any compromise entered into or offer made under the provisions of section 3229 of the Revised Statutes as amended, or, who in connection with any closing agreement under section 606 of the Revenue Act of 1928, or the offer to enter into any such agreement, willfully conceals from any officer or employee of the United States any property belonging to the estate or any person liable in respect of the tax, or receives, destroys, mutilates, or falsifies any book, document, or record, or makes under oath any false statement, relating to the estate or its value or the financial condition of any person liable in respect of the tax, shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

ART. 94. Penalty for assisting, procuring, or advising the preparation or presentation of false or fraudulent documents.—Any person who willfully aids or assists in, or procures, counsels, or advises, the preparation or presentation under, or in connection with any matter arising under, the internal revenue laws, of a false or fraudulent affidavit, claim, or document, shall, whether or not such falsity or fraud is with the knowledge or consent of the person authorized or required to present such affidavit, claim, or document, be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both, together with the costs of prosecution.

Abatement and Stay of Collection of Jeopardy Assessment

SEC. 312. * * * (f) When a jeopardy assessment has been made the executor, within 30 days after notice and demand from the collector for the payment of the amount of the assessment, may obtain a stay of collection of the whole or any part of the amount of the assessment by filing with the collector a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount as to which the stay is desired, and with such sureties, as the collector deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of so much of the amount, the collection of which is stayed by the bond, as is not abated by a decision of the Board which has become final, together with interest thereon as provided in subdivision (j) of this section.

(g) If the bond is given before the executor has filed his petition with the Board under subdivision (a) of section 308, the bond shall contain a further condition that if a petition is not filed within the period provided in such subdivision, then the amount the collection of which is stayed by the bond will be paid on notice and demand at any time after the expiration of such period, together with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from the date of the jeopardy notice and demand to the date of notice and demand under this subdivision.

(h) Upon the filing of the bond the collection of so much of the amount assessed as is covered by the bond shall be stayed. The executor shall have the right to waive such stay at any time in respect of the whole or any part of the amount covered by the bond, and if as a result of such waiver any part of the amount covered by the bond is paid, then the bond shall, at the request of the executor, be proportionately reduced. If the Board determines that the amount assessed is greater than the amount which should have been assessed, then when the decision of the Board is rendered the bond shall, at the request of the executor, be proportionately reduced.

(i) When the petition has been filed with the Board and when the amount which should have been assessed has been determined by a decision of the Board which has become final, then any unpaid portion, the collection of which has been stayed by the bond, shall be collected as part of the tax upon notice and demand from the collector, and any remaining portion of the assessment shall be abated. If the amount already collected exceeds the amount determined as the amount which should have been assessed, such excess shall be refunded. If the amount determined as the amount which should have been assessed is greater than the amount actually assessed, then the difference shall be assessed and shall be collected as part of the tax upon notice and demand from the collector. * * *

(k) No claim in abatement shall be filed in respect of any assessment made after the enactment of this Act in respect of any estate * * * tax.

ART. 95. Claim for abatement.—No claim for abatement may be filed in respect of any assessment made after the effective date of the Revenue Act of 1926. The amount of any assessment directed to be abated by the statute as the result of a decision of the Board of Tax Appeals which has become final and all overassessments determined as a result of audit or examination of returns will be abated by the Commissioner without action on the part of the executor.

ART. 96. Collection of jeopardy assessment stayed by filing bond.—If a jeopardy assessment has been made, the executor, within 30 days after notice and demand from the collector for payment of the amount of the jeopardy assessment may obtain a stay of collection of the whole, or any part, of the amount of such assessment by filing with the collector a bond in such amount not exceeding double the amount as to which the stay is desired, and with such sureties as the collector deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of so much of the amount, the collection of which is stayed by the bond, as is not abated as a result of a decision of the Board which has become final, together with the interest thereon, as provided in the statute. (See article 85.) In lieu of such sureties, the bond may be secured by the deposit of bonds or notes of the United States, any public debt obligations of the United States, or any bonds, notes, or other obligations which are unconditionally guaranteed as to both interest and principal by the United States, equal in their total par value to the amount of such bond. (See section 1126 of the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended by section 7 of the Act of February 4, 1935, U. S. C., 1934 edition, Sup. II, Title 6, section 15.) The petition with the Board of Tax Appeals for redetermination of the deficiency in respect to which the jeopardy assessment was made must be filed within 90 days (not counting Sunday or a legal holiday in the District of Columbia as the ninetieth day) after the mailing by the Commissioner of the notice of the final determination of the deficiency. (See article 76.) If the bond is given before the petition is filed with the Board, the bond shall contain a further condition that if a petition is not filed within the 90 days, then the amount, the collection of which is stayed by the bond, shall be paid on notice and demand at any time after the expiration of such 90-day period, together with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the date of the jeopardy notice and demand made by the collector to the date of notice and demand made after the expiration of the 90-day period.

ART. 97. Accrual of interest as affected by the stay of the collection of a jeopardy assessment.—For rules relating to the accrual of interest where the collection of a jeopardy assessment is stayed by the filing of a bond, see article 85.

ART. 98. Limitation of time to file bond to stay collection of jeopardy assessment.—If it is desired to stay the collection of the whole, or any part, of the amount in respect to which a jeopardy assessment has been made, the bond referred to in article 96 must be filed with the collector within 30 days after notice and demand by the collector for the payment of the amount of the jeopardy assessment.

Refunds

SEC. 319. (a) If the Commissioner has mailed to the executor a notice of deficiency under subdivision (a) of section 308 and if the executor after the enactment of this Act files a petition with the Board of Tax Appeals within the time prescribed in such subdivision, no refund in respect of the tax shall be allowed or made and no suit for the recovery of any part of such tax shall be instituted in any court, except—

(1) As provided in subdivision (c) of this section or in subdivision (i) of section 312 or in subdivision (b), (e), or (g) of section 318 or in subdivision (d) of section 1001; and

(2) As to any amount collected in excess of an amount computed in accordance with the decision of the Board which has become final; and

(3) As to any amount collected after the statutory period of limitations upon the beginning of distraint or a proceeding in court for collection has expired; but in any such claim for refund or in any such suit for refund the decision of the Board which has become final, as to whether such period had expired before the notice of deficiency was mailed, shall be conclusive.

(b) (as amended by section 810 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932) All claims for the refunding of the tax imposed by this title alleged to have been erroneously or illegally assessed or collected must be presented to the Commissioner within three years next after the payment of such tax. The amount of the refund shall not exceed the portion of the tax paid during the three years immediately preceding the filing of the claim, or if no claim was filed, then during the three years immediately preceding the allowance of the refund.

(c) (as amended by section 810 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1932 and by section 504 (d) of the Revenue Act of 1934) If the Board finds that there is no deficiency and further finds that the executor has made an overpayment of tax, the Board shall have jurisdiction to determine the amount of such overpayment, and such amount shall, when the decision of the Board has become final, be credited or refunded to the executor as provided in section 3220 of the Revised Statutes, as amended. No such refund shall be made of any portion of the tax unless the Board determines as part of its decision that it was paid within four years (or in the case of a tax imposed by this title, within three years) before the filing of the claim or the filing of the petition, whichever is earlier.

SEC. 325. Any tax that has been paid under the provisions of Title III of the Revenue Act of 1924 prior to the enactment of this Act in excess of the tax imposed by such title as amended by this Act shall be refunded without interest.

SEC. 606. Revenue Act of 1928.

(a) Authorization.—The Commissioner (or any officer or employee of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, including the field service, authorized in writing by the Commissioner) is authorized to enter into an agreement in writing with any person relating to the liability of such person (or of the person or estate for whom he acts) in respect of any internal-revenue tax for any taxable period ending prior to the date of the agreement.

(b) Finality of agreements.—If such agreement is approved by the Secretary, or the Undersecretary, within such time as may be stated in such agreement, or later agreed to, such agreement shall be final and conclusive, and except upon a showing of fraud or malfeasance, or misrepresentation of a material fact—

(1) the case shall not be reopened as to the matters agreed upon or the agreement modified, by any officer, employee, or agent of the United States, and

(2) in any suit, action, or proceeding, such agreement, or any determination, assessment, collection, payment, abatement, refund, or credit made in accordance therewith, shall not be annulled, modified, set aside, or disregarded. • • •

SEC. 607. Revenue Act of 1928.

Any tax (or any interest, penalty, additional amount, or addition to such tax) assessed or paid (whether before or after the enactment of this Act) after the expiration of the period of limitation properly applicable thereto shall be considered an overpayment and shall be credited or refunded to the taxpayer if claim therefor is filed within the period of limitation for filing such claim.

SEC. 608. Revenue Act of 1928.

A refund of any portion of an internal-revenue tax (or any interest, penalty, additional amount, or addition to such tax) made after the enactment of this Act, shall be considered erroneous—

(a) if made after the expiration of the period of limitation for filing claim therefor, unless within such period claim was filed; or

(b) in the case of a claim filed within the proper time and disallowed by the Commissioner after the enactment of this Act, if the refund was made after the expiration of the period of limitation for filing suit, unless—

(1) within such period suit was begun by the taxpayer, or

(2) (as amended by section 503 of the Revenue Act of 1934) within such period, the taxpayer and the Commissioner agreed in writing to suspend the running of the statute of limitations for filing suit from the date of the agreement to the date of final decision in one or more named cases then pending before the United States Board of Tax Appeals or the courts. If such agreement has been entered into, the running of such statute of limitations shall be suspended in accordance with the terms of the agreement.

SEC. 610. Revenue Act of 1928.

(a) Any portion of an internal-revenue tax (or any interest penalty, additional amount, or addition to such tax) refund of which is erroneously made, within the meaning of section 608, after the enactment of this Act, may be recovered by suit brought in the name of the United States, but only if such suit is begun within two years after the making of such refund.

(b) Any portion of an internal-revenue tax (or any interest, penalty, additional amount, or addition to such tax) which has been erroneously refunded (if such refund would not be considered as erroneous under section 608) may be recovered by suit brought in the name of the United States, but only if such suit is begun before the expiration of two years after the making of such refund or before May 1, 1928, whichever date is later.

(c) (as added by section 502 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1934) Despite the provisions of subsections (a) and (b) such suit may be brought at any time within five years from the making of the refund if it appears that any part of the refund was induced by fraud or the misrepresentation of a material fact.

NOTE.—Section 502 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1934 reads as follows:

"The amendment made by subsection (a) of this section shall not apply to any suit which was barred on the date of the enactment of this Act."

(d) (as added by section 803 of the Revenue Act of 1936) Erroneous refunds recoverable by suit under this section shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from the date of the payment of the refund.

SEC. 611. Revenue Act of 1928.

If any internal-revenue tax (or any interest, penalty, additional amount, or addition to such tax) was, within the period of limitation properly applicable thereto, assessed prior to June 2, 1924, and if a claim in abatement was filed, with or without bond, and if the collection of any part thereof was stayed, then the payment of such part (made before or within one year after the enactment of this Act) shall not be considered as an overpayment under the provisions of section 607, relating to payments made after the expiration of the period of limitation on assessment and collection.

SEC. 403. Revenue Act of 1932.

Except as provided in section 402, the tax imposed by section 401 of this Act shall be assessed, collected, and paid, in the same manner, and shall be subject to the same provisions of law (including penalties), as the tax imposed by section 301 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1926, • • •.

SEC. 1104. Revenue Act of 1932.

Where the Commissioner has (before or after the enactment of this Act) signed a schedule of overassessments in respect of any internal revenue tax imposed by this Act or any prior revenue Act, the date on which he first signed such schedule (if after May 28, 1928) shall be considered as the date of allowance of refund or credit in respect of such tax.

SEC. 177. Judicial Code (as amended by section 808 of the Revenue Act of 1936 [U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 28, Sup. II, section 284 (b)]). In any judgment of any court rendered (whether against the United States, a collector or deputy collector of internal revenue, a former collector or deputy collector, or the personal representative in case of death) for any overpayment in respect of any internal-revenue tax, interest shall be allowed at the rate of 6 per centum per annum upon the amount of the overpayment, from the date of the payment or collection thereof to a date preceding the date of the refund check by not more than thirty days, such date to be determined by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. The Commissioner is hereby authorized to tender by check payment of any such judgment, with interest as herein provided, at any time after such judgment becomes final, whether or not a claim for such payment has been duly filed, and such tender shall stop the running of interest, whether or not such refund check is accepted by the judgment creditor.

SEC. 3220. Revised Statutes (as amended by section 3, Act of May 29, 1928, Public, No. 611, Seventieth Congress [U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 26, section 1670 (a) (1) and (b), and section 1676]). The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, subject to regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, is authorized to remit, refund, and pay back all taxes erroneously or illegally assessed or collected, all penalties collected without authority, and all taxes that appear to be unjustly assessed or excessive in amount, or in any manner wrongfully collected; also to repay to any collector or deputy collector the full amount of such sums of money as may be recovered against him in any court, for any internal-revenue taxes collected by him, with the cost and expense of suit; also all damages and cost recovered against any assessor, assistant assessor, collector, deputy collector, agent, or inspector, in any suit brought against him by reason of anything done in the due performance of his official duty, and shall make report to Congress, by internal-revenue districts and alphabetically arranged, of all refunds in excess of $500, at the beginning of each regular session of Congress of all transactions under this section.

SEC. 3226. Revised Statutes (as amended by section 1103 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932 and by section 807 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1936 [U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 26, Sup. II, sections 1672-1673]). No suit or proceeding shall be maintained in any court for the recovery of any internal-revenue tax alleged to have been erroneously or illegally assessed or collected, or of any penalty claimed to have been collected without authority, or of any sum alleged to have been excessive or in any manner wrongfully collected until a claim for refund or credit has been duly filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, according to the provisions of law in that regard, and the regulations of the Secretary of the Treasury established in pursuance thereof; but such suit or proceeding may be maintained, whether or not such tax, penalty, or sum has been paid under protest or duress. No such suit or proceeding shall be begun before the expiration of six months from the date of filing such claim unless the Commissioner renders a decision thereon within that time, nor after the expiration of two years from the date of mailing by registered mail by the Commissioner to the taxpayer of a notice of the disallowance of the part of the claim to which such suit or proceeding relates. Any consideration, reconsideration, or action by the Commissioner with respect to such claim following the mailing of a notice by registered mail of disallowance shall not operate to extend the period within which suit may be begun.

SEC. 3228. Revised Statutes (as amended by section 619 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1928 [U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 26, section 1433]).

(a) All claims for the refunding or crediting of any internal-revenue tax alleged to have been erroneously or illegally assessed or collected, or of any penalty alleged to have been collected without authority, or of any sum alleged to have been excessive or in any manner wrongfully collected must, except as otherwise provided by law in the case of income, war-profits, excess-profits, estate, and gift taxes, be presented to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue within four years next after the payment of such tax, penalty, or sum.

(b) Except as provided in section 284 of the Revenue Act of 1926, claims for credit or refund (other than claims in respect of taxes imposed by the Revenue Act of 1916, the Revenue Act of 1917, or the Revenue Act of 1918) which at the time of the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1921 were barred from allowance by the period of limitation then in existence, shall not be allowed.

SEC. 319. (b) (as originally enacted) All claims for the refunding of the tax imposed by this title alleged to have been erroneously or illegally assessed or collected must be presented to the Commissioner within three years next after the payment of such tax.

SEC. 319. (c) (as originally enacted) If the Board finds that there is no deficiency and further finds that the executor has made an overpayment of tax, the Board shall have jurisdiction to determine the amount of such overpayment, and such amount shall, when the decision of the Board has become final, be credited or refunded to the executor as provided in section 3220 of the Revised Statutes, as amended. Such refund shall be made either (1) if claim therefor was filed within the period of limitation provided for by law, or (2) if the petition was filed with the Board within four years after the tax was paid, or, in the case of a tax imposed by this title, within three years after the tax was paid.

(a) Section 319 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1926 is amended to read as follows:

"(b) All claims for the refunding of the tax imposed by this title alleged to have been erroneously or illegally assesed or collected must be presented to the Commissioner within three years next after the payment of such tax. The amount of the refund shall not exceed the portion of the tax paid during the three years immediately preceding the filing of the claim, or if no claim was filed, then during the three years immediately preceding the allowance of the refund."

(b) The last sentence of section 319 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1926 is amended to read as follows:

"No such refund shall be made of any portion of the tax paid more than four years (or, in the case of a tax imposed by this title, more than three years) before the filing of the claim or the filing of the petition, whichever is earlier."

(c) Title III of the Revenue Act of 1924 is amended by inserting after section 318 a new section to read as follows:

"SEC. 318½. The amount of any refund of the tax imposed by Part I of this title shall not exceed the portion of the tax paid during the four years immediately preceding the filing of the claim, or if no claim was filed, then during the four years immediately preceding the allowance of the refund."

(d) Section 319 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended by this Act, and section 318½ of the Revenue Act of 1924, as added by this Act, shall not bar from allowance a claim for refund filed prior to the enactment of this Act which but for such enactment would have been allowable.

SEC. 1103. Revenue Act of 1932.

(a) Section 3226 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 3226. No suit or proceeding shall be maintained in any court for the recovery of any internal-revenue tax alleged to have been erroneously or illegally assessed or collected, or of any penalty claimed to have been collected without authority, or of any sum alleged to have been excessive or in any manner wrongfully collected until a claim for refund or credit has been duly filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, according to the provisions of law in that regard, and the regulations of the Secretary of the Treasury established in pursuance thereof; but such suit or proceeding may be maintained, whether or not such tax, penalty, or sum has been paid under protest or duress. No such suit or proceeding shall be begun before the expiration of six months from the date of filing such claim unless the Commissioner renders a decision thereon within that time, nor after the expiration of two years from the date of mailing by registered mail by the Commissioner to the taxpayer of a notice of the disallowance of the part of the claim to which such suit or proceeding relates."

(b) Suits or proceedings instituted before the date of the enactment of this Act shall not be affected by the amendment made by subsection (a) of this section to section 3226 of the Revised Statutes. In the case of suits or proceedings instituted on or after the date of the enactment of this Act where the part of the claim to which such suit or proceeding relates was disallowed before the date of the enactment of this Act, the statute of limitations shall be the same as provided by such section 3226 before its amendment by subsection (a) of this section.

(d) The last sentence of section 319 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended, is amended to read as follows: "No such refund shall be made of any portion of the tax unless the Board determines as part of its decision that it was paid within four years (or in the case of a tax imposed by this title, within three years) before the filing of the claim or the filing of the petition, whichever is earlier."

(e) The amendments made by subsections (a), (b), (c), and (d) of this section shall have no effect in the case of any proceeding before the Board on a petition if any hearing by the Board thereon has been held prior to 30 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 807. Revenue Act of 1936.

(a) Section 3226 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new sentence: "Any consideration, reconsideration, or action by the Commissioner with respect to such claim following the mailing of a notice by registered mail of disallowance shall not operate to extend the period within which suit may be begun."

(b) The amendment made by subsection (a) shall not operate (1) to bar a suit or proceeding in respect of a claim reopened prior to the date of the enactment of this Act, if such suit or proceeding was not barred under the law in effect prior to the date of the enactment of this Act, or (2) to prevent the suspension of the statute of limitations for filing suit under section 608 (b) (2), as amended, of the Revenue Act of 1928.

ART. 99. Claim for refund.—A claim for refund of estate tax, or for refund of interest or penalties, erroneously or illegally collected, should be made on the form prescribed by the Treasury Department (Form 843), and should be filed with the collector of internal revenue, although a claim will not be considered defective solely by reason of the fact that it is not made on the form or that it is filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. The claim must set forth in detail and under oath each ground upon which a refund is claimed, and facts sufficient to apprise the Commissioner of the exact basis thereof. Any claim which does not comply with the requirements of the preceding sentence will not be considered for any purpose as a claim for refund.

Claims for the refund of estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1926 and the additional estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932, or the Revenue Act of 1932 as amended by the Revenue Act of 1934, or 1935, must be filed within three years next after the payment of the amount sought to be refunded. If, however, the tax was imposed by the estate tax title of any of the Acts prior to the Revenue Act of 1926 the period within which the claim must be filed is four years after payment of the tax. Any tax imposed by Title III of the Revenue Act of 1924 which was paid prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1926 in excess of the amount of tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1924 as amended by the Revenue Act of 1926 is not deemed to have been erroneously or illegally collected and hence a claim for the refund of such excess is not subject to the 4-year limitation set out in the next preceding sentence. Furthermore, the 4-year limitation of time within which claims for refund must be filed does not apply in a case in which a refund is sought under the provisions of the last paragraphs of sections 401 and 403 of the Revenue Act of 1921.

The amount of the refund shall not exceed the portion of the tax paid during the three or four year period, as the case may be, immediately preceding the filing of the claim, or the filing of the petition with the Board of Tax Appeals. Upon receipt of any claim for refund, other than a claim for refund of an overpayment determined in accordance with a decision of the Board of Tax Appeals which has become final, the return of the estate will be reaudited and only the excess payment determined by the Commissioner as a result of consideration of the claim and reaudit will be refunded. If the reaudit reveals that the tax has been underpaid, the amount of such underpayment will be collected unless the collection thereof is barred.

If a petition was filed with the Board of Tax Appeals for the redetermination of a deficiency, as provided by section 308, and the Board finds that the executor has made an overpayment of the tax, and further determines as part of its decision that any portion of the overpayment was made within three years (or, within four years, in a case of a tax imposed by an Act prior to the Revenue Act of 1926) before the filing of the claim or the filing of the petition, whichever is earlier, the amount of such portion of the overpayment will be refunded. The portion of the overpayment made within such period will be refunded, even though the Board has not determined as part of its decision that the overpayment was so made, if a hearing upon the petition was held by the Board prior to the expiration of 30 days after the date of the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934.

Save in the case of a claim for refund of an overpayment computed in accordance with a decision of the Board of Tax Appeals which has become final, the burden of proof rests upon the claimant and all facts relied upon in support of the claim must be clearly set forth under oath. Every affidavit, argument, brief, or statement of facts, prepared or filed by an attorney or agent as argument or evidence in the matter of a protest, must have therein a statement signed by such attorney or agent showing whether or not he prepared such document and whether or not the attorney or agent knows of his own knowledge that the facts contained therein are true. In the case there is a hearing, should the executor not appear in person, his representative who appears must present a properly executed power of attorney and be enrolled to practice before the Treasury Department. (See article 74.)

(1) If the claim is made by an executor or administrator, a certificate of the court must be furnished showing that the appointment remains in full force and effect.

(2) If the executor or administrator has been discharged and no administrator de bonis non has been appointed and qualified, there should be submitted, in lieu of the certificate above mentioned, (a) a certified copy of the court order granting the discharge, and (b) a certified copy of the order of distribution, or, if such order does not fully disclose the identity of the person or persons entitled to receive any amount that may be refunded and the percentage or proportion thereof to which each, if more than one, is entitled, there should be submitted a certified copy of the decedent's will, if any, and such further proof as may be requisite to establish both the identity of such person or persons and the percentage or proportion of the amount sought to be refunded to which each, in the case there are more than one, is entitled.

If upon audit of the return filed by the executor the Commissioner determines that an overassessment has been made on account of the tax, a certificate of overassessment will be prepared and issued, even though claim for refund of such excess payment has not been filed, except as provided in article 76. The certificate of overassessment, issued if no claim for refund has been filed, will be addressed to the executor and the documentary evidence, as set out above, identifying the person or persons entitled to receive the refund will be required.

A refund is erroneous if made after the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1928, when made after the expiration of the period of limitation for filing claim therefor, unless within such period claim was filed. In the case a claim was filed within the proper time and such claim was disallowed by the Commissioner after the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1928, and the period of limitation for filing suit by the executor had expired prior to the making of the refund, a refund based upon such claim is erroneous unless suit was begun by the executor within the period of limitation for filing suit, or unless within such period the executor and the Commissioner agreed in writing to suspend the running of the statute of limitations for filing suit from the date of the agreement to the date of final decision of one or more named cases then pending before the Board of Tax Appeals or the courts. Erroneous refunds, as above described, may be recovered by suit brought in the name of the United States within two years after the making of such refunds. An erroneous refund, though not considered as erroneous under section 608 of the Revenue Act of 1928, may be recovered in the same manner if the suit is begun within two years after the making of such refund or before May 1, 1928, whichever date is later. Erroneous refunds, whether erroneous under the provisions of section 608 of the Revenue Act of 1928 or otherwise, may be recovered by suit brought within five years of the making of the refund if it appears that any part of the refund was induced by fraud or misrepresentation of a material fact and suit for recovery was not barred on the date of the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1934.

A claim for the payment of a judgment rendered against a collector of internal revenue representing Federal estate tax, penalties, or other sums collected in connection therewith should be made on Form 843 and filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C. The claimant should state the names of all parties to the action, the date of its commencement, the date of the judgment, the court in which it was recovered, its amount, and the fact that the action related to Federal estate tax or interest or penalties in connection therewith. To the claim there should be annexed two certified copies of the final judgment, a certificate of probable cause (see section 989 of the Revised Statutes [U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 28, section 842]) and, if refund is claimed, an itemized bill of the costs paid, receipted by the clerk or other proper officer of the court.

A claim for the payment of a judgment rendered against the United States representing Federal estate tax, penalties, or other sums collected in connection therewith should be made on Form 843 in the manner prescribed in the preceding paragraph, except that—

(a) a certificate of probable cause is not required,

(b) the claims shall be executed in duplicate, and

(c) in the case of a judgment rendered by the Court of Claims there may be submitted, in place of a certified copy of the final judgment, a certificate of the judgment issued by the clerk of the court and two copies of the court's opinion, if any was rendered.

Interest on Refunds

SEC. 301. (c) (as amended by section 802 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932) * * * Refund based on the credit may (despite the provisions of section 319) be made if claim therefor is filed within the period above provided. Any such refund shall be made without interest, except that where the overpayment was made prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1932, then interest shall be allowed and paid on the amount refunded at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from the date of the overpayment to the date of such enactment.

SEC. 614. Revenue Act of 1928.

(a) Interest shall be allowed and paid upon any overpayment in respect of any internal-revenue tax, at the rate of 6 per centum per annum, as follows: * * *

(2) (as amended by section 804 of the Revenue Act of 1936) In the case of a refund, from the date of the overpayment to a date preceding the date of the refund check by not more than 30 days, such date to be determined by the Commissioner, whether or not such refund check is accepted by the taxpayer after tender of such check to the taxpayer. The acceptance of such check shall be without prejudice to any right of the taxpayer to claim any additional overpayment and interest thereon. * * *

(d) Subsections (a), (b), and (c) shall take effect on the expiration of 30 days after the enactment of this Act, and shall be applicable to any credit taken or refund paid after the expiration of such period, even though allowed prior thereto.

ART. 100. Payment of claims and interest.—Under the law, warrants in payment of claims allowed can only be drawn payable to the person or persons entitled to the proceeds, and consequently can not be drawn payable to attorneys or agents. If the claimants are indebted to the United States for taxes, such taxes must be paid before the warrants are delivered. (U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 31, section 227.)

Upon the allowance of the claim for refund of any tax or penalty paid, unless the refund results from the allowance of a credit for payment of estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes, the statute provides for the payment of interest upon the total amount of such refund at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the date such tax or penalty was paid to a date preceding the date of the refund check by not more than 30 days, such date to be determined by the Commissioner, whether or not such check is accepted by the taxpayer. Acceptance of a refund warrant or check will not prejudice the right of the claimant to have refunded to him any additional overpayment and interest thereon. If a refund is based upon the credit for payment of estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes allowed by subdivision (b) of section 301, as amended by section 802 of the Revenue Act of 1932 (see article 9), the refund will be made without interest unless the overpayment was made prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1932, in which case interest will be paid upon the amount of such overpayment at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the date of payment to the date of the enactment of such Act.

Power to Compromise or Remit Penalties

SEC. 3229. Revised Statutes [U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 26, section 1661]. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the advice and consent of the Secretary of the Treasury, may compromise any civil or criminal case arising under the internal revenue laws instead of commencing suit thereon; and, with the advice and consent of the said Secretary and the recommendation of the Attorney General, he may compromise any such case after a suit thereon has been commenced. Whenever a compromise is made in any case there shall be placed on file in the office of the Commissioner the opinion of the Solicitor of Internal Revenue, or of the officer acting as such, with his reason therefor, with a statement of the amount of tax assessed, the amount of additional tax or penalty imposed by law in consequence of the neglect or delinquency of the person against whom the tax is assessed, and the amount actually paid in accordance with the terms of the compromise.

ART. 101. Compromise of taxes and penalties.—Offers in compromise should be filed with the appropriate collector of internal revenue. No offer in compromise of tax, interest, and ad valorem penalty collectible as part of the tax will be accepted unless there is a substantial doubt as to either liability or collectibility.

Personal Liability of Executor, Transferee, Trustee, and Beneficiary

SEC. 3467. Revised Statutes (as amended by section 518 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1934 [U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 31, section 192]). Every executor, administrator, or assignee, or other person, who pays, in whole or in part, any debt due by the person or estate for whom or for which he acts before he satisfies and pays the debts due to the United States from such person or estate, shall become answerable in his own person and estate to the extent of such payments for the debts so due to the United States, or for so much thereof as may remain due and unpaid.

SEC. 315. (b) (as amended by section 803 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1932). If (1) except in the case of a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, the decedent makes a transfer, by trust or otherwise, of any property in contemplation of or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death, or makes a transfer, by trust or otherwise, under which he has retained for his life or for any period not ascertainable without reference to his death or for any period which does not in fact end before his death (A) the possession or enjoyment of, or the right to the income from, the property, or (B) the right, either alone or in conjunction with any person, to designate the persons who shall possess or enjoy the property or the income therefrom, or (2) if insurance passes under a contract executed by the decedent in favor of a specific beneficiary, and if in either case the tax in respect thereto is not paid when due, then the transferee, trustee, or beneficiary shall be personally liable for such tax, and such property, to the extent of the decedent's interest therein at the time of such transfer, or to the extent of such beneficiary's interest under such contract of insurance, shall be subject to a like lien equal to the amount of such tax.

ART. 102. Personal liability.—If the executor, before paying all the estate tax, pays, in whole or in part, any debt due by the decedent or the decedent's estate, or distributes any portion of the estate, he is personally liable, to the extent of such payment or distribution, for so much of the estate tax as remains due and unpaid.

The term "executor" includes every person in actual or constructive possession of any property of the decedent if there is no appointed, qualified, and acting personal representative within the United States. For provisions of the statute and regulations prescribing conditions authorizing release of the executor from his personal liability for payment of the tax, see section 313 (b) and article 67.

If the tax in respect to a transfer of property includible in the gross estate under the provisions of section 302 (c), or such section 302 (c) as amended, or in respect to insurance receivable by a beneficiary other than the estate and includible in the gross estate under the provisions of section 302 (g), is not paid when due, then the transferee, trustee, or beneficiary shall be personally liable for such tax.

Examination of Records and Taking of Testimony

SEC. 1104 (as amended by section 618, Revenue Act of 1928). The Commissioner, for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any return or for the purpose of making a return where none has been made, is hereby authorized, by any officer or employee of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, including the field service, designated by him for that purpose, to examine any books, papers, records, or memoranda bearing upon the matters required to be included in the return, and may require the attendance of the person rendering the return or of any officer or employee of such persons, or the attendance of any other person having knowledge in the premises, and may take his testimony with reference to the matter required by law to be included in such return, with power to administer oaths to such person or persons.

SEC. 1122. (a) If any person is summoned under this Act to appear, to testify, or to produce books, papers, or other data, the district court of the United States for the district in which such person resides shall have jurisdiction by appropriate process to compel such attendance, testimony, or production of books, papers, or other data.

(b) The district courts of the United States at the instance of the United States are hereby invested with such jurisdiction to make and issue, both in actions at law and suits in equity, writs and orders of injunction, and of ne exeat republica, orders appointing receivers, and such other orders and process, and to render such judgments and decrees, granting in proper cases both legal and equitable relief together, as may be necessary or appropriate for the enforcement of the provisions of this Act. The remedies hereby provided are in addition to and not exclusive of any and all other remedies of the United States in such courts or otherwise to enforce such provisions.

SEC. 507. Revenue Act of 1934.

The Commissioner, for the purpose of determining the liability at law or in equity of a transferee of the property of any person with respect to any Federal taxes imposed upon such person, is hereby authorized, by any officer or employee of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, including the field service, designated by him for that purpose, to examine any books, papers, records, or memoranda bearing upon such liability, and may require the attendance of the transferor or transferee, or of any officer or employee of such person, or the attendance of any other person having knowledge in the premises, and may take his testimony with reference to the matter, with power to administer oaths to such person or persons.

ART. 103. Securing evidence—Taking testimony.—In order to ascertain the correctness of a return, or to make a return if none has been made, the Commissioner has power to require the attendance, and to take the testimony, of the person rendering the return, or any officer or employee of such person, or any other person having knowledge in the premises. Such persons may be required to produce any relevant book, paper, or other record. The Commissioner also is authorized, for the purpose of determining the liability at law or in equity of a transferee of the property of any person with respect to any Federal taxes imposed upon such person, to examine any books, papers, records, or memoranda bearing upon such liability and may require the attendance of the transferor or transferee, or any officer or employee of such person and take his testimony with reference to the matter. The Commissioner has the authority to administer oaths to the persons required to testify. The power and authority herein described may be exercised by any officer or employee of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, including the field force designated by the Commissioner for that purpose. (For penalties, see article 93.)

ART. 104. Power to compel compliance.—If any person is summoned to appear and testify, or to produce books, papers, or other data, the District Court of the United States for the district in which such person resides has power to compel the giving of the testimony, the production of the books, papers, or data, and to issue any appropriate process, writ, or order.

Remedies for Collection and Proceedings for Enforcing Liability of a Transferee or Fiduciary

SEC. 305. (b) (as amended by section 808 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932) where the Commissioner finds that the payment on the due date of any part of the amount determined by the executor as the tax would impose undue hardship upon the estate, the Commissioner may extend the time for payment of any such part * * *. In such case the amount in respect of which the extension is granted shall be paid on or before the date of the expiration of the period of extension, and the running of the statute of limitations for assessment and collection, as provided in sections 310 (a) and 311 (b), shall be suspended for the period of any such extension. * * *

SEC. 308. (i) (as amended by section 808 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1932) Where it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that the payment of a deficiency upon the date prescribed for the payment thereof will result in undue hardship to the estate, the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary (except where the deficiency is due to negligence, to intentional disregard of rules and regulations, or to fraud with intent to evade tax), may grant an extension for the payment of such deficiency * * *. In such case the running of the statute of limitations for assessment and collection as provided in sections 310 (a) and 311 (b), shall be suspended for the period of any such extension * * *.

SEC. 311. * * * (b) Where the assessment of any tax imposed by this title or of any estate or gift tax imposed by prior Act of Congress has been made (whether before or after the enactment of this Act) within the statutory period of limitation properly applicable thereto, such tax may be collected by distraint or by a proceeding in court (begun before or after the enactment of this Act), but only if begun (1) within six years after the assessment of the tax, or (2) prior to the expiration of any period for collection agreed upon in writing by the Commissioner and the executor. * * *

SEC. 316. (a) The amounts of the following liabilities shall, except as hereinafter in this section provided, be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner and subject to the same provisions and limitations as in the case of a deficiency in a tax imposed by this title (including the provisions in case of delinquency in payment after notice and demand, the provisions authorizing distraint and proceedings in court for collection, and the provisions prohibiting claims and suits for refunds):

(1) The liability, at law or in equity, of a transferee of property of a decedent or donor, in respect of the tax (including interest, additional amounts, and additions to the tax provided by law) imposed by this title or by any prior estate tax Act or by any gift tax Act.

(2) The liability of a fiduciary under section 3467 of the Revised Statutes in respect of the payment of any such tax from the estate of the decedent or donor.

Any such liability may be either as to the amount of tax shown on the return or as to any deficiency in tax.

(b) The period of limitation for assessment of any such liability of a transferee or fiduciary shall be as follows:

(1) Within one year after the expiration of the period of limitation for assessment against the executor or donor; or

(2) If the period of limitation for assessment against the executor expired before the enactment of this Act but assessment against the executor was made within such period,—then within six years after the making of such assessment against the executor, but in no case later than one year after the enactment of this Act.

(3) If a court proceeding against the executor or donor for the collection of the tax has been begun within either of the above periods,—then within one year after return of execution in such proceeding.

(c) (as amended by section 403 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1928) The running of the statute of limitations upon the assessment of the liability of a transferee or fiduciary shall, after the mailing of the notice under subdivision (a) of section 308 to the transferee or fiduciary, be suspended for the period during which the Commissioner is prohibited from making the assessment in respect of the liability of the transferee or fiduciary (and in any event, if a proceeding in respect of the liability is placed on docket of the Board, until the decision of the Board becomes final), and for 60 days thereafter.

(d) This section shall not apply to any suit or other proceeding for the enforcement of the liability of a transferee or fiduciary pending at the time of the enactment of this Act.

(e) As used in this section the term "transferee" includes heir, legatee, devisee, and distributee.

SEC. 604. Revenue Act of 1928.

No suit shall be maintained in any court for the purpose of restraining the assessment or collection of (1) the amount of the liability, at law or in equity, of a transferee of property of a taxpayer in respect of any income, war-profits, excess-profits, or estate-tax, or (2) the amount of the liability of a fiduciary under section 3467 of the Revised Statutes in respect of any such tax.

SEC. 403. Revenue Act of 1932.

Except as provided in section 402, the tax imposed by section 401 of this Act shall be assessed, collected, and paid, in the same manner, and shall be subject to the same provisions of law (including penalties), as the tax imposed by section 301 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1926, * * *.

---

SEC. 316. (c) (as originally enacted) The running of the period of limitation upon the assessment of the liability of a transferee or fiduciary shall, after the mailing of the notice under subdivision (a) of section 308 to the transferee or fiduciary, be suspended for the period during which the Commissioner is prohibited from making the assessment in respect of the liability of the transferee or fiduciary, and for 60 days thereafter.

NOTE.—The above subdivision was amended by section 403 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1928. Section 403 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1928 reads as follows:

"Subsection (a) of this section shall apply in all cases where the period of limitation has not expired prior to the enactment of this Act."

ART. 105. Remedies for collection and administrative proceedings for enforcing liability of a transferee or fiduciary.—Remedies for collection.—Three remedies are provided for the collection of the tax: (1) The collector may issue warrant of distraint authorizing the seizure and sale of any or all of the assets of the estate. (See section 3187 of the Revised Statutes, as amended by section 1016 of the Revenue Act of 1924; U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 26, section 1580.) (2) The collector may commence in any court of the United States appropriate proceedings, in the name of the United States, to subject the property of the decedent to sale under the judgment or decree of the court. (3) The personal liability of the executor and of certain transferees, trustees, and beneficiaries, set forth in article 102, may be enforced by any appropriate action.

The period of limitation, except in case of fraud or in case no return was filed, for collection of the tax by distraint or suit is six years after assessment if assessment of the tax was made within the statutory period of limitation or prior to the expiration of any period for collection agreed upon in writing by the Commissioner and the executor. If an extension of time for payment of the tax is granted under the provisions of section 305 (b) or section 308 (i), as amended, the period within which collection by distraint or suit may be made is extended by the period of the extension granted for payment of the tax.

Administrative proceedings for enforcing liability of a transferee or fiduciary.—The amount for which a transferee of the property of a decedent is liable, at law or in equity, and the amount of the personal liability of a fiduciary under section 3467 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, in respect of any estate tax, whether shown on the return of the executor or determined as a deficiency in the tax, shall be assessed against such transferee or such fiduciary, as the case may be, and collected and paid, in the same manner and subject to the same provisions and limitations as in the case of a deficiency, except as hereinafter provided.

The term "transferee" as used in section 316 includes an heir, legatee, devisee, and distributee of an estate of a deceased person.

The period of limitation for assessment of the liability of a transferee or of a fiduciary is as follows:

(a) Within one year after the expiration of the period of limitation for assessment against the executor. (See sections 308, 310, 311, 312, 318, and 1109, and article 77.)

(b) If the period of limitation for assessment against the executor expired before the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1926 but assessment against the executor was made within such period, then within six years after the making of such assessment against the executor, but in no case later than one year after the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1926.

(c) If a court proceeding against the executor for the collection of the tax has been begun within the period of limitation for the bringing of such proceeding, then within one year after the return of execution in such proceeding.

If a notice of the liability of a transferee, or the liability of a fiduciary, has been mailed to such transferee or to such fiduciary under the provisions of section 308 (a) (see article 76), then the running of the statute of limitations shall be suspended for the period in which the Commissioner is prohibited from making the assessment (and in any event, if a proceeding in respect of the liability is placed on the docket of the Board, until the decision of the Board becomes final), and for 60 days thereafter.

The provisions of section 316 do not apply in any suit or proceeding for the enforcement of the liability of a transferee, or fiduciary, which was pending at the time of the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1926.

If assessments have been made against several persons covering the same tax liability, and payment of such liability by one or more such persons has been duly certified to the Commissioner, the Commissioner, for the purpose of temporarily relieving the collector from liability under section 3218 of the Revised Statutes (U. S. C., 1934 edition, Title 26, section 1740), may authorize him to take credit temporarily with respect to the assessments not specifically paid. Such action, however, shall not constitute an abatement and shall not discharge the liability of the persons concerned.

Records, Statements, and Special Returns

SEC. 1102. (a) Every person liable to any tax imposed by this Act, or for the collection thereof, shall keep such records, render under oath such statements, make such returns, and comply with such rules and regulations, as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, may from time to time prescribe.

(b) Whenever in the judgment of the Commissioner necessary he may require any person, by notice served upon him, to make a return, render under oath such statements, or keep such records as the Commissioner deems sufficient to show whether or not such person is liable to tax.

(d) Any oath or affirmation required by the provisions of this Act or regulations made under authority thereof may be administered by any officer authorized to administer oaths for general purposes by the law of the United States or of any State, Territory, or possession of the United States, wherein such oath or affirmation is administered, or by any consular officer of the United States.

ART. 106. Executor's duty to keep records.—It is the duty of the executor to keep such records as the Commissioner may require. Executors are required to keep such complete and detailed records of the affairs of the estate as will enable the Commissioner to determine accurately the amount of the tax liability.

ART. 107. Executor's duty to render statements.—It is the duty of the executor not only to make the formal return, but also to render any other sworn statement which the Commissioner may require for the purpose of determining whether a tax liability exists and, if so, the extent thereof.

Estates Administered in the United States Court for China

SEC. 321. (a) The term "resident" as used in this title includes a citizen of the United States with respect to whose property any probate or administration proceedings are had in the United States Court for China. Where no part of the gross estate of such decedent is situated in the United States at the time of his death, the total amount of tax due under this title shall be paid to or collected by the clerk of such court, but where any part of the gross estate of such decedent is situated in the United States at the time of his death, the tax due under this title shall be paid to or collected by the collector of the district in which is situated the part of the gross estate in the United States, or, if such part is situated in more than one district, then the collector of such district as may be designated by the Commissioner.

(b) For the purpose of this section the clerk of the United States Court for China shall be a collector for the territorial jurisdiction of such court, and taxes shall be collected by and paid to him in the same manner and subject to the same provisions of law, including penalties, as the taxes collected by and paid to a collector in the United States.

Notice of Persons Acting as Fiduciary

SEC. 317. (a) Upon notice to the Commissioner that any person is acting as executor, such person shall assume the powers, rights, duties, and privileges of an executor in respect of a tax imposed by this title or by any prior estate tax Act, until notice is given that such person is no longer acting as executor.

(b) Upon notice to the Commissioner that any person is acting in a fiduciary capacity for a person subject to the liability specified in section 316, the fiduciary shall assume on behalf of such person the powers, rights, duties, and privileges of such person under such section (except that the liability shall be collected from the estate of such person), until notice is given that the fiduciary capacity has terminated.

(c) Notice under subdivision (a) or (b) shall be given in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary.

(d) In the absence of any notice to the Commissioner under subdivision (a) or (b), notice under this title of a deficiency or other liability, if addressed in the name of the decedent or other person subject to liability and mailed to his last known address, shall be sufficient for the purposes of this title.

ART. 108. Notice of persons acting as fiduciary.—The "notice to the Commissioner" provided for in section 317 shall be in writing signed by the fiduciary and filed with the Commissioner, setting forth the name and address of the person for whom he is acting in a fiduciary capacity and also the nature of the liability of such person, accompanied by satisfactory evidence of his authority to act for such person in the fiduciary capacity. If the fiduciary capacity exists by order of court, a certified copy of the order of the court may be regarded as such satisfactory evidence. The written notice to the commissioner need not be accompanied by evidence of the authority of the fiduciary to act if there is already on file with the Commissioner satisfactory evidence of the authority to act. Any such written notice which has been filed with the Commissioner since the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1926 shall be considered as sufficient notice to the Commissioner within the meaning of section 317 if and when there is or has been filed with the Commissioner the satisfactory evidence herein provided for. When the fiduciary capacity has terminated, the fiduciary, in order to be relieved of any further duty or liability as such, must file with the Commissioner written notice that the fiduciary capacity has terminated as to him, accompanied by satisfactory evidence of the termination of the fiduciary capacity. Such written notice should state the name and address of the person, if any, who has been substituted as fiduciary.

This article, made under the provisions of section 317, shall not be taken to abridge in any way the powers and duties of fiduciaries provided for in other sections of Title III of the Act or in any prior estate tax Act.

Scope of Repeal

SEC. 1200. (a) The following parts of the Revenue Act of 1924 are repealed, to take effect (except as otherwise provided in this Act) upon the enactment of this Act, subject to the limitations provided in subdivisions (b):

In the case of any tax imposed by any part of the Revenue Act of 1924 repealed by this Act, if there is a tax imposed by this Act in lieu thereof, the provisions imposing such tax shall remain in force until the corresponding tax under this Act takes effect under the provisions of this Act.

SEC. 714. Revenue Act of 1928.

The parts of the Revenue Act of 1926 which are repealed by this Act shall remain in force for the assessment and collection of all taxes imposed thereby and for the assessment, imposition, and collection of all interest, penalties, or forfeitures which have accrued or may accrue in relation to any such taxes.

ART. 109. Scope of repeal.—The Revenue Act of 1926 retains in force (except as provided in section 318) the provisions of Part I, Title III, of the Revenue Act of 1924, and the provisions of estate tax titles of all prior Acts, for the assessment and collection of all taxes accruing thereunder and for the imposition and collection of all penalties which have accrued or may accrue in relation to any such taxes. The Revenue Act of 1928 to the same extent, and for the same purpose, retains in force the parts of the Revenue Act of 1926 repealed by the Revenue Act of 1928.

SEC. 1101. The Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, shall prescribe and publish all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of this Act.

SEC. 1108. (a) (as amended by section 506 of the Revenue Act of 1934) The Secretary, or the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary, may prescribe the extent, if any, to which any ruling, regulation, or Treasury Decision, relating to the internal revenue laws, shall be applied without retroactive effect.

ART. 110. Promulgation of regulations.—These regulations are prescribed pursuant to the authority contained in the foregoing statutory provisions, and apply to all pending estate tax cases unless a particular question is governed by a specific provision of the earlier statutes differing from the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended and supplemented to date, in which case the provisions of the applicable statute control, and Regulations 37 (revised January, 1921), Regulations 63, Regulations 68, and Regulations 70 (1929 Edition), as amended by Treasury Decisions relating thereto, to that extent remain in full force and effect.

15 per centum of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $5,000,000 and does not exceed $6,000,000;

16 per centum of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $6,000,000 and does not exceed $7,000,000;

17 per centum of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $7,000,000 and does not exceed $8,000,000;

18 per centum of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $8,000,000 and does not exceed $9,000,000;

19 per centum of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $9,000,000 and does not exceed $10,000,000;

20 per centum of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $10,000,000.

(b) (1) If a tax has been paid under Title III of the Revenue Act of 1932 on a gift, and thereafter upon the death of the donor any amount in respect of such gift is required to be included in the value of the gross estate of the decedent for the purposes of this title, then there shall be credited against the tax imposed by subdivision (a) of this section the amount of the tax paid under such Title III with respect to so much of the property which constituted the gift as is included in the gross estate, except that the amount of such credit shall not exceed an amount which bears the same ratio to the tax imposed by subdivision (a) of this section as the value (at the time of the gift or at the time of the death, whichever is lower) of so much of the property which constituted the gift as is included in the gross estate, bears to the value of the entire gross estate.

(2) For the purposes of paragraph (1), the amount of tax paid for any year under Title III of the Revenue Act of 1932 with respect to any property shall be an amount which bears the same ratio to the total tax paid for such year as the value of such property bears to the total amount of net gifts (computed without deduction of the specific exemption) for such year.

(c) The tax imposed by subdivision (a) of this section shall be credited with the amount of any estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes actually paid to any State or Territory or the District of Columbia, in respect of any property included in the gross estate (not including any such taxes paid with respect to the estate of a person other than the decedent). The credit allowed by this subdivision shall not exceed 80 per centum of the tax imposed by subdivision (a) (after deducting from such tax the credits provided by subdivision (b)), and shall include only such taxes as were actually paid and credit therefor claimed within four years after the filing of the return required by section 304, except that—

(1) If a petition for redetermination of a deficiency has been filed with the Board of Tax Appeals within the time prescribed in section 308, then within such four-year period or before the expiration of 60 days after the decision of the Board becomes final.

(2) If, under subdivision (b) of section 305 or subdivision (1) of section 308, an extension of time has been granted for payment of the tax shown on the return, or of a deficiency, then within such four-year period or before the date of the expiration of the period of the extension.

Refund based on the credit may (despite the provisions of section 319) be made if claim therefor is filed within the period above provided. Any such refund shall be made without interest, except that where the overpayment was made prior to the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1932, then interest shall be allowed and paid on the amount refunded at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from the date of the overpayment to the date of such enactment.

SEC. 302. The value of the gross estate of the decedent shall be determined by including the value at the time of his death of all property, real or personal, tangible or intangible, wherever situated, except real property situated outside the United States—

(a) To the extent of the interest therein of the decedent at the time of his death;

(b) To the extent of any interest therein of the surviving spouse, existing at the time of the decedent's death as dower, curtesy, or by virtue of a statute creating an estate in lieu of dower or curtesy;

(c) To the extent of any interest therein of which the decedent has at any time made a transfer, by trust or otherwise, in contemplation of or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death, or of which he has at any time made a transfer, by trust or otherwise, under which he has retained for his life or for any period not ascertainable without reference to his death or for any period which does not in fact end before his death (1) the possession or enjoyment of, or the right to the income from, the property, or (2) the right, either alone or in conjunction with any person, to designate the persons who shall possess or enjoy the property or the income therefrom; except in case of a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth. Any transfer of a material part of his property in the nature of a final disposition or distribution thereof, made by the decedent within two years prior to his death without such consideration, shall, unless shown to the contrary, be deemed to have been made in contemplation of death within the meaning of this title;

(d) (1) To the extent of any interest therein of which the decedent has at any time made a transfer (except in case of a bona-fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth), by trust or otherwise, where the enjoyment thereof was subject at the date of his death to any change through the exercise of a power (in whatever capacity exercisable) by the decedent alone or by the decedent in conjunction with any other person (without regard to when or from what source the decedent acquired such power), to alter, amend, revoke, or terminate, or where any such power is relinquished in contemplation of decedent's death.

(2) For the purposes of this subdivision the power to alter, amend, or revoke shall be considered to exist on the date of the decedent's death even though the exercise of the power is subject to a precedent giving of notice or even though the alteration, amendment, or revocation takes effect only on the expiration of a stated period after the exercise of the power, whether or not on or before the date of the decedent's death notice has been given or the power has been exercised. In such cases proper adjustment shall be made representing the interests which would have been excluded from the power if the decedent had lived, and for such purpose if the notice has not been given or the power has not been exercised on or before the date of his death, such notice shall be considered to have been given, or the power exercised, on the date of his death.

(3) The relinquishment of any such power, not admitted or shown to have been in contemplation of the decedent's death, made within two years prior to his death without such a consideration and affecting the interest or interests (whether arising from one or more transfers or the creation of one or more trusts) of any one beneficiary of a value or aggregate value, at the time of such death, in excess of $5,000, then, to the extent of such excess, such relinquishment or relinquishments shall, unless shown to the contrary, be deemed to have been made in contemplation of death within the meaning of this title;

(e) To the extent of the interest therein held as joint tenants by the decedent and any other person, or as tenants by the entirety by the decedent and spouse, or deposited, with any person carrying on the banking business, in their joint names and payable to either or the survivor, except such part thereof as may be shown to have originally belonged to such other person and never to have been received or acquired by the latter from the decedent for less than an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth: Provided, That where such property or any part thereof, or part of the consideration with which such property was acquired, is shown to have been at any time acquired by such other person from the decedent for less than an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, there shall be excepted only such part of the value of such property as is proportionate to the consideration furnished by such other person: Provided further, That where any property has been acquired by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance, as a tenancy by the entirety by the decedent and spouse, then to the extent of one-half of the value thereof, or, where so acquired by the decedent and any other person as joint tenants and their interests are not otherwise specified or fixed by law, then to the extent of the value of a fractional part to be determined by dividing the value of the property by the number of joint tenants;

(f) To the extent of any property passing under a general power of appointment exercised by the decedent (1) by will, or (2) by deed executed in contemplation of or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death, or (3) by deed under which he has retained for his life or any period not ascertainable without reference to his death or for any period which does not in fact end before his death (A) the possession or enjoyment of, or the right to the income from, the property, or (B) the right, either alone or in conjunction with any person, to designate the persons who shall possess or enjoy the property or the income therefrom; except in case of a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth; and

(g) To the extent of the amount receivable by the executor as insurance under policies taken out by the decedent upon his own life; and to the extent of the excess over $40,000 of the amount receivable by all other beneficiaries as insurance under policies taken out by the decedent upon his own life.

(h) Except as otherwise specifically provided therein subdivisions (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), and (g) of this section shall apply to the transfers, trusts, estates, interests, rights, powers, and relinquishment of powers, as severally enumerated and described therein, whether made, created, arising, existing, exercised, or relinquished before or after the enactment of this Act.

(i) If any one of the transfers, trusts, interests, rights, or powers, enumerated and described in subdivisions (c), (d), and (f) of this section is made, created, exercised, or relinquished for a consideration in money or money's worth, but is not a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or moneys' worth, there shall be included in the gross estate only the excess of the fair market value at the time of death of the property otherwise to be included on account of such transaction, over the value of the consideration received therefor by the decedent.

(j) If the executor so elects upon his return (if filed within the time prescribed by law or prescribed by the Commissioner in pursuance of law), the value of the gross estate shall be determined by valuing all the property included therein on the date of the decedent's death as of the date one year after the decedent's death, except that (1) property included in the gross estate on the date of death and, within one year after the decedent's death, distributed by the executor (or, in the case of property included in the gross estate under subdivision (c), (d), or (f) of this section, distributed by the trustee under the instrument of transfer), or sold, exchanged, or otherwise disposed of, shall be included at its value as of the time of such distribution, sale, exchange, or other disposition, whichever first occurs, instead of its value as of the date one year after the decedent's death, and (2) any interest or estate which is affected by mere lapse of time shall be included at its value as of the time of death (instead of the later date) with adjustment for any difference in its value as of the later date not due to mere lapse of time. No deduction under this title of any item shall be allowed if allowance for such item is in effect given by the valuation under this subdivision. Wherever in any other subdivision or section of this title or in Title II of the Revenue Act of 1932, reference is made to the value of property at the time of the decedent's death, such reference shall be deemed to refer to the value of such property used in determining the value of the gross estate. In case of an election made by the executor under this subdivision, then for the purposes of the deduction under section 303 (a) (3) or section 303 (b) (3), any bequest, legacy, devise, or transfer enumerated therein shall be valued as of the date of decedent's death with adjustment for any difference in value (not due to mere lapse of time or the occurrence or nonoccurrence of a contingency) of the property as of the date one year after the decedent's death (substituting the date of sale or exchange in the case of property sold or exchanged during such one-year period).

SEC. 303. For the purpose of the tax the value of the net estate shall be determined—

(a) In the case of a citizen or resident of the United States, by deducting from the value of the gross estate—

(1) Such amounts—

(A) for funeral expenses,

(B) for administration expenses,

(C) for claims against the estate,

(D) for unpaid mortgages upon, or any indebtedness in respect to, property where the value of decedent's interest therein, undiminished by such mortgage or indebtedness, is included in the value of the gross estate, and

(E) reasonably required and actually expended for the support during the settlement of the estate of those dependent upon the decedent,

as are allowed by the laws of the jurisdiction, whether within or without the United States, under which the estate is being administered, but not including any income taxes upon income received after the death of the decedent, or property taxes not accrued before his death, or any estate, succession, legacy, or inheritance taxes. The deduction herein allowed in the case of claims against the estate, unpaid mortgages, or any indebtedness shall, when founded upon a promise or agreement, be limited to the extent that they were contracted bona fide and for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth. There shall also be deducted losses incurred during the settlement of estates arising from fires, storms, shipwrecks, or other casualties, or from theft, when such losses are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise, and if at the time of the filing of the return such losses have not been claimed as a deduction for income tax purposes in an income tax return.

(2) An amount equal to the value of any property (A) forming a part of the gross estate situated in the United States of any person who died within five years prior to the death of the decedent, or (B) transferred to the decedent by gift within five years prior to his death, where such property can be identified as having been received by the decedent from the donor by gift, or from such prior decedent by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance, or which can be identified as having been acquired in exchange for property so received. This deduction shall be allowed only where a gift tax imposed under the Revenue Act of 1932, or an estate tax imposed under this or any prior Act of Congress, was finally determined and paid by or on behalf of such donor, or the estate of such prior decedent, as the case may be, and only in the amount finally determined as the value of such property in determining the value of the gift, or the gross estate of such prior decedent, and only to the extent that the value of such property is included in the decedent's gross estate, and only if in determining the value of the net estate of the prior decedent no deduction was allowable under this paragraph in respect of the property or property given in exchange therefor. Where a deduction was allowed of any mortgage or other lien in determining the gift tax, or the estate tax of the prior decedent, which was paid in whole or in part prior to the decedent's death, then the deduction allowable under this paragraph shall be reduced by the amount so paid. The deduction allowable under this paragraph shall be reduced by an amount which bears the same ratio to the amounts allowed as deductions under paragraphs (1), (3), and (4) of this subdivision as the amount otherwise deductible under this paragraph bears to the value of the decedent's gross estate. Where the property referred to in this paragraph consists of two or more items the aggregate value of such items shall be used for the purpose of computing the deduction.

(3) The amount of all bequests, legacies, devises, or transfers, to or for the use of the United States, any State, Territory, any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, for exclusively public purposes, or to or for the use of any corporation organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, including the encouragement of art and the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual, and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting, to influence legislation, or to a trustee or trustees, or a fraternal society, order, or association operating under the lodge system, but only if such contributions or gifts are to be used by such trustee or trustees, or by such fraternal society, order, or association, exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals. If the tax imposed by section 301, or any estate, succession, legacy, or inheritance taxes, are, either by the terms of the will, by the law of the jurisdiction under which the estate is administered, or by the law of the jurisdiction imposing the particular tax, payable in whole or in part out of the bequests, legacies, or devises otherwise deductible under this paragraph, then the amount deductible under this paragraph shall be the amount of such bequests, legacies, or devises reduced by the amount of such taxes. The amount of the deduction under this paragraph for any transfer shall not exceed the value of the transferred property required to be included in the gross estate; and

(4) An exemption of $100,000.

(b) In the case of a nonresident not a citizen of the United States, by deducting from the value of that part of his gross estate which at the time of his death is situated in the United States—

(1) That proportion of the deductions specified in paragraph (1) of subdivision (a) of this section which the value of such part bears to the value of his entire gross estate, wherever situated;

(2) An amount equal to the value of any property (A) forming a part of the gross estate situated in the United States of any person who died within five years prior to the death of the decedent, or (B) transferred to the decedent by gift within five years prior to his death, where such property can be identified as having been received by the decedent from the donor by gift, or from such prior decedent by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance, or which can be identified as having been acquired in exchange for property so received. This deduction shall be allowed only where a gift tax imposed under the Revenue Act of 1932, or an estate tax imposed under this or any prior Act of Congress, was finally determined and paid by or on behalf of such donor, or the estate of such prior decedent, as the case may be, and only in the amount finally determined as the value of such property in determining the value of the gift, or the gross estate of such prior decedent, and only to the extent that the value of such property is included in that part of the decedent's gross estate which at the time of his death is situated in the United States, and only if in determining the value of the net estate of the prior decedent no deduction was allowable under this paragraph in respect of the property or property given in exchange therefor. Where a deduction was allowed of any mortgage or other lien in determining the gift tax, or the estate tax of the prior decedent, which was paid in whole or in part prior to the decedent's death, then the deduction allowable under this paragraph shall be reduced by the amount so paid. The deduction allowable under this paragraph shall be reduced by an amount which bears the same ratio to the amounts allowed as deductions under paragraphs (1) and (3) of this subdivision as the amount otherwise deductible under this paragraph bears to the value of that part of the decedent's gross estate which at the time of his death is situated in the United States. Where the property referred to in this paragraph consists of two or more items the aggregate value of such items shall be used for the purpose of computing the deduction.

(3) The amount of all bequests, legacies, devises, or transfers, to or for the use of the United States, any State, Territory, any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, for exclusively public purposes, or to or for the use of any domestic corporation organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, including the encouragement of art and the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual, and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting, to influence legislation, or to a trustee or trustees, or a fraternal society, order, or association operating under the lodge system, but only if such contributions or gifts are to be used within the United States by such trustee or trustees, or by such fraternal society, order, or association, exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals. If the tax imposed by section 301, or any estate, succession, legacy, or inheritance taxes, are, either by the terms of the will, by the law of the jurisdiction under which the estate is administered or by the law of the jurisdiction imposing the particular tax, payable in whole or in part out of the bequests, legacies, or devises otherwise deductible under this paragraph, then the amount deductible under this paragraph shall be the amount of such bequests, legacies, or devises reduced by the amount of such taxes. The amount of the deduction under this paragraph for any transfer shall not exceed the value of the transferred property required to be included in the gross estate.

(c) No deduction shall be allowed in the case of a nonresident not a citizen of the United States unless the executor includes in the return required to be filed under section 304 the value at the time of his death of that part of the gross estate of the nonresident not situated in the United States.

(d) For the purpose of this title, stock in a domestic corporation owned and held by a nonresident not a citizen of the United States shall be deemed property within the United States, and any property of which the decedent has made a transfer, by trust or otherwise, within the meaning of subdivision (c) or (d) of section 302, shall be deemed to be situated in the United States, if so situated either at the time of the transfer, or at the time of the decedent's death. For the purposes of this title, a relinquishment or promised relinquishment of dower, courtesy, or of a statutory estate created in lieu of dower or courtesy, or of other marital rights in the decedent's property or estate, shall not be considered to any extent a consideration "in money or money's worth."

(e) The amount receivable as insurance upon the life of a nonresident not a citizen of the United States, and any moneys deposited with any person carrying on the banking business, by or for a nonresident not a citizen of the United States who was not engaged in business in the United States at the time of his death, shall not, for the purpose of this title, be deemed property within the United States.

(f) Missionaries duly commissioned and serving under boards of foreign missions of the various religious denominations in the United States, dying while in the foreign missionary service of such boards, shall not, by reason merely of their intention to permanently remain in such foreign service, be deemed nonresidents of the United States, but shall be presumed to be residents of the State, the District of Columbia, or the Territories of Alaska or Hawaii wherein they respectively resided at the time of their commission and their departure for such foreign service.

SEC. 304. (a) The executor, within two months after the decedent's death, or within a like period after qualifying as such, shall give written notice thereof to the collector. The executor shall also, at such times and in such manner as may be required by regulations made pursuant to law, file with the collector a return under oath in duplicate, setting forth (1) the value of the gross estate of the decedent at the time of his death, or, in case of a nonresident not a citizen of the United States, of that part of his gross estate situated in the United States; (2) the deductions allowed under section 303; (3) the value of the net estate of the decedent as defined in section 303; and (4) the tax paid or payable thereon; or such part of such information as may at the time be ascertainable and such supplemental data as may be necessary to establish the correct tax.

(b) Return shall be made in all cases where the gross estate at the death of the decedent exceeds $100,000, and in the case of the estate of every nonresident not a citizen of the United States any part of whose gross estate is situated in the United States. If the executor is unable to make a complete return as to any part of the gross estate of the decedent, he shall include in his return a description of such part and the name of every person holding a legal or beneficial interest therein, and upon notice from the collector such person shall in like manner make a return as to such part of the gross estate.

SEC. 305. (a) The tax imposed by this title shall be due and payable fifteen months after the decedent's death, and shall be paid by the executor to the collector.

(b) Where the Commissioner finds that the payment on the due date of any part of the amount determined by the executor as the tax would impose undue hardship upon the estate, the Commissioner may extend the time for payment of any such part not to exceed eight years from the due date. In such case the amount in respect of which the extension is granted shall be paid on or before the date of the expiration of the period of the extension, and the running of the statute of limitations for assessment and collection, as provided in sections 310 (a) and 311 (b), shall be suspended for the period of any such extension. If an extension is granted, the Commissioner may require the executor to furnish a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount in respect of which the extension is granted, and with such sureties as the Commissioner deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of the amount in respect of which the extension is granted in accordance with the terms of the extension.

(c) If the time for the payment is thus extended there shall be collected, as a part of such amount, interest thereon at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from the expiration of three months after the due date of the tax to the expiration of the period of the extension.

(d) The time for which the Commissioner may extend the time for payment of the estate tax imposed by Title IV of the Revenue Act of 1921 shall be five years.

(e) Where there is included in the value of the gross estate the value of a reversionary or remainder interest in property, the payment of the part of the tax imposed by this title attributable to such interest may, at the election of the executor, be postponed until six months after the termination of the precedent interest or interests in the property, and the amount the payment of which is so postponed shall then be payable, together with interest thereon at the rate of 4 per centum per annum from eighteen months after the date of the decedent's death until such amount is paid. The postponement of payment of such amount shall be under such regulations as the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary may prescribe, and shall be upon condition that the executor, or any other person liable for the tax, shall furnish a bond in such an amount, and with such sureties, as the Commissioner deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment within six months after the termination of such precedent interest or interests of the amount the payment of which is so postponed, together with interest thereon, as above provided. Such part of any estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes allowable as a credit against the tax imposed by this title as is attributable to such reversionary or remainder interest may be allowed as a credit against the tax attributable to such interest, subject to the percentage limitation contained in section 301 (c), if such part is paid, and credit therefor claimed, at any time prior to the expiration of 60 days after the termination of the precedent interest or interests in the property.

SEC. 306. As soon as practicable after the return is filed the Commissioner shall examine it and shall determine the correct amount of the tax.

SEC. 307. As used in this title in respect of a tax imposed by this title the term "deficiency" means—

(1) The amount by which the tax imposed by this title exceeds the amount shown as the tax by the executor upon his return; but the amount so shown on the return shall first be increased by the amounts previously assessed (or collected without assessment) as a deficiency, and decreased by the amounts previously abated, refunded, or otherwise repaid in respect of such tax; or

(2) If no amount is shown as the tax by the executor upon his return, or if no return is made by the executor, then the amount by which the tax exceeds the amounts previously assessed (or collected without assessment) as a deficiency; but such amounts previously assessed, or collected without assessment, shall first be decreased by the amounts previously abated, refunded, or otherwise repaid in respect of such tax.

SEC. 308. (a) If the Commissioner determines that there is a deficiency in respect of the tax imposed by this title, the Commissioner is authorized to send notice of such deficiency to the executor by registered mail. Within 90 days after such notice is mailed (not counting Sunday or a legal holiday in the District of Columbia as the ninetieth day), the executor may file a petition with the Board of Tax Appeals for a redetermination of the deficiency. Except as otherwise provided in subdivision (d) or (f) of this section or in section 312 or 1001, no assessment of a deficiency in respect of the tax imposed by this title and no distraint or proceeding in court for its collection shall be made, begun, or prosecuted until such notice has been mailed to the executor, nor until the expiration of such 90-day period, nor, if a petition has been filed with the Board, until the decision of the Board has become final. Notwithstanding the provisions of section 3224 of the Revised Statutes the making of such assessment or the beginning of such proceeding or distraint during the time such prohibition is in force may be enjoined by a proceeding in the proper court.

(b) If the executor files a petition with the Board, the entire amount redetermined as the deficiency by the decision of the Board which has become final shall be assessed and shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector. No part of the amount determined as a deficiency by the Commissioner but disallowed as such by the decision of the Board which has become final shall be assessed or be collected by distraint or by proceeding in court with or without assessment.

(c) If the executor does not file a petition with the Board within the time prescribed in subdivision (a) of this section, the deficiency, notice of which has been mailed to the executor, shall be assessed, and shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector.

(d) The executor shall at any time have the right, by a signed notice in writing filed with the Commissioner, to waive the restrictions provided in subdivision (a) of this section on the assessment and collection of the whole or any part of the deficiency.

(e) The Board shall have jurisdiction to redetermine the correct amount of the deficiency even if the amount so redetermined is greater than the amount of the deficiency, notice of which has been mailed to the executor, and to determine whether any additional amount or addition to the tax should be assessed, if claim therefor is asserted by the Commissioner at or before the hearing or a rehearing.

(f) If after the enactment of this Act the Commissioner has mailed to the executor notice of a deficiency as provided in subdivision (a), and the executor files a petition with the Board within the time prescribed in such subdivision, the Commissioner shall have no right to determine any additional deficiency, except in the case of fraud, and except as provided in subdivision (e) of this section or in subdivision (c) of section 312. If the executor is notified that, on account of a mathematical error appearing upon the face of the return, an amount of tax in excess of that shown upon the return is due, and that an assessment of the tax has been or will be made on the basis of what would have been the correct amount of tax but for the mathematical error, such notice shall not be considered, for the purposes of this subdivision or of subdivision (a) of this section, or of section 319, as a notice of a deficiency, and the executor shall have no right to file a petition with the Board of Tax Appeals based on such notice, nor shall such assessment or collection be prohibited by the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section.

(g) For the purposes of this title the date on which a decision of the Board becomes final shall be determined according to the provisions of section 1005.

(h) Interest upon the amount determined as a deficiency shall be assessed at the same time as the deficiency, shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector, and shall be collected as a part of the tax, at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from the due date of the tax to the date the deficiency is assessed, or, in the case of a waiver under subdivision (d) of this section, to the thirtieth day after the filing of such waiver or to the date the deficiency is assessed whichever is the earlier.

(i) Where it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that the payment of a deficiency upon the date prescribed for the payment thereof will result in undue hardship to the estate, the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary (except where the deficiency is due to negligence, to intentional disregard of rules and regulations, or to fraud with intent to evade tax), may grant an extension for the payment of such deficiency or any part thereof for a period not in excess of four years. If an extension is granted, the Commissioner may require the executor to furnish a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount of the deficiency, and with such sureties as the Commissioner deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of the deficiency in accordance with the terms of the extension. In such case the running of the statute of limitations for assessment and collection, as provided in sections 310 (a) and 311 (b), shall be suspended for the period of any such extension, and there shall be collected, as a part of the tax, interest on the part of the deficiency the time for payment of which is so extended, at the rate of 6 per centum per annum for the period of the extension, and no other interest shall be collected on such part of the deficiency for such period. If the part of the deficiency the time for payment of which is so extended is not paid in accordance with the terms of the extension, there shall be collected, as a part of the tax, interest on such unpaid amount at the rate of 1 per centum a month for the period from the time fixed by the terms of the extension for its payment until it is paid, and no other interest shall be collected on such unpaid amount for such period.

(j) The 50 per centum addition to the tax provided by section 3176 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, shall, when assessed after the enactment of this Act in connection with an estate tax, be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner as if it were a deficiency, except that the provisions of subdivision (h) of this section shall not be applicable.

SEC. 309. (a) (1) Where the amount determined by the executor as the tax imposed by this title, or any part of such amount, is not paid on the due date of the tax, there shall be collected as a part of the tax, interest upon such unpaid amount at the rate of 1 per centum a month from the due date until it is paid.

(2) Where an extension of time for payment of the amount so determined as the tax by the executor has been granted and the amount the time for payment of which has been extended, and the interest thereon determined under subdivision (c) of section 305, is not paid in full prior to the expiration of the period of the extension, then, in lieu of the interest provided for in paragraph (1) of this subdivision, interest at the rate of 1 per centum a month shall be collected on such unpaid amount from the date of the expiration of the period of the extension until it is paid.

(b) Where a deficiency, or any interest assessed in connection therewith under subdivision (h) of section 308, or any addition to the tax provided for in section 3176 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, is not paid in full within 30 days from the date of notice and demand from the collector, there shall be collected as part of the tax, interest upon the unpaid amount at the rate of 1 per centum a month from the date of such notice and demand until it is paid.

(c) If a bond is filed, as provided in section 312, the provisions of subdivision (b) of this section shall not apply to the amount covered by the bond.

SEC. 310. (a) Except as provided in section 311, the amount of the estate taxes imposed by this title shall be assessed within three years after the return was filed, and no proceeding in court without assessment for the collection of such taxes shall be begun after the expiration of three years after the return was filed.

(b) The running of the statute of limitations provided in this section or in section 311 on the making of assessments and the beginning of distraint or a proceeding in court for collection, in respect of any deficiency, shall (after the mailing of a notice under subdivision (a) of section 308) be suspended for the period during which the Commissioner is prohibited from making the assessment or beginning distraint or a proceeding in court (and in any event, if a proceeding in respect of the deficiency is placed on the docket of the Board, until the decision of the Board becomes final), and for 60 days thereafter.

SEC. 311. (a) In the case of a false or fraudulent return with intent to evade tax or of a failure to file a return the tax may be assessed, or a proceeding in court for the collection of such tax may be begun without assessment, at any time.

(b) Where the assessment of any tax imposed by this title or of any estate or gift tax imposed by prior Act of Congress has been made (whether before or after the enactment of this Act) within the statutory period of limitation properly applicable thereto, such tax may be collected by distraint or by a proceeding in court (begun before or after the enactment of this Act), but only if begun (1) within six years after the assessment of the tax, or

(2) prior to the expiration of any period for collection agreed upon in writing by the Commissioner and the executor.

(c) This section shall not bar a distraint or proceeding in court begun before the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1924; nor shall it authorize the assessment of a tax or the collection thereof by distraint or by proceeding in court (1) if at the time of the enactment of this Act such assessment, distraint, or proceeding was barred by the statutory period of limitation properly applicable thereto, unless prior to the enactment of this Act the Commissioner and the executor agreed in writing thereto, or (2) contrary to the provisions of subdivision (a) of section 308 of this Act.

SEC. 312. (a) If the Commissioner believes that the assessment or collection of a deficiency will be jeopardized by delay, he shall immediately assess such deficiency (together with all interest, additional amounts, or additions to the tax provided for by law) and notice and demand shall be made by the collector for the payment thereof.

(b) If the jeopardy assessment is made before any notice in respect of the tax to which the jeopardy assessment relates has been mailed under subdivision (a) of section 308, then the Commissioner shall mail a notice under such subdivision within 60 days after the making of the assessment.

(c) The jeopardy assessment may be made in respect of a deficiency greater or less than that notice of which has been mailed to the executor, despite the provisions of subdivision (f) of section 308 and whether or not the executor has theretofore filed a petition with the Board of Tax Appeals. The Commissioner shall notify the Board of the amount of such assessment, if the petition is filed with the Board before the making of the assessment or is subsequently filed, and the Board shall have jurisdiction to redetermine the entire amount of the deficiency and of all amounts assessed at the same time in connection therewith.

(d) If the jeopardy assessment is made after the decision of the Board is rendered such assessment may be made only in respect of the deficiency determined by the Board in its decision.

(e) A jeopardy assessment may not be made after the decision of the Board has become final or after the executor has filed a petition for review of the decision of the Board.

(f) When a jeopardy assessment has been made the executor, within 30 days after notice and demand from the collector for the payment of the amount of the assessment, may obtain a stay of collection of the whole or any part of the amount of the assessment by filing with the collector a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount as to which the stay is desired, and with such sureties, as the collector deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of so much of the amount, the collection of which is stayed by the bond, as is not abated by a decision of the Board which has become final, together with interest thereon as provided in subdivision (j) of this section.

(g) If the bond is given before the executor has filed his petition with the Board under subdivision (a) of section 308, the bond shall contain a further condition that if a petition is not filed within the period provided in such subdivision, then the amount the collection of which is stayed by the bond will be paid on notice and demand at any time after the expiration of such period, together with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from the date of the jeopardy notice and demand to the date of notice and demand under this subdivision.

(h) Upon the filing of the bond the collection of so much of the amount assessed as is covered by the bond shall be stayed. The executor shall have the right to waive such stay at any time in respect of the whole or any part of the amount covered by the bond, and if as a result of such waiver any part of the amount covered by the bond is paid, then the bond shall, at the request of the executor, be proportionately reduced. If the Board determines that the amount assessed is greater than the amount which should have been assessed, then when the decision of the Board is rendered the bond shall, at the request of the executor, be proportionately reduced.

(i) When the petition has been filed with the Board and when the amount which should have been assessed has been determined by a decision of the Board which has become final, then any unpaid portion, the collection of which has been stayed by the bond, shall be collected as part of the tax upon notice and demand from the collector, and any remaining portion of the assessment shall be abated. If the amount already collected exceeds the amount determined as the amount which should have been assessed, such excess shall be refunded. If the amount determined as the amount which should have been assessed is greater than the amount actually assessed, then the difference shall be assessed and shall be collected as part of the tax upon notice and demand from the collector.

(j) In the case of the amount collected under subdivision (i) there shall be collected at the same time as such amount, and as a part of the tax, interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum upon such amount from the date of the jeopardy notice and demand to the date of notice and demand under subdivision (i) of this section, or, in the case of the amount collected in excess of the amount of the jeopardy assessment, interest as provided in subdivision (h) of section 308. If the amount included in the notice and demand from the collector under subdivision (i) of this section is not paid in full within 30 days after such notice and demand, then there shall be collected, as part of the tax, interest upon the unpaid amount at the rate of 1 per centum a month from the date of such notice and demand until it is paid.

(k) No claim in abatement shall be filed in respect of any assessment made after the enactment of this Act in respect of any estate or gift tax.

SEC. 313. (a) The collector shall grant to the person paying the tax duplicate receipts, either of which shall be sufficient evidence of such payment, and shall entitle the executor to be credited and allowed the amount thereof by any court having jurisdiction to audit or settle his accounts.

(b) If the executor makes written application to the Commissioner for determination of the amount of the tax and discharge from personal liability therefor, the Commissioner (as soon as possible, and in any event within one year after the making of such application, or, if the application is made before the return is filed, then within one year after the return is filed, but not after the expiration of the period prescribed for the assessment of the tax in section 310) shall notify the executor of the amount of the tax. The executor, upon payment of the amount of which he is notified, shall be discharged from personal liability for any deficiency in tax thereafter found to be due and shall be entitled to a receipt or writing showing such discharge.

(c) The provisions of subdivision (b) shall not operate as a release of any part of the gross estate from the lien for any deficiency that may thereafter be determined to be due unless the title to such part of the gross estate has passed to a bona fide purchaser for value, in which case such part shall not be subject to a lien or to any claim or demand for any such deficiency, but the lien shall attach to the consideration received from such purchaser by the heirs, legatees, devisees, or distributees.

SEC. 314. (a) If the tax herein imposed is not paid on or before the due date thereof the collector shall, upon instruction from the Commissioner, proceed to collect the tax under the provisions of general law, or commence appropriate proceedings in any court of the United States having jurisdiction, in the name of the United States, to subject the property of the decedent to be sold under the judgment or decree of the court. From the proceeds of such sale the amount of the tax, together with the costs and expenses of every description to be allowed by the court, shall be first paid, and the balance shall be deposited according to the order of the court, to be paid under its direction to the person entitled thereto. This subdivision in so far as it applies to the collection of a deficiency shall be subject to the provisions of section 308.

(b) If the tax or any part thereof is paid by, or collected out of that part of the estate passing to or in the possession of, any person other than the executor in his capacity as such, such person shall be entitled to reimbursement out of any part of the estate still undistributed or by a just and equitable contribution by the persons whose interest in the estate of the decedent would have been reduced if the tax had been paid before the distribution of the estate or whose interest is subject to equal or prior liability for the payment of taxes, debts, or other charges against the estate, it being the purpose and intent of this title that so far as is practicable and unless otherwise directed by the will of the decedent the tax shall be paid out of the estate before its distribution. If any part of the gross estate consists of proceeds of policies of insurance upon the life of the decedent receivable by a beneficiary other than the executor, the executor shall be entitled to recover from such beneficiary such portion of the total tax paid as the proceeds, in excess of $40,000, of such policies bear to the net estate. If there is more than one such beneficiary the executor shall be entitled to recover from such beneficiaries in the same ratio.

SEC. 315. (a) Unless the tax is sooner paid in full, it shall be a lien for ten years upon the gross estate of the decedent, except that such part of the gross estate as is used for the payment of charges against the estate and expenses of its administration, allowed by any court having jurisdiction thereof, shall be divested of such lien. If the Commissioner is satisfied that the tax liability of an estate has been fully discharged or provided for, he may, under regulations prescribed by him with the approval of the Secretary, issue his certificate, releasing any or all property of such estate from the lien herein imposed.

(b) If (1) except in the case of a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, the decedent makes a transfer, by trust or otherwise, of any property in contemplation of or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death, or makes a transfer, by trust or otherwise, under which he has retained for his life or for any period not ascertainable without reference to his death or for any period which does not in fact end before his death (A) the possession or enjoyment of, or the right to the income from, the property, or (B), the right, either alone or in conjunction with any person, to designate the persons who shall possess or enjoy the property or the income therefrom, or (2) if insurance passes under a contract executed by the decedent in favor of a specific beneficiary, and if in either case the tax in respect thereto is not paid when due, then the transferee, trustee, or beneficiary shall be personally liable for such tax, and such property, to the extent of the decedent's interest therein at the time of such transfer, or to the extent of such beneficiary's interest under such contract of insurance, shall be subject to a like lien equal to the amount of such tax. Any part of such property sold by such transferee or trustee to a bona fide purchaser for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth shall be divested of the lien and a like lien shall then attach to all the property of such transferee or trustee, except any part sold to a bona fide purchaser for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth.

SEC. 316. (a) The amounts of the following liabilities shall, except as hereinafter in this section provided, be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner and subject to the same provisions and limitations as in the case of a deficiency in a tax imposed by this title (including the provisions in case of delinquency in payment after notice and demand, the provisions authorizing distraint and proceedings in court for collection, and the provisions prohibiting claims and suits for refunds):

(1) The liability, at law or in equity, of a transferee of property of a decedent or donor, in respect of the tax (including interest, additional amounts, and additions to the tax provided by law) imposed by this title or by any prior estate tax Act or by any gift tax Act.

(2) The liability of a fiduciary under section 3467 of the Revised Statutes in respect of the payment of any such tax from the estate of the decedent or donor.

Any such liability may be either as to the amount of tax shown on the return or as to any deficiency in tax.

(b) The period of limitation for assessment of any such liability of a transferee or fiduciary shall be as follows:

(1) Within one year after the expiration of the period of limitation for assessment against the executor or donor; or

(2) If the period of limitation for assessment against the executor expired before the enactment of this Act but assessment against the executor was made within such period,—then within six years after the making of such assessment against the executor, but in no case later than one year after the enactment of this Act.

(3 If a court proceeding against the executor or donor for the collection of the tax has been begun within either of the above periods,—then within one year after return of execution in such proceeding.

(c) The running of the statute of limitations upon the assessment of the liability of a transferee or fiduciary shall, after the mailing of the notice under subdivision (a) of section 308 to the transferee or fiduciary, be suspended for the period during which the Commissioner is prohibited from making the assessment in respect of the liability of the transferee or fiduciary (and in any event, if a proceeding in respect of the liability is placed on the docket of the Board, until the decision of the Board becomes final), and for 60 days thereafter.

(d) This section shall not apply to any suit or other proceeding for the enforcement of the liability of a transferee or fiduciary pending at the time of the enactment of this Act.

(e) As used in this section, the term "transferee" includes heir, legatee, devisee, and distributee.

SEC. 317. (a) Upon notice to the Commissioner that any person is acting as executor, such person shall assume the powers, rights, duties, and privileges of an executor in respect of a tax imposed by this title or by any prior estate tax Act, until notice is given that such person is no longer acting as executor.

(b) Upon notice to the Commissioner that any person is acting in a fiduciary capacity for a person subject to the liability specified in section 316, the fiduciary shall assume on behalf of such person the powers, rights, duties, and privileges of such person under such section (except that the liability shall be collected from the estate of such person), until notice is given that the fiduciary capacity has terminated.

(c) Notice under subdivision (a) or (b) shall be given in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary.

(d) In the absence of any notice to the Commissioner under subdivision (a) or (b), notice under this title of a deficiency or other liability, if addressed in the name of the decedent or other person subject to liability and mailed to his last known address, shall be sufficient for the purposes of this title.

SEC. 318. (a) If after the enactment of this Act the Commissioner determines that any assessment should be made in respect of any estate or gift tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1917, the Revenue Act of 1918, the Revenue Act of 1921, or the Revenue Act of 1924, or by any such Act as amended, the Commissioner is authorized to send by registered mail to the person liable for such tax notice of the amount proposed to be assessed, which notice shall, for the purposes of this Act, be considered a notice under subdivision (a) of section 308 of this Act. In the case of any such determination the amount which should be assessed (whether as deficiency or additional tax or as interest, penalty, or other addition to the tax) shall be computed as if this Act had not been enacted, but the amount so computed shall be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner and subject to the same provisions and limitations (including the provisions in case of delinquency in payment after notice and demand and the provisions prohibiting claims and suits for refund) as in the case of a deficiency in the tax imposed by this title, except that in the case of an estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1917, the Revenue Act of 1918, or the Revenue Act of 1921, or by any such Act as amended, the period of limitation prescribed in section 1109 of this Act shall be applied in lieu of the period prescribed in subdivision (a) of section 310.

(b) If before the enactment of this Act any person has appealed to the Board of Tax Appeals under subdivision (a) of section 308 of the Revenue Act of 1924 (if such appeal relates to a tax imposed by Title III of such Act or to so much of an estate tax imposed by any of the prior Acts enumerated in subdivision (a) of this section as was not assessed before June 3, 1924), and the appeal is pending before the Board at the time of the enactment of this Act, the Board shall have jurisdiction of the appeal. In all such cases the powers, duties, rights, and privileges of the Commissioner and of the person who has brought the appeal, and the jurisdiction of the Board and of the courts, shall be determined, and the computation of the tax shall be made, in the same manner as provided in subdivision (a) of this section, except as provided in subdivision (h) of this section and except that the person liable for the tax shall not be subject to the provisions of subdivision (a) of section 319.

(c) If before the enactment of this Act the Commissioner has mailed to any person a notice under subdivision (a) of section 308 of the Revenue Act of 1924 (whether in respect of a tax imposed by Title III of such Act or in respect of so much of an estate tax imposed by any of the prior Acts enumerated in subdivision (a) of this section as was not assessed before June 3, 1924), and if the 60-day period referred to in such subdivision has not expired before the enactment of this Act and no appeal has been filed before the enactment of this Act, such person may file a petition with the Board in the same manner as if a notice of deficiency had been mailed after the enactment of this Act in respect of a deficiency in a tax imposed by this title. In such cases the 60-day period referred to in subdivision (a) of section 308 of this Act shall begin on the date of the enactment of this Act, and the powers, duties, rights, and privileges of the Commissioner and of the person entitled to file the petition, and the jurisdiction of the Board and of the courts, shall, whether or not the petition is filed, be determined, and the computation of the tax shall be made, in the same manner as provided in subdivision (a) of this section.

(d) If any deficiency in any estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1917, the Revenue Act of 1918, or the Revenue Act of 1921, or by any such Act as amended, was assessed before June 3, 1924, but was not paid in full before the date of the enactment of this Act, and if the Commissioner, after the enactment of this Act, finally determines the amount of the deficiency, he is authorized to send by registered mail to the person liable for such tax notice of such deficiency, which notice shall, for the purposes of this Act, be considered a notice under subdivision (a) of section 308 of this Act. In the case of any such final determination the amount of the tax (whether as deficiency or additional tax or as interest, penalty, or other addition to the tax) shall be computed as if this Act had not been enacted, but the amount so computed shall be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner and subject to the same provisions and limitations (including the provisions in cases of delinquency in payment after notice and demand, and the provisions relating to claims and suits for refund) as in the case of a deficiency in the tax imposed by this title, except as otherwise provided in subdivision (g) of this section, and except that the period of limitation prescribed in section 1109 of this Act shall be applied in lieu of the period prescribed in subdivision (a) of section 310.

(e) If any deficiency in any estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1917, the Revenue Act of 1918, or the Revenue Act of 1921, or by any such Act as amended, was assessed before June 3, 1924, but was not paid in full before that date, and if the Commissioner after June 2, 1924, but before the enactment of this Act, finally determined the amount of the deficiency, and if the person liable for such tax appealed before the enactment of this Act to the Board of Tax Appeals and the appeal is pending before the Board at the time of the enactment of this Act, the Board shall have jurisdiction of the appeal. In all such cases the powers, duties, rights, and privileges of the Commissioner and of the person who has brought the appeal, and the jurisdiction of the Board and of the courts, shall be determined, and the computation of the tax shall be made, in the same manner as provided in subdivision (d) of this section, except as provided in subdivision (h) of this section and except that the person liable for the tax shall not be subject to the provisions of subdivision (a) of section 319.

(f) If any deficiency in any estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1917, the Revenue Act of 1918, or the Revenue Act of 1921, or by any such Act as amended, was assessed before June 3, 1924, but was not paid in full before the date of the enactment of this Act, and if the Commissioner after June 2, 1924, finally determined the amount of the deficiency, and notified the person liable for such tax to that effect less than 60 days prior to the enactment of this Act and no appeal has been filed before the enactment of this Act, the person so notified may file a petition with the Board in the same manner as if a notice of deficiency had been mailed after the enactment of this Act in respect of a deficiency in a tax imposed by this title. In such cases the 60-day period referred to in subdivision (a) of section 308 of this Act shall begin on the date of the enactment of this Act, and whether or not the petition is filed, the powers, duties, rights, and privileges of the Commissioner and of the person who is so notified, and the jurisdiction of the Board and of the courts, shall be determined, and the computation of the tax be made, in the same manner as provided in subdivision (d) of this section.

(g) In cases within the scope of subdivision (d), (e), or (f), if the Commissioner believes that the collection of the deficiency will be jeopardized by delay, he may, despite the provisions of subdivision (a) of section 308 of this Act, instruct the collector to proceed to enforce the payment of the unpaid portion of the deficiency, and notice and demand shall be made by the collector for the payment thereof. Within 30 days after such jeopardy notice and demand the person liable for the tax may obtain a stay of collection of the whole or any part of the amount included in the notice and demand by filing with the collector a bond in like manner, under the same conditions, and with the same effect, as in the case of a bond to stay the collection of a jeopardy assessment under section 312 of this Act.

(h) In cases within the scope of subdivision (b) or (e) of this section where any hearing before the Board has been held before the enactment of this Act and the decision is rendered after the enactment of this Act, such decision shall, for the purposes of this title, be considered to have become final upon the date when it is rendered and neither party shall have any right to petition for a review of the decision. The Commissioner may, within one year from the time the decision is rendered, begin a proceeding in court for the collection of any part of the amount disallowed by the Board, unless the statutory period of limitations properly applicable thereto has expired before the appeal was taken to the Board. The court shall include in its judgment interest upon the amount thereof in the same cases, at the same rate, and for the same period, as if such amount were collected otherwise than by proceeding in court. In any such proceeding by the Commissioner or in any suit by the taxpayer for a refund, the findings of the Board shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated.

(i) Where before the enactment of this Act a jeopardy assessment has been made under subdivision (d) of section 308 of the Revenue Act of 1924 (whether of a deficiency in the tax imposed by Title III of such Act or of a deficiency in an estate tax imposed by any of the prior Acts enumerated in subdivision (a) of this section) all proceedings after the enactment of this Act shall be the same as under the Revenue Act of 1924 as amended by this Act, except that—

(1) A decision of the Board rendered after the enactment of this Act where no hearing has been held by the Board before the enactment of this Act may be reviewed in the same manner as provided in this Act in the case of a tax imposed by this title;

(2) Where no hearing has been held by the Board before the enactment of this Act, the Commissioner shall have no right to begin a proceeding in court for the collection of any part of the deficiency disallowed by the Board; and

(3) In the consideration of the case the jurisdiction and powers of the Board shall be the same as provided in this Act in the case of a tax imposed by this title.

(j) In the case of any estate or gift tax imposed by prior Act of Congress, in computing the period of limitations provided in section 310 or 311 of this Act on the making of assessments and the beginning of distraint or a proceeding in court, the running of the statute of limitations shall be considered to have been suspended (in addition to the period of suspension provided for in subdivision (b) of section 310) for any period prior to the enactment of this Act during which the Commissioner was prohibited from making the assessment or beginning distraint or proceeding in court.

SEC. 319. (a) If the Commissioner has mailed to the executor a notice of deficiency under subdivision (a) of section 308 and if the executor after the enactment of this Act files a petition with the Board of Tax Appeals within the time prescribed in such subdivision, no refund in respect of the tax shall be allowed or made and no suit for the recovery of any part of such tax shall be instituted in any court, except—

(1) As provided in subdivision (c) of this section or in subdivision (i) of section 312 or in subdivson (b), (e), or (g) of secton 318 or in subdivision (d) of section 1001; and

(2) As to any amount collected in excess of an amount computed in accordance with the decision of the Board which has become final; and

(3) As to any amount collected after the statutory period of limitations upon the beginning of distraint or a proceeding in court for collection has expired; but in any such suit for refund the decision of the Board which has become final, as to whether such period had expired before the notice of deficiency was mailed, shall be conclusive.

(b) All claims for the refunding of the tax imposed by this title alleged to have been erroneously or illegally assessed or collected must be presented to the Commissioner within three years next after the payment of such tax. The amount of the refund shall not exceed the portion of the tax paid during the three years immediately preceding the filing of the claim, or if no claim was filed, then during the three years immediately preceding the allowance of the refund.

(c) If the Board finds that there is no deficiency and further finds that the executor has made an overpayment of tax, the Board shall have jurisdiction to determine the amount of such overpayment, and such amount shall, when the decision of the Board has become final, be credited or refunded to the executor as provided in section 3220 of the Revised Statutes, as amended. No such refund shall be made of any portion of the tax unless the Board determines as part of its decision that it was paid within four years (or in the case of a tax imposed by this title, within three years) before the filing of the claim or the filing of the petition, whichever is earlier.

SEC. 320. (a) Whoever knowingly makes any false statement in any notice or return required to be filed under this title shall be liable to a penalty of not exceeding $5,000, or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both.

(b) Whoever fails to comply with any duty imposed upon him by section 304, or, having in his possession or control any record, file, or paper, containing or supposed to contain any information concerning the estate of the decedent, or, having in his possession or control any property comprised in the gross estate of the decedent, fails to exhibit the same upon request to the Commissioner or any collector or law officer of the United States or his duly authorized deputy or agent, who desires to examine the same in the performance of his duties under this title, shall be liable to a penalty of not exceeding $500, to be recovered, with costs of suit, in a civil action in the name of the United States.

SEC. 321. (a) The term "resident" as used in this title includes a citizen of the United States with respect to whose property any probate or administration proceedings are had in the United States Court for China. Where no part of the gross estate of such decedent is situated in the United States at the time of his death, the total amount of tax due under this title shall be paid to or collected by the clerk of such court, but where any part of the gross estate of such decedent is situated in the United States at the time of his death, the tax due under this title shall be paid to or collected by the collector of the district in which is situated the part of the gross estate in the United States, or, if such part is situated in more than one district, then the collector of such district as may be designated by the Commissioner.

(b) For the purpose of this section the clerk of the United States Court for China shall be a collector for the territorial jurisdiction of such court, and taxes shall be collected by and paid to him in the same manner and subject to the same provisions of law, including penalties, as the taxes collected by and paid to a collector in the United States.

(a) In addition to the estate tax imposed by section 301 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1926, there is hereby imposed upon the transfer of the net estate of every decedent dying after the enactment of this Act, whether a resident or nonresident of the United States, a tax equal to the excess of—

COLLECTION OF INTERNAL REVENUE TAX ON INTOXICATING LIQUORS, DENATURED ALCOHOL, AND ARTICLES CONTAINING DENATURED ALCOHOL, COMING INTO THE UNITED STATES FROM THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS, THE VIRGIN ISLANDS AND PUERTO RICO

To Collectors of Internal Revenue, District Supervisors, Collectors of Customs, and Others Concerned:

Section 1460 (a), Title 26, U. S. C., 1934 ed., is as follows:

1460. Shipments to the United States—(a) Tax imposed in United States—(1) Amount.—There shall be levied, collected, and paid, in the United States, upon articles, goods, wares, or merchandise coming into the United States from the Philippine Islands, a tax equal to the internal-revenue tax imposed in the United States upon the like articles, goods, wares, or merchandise of domestic manufacture.

(2) Payment.—Such tax shall be paid by internal-revenue stamp or stamps, to be provided by the Commissioner (of Internal Revenue), and to be affixed in such manner and under such regulations as he, with the approval of the Secretary, shall prescribe. (June 17, 1930, c. 497, sec. 301, 46 Stat. 685).

Section 1463 of said Title and Code is as follows:

1463. Deposit of internal revenue collections.—All internal revenues collected in or for account of the Philippine Islands shall accrue intact to the general government thereof and be paid into the insular treasury. (June 17, 1930, c. 497, sec. 301, 46 Stat. 686).

Section 1470 (a) of said Title and Code is as follows:

1470. Shipments to the United States—(a) Taxes imposed in the United States.—There shall be levied, collected, and paid in the United States, upon articles coming into the United States from the Virgin Islands, a tax equal to the internal-revenue tax imposed in the United States upon like articles of domestic manufacture. (Feb. 24, 1919, c. 18, sec. 1304, 40 Stat. 1142).

Section 1480 (a), (b) and (c) of said Title and Code is as follows:

1480. Shipments to the United States—(a) Rate of tax.—Articles of merchandise of Puerto Rican manufacture coming into the United States and withdrawn for consumption or sale shall be subject to a tax equal to the internal revenue tax imposed in the United States upon the like articles of merchandise of domestic manufacture. (Apr. 12, 1900, c. 191, sec. 3, 31 Stat. 77; May 17, 1932, c. 190, 47 Stat. 158).

(b) Payment of tax—(1) Upon entry into United States.—Such tax shall be paid by internal revenue stamp or stamps to be purchased and provided by the Commissioner (of Internal Revenue) and to be procured from the collector of internal revenue at or most convenient to the port of entry of said merchandise in the United States, and to be affixed under such regulations as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, shall prescribe. (Apr. 12, 1900, c. 191, sec. 3, 31 Stat. 77).

(2) Before shipment from Puerto Rico. All United States internal revenue taxes imposed by law on articles of Puerto Rican manufacture coming into the United States for consumption or sale may be paid by affixing to such articles before shipment thereof a proper United States internal revenue stamp denoting such payment.

* * * * *

(c) Deposit of internal-revenue collections. All taxes collected under the internal revenue laws of the United States on articles produced in Puerto Rico and transported to the United States, or consumed in the island, shall be covered into the treasury of Puerto Rico. (Mar. 2, 1917, c. 145, sec. 9, 39 Stat. 954; May 17, 1932, c. 190, 47 Stat. 158).

1. Pursuant to the above provisions of law and Section 251 of the Revised Statutes (U. S. C. 1934 ed., title 26, sec. 1821), and section 5 of the Liquor Enforcement Act of 1936 (U. S. C., 1934 ed., Supp. II, title 27, sec. 225), liquor and articles, i. e., intoxicating liquors (alcohol and other distilled spirits, liqueurs, cordials and similar compounds, wines and fermented malt liquors), denatured alcohol, and articles containing denatured alcohol (except as hereinafter provided), and articles containing pure alcohol such as bay rum, extracts, perfumes, etc., arriving in the United States from any of the possessions to which reference is made, are subject to taxes at the rates imposed upon domestic products of the same kind by the internal revenue laws.

The Liquor Taxing Act of 1934, approved January 11, 1934 (U. S. C., 1934 ed., title 26, sections 1150 et seq., 1300 et seq., and 1330 et seq.), as amended by the Liquor Tax Administration Act of June 26, 1936 (U. S. C., 1934 ed., Supp. II, title 26, sec. 1300 (a) (1) and (2)), imposes taxes at various rates upon distilled spirits, wines, liqueurs and cordials, and fermented malt liquors. Rectification tax on rectified distilled spirits or wines at the rate of 30 cents per proof gallon is also collectible because of the provisions of the Third subsection of Section 3244, Revised Statutes, as amended (U. S. C., 1934 ed., title 26, sec. 1398 (f)), and the provisions of Section 605 of the Revenue Act of 1918, as amended (U. S. C., 1934 ed., title 26, sec. 1150 (a) (6)), if the product so rectified would be subject to that tax if manufactured in the United States.

2. Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico.—Title III of the National Prohibition Act, as amended, and all provisions of the internal revenue laws relating to the enforcement thereof, were extended to and made applicable in the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico on and after August 27, 1935, by Section 329 (c) of the Liquor Tax Administration Act approved June 26, 1936 (U. S. C., 1934 ed., Supp. II, title 27, sec. 90). Therefore, alcohol denatured in accordance with approved formulae, and articles made therewith in accordance with authorized formulae may be shipped to the United States from such possessions, without incurring liability to internal revenue taxes. Unless the alcohol is denatured in accordance with a prescribed formula and the articles are made therewith in accordance with prescribed formulae, the denatured alcohol and such articles when shipped to the United States will be subject to tax at the rate of $2.00 per proof gallon, or wine gallon if below proof, on the alcohol therein.

3. Philippine Islands.—Title III of the National Prohibition Act is not in effect in the Philippine Islands. Liquor and articles containing alcohol, whether denatured or not, arriving in the United States from such Islands, will be subject to tax on the alcohol therein at rates provided by law, including tax at the rate of 30 cents per proof gallon on spirits and wines if they are rectified in such a manner that they would be subject to such tax if manufactured in the United States.

PROCEDURE FOR ESTABLISHING TAXABLE CLASSIFICATION OF THE LIQUOR OR ARTICLE

4. (a) Effective December 1, 1937, every person intending to bring in from the insular possessions named the liquor or articles to which reference is made (except fermented malt liquors, and except denatured alcohol and articles made therewith produced in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands pursuant to Title III of the National Prohibition Act and regulations) shall submit, in advance, to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in quintuplicate (and if the liquor or article is to arrive at more than one port, an additional copy as to each such port), through the District Supervisor of the Alcohol Tax Unit of the district in which such person is located, a serially numbered (commencing with the number 1 for the first and continuing in series thereafter) and dated formula, stating the name and address of the manufacturer and the brand of the liquor or article, and showing the names of the ingredients of which it is composed and the process by which it is made, each step being set forth in sequence. Unless exemption from the rectification tax at the rate of 30 cents per proof gallon is claimed, the quantities or percentages of each ingredient need not be given. Where the ingredients or processes are subsequently changed, a new formula must be submitted. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue or the District Supervisor of the Alcohol Tax Unit may, at any time, require the submission of a formula or formulae notwithstanding a formula or formulae have already been submitted. In submitting such formula, the importer shall indicate thereon in each instance the port, or ports, through which he intends to bring in the merchandise.

(b) When a numbered and dated formula has been filed, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall transmit a copy thereof, with the classification for tax purposes indicated thereon, to the Collector of Customs at each port named therein. Any shipment of liquor or articles arriving in the United States prior to the receipt of notice by the Collector of Customs that the formula therefor has been filed and acted upon shall be detained by the Collector of Customs until the tax found to be due thereon, if any, has been paid.

(c) There shall be filed with the Collector of Customs in connection with each shipment a certificate, in the English language, signed by the shipper and addressed to the Collector of Customs, which shall show: (1) the name and address of the consignee, (2) the designation of the liquor or article, (3) the quantity thereof, (4) the number and date of the formula covering the liquor or article, (5) a declaration that it has been manufactured in accordance with such formula, and (6) the name and address of the person who filed the formula. In the case of shipments arriving from Puerto Rico, the certificate shall state whether the United States internal revenue taxes have been paid and, if paid, the amount thereof. Where the formula and certificate have been received by the Collector of Customs, shipments of the liquor or article covered thereby may be released upon payment of the tax, if any, due as shown by such formula. Samples need not be taken for examination unless there is reason to believe that the liquor or article is not in accordance with the formula.

(d) In the interim between the date of approval of this regulation and December 1, 1937, the importer and the shipper may conform with the above requirements, or the shipper may attach to the shipping documents a certificate, in the English language, addressed to the Collector of Customs, stating the brand of the liquor or article and showing the names of the ingredients and the processes by which made, each step being set forth in sequence. In such event, internal revenue taxes found to be due will be collected without detaining the shipment, unless there is reason to believe that the liquor or article is not as represented. Shipments arriving during this period of time, as to which the importer or shipper has not conformed with either of the above alternatives, and shipments arriving on and after December 1, 1937, as to which a certificate based upon a formula that has been acted upon has not been filed, will be detained by the Collector of Customs pending the payment of taxes, if any, found to be due. Shipments shall also be detained by the Collector of Customs in any case in which there is reason to believe that all internal revenue taxes due on the liquor or articles shipped have not been paid.

BY WHOM THE INTERNAL REVENUE TAXES ARE TO BE COLLECTED

5. Internal revenue taxes on liquors or articles arriving from Puerto Rico, unless paid before shipment, and on those from the Philippine Islands, will be collected by the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which the liquors or articles are brought in on notice to him by the Collector of Customs of the arrival thereof. Internal revenue taxes on liquors or articles arriving from the Virgin Islands will be collected by the Collector of Customs.

TO WHICH GOVERNMENT THE INTERNAL REVENUE TAXES SHALL BE CREDITED

6. All internal revenue taxes collected on liquors and articles arriving from Puerto Rico and the Philippine Islands will be credited, respectively, to the governments of such possessions. All internal revenue taxes collected on liquors and articles arriving from the Virgin Islands will be credited to the government of the United States in accordance with 35 Op. Atty. Gen., 63, of June 9, 1926.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

JAMES H. MOYLE,
Commissioner of Customs.

Approved October 25, 1937.

"Whereas Section 307 (a) of the Federal Power Act empowers this Commission to investigate any facts, conditions, practices or matters which it may find necessary or proper to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of said Act, or in prescribing rules and regulations thereunder, or in obtaining information to serve as a basis for recommending further legislation; and

"Whereas proper control by public utilities of their liquid assets is necessary to enable them to render adequate service to the public; and

"Whereas Section 301 of the Federal Power Act authorizes the Commission to determine the accounts in which particular items shall be entered, charged or credited by public utilities subject to its jurisdiction and examine the books, accounts, memoranda, and records of such public utilities and inspect the physical property, securities and other evidences of value appearing as assets in the books and accounts of such public utilities; and

"Whereas it has been brought to the attention of the Commission that certain public utilities subject to its jurisdiction have been directed by an affiliated company or companies, having or purporting to have control over such public utilities, to transfer securities, which form part of their assets and which are customarily held at division or local offices or in safety deposit boxes at local banks, to a certain depositary or depositaries in the City of New York, where they may be hypothecated or otherwise put beyond control of said public utilities, in such manner and to such extent as to affect the ability of said utilities to render adequate service and to impede or prevent proper examination by the Commission or its agents of the accounts, books, records and properties of said utilities, and it appearing that certain of said public utilities subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission are about to make such transfers of securities;

"It is ordered:

"1. That an investigation be instituted forthwith for the purpose of determining the extent to which public utilities subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission have been ordered or directed to carry out transfers of securities in the manner aforesaid and for the further purpose of ascertaining the degree in which such proposed transfer or transfers of securities would affect the adequacy of service performed by said public utilities and impede or prevent proper examination of their accounts, books, records, and properties and otherwise interfere with the performance by the Commission of its duties under the Federal Power Act.

"2. That all public utilities subject to the jurisdiction of this Commission be and they are hereby directed and required to retain in their custody all bonds, stocks, notes and other securities of every description forming part of their assets, until further order or orders of this Commission, pending the conduct of the investigation ordered herewith; Provided, however, That upon notice to this Commission, any public utility may pledge such securities, notes receivable or collateral applicable to such notes, or sell or otherwise dispose of the same for some lawful purpose within the corporate powers of such utility, and compatible with the public interest and which may be reasonably necessary or appropriate in the conduct of its business.

"3. That the officers, agents and employees of the Commission are authorized to serve certified copies of this order forthwith upon such public utilities as may be specified by the Commission and to conduct such examination of the accounts, books, records and properties of such public utilities as may be necessary for the purpose of this investigation.

"4. This order shall become effective as of October 18, 1937."

Every such person who shall willfully fail or refuse to open, or cause to be opened, the draw of any such bridge for the passage of a boat or boats, or who shall unreasonably delay the opening of said draw after reasonable signal shall have been given, as provided in such regulations, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than two thousand dollars nor less than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment (in the case of a natural person) for not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court: Provided, That the proper action to enforce the provisions of this section may be commenced before any commissioner, judge, or court of the United States, and such commissioner, judge, or court shall proceed in respect thereto as authorized by law in case of crimes against the United States: Provided further, That whenever, in the opinion of the Secretary of War, the public interests require it, he may make rules and regulations to govern the opening of drawbridges for the passage of vessels and other water crafts, and such rules and regulations, when so made and published, shall have the force of law, and any violation thereof shall be punished as hereinbefore provided.

[D31–FD]

In the Matter of the Application of the Emperor Coal Company for Exemption from the Provisions of Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, as Authorized by the Second Paragraph of Section 4–A of Said Act

[D30–FD]

In the Matter of the Application of Consumers Mining Company for Exemption from the Provisions of Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, as Authorized by the Second Paragraph of Section 4–A of Said Act

The Wheeling Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries, Emperor Coal Company and Consumers Mining Company, have made application to the Commission for exemption of coal produced by them from operation of Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, basing such claims for exemption upon subsection (1) of Part II of said Section 4, which provides:

(1) The provisions of this section shall not apply to coal consumed by the producer or to coal transported by the producer to himself for consumption by him.

Under the averments of the applications filed, as supported by uncontradicted evidence adduced at the hearings, there is presented to the Commission the question whether coal produced by one corporation and utilized or consumed by another corporation is entitled to exemption under subsection (1) in a case where the producing corporation is a wholly owned subsidiary of the consuming corporation and such production and consumption of coal is incident to the manufacture of steel products.

In providing for regulation of interstate commerce in coal, Congress in subsection (1) of the Act has defined an exception covering coal in certain cases where, but for that exception, the coal would be subject to all the regulatory provisions of Section 4 of the Act. In the cases now before the Commission we are called upon to determine how broadly that exception is to be construed.

Clearly, under recognized rules of construction of statutes any producer of coal seeking to have his commerce in coal relieved of regulation by virtue of subsection (1) assumes the burden of proving by clear and convincing evidence that such coal is entitled to exemption under the terms of that subsection. 59 Corpus Juris 1089; Thomas E. Basham Co. v. Lucas, 21 Fed. (2d) 550.

It is urged by applicants that the term "producer" as used in subsection (1) should be broadly construed so as to include a corporation producer of coal which is wholly owned subsidiary of the consuming corporation.

It is not the generally accepted rule of construction in the case of statutory exceptions or exemptions to broaden or extend the exception or exemption by any liberal interpretation. Exceptions, as a general rule, should be strictly but reasonably, construed; they extend only so far as their language fairly warrants, and all doubts should be resolved in favor of the general provision rather than the exception. Where a general rule is established by statute with exceptions, the court will not curtail the former nor add to the latter by implication, and it is a general rule that an express exception excludes all others. 59 Corpus Juris 1092; Lewis' Sutherland on Statutory Construction, Section 494; Hopkins v. U. S., 235 Fed. 95.

Nor does the construction proposed by applicants appear to conform to the intention and purpose of Congress in enacting the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937. The act came not as an emergency measure but as a result of years of study of coal industry problems by Congress. In the records of the courts in the case of the Appalachian Coals v. U. S., 288 U. S. 344, as well as in the case of Carter v. Carter Coal Company, et al., 298 U. S. 238, the many complex factors involved in the production and distribution of bituminous coal were clearly outlined and from these records, as well as from the records of hearings before its Committees, Congress undoubtedly determined that partial or incomplete regulation of the industry would not be effective. Consequently, under Section 4–A of the Act specific authority was vested in the Commission to extend the operation of the regulatory provisions to phases of intrastate commerce in coal under certain conditions. Congress also anticipated possible avoidance or evasion of regulation by the use of affiliate or subsidiary relationships between producers and consumers of coal and therefore provided (subsection (g), Part II, Section 4) that "The price provisions of this Act shall not be evaded or violated by or through * * * the use of subsidiaries, affiliated sales or transportation companies or other intermediaries or instrumentalities."

And we do not find in the Act any definition or recognition of the so-called "captive" relationship between producers and consumers, typified by the relationship existing in the present cases.

In its interpretation and administration of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937 this Commission cannot ignore conditions actually existing in the coal industry or disregard possible consequences of an interpretation of subsection (1) such as is contended for by applicants. As the Supreme Court of the United States so aptly said in the case of the National Labor Relations Board v. Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, Advance Opinions, 81 L. Ed. 563: "We are asked to shut our eyes to the plainest facts of our national life and to deal with the questions of direct and indirect effects in an intellectual vacuum. * * * We have often said that interstate commerce itself is a practical conception It is equally true that interference with that commerce must be appraised by a judgment that does not ignore actual experience."

We find no expressed national policy which encourages concentration of natural resources in the hands of large industrial consumers and certainly it was not the intention of Congress to weaken the effectiveness of the Act by any encouragement of unregulated relationships between producers and consumers of coal.

The purposes of the Act are clear: to safeguard producers against unfair competitive practices, to protect the industry from the cycles of price cutting and wage reductions which too frequently have occurred in the past, to insure to the consumer adequate and dependable supplies of coal at reasonable prices by restoring and maintaining a state of fair competition in the industry.

Certainly the need for effective regulation should have greater weight than any possible effect of a failure to grant this exemption to consuming industries which organize themselves on a national basis and extend their activities not only into fields of manufacturing and distribution but into the more remote fields of production of raw materials.

In construing the language of subsection (1) the Commission therefore concludes that its inclusion in the Act was not an expression of intention on the part of Congress to create a class of unregulated coal producers but was a recognition of the legal principle that there being no commerce in the case of coal produced and consumed by the same legal entity, such production and consumption could not be dealt with under the power to regulate commerce.

For these reasons the Commission rules that the exemption provided for under subsection (1), Part II, Section 4 of the Act cannot be applied to the case of coal produced by a corporation which is a wholly owned subsidiary of the consuming corporation.

Accordingly, the application of the Wheeling Steel Corporation is hereby granted as to all coal consumed by the applicant which is produced by the applicant at its mine located at Beech Bottom, West Virginia, and known as applicant's "Beech Bottom" mine, and the applications of the Emperor Coal Company and the Consumers Mining Company are denied and proper orders are directed to be entered in the respective cases.

[D53FD]

IN THE MATTER OF THE APPLICATION OF WHEELING STEEL CORPORATION FOR EXEMPTION FROM THE PROVISIONS OF SECTION 4 OF THE BITUMINOUS COAL ACT OF 1937, AS AUTHORIZED BY THE SECOND PARAGRAPH OF SECTION 4–A OF SAID ACT

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS AND CONCLUSION

Pursuant to the provisions of an Act of Congress approved April 26, 1937, entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes", (Public No. 48, 75th Congress, 1st Sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, Applicant, Wheeling Steel Corporation, on the 28th day of June, 1937, filed with the Commission its application for exemption seeking to have exempted from the provisions of Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, all commerce in bituminous coal produced by it and its alleged subsidiary corporations, the Consumers Mining Company, a corporation organized and existing as such under and by virtue of the laws of the state of Pennsylvania, and Emperor Coal Company, a corporation organized and existing as such under and by virtue of the laws of the state of Kentucky. The application is filed by virtue of the authority granted in the second paragraph of Section 4–A of the Act and the exemption requested under the second paragraph of Section 4–A of the Act, Subsection (1) of Section 4 of the Act, and upon the further broad ground that commerce in bituminous coal of the kind and character engaged in by Applicant is excluded from the provisions of the Act.

The Commission, pursuant to the provisions of said Act, by its Orders of Assignment and Reference dated the 16th day of August, 1937, assigned and referred said matters to Charles S. Mitchell, an examiner of the Commission, for hearing, submission of proposed findings of fact and recommendation of appropriate order in the premises. On the 7th day of September 1937, the Commission by its Order reassigned said matter to Robert C. Patterson, an examiner of the Commission, for hearing, submission of proposed findings of fact and recommendation of appropriate order in the premises.

Due and reasonable notice of said hearing having been given all interested parties, said cause came on for hearing before said examiner of the Commission, in accordance with the aforesaid Orders of the Commission, on the 8th day of September 1937, at Washington, D. C. At said hearing testimony and other evidence was introduced by Carl O. Schmidt, Counsel for Applicant, in support of the allegations of the Application, the testimony and other evidence adduced at the hearing being duly recorded and filed with the Commission. Thereafter, the proceeding regularly came on for final hearing before the Commission upon the record and the Commission having duly considered same and being fully advised in the premises, makes this its finding as to the facts and its conclusion drawn therefrom:

FINDINGS OF FACT

Applicant, Wheeling Steel Corporation, is a corporation organized and existing as such under and by virtue of the laws of the state of Delaware with its general offices located at Wheeling, in the state of West Virginia. Applicant is primarily engaged in the business of manufacturing iron and steel products for sale and is qualified to do business in the states of Ohio and West Virginia. Applicant, in carrying on its business, owns and operates iron and steel plants located at Steubenville, Portsmouth, Yorkville, and Martins Ferry, in the state of Ohio and at Beech Bottom and Benwood, in the state of West Virginia, and is a member of the Bituminous Coal Code.

Applicant consumes a great quantity of bituminous coal in the manufacture of its iron and steel products at the aforementioned plants. A part of the coal consumed by Applicant is produced by Applicant at a mine wholly owned and operated by Applicant. This mine is located at Beech Bottom, in the state of West Virginia. All of the coal produced by Applicant at this mine is consumed by Applicant, with the exception of that sold to Applicant's employees.

Consumers Mining Company, a member of the Bituminous Coal Code, is a corporation organized and existing as such under and by virtue of the laws of the state of Pennsylvania and is engaged primarily in the business of producing bituminous coal and owns and operates a mine for such purpose located at Harmarville, in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, said mine being known as the "Harmar" mine. Said corporation has its own individual officers; operates its own mine; pays its own taxes; employs and pays its own labor by its own check; owns in fee the mine in question, including all of its facilities, coal lands, and the coal lying in place; keeps an individual set of books; maintains an individual bank account; carries its assets upon its books in its own name; maintains an individual office at its mine; and in the years 1931–1933 produced and sold coal commercially, making a profit and depositing funds realized as profit in a bank to its own account.

That the coal produced by Consumers Mining Company at said Harmar Mine is delivered to and consumed by Wheeling Steel Corporation, with the exception of that sold to and consumed by the employees of Consumers Mining Company, the coal delivered to and consumed by Wheeling Steel Corporation being transported in interstate commerce.

Emperor Coal Company, a member of the Bituminous Coal Code, is a corporation organized and existing as such under and by virtue of the laws of the state of Kentucky and is engaged primarily in the business of producing bituminous coal and owns and operates a mine for such purpose at Freeburne, in the state of Kentucky, said mine being known as the "Freeburne" mine. Said corporation has its own individual officers; operates its own mine; pays its own taxes, including the Social Security taxes, employs and pays its own labor by its own check; carries its own Workmen's Compensation Insurance; owns in fee the mine in question, including all of its facilities, coal lands, and the coal lying in place; keeps an individual set of books; maintains an individual bank account; carries its assets upon its books in its own name; maintains an individual office at its mine; and sold coal commercially until June 1937, making a profit thereon and declaring dividends.

That the coal produced by Emperor Coal Company at said Freeburne mine is delivered to and consumed by Wheeling Steel Corporation, with the exception of that sold to and consumed by the employees of Emperor Coal Company, the coal delivered to and consumed by Wheeling Steel Corporation being transported by rail in interstate commerce.

We conclude:

1. That upon the record in this case, it is clear that Applicant owns and operates the mine located at Beech Bottom, Brooke County, West Virginia. That it produces the coal produced at said mine and consumes the entire output of same, with the exception of that sold to its employees. It is also clear under the record in this cause that Applicant and Consumers Mining Company are separate and distinct corporations and that Applicant is not the producer of the coal produced at the Harmar mine, the producer of said coal being the Consumers Mining Company. It is also clear under the record in this cause that Applicant and Emperor Coal Company are separate and distinct corporations and that Applicant is not the producer of the coal produced at the Freeburne mine, the producer of said coal being Emperor Coal Company.

2. That under the record in this cause, with the exception of that coal sold by Applicant to its employees, all the coal consumed by Applicant which is produced by Applicant at its mine located at Beech Bottom, West Virginia, and known as Applicant's "Beech Bottom" mine, falls within Subsection (1) of Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937 and is exempt from the provisions of Section 4 of the Act. On the other hand, the coal consumed by Applicant and produced at the "Harmar" mine of Consumers Coal Company and at the "Freeburne" mine of Emperor Coal Company does not fall within the provisions of Subsection (1) of Section 4 of the Act and, therefore, is not exempt from the provisions of Section 4 of the Act.

An appropriate order will be entered.

1. That the application of the Wheeling Steel Corporation is hereby granted to the extent that the coal produced at its Beech Bottom Mine, Beech Bottom, West Virginia, and consumed by the applicant is within the purview of sub-section (1) of Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937 and is held to be exempt from the provisions of Section 4 of said Act.

2. That the bituminous coal consumed by the applicant and produced at the Harmar mine of Consumers Coal Company and at the Freeburne mine of the Emperor Coal Company does not come within the purview of sub-section (1) of Section 4 of the Act and accordingly is held not to be exempt from the provisions of Section 4 of the Act.

IN THE MATTER OF THE APPLICATION OF EMPEROR COAL COMPANY FOR EXEMPTION FROM THE PROVISIONS OF SECTION 4 OF THE BITUMINOUS COAL ACT OF 1937, AS AUTHORIZED BY THE SECOND PARAGRAPH OF SECTION 4–A OF SAID ACT

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS AND CONCLUSION

Pursuant to the provisions of an Act of Congress approved April 26, 1937, entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes", (Public, No. 48, 75th Congress, 1st Sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, Applicant, Emperor Coal Company, on the 21st day of June 1937, filed with the Commission its application for exemption seeking to have exempted from the provisions of Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, all commerce in bituminous coal produced by it. The Application is filed by virtue of the authority granted in the second paragraph of Section 4–A of the Act and the exemption requested under the second paragraph of Section 4–A of the Act, subsection (1) of Section 4 of the Act, and upon the further broad ground that commerce in bituminous coal of the kind and character engaged in by Applicant is excluded from the provisions of the Act.

The Commission, pursuant to the provisions of said Act, by its Orders of Assignment and Reference dated August 11, 1937, assigned said cause for hearing and by its order dated the 7th day of September 1937, assigned said cause to Robert C. Patterson, an examiner of the Commission, for hearing, submission of proposed findings of fact and recommendation of appropriate order in the premises.

Due and reasonable notice of said hearing having been given all interested parties, said cause came on for hearing before said examiner of the Commission, in accordance with the aforesaid Orders of the Commission, on the 8th day of September, 1937, at Washington, D. C. At said hearing testimony and other evidence was introduced by Carl O. Schmidt, counsel for Applicant, in support of the allegations of the Application, the testimony and other evidence adduced at the hearing being duly recorded and filed with the Commission. Thereafter, the proceeding regularly came on for final hearing before the Commission upon the record and the Commission having duly considered same, and being fully advised in the premises, makes this its findings as to the facts and its conclusion drawn therefrom:

FINDINGS OF FACT

Applicant, Emperor Coal Company, is a corporation organized and existing as such under and by virtue of the laws of the state of Kentucky, with its general offices located at Freeburne, Kentucky, and is a member of the Bituminous Coal Code.

Applicant is engaged primarily in the business of producing bituminous coal and owns and operates a mine for such purpose located at Freeburne, Kentucky, said mine being known as the "Freeburne" mine. Said corporation has its own individual offices; operates its own mine; pays its own taxes; employs and pays its own labor by its own check; owns in fee the mine in question, including all of its facilities, coal lands and the coal lying in place; keeps an individual set of books; maintains an individual bank account; carries its assets upon its books in its own name; maintains an individual office at its mine; and in the years 1931–1933 produced and sold coal commercially, making a profit and depositing the funds realized as profit in a bank to its own account.

That the coal produced by Emperor Coal Company at said Freeburne mine is delivered to and consumed by Wheeling Steel Corporation, a corporation organized and existing as such under and by virtue of the laws of the State of West Virginia, which said corporation is a legal entity separate to Wheeling Steel Corporation by Applicant herein being transported by rail in interstate commerce.

We conclude:

That upon the record in this cause it is clear the Applicant owns and operates the coal mine located at Freeburne, Kentucky, and produces the coal produced at said mine, the coal produced at said mine being consumed by Wheeling Steel Corporation. It is also clear under the record in this cause that Applicant and Wheeling Steel Corporation are separate and distinct corporations. It is also clear under the record in this cause that Applicant is not the consumer of the coal produced at the Freeburne mine, the consumer of such coal being the Wheeling Steel Corporation.

Consequently, under the record in this cause, the coal produced by Applicant at its said Freeburne mine does not fall within the provisions of subsection (1) of Section 4 of the Act and, therefore, is not exempt from the provisions of Section 4 of the Act.

An appropriate order will be entered.

IN THE MATTER OF THE APPLICATION OF CONSUMERS MINING COMPANY FOR EXEMPTION FROM THE PROVISIONS OF SECTION 4 OF THE BITUMINOUS COAL ACT OF 1937, AS AUTHORIZED BY THE SECOND PARAGRAPH OF SECTION 4–A OF SAID ACT

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS AND CONCLUSION

Pursuant to the provisions of an Act of Congress, approved April 26, 1937, entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes", (Public, No. 48, 75th Congress, 1st Sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, Applicant, Consumers Mining Company, on the 17th day of June, 1937, filed with the Commission its application under the second paragraph of Section 4–A of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, seeking to have exempted from the provisions of Section 4 of said Act all coal produced by it.

The Commission, pursuant to the provisions of said Act, by its order dated the 11th day of August, 1937, assigned said cause for hearing and by its Order of Reference dated the 11th day of August, 1937, referred and assigned said matter to Charles S. Mitchell, an examiner of the Commission, for hearing, submission of proposed findings of fact and recommendation of appropriate order in the premises. On the 7th day of September, 1937, the Commission by its order reassigned said matter to Robert C. Patterson, an examiner of the Commission, for hearing, submission of proposed findings of fact and recommendation of appropriate order in the premises.

Due and reasonable notice of said hearing having been given all interested parties, said cause came on for hearing before said examiner in accordance with the aforesaid Orders of the Commission on the 8th day of September, 1937, at Washington, D. C. At said hearing, Applicant introduced testimony and other evidence in its behalf, there being no testimony or other evidence offered by counsel for the Commission or by other interested parties. The testimony and other evidence adduced at the hearing was duly recorded and filed with the Commission. Thereafter, the proceeding regularly came on for final hearing before the Commission upon the record in said cause and the Commission, having duly considered the same and being fully advised in the premises, makes this its findings as to the facts and its conclusion drawn therefrom:

FINDINGS OF FACT

Applicant, Consumers Mining Company, a member of the Bituminous Coal Code, is a corporation organized and existing as such under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Pennsylvania with its general offices located at Harmarville, Pennsylvania. Applicant is engaged primarily in the business of producing bituminous coal and owns and operates a mine for such purpose located at Harmarville, in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, said mine being known as the "Harmar" mine. Said corporation has its own individual officers; operates its own mine; pays its own taxes; employs and pays its own labor by its own check; owns in fee the mine in question, including all of its facilities, coal lands, and the coal lying in place; keeps an individual set of books; maintains an individual bank account; carries its assets upon its books in its own name; maintains an individual office at its mine; and in the years 1931–1933 produced and sold coal commercially, making a profit and depositing funds realized as profit in a bank to its own account.

That the coal produced by Consumers Mining Company at said Harmar mine is delivered to and consumed by Wheeling Steel Corporation, with the exception of that sold to and consumed by the employees of Consumers Mining Company, the coal delivered to and consumed by Wheeling Steel Corporation being transported in interstate commerce.

We conclude:

That under the record in this cause the Applicant, Consumers Mining Company, owns and operates the mine located at Harmarville, in the State of Pennsylvania, and that it disposes of its product to the Wheeling Steel Corporation, a corporation separate and distinct from the Consumers Mining Company. It is further clear under the record in this cause that the producer of the coal in question, the Consumers Mining Company, is not the consumer thereof and, consequently, the coal produced by the Applicant, Consumers Mining Company, does not fall within Subsection (1) of Section 4 of the Act. The application is, therefore, denied.

An appropriate order will be entered.

RULING RE CONTRACTS FOR THE SALE OF BITUMINOUS COAL TO GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES

The Commission has been informed that in many instances agencies of the Federal and State Governments, and political subdivisions thereof, are directed by statute or local ordinance to award contracts for the delivery of coal only after the submission of bids; that subsequent to the establishment of minimum prices by the Commission some time will necessarily elapse before such agencies can prepare the necessary invitations to bid, receive and examine bids submitted, and enter into contracts based upon such bids; that such agencies must maintain an adequate and constant supply of coal at all times; and that coal presently is being supplied under contracts providing for deliveries not more than thirty (30) days from the date of such contracts. In view of the above mentioned situation the Commission states:

1. That it will not construe as a violation of the Act the making of a contract with an agency of the Federal or State Governments, or political subdivisions thereof, which contains a provision that in the event the National Bituminous Coal Commission shall establish during the period of the contract a minimum price for the class, grade or size of coal produced at the mine or mines named in the contract, which is more than the contract price for such coal, the contract price shall be increased to the minimum price so established by the Commission, for the coal shipped from the mine or mines and delivered after the effective date of the establishment of such minimum price; that the right is reserved to the purchaser to enter a new contract for successive thirty (30) day periods until a minimum price for the coal shall have been established by the Commission; and that the right is reserved to the purchaser to enter a new contract for a period of sixty (60) days after the date of the establishment of such a minimum price, the price to be paid during such periods to be the contract price or the minimum price, if any, established by the Commission effective on dates of shipment from the mine or mines named in the contract.

2. That it will not construe as a violation of the code the making of a contract by a code member in conformity with the provisions set forth in paragraph one above.

By order of the Commission.

Dated this 27th day of October, 1937.

FOREIGN-TRADE ZONES BOARD.

[Order No. 4]

AN ORDER RELATIVE TO THE HANDLING OF GOLD AND SILVER IN FOREIGN-TRADE ZONES

At a regular meeting of the Foreign-Trade Zones Board, held at its offices in the City of Washington, D. C., on the 22nd day of September, A. D., 1937, the Board considered the matter relating to the handling of gold and silver in foreign-trade zones and adopted the following order:

Whereas section 15 (c) of the Act of June 18, 1934 (U. S. C., title 19, sec. 810 (c)), relating to foreign-trade zones provides as follows:

The Board may at any time order the exclusion from the zone of any goods or process of treatment that in its judgment is detrimental to the public interest, health, or safety.

And whereas, paragraph 803 of regulations of the Foreign-Trade Zones Board provides as follows:

"When it shall be reported to the Board that any goods or process of treatment is detrimental to the public interest, health, or safety, the Board shall cause such investigation to be made as it may deem necessary. The Board may order the exclusion from the zone of any goods or process of treatment that in its judgment is detrimental to the public interest, health, or safety."

And whereas the Board finds that in its judgment the melting, smelting, or refining or other treatment by heating or by a chemical or electrical process of silver or gold in any form within any foreign-trade zone within the continental United States, and the admission into any such zone of silver or gold, with the exceptions hereinafter enumerated, are detrimental to the public interest;

Now, Therefore, Be It Ordered, that silver or gold in any form may not be melted, smelted, or refined or otherwise treated by heating or by a chemical or electrical process within any foreign-trade zone within the continental United States; and further that silver and gold are hereby excluded from admission into any such zone, except that "fabricated silver", as referred to in section 91 of the Silver Regulations of August 17, 1934, as amended,[1] and "fabricated gold", as defined in section 4 of the Provisional Regulations issued under the Gold Reserve Act of 1934,[2] may be admitted into and held in such form within any such zone.

Attention is directed to the fact that silver may be exported from the continental United States only as provided in Article IX of the Silver Regulations of August 17, 1934, as amended (see section 91 regarding the exportation of "fabricated silver"); and gold may be exported from the continental United States only as provided in the Provisional Regulations issued under the Gold Reserve Act of 1934 (see section 16 regarding the exportation of "fabricated gold").

PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

EMERGENCY BOARD, PACIFIC ELECTRIC RAILWAY—EMPLOYEES

By the President of the United States of America

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS the President, having been duly notified by the National Mediation Board that a dispute between the Pacific Electric Railway, a carrier, and certain of its employees represented by Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen which dispute has not heretofore been adjusted under the provisions of the Railway Labor Act, amended, now threatens substantially to interrupt interstate commerce within the state of California to a degree such as to deprive that section of the country of essential transportation service;

REGULATIONS GOVERNING ENTRANCE TO PORT ALEXANDER, ALASKA, DURING IMPROVEMENT OPERATIONS AT THIS PORT

OCTOBER 13, 1937.

1. On March 18, 1931, the Secretary of War approved regulations governing the use, administration, and navigation of the Outer Entrance (from Chatham Straits) of Port Alexander, Alaska, for the purpose of preventing interference with the operations of the United States in the improvement of this harbor entrance, pursuant to the provisions of Section 7 of the River and Harbor Act of August 8, 1917.

2. As the operations at this locality have been completed and there is no longer any necessity for these regulations, I recommend that they be revoked.

[2nd Indorsement]

REVOCATION OF REGULATIONS FOR MONROE HARBOR (RAISIN RIVER AND LAKE ERIE), MICHIGAN

SEPTEMBER 23, 1937.

1. On July 5, 1916, the Secretary of War prescribed rules and regulations for the use and navigation of Monroe Harbor (Entrance Channel and Canal), Michigan, which placed the canal and its appurtenances in charge of the District Engineer, defined the harbor entrance and the extent of the canal, prescribed speed limits and prohibited the unauthorized use, occupancy and injury of Government piers, docks and lands adjoining the waterway.

2. The piers, which were a primary matter of concern, were removed in 1935, the channel has been lengthened, widened, straightened and supplemented by a turning basin, and the land formerly within Government boundary lines along the river now forms part of the river. A Port Authority has been created under Michigan Statutes to regulate and govern port activities at the locality. The special regulations prescribed in 1916 are, therefore, no longer needed since existing general regulations are sufficient to meet navigation requirements on this waterway.

3. Accordingly, I recommend that the special regulations for Monroe Harbor (Entrance Channel and Canal), Michigan, prescribed by the Secretary of War July 5, 1916, be revoked.

[2nd Indorsement]

REVOCATION OF REGULATIONS FOR ST. CLAIR FLATS SHIP CANAL, MICHIGAN

SEPTEMBER 24, 1937.

1. On February 15, 1907, the Department prescribed special rules and regulations for the use and navigation of the St. Clair Flats Ship Canal, Michigan, which defined the canal as comprising the dikes, the water between the dikes and for a width of 300 feet west of the west dike, and the improved channels of approach; provided for the appointment of a custodian to direct the movement of all vessels, boats, or other floating things in the canal; established rules for the navigation of the canal; and prohibited the willful damage or injury of the revetment of the dikes, the trees growing thereon, and the buildings or other public property pertaining to the canal or the dikes.

2. In 1934 the west dike, together with the buildings and trees thereon, was removed, the channel of the canal was widened and deepened and no custodian is now appointed or required to direct the movement of craft through the canal. General rules and regulations governing navigation are sufficient to adequately meet the requirements of navigation on this waterway. Accordingly, I recommend that the special rules and regulations prescribed on February 15, 1907, by the Secretary of War to govern the use and navigation of St. Clair Flats Ship Canal be revoked.

REVOCATION OF LOGGING REGULATIONS GOVERNING MISSISSIPPI RIVER, BETWEEN MOUTH OF CHIPPEWA RIVER AND HEAD OF WEST NEWTON SLOUGH

SEPTEMBER 1, 1937.

On August 3, 1900, the Secretary of War approved logging regulations for the Mississippi River between the mouth of Chippewa River, Wisconsin, and the head of West Newton Slough. Since no drives of logs have been made for many years and lumbering as a large scale industry has ceased in this area, the banning of logging from the Mississippi River will cause little or no hardship to any individual or company. Commercial and pleasure craft will undoubtedly increase after completion of the 9-foot channel project on the Mississippi and it appears inadvisable to permit the floating of loose timber and sack rafts in the river below Minneapolis, the present head of this project. I recommend, therefore, that the logging regulations approved August 3, 1900, be revoked.

SEC. 900. All activities of the Corporation relating to insuring and maintaining appropriate insurance on property of the Corporation and properties upon which the Corporation holds liens shall be handled by the Insurance Section, which shall operate under the general supervision of the General Manager and under the direct and immediate supervision of the Manager of the Insurance Section who shall be charged with the duty and responsibility of supervising and directing all such insurance activities and the maintenance of adequate records therefor. SEC. 903. Be it further resolved, That such authorization to endorse drafts as provided in the last paragraph of Section 903 may be extended to any District Manager or Subdistrict Manager upon the recommendation of the Manager of the Insurance Section and the approval of the General Manager.

Be it further resolved, That all previous actions of the Board and of the Board of Directors insofar as they conflict with the provisions of this resolution, are hereby superseded and revoked.

Be it further resolved, That the provisions of this resolution shall become effective November 22, 1937.

AN ORDER PROVIDING FOR A PUBLIC HEARING FOR THE PURPOSE OF RECEIVING EVIDENCE TO ENABLE THE COMMISSION TO DETERMINE WHETHER CERTAIN COALS IN THE STATE OF TEXAS ARE SUBJECT TO THE PROVISIONS OF THE BITUMINOUS COAL ACT OF 1937, AND FOR THE FURTHER PURPOSE OF HEARING APPLICATIONS FOR EXEMPTION AS PROVIDED FOR BY ORDER NO. 28.

Whereas the Act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes" (Public, No. 48, 75th Cong., 1st Sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, provides (Section 17 (b)) that "The term 'bituminous coal' includes all bituminous, semi-bituminous, and subbituminous coal and shall exclude lignite, which is defined as a lignitic coal having calorific value in British thermal units of less than seven thousand six hundred per pound and having a natural moisture content in place in the mine of 30 per centum or more"; and

Whereas the Commission deems it necessary to conduct a public hearing in the State of Texas for the purpose of receiving evidence to enable the Commission to determine whether certain coals in the State of Texas are subject to the provisions of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937 and, further, to hear and determine at the same time all Texas applications for exemption filed pursuant to Order No. 28;

Now, therefore, in order to determine whether the coal in said state or any part thereof does not come within the definition of "bituminous coal" as set forth in Section 17 (b) of the Act, and in order to hear applications filed pursuant to Order No. 28 of the Commission, the Commission hereby orders and directs:

1. That a public hearing shall be held at Adolphus Hotel, in the City of Dallas, Texas, on the 15th day of November, 1937, commencing at the hour of 10:00 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of receiving evidence to enable the Commission to determine whether any part of the coal produced in the State of Texas does not come within the purview of Section 17 (b) of the Act.

2. That the public hearing so provided by this order, at the time and place designated, shall include the hearing of the application for exemption filed by the Morton Salt Company, Chicago, Illinois, pursuant to the Commission's Order No. 28, and, in addition, any other applications for exemption filed for the State of Texas pursuant to Order No. 28.

3. That any producer of coal, whether bituminous, semi-bituminous, subbituminous, anthracite or lignite, or the Consumers' Counsel, or code members, and all other interested parties may appear at said hearing and submit evidence.

4. Notice of said hearing shall be given under direction of the Secretary of the Commission by mailing a copy of this order to the Consumers' Counsel, to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, to the Secretaries of the respective District Boards, to the Morton Salt Company, to all known producers of coal in Texas, lignite or otherwise, and by publication of a notice upon two consecutive days in two newspapers of general circulation in the State of Texas. The notice published in said newspapers shall contain the date and place of the hearing and a concise statement of the purpose thereof.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

NEGOTIATION OF TRADE AGREEMENT WITH TURKEY CONTEMPLATED

NOVEMBER 3, 1937.

Pursuant to section 4 of an act of Congress approved June 12, 1934, entitled "An Act to Amend the Tariff Act of 1930", as extended by Public Resolution 10, approved March 1, 1937, and Executive Order No. 6750 of June 27, 1934, the Acting Secretary of State announced today that this Government contemplates the negotiation of a trade agreement with Turkey, and invited interested persons to submit suggestions as to the products that should be considered.

This preliminary announcement, which is made with a view to obtaining suggestions from interested persons in the early stages of the discussions, should not be confused with the formal notice of intention to negotiate regularly given. The formal notice will be issued at a later date, after receipt of the proposals of the Government of Turkey, at which time there will also be made public a list of products on which the United States will consider granting concessions to Turkey.

The object of this preliminary announcement is to provide notification at the earliest possible date that negotiations are contemplated, in order that interested parties may have an opportunity to suggest the import or export products which, in their opinion, should be included in the negotiations. Such suggestions, particularly those in regard to export products, are most useful to the trade-agreements organization if available at an early stage. Full information should be submitted as soon as possible. Exact technical descriptions of the products in question should be given, including, so far as possible, their nomenclature in the tariff laws of the importing country. These suggestions may be submitted in any form, and need not be under oath. They should be addressed to the Chairman of the Committee for Reciprocity Information, 7th and F Streets NW, Washington, D. C., and should reach the Committee not later than December 3, 1937.

Suggestions received by the Committee for Reciprocity Information will be distributed promptly to all agencies of the trade-agreements organization for use in the preparation of lists of commodities that may be involved in the negotiations. The list of commodities upon which the United States will consider the granting of concessions to Turkey will be published along with the formal notice of intention to negotiate. The formal notice, as heretofore, will indicate dates for the submission of briefs and applications for oral hearings, and the dates on which the customary open hearings will be held. The listing of products will indicate to American producers and importers whether or not particular tariff rates in which they are interested are under consideration. They will thus be saved the trouble of preparing briefs on products of interest to them but which are not expected to be involved in the negotiations.

A detailed compilation showing the principal products involved in the 1929 and 1936 trade between Turkey and the United States, prepared in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce, may be obtained from that Bureau or from any of the District Offices of the Department of Commerce, as well as from the Committee for Reciprocity Information or the Department of State.

SUMNER WELLES,
Acting Secretary of State.

(e) Division of class I payment.—On farms where there are two or more producers, that portion of the class I payment which is to be divided among producers on the crop-share basis shall be divided among the producers entitled to share in the soil-depleting crop(s) in such base in the proportion that the acreage share of each such producer bears to the total acreage on the farm devoted in 1937 to such crop(s) except that if no acreage was devoted to the crop(s) in one or more soil-depleting bases in 1937, or if the County Committee finds that diversion was not made ratably by all producers on the farm, the portion of such payment to be made to any producer with respect to each soil-depleting base shall be

(1) in the proportion that his contribution to the difference between the respective soil-depleting base and the 1937 acreage of the crop(s) in such base bears to the total difference between such base and the 1937 acreage of the crop(s) in such base; or

(2) in the proportion that his acreage share of the respective soil-depleting base bears to such base for the farm.

In cases where the farm is composed of only one producer unit and no acreage on the farm is devoted in 1937 to the crop(s) in one or more soil-depleting bases established for such farm, the contribution of each producer in accordance with the provisions of either paragraph (1) or paragraph (2) of this subsection (e) may be determined by agreement of all producers on the farm provided there is attached to the application for payment a statement signed by each producer on the farm that the contribution of each interested person with respect to each soil-depleting base in connection with which a payment is made is in the same proportion that such person would have shared in that soil-depleting crop (or the proceeds thereof) under the lease or operating agreement.

In cases where the farm is composed of only one producer unit and no acreage on the farm was devoted in 1937 to the crop(s) in one or more soil-depleting bases established for such farm and the contribution of each interested person with respect to any soil-depleting base in connection with which a payment is made is not in the same proportion that such person would have shared in that soil-depleting crop (or the proceeds thereof) under the lease or operating agreement, and in cases where the farm to be covered by an application for payment is composed of more than one producer unit and either no acreage on the farm was devoted in 1937 to the crop(s) in one or more soil-depleting bases established for such farm or the County Committee finds that diversion was not made ratably, the contribution of each such producer may, subject to the approval of the Administrative Officer in Charge or the Acting Administrative Officer in Charge in the State Office acting with the advice and consent of the State Committee, be determined in accordance with the provisions of either paragraph (1) or paragraph (2) of this subsection (e) by agreement of all producers on the farm signified in the presence of at least two members of the County Committee, provided such agreement is found by the County Committee to be equitable to all concerned. In any such case there shall be submitted to the State Office, at the time of submission of the application for payment with respect to the farm, a certification signed by each producer in the presence of and approved by at least two members of the County Committee stating that the agreement has been reached voluntarily in accordance with the foregoing provisions.

In cases where the contribution of each producer is to be determined in accordance with the provisions of either paragraph (1) or paragraph (2) of this subsection (e) and agreement of all producers is not obtained as outlined above, the County Committee may recommend, subject to the approval of the Administrative Officer in Charge in the State Office, acting with the advice and consent of the State Committee, and the approval of the Director of the Southern Division, its determination of the contribution of each producer, such recommendation to set forth fully the facts upon which such recommendation is based.

II

The last sentence of subsection (f) of section 15, which reads as follows: "In case of the death or incompetency of a producer occurring during the period of performance under the 1937 program, class I and class II payments shall be made or withheld in accordance with rules to be prescribed by the Secretary.", is deleted.

III

Subsection (g), section 15, Lease or Operating Agreement Expiring During Growing Season, is amended to read as follows:

(g) Lease or operating agreement expiring during 1937.—If control of a farm is lost through the expiration of a lease or operating agreement during 1937 the incoming producer shall not be shown as having an interest in the class I payment with respect to any soil-depleting crop which is harvested, or which under normal conditions would be ready for harvest, prior to the termination of the lease or operating agreement; except that if the County Committee finds that both the outgoing producer and the incoming producer have contributed to performance in 1937 with respect to the crop(s) in that soil-depleting base and such producers have agreed upon a division between them of the acreage of such crop(s) the acreage shall be divided according to their agreement (indicated by their signatures on the application for payment), or, if they are unable to agree, the County Committee shall recommend, subject to the approval of the Administrative Officer in Charge in the State, acting with the advice and consent of the State Committee, and the approval of the Director of the Southern Division, the division of such acreage between such persons on the basis found by it to be most equitable having due regard to the measure of performance contributed by each producer, and shall support its recommendation by a letter setting forth fully the facts in the case.

IV

Subsection (c) of section 62 is amended to read as follows:

(c) If two or more tracts of land in the same county are under different ownerships, even though they are operated by the same person, each such separately owned tract shall be covered by a separate work sheet. In case an operator rents from the same person a part of a tract of land on shares and the remainder of such tract for cash or a fixed commodity payment, or in case a person rents a part of a tract of land to one or more tenants on shares, and a part of the same tract of land to the same tenant(s) for cash or a fixed commodity payment, all such land may be covered by one work sheet.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION

By Division 5:

Exceptions were filed by District of Columbia Trucking Association, Inc., to the order recommended by the examiner, and Capital Transit Company replied thereto. Our conclusions differ in some respects from those recommended by the examiner.

This is an investigation instituted on our own motion to determine and define the zone adjacent to and commercially a part of the municipality of Washington, D. C., and of any municipality or municipalities contiguous thereto. Such determination and definition are necessary for the purpose of applying the exemption provided in section 203 (b) (8) of the Motor Carrier Act, 1935.[1]

Witnesses testified on behalf of District of Columbia Trucking Association, Inc., Capital Transit Company, and various shippers. The zone adjacent to and commercially a part of Washington and contiguous municipalities will be referred to as the commercial zone.

The District of Columbia, originally ten miles square, was ceded to the Federal Government by Maryland and Virginia. Later that part of the District of Columbia south and west of the Potomac River, now Arlington County and Alexandria, Va., was retroceded to Virginia. The present area of the District of Columbia is approximately 62 square miles and its population in 1930 was 486,869. Since February 1895, the City of Washington has been coextensive with the District of Columbia.

Municipalities in Maryland contiguous to Washington are Boulevard Heights, Fairmount Heights, Capitol Heights, Cottage City, Mount Rainier, and Takoma Park, Md. There are no municipalities in Virginia contiguous to Washington within the meaning of section 203 (b) (8). Alexandria is opposite the southern part of Washington but the two cities are not contiguous under section 203 (b) (8), as there are no means of communication between the cities by motor vehicle except through unincorporated areas.

[1] Section 203. (b) * * * nor, unless and to the extent that the Commission shall from time to time find that such application is necessary to carry out the policy of Congress enunciated in section 202, shall the provisions of this part, except the provisions of section 204 relative to qualifications and maximum hours of service of employees and safety of operations or standards of equipment apply to: (8) The transportation of passengers or property in interstate or foreign commerce wholly within a municipality or between contiguous municipalities or within a zone adjacent to and commercially a part of any such municipality or municipalities, except when such transportation is under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment to or from a point without such municipality, municipalities, or zone, and provided that the motor carrier engaged in such transportation of passengers over regular or irregular route or routes is also lawfully engaged in the intrastate transportation of passengers over the entire length of such interstate route or routes in accordance with the laws of each State having jurisdiction; * * *.

Since there are few industries in Washington and contiguous municipalities, the population of Washington has grown with the increase of employment by the Federal Government. As of July 30, 1936, there were 117,103 employees of the Federal Government in Washington. Employees of the District of Columbia Government number 12,930, and there are approximately 182,000 engaged in the professions and trades or employed by stores, hotels, and others. As the population of Washington increased, suburban residential communities grew up beyond the boundaries of the District of Columbia. The more intense suburban development in Maryland extends at least two miles beyond the District of Columbia line to the northwest and northeast. In Virginia, suburban communities have grown up in Arlington County.

The Metropolitan District of Washington designated by the United States Bureau of the Census includes the District of Columbia and the following areas in Maryland and Virginia:

In Montgomery County, Md.: District 4, Rockville; District 7, Bethesda; District 10, Potomac; District 13, Wheaton.

In Prince Georges County, Md.: District 1, Vansville; District 2, Bladensburg; District 6, Spaulding; District 12, Oxen Hill; District 13, Kent; District 14, Bowie; District 16, Hyattsville; District 17, Chillum; District 18, Seat Pleasant; District 19, Riverdale; District 20, Lanham; District 21, Berwyn.

Alexandria, Va.

Arlington County, Va.

In Fairfax County, Va.: Falls Church; Providence District.

The land area of the Metropolitan District is 485 square miles.

A witness for the Washington Board of Trade testified that in his opinion the commercial zone of Washington lies within a radius of 20 to 25 miles from the Zero Milestone at the center of the original area of the District of Columbia. Gaithersburg, Olney, Laurel, Bowie, and Marlboro, Md., and Dranesville and Fairfax, Va., are within that area. Commodities transported by motor vehicle from Washington to points within 20 miles consist mainly of dry goods, household goods, food products, and building materials. In the reverse direction, the commodities transported consist mainly of farm and dairy products and small manufactured articles.

A number of residents of Maryland and Virginia are employed in Washington and travel daily between their homes and places of employment. Commutation service by motor vehicle is provided by the Capital Transit Company between Washington and Gaithersburg, Olney, Burtonsville, and Laurel, Md., and intermediate points. That company also operates busses between Washington and Mount Vernon, Va., except during the winter months. It contends that the Washington commercial zone extends to all of the points included in those operations.

Department stores in Washington regularly deliver goods purchased from them to points within 20 miles without additional charge. A map prepared for use in measuring the circulation of Washington newspapers shows the Washington suburban area as including Montgomery, Prince Georges, and Charles Counties, Md., and Loudoun, Arlington, Fairfax, and Prince William Counties, Va. Retail deliveries of coal are made by motor vehicle from northeast Washington to consumers in Beltsville and Marlboro, Md., and Alexandria and Falls Church, Va. Ready-mixed concrete is transported by motor vehicle from Washington to points as distant as Fairfax.

The Washington commercial zone extends only to those areas which are adjacent to and commercially a part of Washington and contiguous municipalities. In determining the limits of the commercial zone herein, we shall adhere to the principles enunciated in our supplemental report in New York, N. Y. Commercial Zone, 2 M. C. C. 191. Gaithersburg, Olney, Rockville, Laurel, Bowie, and Marlboro, Md., and Fairfax, Falls Church, and Mount Vernon, Va., are not sufficiently adjacent to Washington to be considered within the Washington commercial zone for the purpose of applying the exemption in section 203 (b) (8).

The State Corporation Commission of Virginia takes the position that the public interest requires the removal of the exemption to the extent that it affects transportation by motor vehicle between Washington and points in Virginia. A somewhat similar position is taken by the District of Columbia Trucking Association, Inc., which contends that all transportation by motor vehicle for hire from and to Washington should be subject to regulation under all provisions of the act, and that the District of Columbia boundary line should be designated as the limits of the Washington commercial zone. It is clear that the Washington commercial zone extends beyond the limits of the District of Columbia, and that transportation by motor vehicle between Washington and those areas in Maryland and Virginia within the commercial zone is exempt from regulation under section 203 (b) (8) unless and to the extent that the application of the act is found to be necessary to carry out the policy of Congress set forth in section 202. It has not been shown that the removal of the exemption is necessary to carry out this policy.

We find that the zone adjacent to and commercially a part of Washington and contiguous municipalities, in which transportation by motor vehicle in interstate or foreign commerce, not under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment to or from a point beyond the zone, is partially exempt under section 203 (b) (8) from regulation, is as follows:

Kensington, Md.

That part of Montgomery County, Md., east of a line extending northward from the Potomac River to the intersection of Conduit Road and Seven Locks Road, and thence northward along Seven Locks Road to the intersection with Weaver Road; and south of a line extending eastward along Weaver Road from the intersection with Seven Locks Road to Orndorf Mill Road, thence eastward along Orndorf Mill Road to Old Georgetown Road, thence southeastward along Old Georgetown Road to Grosvenor Lane, thence eastward along Grosvenor Lane to U. S. Highway 240, thence northward along U. S. Highway 240 to Garrett Park Road, thence southeastward along Garrett Park Road to Wheaton Road, thence northeastward along Wheaton Road to Old Bladensburg Road, thence southeastward along Old Bladensburg Road to the Montgomery County-Prince Georges County line.

Chillum, Riverdale, Hyattsville, Bladensburg, Seat Pleasant, and Spaulding Districts, Prince Georges County, Md.

Alexandria, Va.

Arlington County, Va.

An order giving effect to these findings will be entered.

REVOCATION OF REGULATIONS FOR PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY BRIDGE ACROSS BLACK RIVER, MICHIGAN, AT PORT HURON

SEPTEMBER 22, 1937.

1. On April 18, 1919, the Department prescribed special regulations to govern the draw in the swing bridge of the Pere Marquette Railway across Black River at Port Huron, Michigan.

2. As this swing bridge interfered with navigation, the Department ordered its alteration and it was subsequently replaced by a single leaf bascule bridge with a minimum horizontal clearance normal to the axis of the stream of 100 feet, which can be promptly opened to afford passage of vessels. There is no longer any necessity for the regulations approved in 1919, and I recommend, therefore, that they be revoked.

Regulation 4, section 4.—Paragraph 1 is amended to read as follows:

"PARAGRAPH 1. Method of conducting.—Any referendum held as provided in section 5 of the act shall be conducted by the Bureau in accordance with this section. The Chief of Bureau shall determine (a) the market or group of markets to be covered by a referendum; (b) when a referendum is to be held; and (c) the period during which growers, entitled to vote therein, may cast their ballots. Paragraph 4 is amended to read as follows:

"PAR. 4. Filing and tabulation of votes.—Each ballot, when filled in and signed by a grower entitled to vote in a referendum, shall be mailed or delivered by him as specified in the ballot. Persons authorized by the Chief of Bureau to receive votes in any referendum shall promptly file all votes received or collected by them with the Bureau. All ballots filed in a referendum shall be examined to verify the eligibility of the voter and the Chief of Bureau shall have compiled the result of the referendum and furnish the Secretary a statement showing whether or not two-thirds of the growers voting favored the designation of the market or group of markets covered by the referendum. In verifying votes, ballots which do not show the desire of the voter, or ballots which are defective or illegible, or ballots on which the signature or other identification does not correspond with the established list shall not be counted. The choice of any individual voter shall not be divulged by any official of the Bureau, except to the Secretary when requested. Votes, ballots, and other documents pertaining to a referendum shall be preserved in the Bureau for a period of 2 years from the closing date of such referendum, and may be destroyed thereafter."

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR.

RECLAMATION WITHDRAWAL FOR CENTRAL VALLEY PROJECT, CALIFORNIA

AUGUST 17, 1937

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

SIR: It is recommended that the following described lands be withdrawn from public entry, under the first form of withdrawal, as provided in Section 3, Act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat., 388).

CENTRAL VALLEY PROJECT, MOUNT DIABLO MERIDIAN, CALIFORNIA

T. 35 N., R. 1 W., Section 22, E½.

Respectfully,

I concur:
(1)
Secretary of Agriculture.

Department of the Interior, October 29, 1937. The lands described are hereby reserved as recommended and the Commissioner of the General Land Office will cause the records of his office and the local land office to be noted accordingly.

OSCAR L. CHAPMAN,
Assistant Secretary.

OCTOBER 15, 1937.

The Honorable, THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR:

DEAR MR. SECRETARY: Further reference is made to the Acting Secretary's letter of September 2, 1937, enclosing draft of a first form reclamation withdrawal dated August 17, and to this Department's reply of September 14, 1937.

The land described in the withdrawal lies outside the boundaries of the Shasta National Forest, California, but is in the Kennett Dam area of the Central Valley Project. The E½ Section 22, T. 35 N., R. 1 W., M. D. M., is located along Pit River at the mouth of Roaring and Hatchet Creeks. It is quite rough and is inaccessible except for trails. It is principally valuable as a protection type, and for recreation in that good fishing is to be had. The lower portion of the area, bordering Pit River on both sides, is approximately at the 1,200-foot contour. Thus, it will be a few miles upstream from the reservoir level. Should a mine be located within the area, pollution of the streams would doubtless occur as well as silting of the Shasta Reservoir. This Department, therefore, concurs in the withdrawal of the land from entry under the Act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat., 388).

Sincerely yours,

H. A. WALLACE, Secretary.

The provisions of the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program, including the Range Conservation Program, are necessarily subject to such legislation affecting said program as the Congress of the United States may hereafter enact; the making of the payments and grants of aid herein provided are contingent upon such appropriation as the Congress may hereafter provide for such purposes; and the amounts of such payments and grants of aid will necessarily be within the limits finally determined by such appropriation and the extent of national participation in the program. Any increase or decrease in rates of payments made because of the extent of participation in the Agricultural Conservation Program, including the Range Conservation Program, is hereby limited so as not to exceed 10 percent.

The provisions of the 1938 Range Conservation Program contained in this bulletin are not applicable to (1) Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and Alaska; (2) counties for which special programs under said Act are approved for 1938 by the Secretary of Agriculture; and (3) public domain of the United States, including lands owned by the United States and administered under the Taylor Grazing Act or by the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, and other lands in which the beneficial ownership is in the United States.

SECTION 1. Rates of range-building payments.—Within the limits of the range-building allowance, payment will be made for carrying out on range land in 1938 such of the following range-building practices as are recommended for the State by the State committee and approved by the Regional Director, and as are approved by the county committee for the ranching unit prior to their institution.

Practices and Conditions of Payment—Rate

A. Reseeding of range land.—

1. Natural reseeding by deferred grazing.—For withholding 25 percent of the range land in the ranching unit from grazing for the period from the start of forage growth to seed maturity, established by the State committee and approved by the Regional Director: Provided (1) If grazing is deferred on less than 25 percent of the range land in the ranching unit, a proportionate payment will be made; (2) On ranching units on which cattle or horses are grazed the area to be kept free of grazing is fenced and the fence is maintained sufficiently to prevent the entry of livestock; (3) On ranching units used exclusively for grazing sheep either the area to be kept free of grazing is fenced and the fence is maintained sufficiently to prevent entry of livestock or the entry of livestock on the non-grazed acreage is prevented by herding; (4) The remaining range land in such ranching unit is not pastured to such an extent as will decrease the stand of grass or injure the forage, tree growth, or watershed; (5) Such practice shall not be applicable to range land in the ranching unit which normally is not used for grazing during the period from the start of forage growth to seed maturity; (6) The ranch operator has submitted to the county committee in writing the designation of the non-grazing range area of the ranching unit previous to the carrying-out of such practice; and (7) The ranch operator complies with such other conditions or specifications as may be established by the county committee with the approval of the State committee, including the increase of the area to be withheld from grazing to as much as 40 percent of the range land, where the county committee determines such additional conditions or specifications are needed in the interest of range conservation: Sixty percent of the range-building allowance, provided such rate shall not exceed the equivalent of $1.25 per animal unit of grazing capacity.

2. Artificial reseeding.—For reseeding depleted range land with good seed of adapted varieties of range grasses or forage shrubs: 20 cents per pound of seed sown, but not in excess of $2.00 per acre.

C. Development of stock water on range land.—

5. Earthen tanks or reservoirs.—For constructing reservoirs or earthen tanks with spillways adequate to prevent dams from washing out, for the purpose of providing water for range livestock: 15 cents per cubic yard of fill or excavation.

6. Concrete or rubble masonry dams.—For constructing concrete or rubble masonry dams in rough or broken areas

(where earthen dams or reservoirs are impracticable and where there is no possiblity of using the masonry dam for irrigation), for the purpose of providing water for range livestock: $6.00 per cubic yard of concrete or rubble masonry.

7. Wells.—i. For drilling or digging wells with casing not less than 4 inches in diameter, for the purpose of providing water for range livestock, provided a windmill or power pump is installed and the water is conveyed to a tank or storage reservoir. Payment will not be made for a well developed at ranching unit headquarters: $2.00 per linear foot.

ii. For drilling or digging wells with casing less than 4 inches in diameter, for the purpose of providing water for range livestock, provided a windmill or power pump is installed and the water is conveyed to a tank or storage reservoir. An artesian well will qualify for payment provided adequate stock water is made available during the grazing season and the water is conveyed to a tank or trough. Payment will not be made for a well developed at ranching unit headquarters: $1.00 per linear foot.

8. Development of natural watering places.—For developing springs or seeps, protecting the source from trampling and conveying the water in a trough or in a pipe not less than one inch in diameter to a tank, for the purpose of providing water for range livestock: 40 cents per cubic foot for excavation in soil or gravel, and 70 cents per cubic foot for excavation in rock.

D. Planting and maintaining a stand of trees.—

9. Tree planting.—Planting of trees on range land, provided that the trees are planted in 1938 prior to November 1; that the number, kind, and age of trees planted and methods of planting and growing of such trees are in accordance with approved specifications; and that the acreage plated to trees is fenced and the fence is maintained sufficiently to prevent entry of livestock: $10.00 per acre.

10. Cultivating and maintaining a stand of trees.—Cultivating, protecting, and maintaining by replanting if necessary, a full stand of at least 500 trees per acre of forest planting, or 200 trees per acre of windbreak or shelterbelt plantings, planted between January 1, 1934 and January 1, 1938: $4.00 per acre.

SEC. 2. Range-building allowance.—(a) In Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, and California, the range-building allowance shall be 2 cents per acre of range land in the ranching unit plus $1.00 times the grazing capacity of the range land; and in Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, and North Dakota, the range-building allowance shall be 3 cents per acre of range land in the ranching unit plus 75 cents times the grazing capacity of the range land: Provided, however, That in either area the grazing capacity item shall not be calculated on more than one animal unit for each 10 acres of range land in the ranching unit, and the acreage item shall not be calculated on more than 60 acres for each animal unit of grazing capacity established for the ranching unit.

(b) In addition, the range-building allowance shall include 35 cents times the number of acres of mountain meadow land in the ranching unit from which hay is normally harvested for feeding on the ranching unit to range livestock owned by the operator of the ranching unit. The mountain counties in which this additional allowance is made shall be those counties in the Western Region for which, upon the basis of the recommendations of the county and State committees, the Regional Director determines the reseeding and erosion control practices specified in Section 1 to be necessary and effective in promoting range conservation. Provided, however, That neither the grazing capacity nor the acreage of mountain meadow land for which this additional allowance is made shall be considered in calculating the portion of the range-building allowance provided for in subsection (a).

SEC. 3. Conditions of payment.—The range-building payment with respect to any ranching unit shall not exceed the range-building allowance for such ranching unit. Payment will be made only if range-building practices are carried out according to the specifications prescribed by the State committee and approved by the Regional Director. Payments made for carrying out range-building practices shall not be subject to the provisions of Section 4 of Bulletin ACP–1938. Where a portion of the labor, seed, trees, or materials used in carrying out any practice is furnished by a Federal or State agency other than the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, payment will be made for the proportion of the total acreage of the practice, not exceeding the proportion of the total cost, not furnished by the Federal or State agency. No payment will be made for practices carried out with labor, seed, trees, and materials furnished entirely by any Federal or State agency other than the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

SEC. 4. Changes in leasing arrangements and other devices.—No payment will be made to any person who has for 1938 made any change from the 1937 leasing arrangements of range land for the purpose of, or which would have the effect of, diverting to such person any payment to which any lessee would be entitled if the 1937 leasing arrangements of such range land were in effect for 1938. If the State committee finds that any person who files an application for a payment pursuant to the provisions of the 1938 Range Conservation Program has made any change from the 1937 leasing arrangements of such range land or has employed any other scheme or device whatsoever for the purpose of, or which would have the effect of, depriving any other person of any payment or share therein to which such other person otherwise would be entitled, the Secretary may withhold from the person participating in such a scheme or device, or require such person to refund, in whole or in part, the amount of any payment which has been or otherwise would be made to such person for performance in connection with the 1938 Range Conservation Program.

SEC. 5. Eligibility for payment.—Application for range-building payment may be made only by ranch operators. Range-building payments will be made to (1) a sole ranch operator, or (2) each ranch operator of a group of two or more ranch operators, provided they all signify in the application for the range-building payment a percentum of the total payment to be made to each ranch operator. In case there are two or more ranch operators, the application must be made by all of them, except that in cases where any ranch operator refuses to sign the application for payment the county committee shall determine the percentage share of each ranch operator and payment of his percentage share will be made to each ranch operator applying for payment in accordance with such determination.

Payment will be made only upon application submitted through the county office. The Secretary reserves the right (1) to withhold payment to any ranch operator who fails to file any form or furnish any information required with respect to any ranching unit in which such ranch operator is interested, and (2) to refuse to accept any application for payment if such application or any other form or information required is not submitted to the county office within the time fixed by the Regional Director. At least two weeks' notice to the public shall be given in advance of the expiration of a time limit for filing prescribed forms.

SEC. 6. Materials furnished as grants of aid.—Wherever it is found practicable, trees, seeds, and other material may upon request of the ranch operator(s) be furnished by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration as grants of aid in lieu of payments. Wherever such materials are furnished, the range-building allowance will be reduced by the amount of the payment which otherwise would be computed with respect to the practices in connection with which the materials so furnished are used.

SEC. 7. Payment restricted to effectuation of the purposes of the program.—All or any part of any payment which otherwise would be made to any person under the 1938 Range Conservation Program may be withheld (1) if he has adopted any practice which the Secretary determines tends to defeat any of the purposes of the program, (2) if, by means of any corporation, partnership, estate, trust, or any other device, or in any manner whatsoever, he has offset, or has participated in offsetting, in whole or in part, the performance for which such payment is otherwise authorized, or (3) if, with respect to forest land or woodland owned or controlled by him, he adopts any practice which tends to defeat the purposes of a sound conservation program as prescribed by the Regional Director.

No payment will be made to any person if it is determined in accordance with instructions issued by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration that, with respect to any ranch which he owns or operates, the stand of grass has been decreased or the forage, tree growth or watershed has been injured by overgrazing in 1938.

SEC. 8. Payments computed and made without regard to claims.—Any payment or share of payment shall be computed and made without regard to questions of title under State law, without deduction of claims for advances, and without regard to any claim or lien against any crop or livestock, or proceeds thereof, in favor of the owner or any other creditor.

SEC. 9. Association membership and deduction for expenses.—Any ranch operator who previously has not, in accordance with the Articles of Association, become a member of the County Agricultural Conservation Association of the county in which his ranching unit or units are located shall become a member thereof by signing an application under which a payment can be made with respect to any such ranching unit. Any person shall cease to be a member of the association when it becomes evident that he cannot qualify for a payment in the county in connection with the 1938 Range Conservation Program.

There shall be deducted pro rata from the payments made to members of each County Agricultural Conservation Association all or such part as the Secretary may prescribe of the estimated administrative expenses incurred or to be incurred by such association in cooperating in carrying out in such county the purposes of Sections 7 to 17 of the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act.

SEC. 10. Establishment of grazing capacities.—There shall be established a grazing capacity for each ranching unit for which an application for determination of grazing capacity is received on or before a date established by the Regional Director as affording reasonable opportunity for the filing of such applications. In determining grazing capacity, consideration shall be given to the following: (a) composition, palatability, and density of forage growth; (b) climatic fluctuations; (c) distribution and character of watering facilities; (d) topographic and cultural features; (e) presence or absence of rodents and poisonous plant infestations; and (f) number and classes of livestock previously carried. The average of the individual grazing capacities established for all ranching units in a county shall not exceed the county average grazing capacity limit established by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration on the basis of available statistics.

SEC. 11. Determination of county in which a ranching unit is located.—A ranching unit shall be regarded as located in the county in which its principal dwelling is situated, or if there is no dwelling thereon it shall be regarded as located in the county in which the major portion of the ranching unit is located.

SEC. 12. Appeals.—Any ranch operator who considers himself aggrieved by any recommendation or determination of the county committee with respect to the following matters affecting his ranching unit may, within 15 days after being notified thereof, request the county committee in writing to reconsider the recommendation or determination: (a) eligibility to file an application for payment, (b) grazing capacity established for the range land in such ranching unit, or (c) any other matter affecting the right to or the amount of his payment with respect to the ranching unit. The county committee shall notify such person of its decision in writing within 15 days after receipt of such written request for reconsideration. If such person is dissatisfied with the decision of the county committee he may, within 15 days after such decision, appeal in writing to the State committee. The State committee shall, within 30 days after the receipt of the appeal, inform such person of its decision. If such person is dissatisfied with the decision of the State committee, he may, within 15 days thereafter, request the Regional Director to review the decision of the State committee.

SEC. 13. Instructions and forms.—The Agricultural Adjustment Administration shall prepare and issue such instructions and forms as may be required in administering the 1938 Range Conservation Program. Such instructions shall include provision for the rounding of fractions in connection with grazing capacities and the acreages or units of range-building practices and shall provide for calculating the net payment to any person to the nearest whole dollar, fractions of 50 cents or less to be dropped and fractions of more than 50 cents to be considered as $1.00.

SEC. 62. Rules and Regulations.—

The Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, shall prescribe and publish all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of this title.

Pursuant to the above-quoted provisions and other provisions of the internal revenue laws, the following regulations are hereby prescribed with respect to returns of information to be filed by attorneys, accountants, fiduciaries, banks, trust companies, financial institutions, or other persons as to the formation, organization, or reorganization of foreign corporations:

ARTICLE 1. Information returns.—(a) Return under section 340 (a) (1).—Any attorney, accountant, fiduciary, bank, trust company, financial institution, or other person, who, on or after August 26, 1937, aids, assists, counsels, or advises in, or with respect to, the formation, organization, or reorganization of any foreign corporation shall file with the Commissioner, within 30 days after giving such aid, assistance, counsel, or advice, an information return as provided in section 340 (a) (1) and these regulations. The return must be filed in every such case (1) regardless of the nature of the counsel or advice given, whether for or against the formation, organization, or reorganization of the foreign corporation, or the nature of the aid or assistance rendered and (2) regardless of the action taken upon the advice or counsel, that is, whether the foreign corporation is actually formed, organized, or reorganized.

If, in a particular case, the aid, assistance, counsel or advice given by any person extends over a period of more than one day and not for more than 30 days, such person, to avoid the multiple filing of returns, may file a single return for the entire period. In such case, the return shall be filed within 30 days from the first day of such period. If, in a particular case, the aid, assistance, counsel or advice given by any person extends over a period of more than 30 days, such person may file a return at the end of each 30 days included within such period and at the end of the fractional part of a 30-day period, if any, extending beyond the last full 30 days. In each such case, the return must disclose all the required information which was not reported on a prior return.

(b) Return under section 340 (a) (2).—Any attorney, accountant, fiduciary, bank, trust company, financial institution, or other person, who, since December 31, 1933, and prior to November 24, 1937, (the ninetieth day after the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1937), has aided, assisted, counseled, or advised in the formation, organization, or reorganization of any foreign corporation, shall file with the Commissioner, on or before November 24, 1937, an information return as provided in section 340 (a) (2) and these regulations. The return must be filed in every such case regardless of the nature of the counsel or advice given, whether for or against the formation, organization, or reorganization of the foreign corporation, or of the nature of the aid or assistance rendered, if such formation, organization, or reorganization occurs subsequent to the giving of such aid, assistance, counsel, or advice and prior to the expiration of ninety days after the date of enactment of the Act.

(c) Requirements common to returns under section 340 (a) (1) and section 340 (a) (2).—

(1) Employers.—In the case of aid, assistance, counsel, or advice, in, or with respect to, the formation, organization, or reorganization of a foreign corporation given by a person in whole or in part through the medium of subordinates or employees, (including in the case of a corporation the officers thereof), the return of the employer must set forth to the full extent all information prescribed by these regulations including that which, as an incident to such employment, is within the possession or knowledge or under the control of such subordinates or employees.

(2) Employees.—The obligation of a subordinate or employee (including in the case of a corporation the officers thereof) to file a return with respect to any aid, assistance, counsel, or advice in, or with respect to, the formation, organization, or reorganization of a foreign corporation given as an incident to his employment, will be satisfied if a complete and accurate return as prescribed by section 340 and these regulations is duly filed by the employer setting forth all of the information within the possession or knowledge or under the control of such subordinate or employee.

Clerks, stenographers, and other subordinates or employees, rendering aid or assistance solely of a clerical or mechanical character in, or with respect to, the formation, organization, or reorganization of a foreign corporation are not required to file returns by reason of such services.

(3) Partners.—In the case of aid, assistance, counsel, or advice in, or with respect to, the formation, organization, or reorganization of a foreign corporation given by one or more members of a partnership in the course of its business, the obligation of each such individual member to file a return will be satisfied if a complete and accurate return, as prescribed by these regulations, is duly filed by the partnership, executed by all the members of the firm who gave any such aid, assistance, counsel or advice. If, however, the partnership has been dissolved at the time the return is due, individual returns must be filed by each member of the former partnership who gave any such aid, assistance, counsel or advice.

(4) Returns jointly made.—If two or more persons aid, assist, counsel or advise in, or with respect to, the formation, organization, or reorganization of a particular foreign corporation, any two or more of such persons may, in lieu of filing several returns, jointly execute and file one return.

(d) Penalties.—For criminal penalties for failure to file the returns required by section 340 and these regulations, see section 341 quoted in Paragraph A.

ART. 2. Form of return.—The returns under article 1 shall be made on Form 959. Such forms may, upon request, be procured from any collector. Each person should carefully prepare his return so as to set forth fully and clearly the information called for therein. ART. 3. Contents of returns.—The return on Form 959 shall, in accordance with the provisions of these regulations and the instructions on the form, set forth the following information to the full extent such information is within the knowledge or possession or under the control of the person required to file the return:

(8) The names and addresses of the shareholders of the foreign corporation at the time of the completion of its formation, organization, or reorganization, showing the classes of stock and number of shares held by each;

(9) The name and address of the person (or persons) having custody of the books of account and records of the foreign corporation;

(10) Such other information as may be required by the return form; and

(11) Where any of the information required to be furnished is withheld because its character is claimed to be privileged as a communication between attorney and client within the meaning of section 340 (b), the return must so state and must contain a complete statement of the nature and the circumstances of the communication on which a decision as to the propriety of the claim of privilege may be reached.

If a person aids, assists, counsels or advises in, or with respect to, the formation, organization, or reorganization of more than one foreign corporation, a separate return must be filed with respect to each foreign corporation.

ART. 4. Verification of return.—All returns required by section 340 and these regulations shall be verified under oath or affirmation. The oath or affirmation may be administered by an officer duly authorized to administer oaths for general purposes by the law of the United States, or of any State, territory, or possession of the United States, wherein such oath is administered, or by a consular officer of the United States. Such returns executed abroad may be attested free of charge before United States consular officers. ## DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE REGULATING HANDLING IN INTERSTATE AND FOREIGN COMMERCE AND SUCH HANDLING AS DIRECTLY BURDENS, OBSTRUCTS, OR AFFECTS INTERSTATE OR FOREIGN COMMERCE OF CELERY GROWN IN THE STATE OF FLORIDA

Whereas it is provided in Public No. 10, 73rd Congress, as amended, and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, approved June 3, 1937[1] (hereinafter called the act), as follows:

Sec. 8c. (1) The Secretary of Agriculture shall, subject to the provisions of this section, issue, and from time to time amend, orders applicable to processors, associations of producers, and others engaged in the handling of any agricultural commodity or product thereof specified in subsection (2) of this section. Such persons are referred to in this title as "handlers." Such orders shall regulate, in the manner hereinafter in this section provided, only such handling of such agricultural commodity, or product thereof, as is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, or which directly burdens, obstructs, or affects, interstate or foreign commerce in such commodity or product thereof.

Whereas the Secretary of Agriculture, having reason to believe that the issuance of an order would tend to establish and maintain such marketing conditions for celery grown in the State of Florida as would establish prices to growers at a level that will give such celery a purchasing power with respect to articles that farmers buy equivalent to the purchasing power of such celery in the base period, did, pursuant to the provisions of the act and regulations thereunder, on the eighth day of June 1937, give notice of a hearing to be held in Sanford, Florida, on June 25, 1937, on a proposed order regulating the handling of celery grown in the State of Florida and did, upon said date and at said place, conduct a public hearing thereon, and did give opportunity to all interested parties to be heard concerning the said proposed order; and

[1] Public 137, 75th Congress.

Whereas the Secretary finds upon the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof:

(1) That customarily more than 95 per cent of all shipments of celery grown in the State of Florida is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce and directly burdens, obstructs or affects such commerce;

(2) That, in order to give such celery a purchasing power with respect to articles that farmers buy equivalent to the average purchasing power of such celery during the base period, August, 1909–July, 1914, the average price received by the grower should have been $1.29 per crate during the 1937 season;

(3) That the average price received by growers of such celery for the 1937 season was approximately $.97 per crate;

(4) That the average price per crate of said celery received by growers during the eight years from 1930 to 1937, was $1.03 or 80 per cent of the purchasing power of said celery during the said base period;

(5) That, in the past, lack of regulation of shipments of celery produced in the State of Florida was an important factor contributing to unstable marketing conditions for said celery and consequently depressed prices to growers;

(6) That the regulation of shipments of celery through proration as prescribed by this order will serve to prevent fluctuations of prices to growers, particularly prices which are so low as to represent losses to growers, and thereby establish and maintain a more stable market for said celery, tending to restore prices to growers of said celery to a level that will have a purchasing power with respect to articles that farmers buy equivalent to the purchasing power of said celery in said base period;

(7) That the method of regulating shipments by proration among handlers is fair and equitable;

(8) That this order is limited in its application to the smallest regional production area and regional marketing area that is practicable;

(9) That the issuance of several orders applicable to any subdivision of the regional production and marketing areas covered by this order would not effectively carry out the declared policy of Title I of the act with respect to establishing and maintaining such marketing conditions for celery as will reestablish prices to growers that will give such commodities a purchasing power with respect to articles that farmers buy equivalent to the purchasing power of such commodity in the base period;

(10) That the necessary expenses to be incurred by the control committee for its maintenance and functioning during the season beginning August 1, 1937 and ending July 31, 1938, will amount to $24,640; that such expenses are fair and reasonable; and that the prorata share thereof of each handler in amount of $.01 per crate is fair and reasonable and is approved;

(11) That the interest of the consumer is protected by reason of the fact that the order is devised to operate so as to approach a level of prices which it is declared to be the policy of Congress to establish by securing a gradual correction of the current level of prices at as rapid a rate as the Secretary of Agriculture deems to be in the public interest and feasible in view of the current consumptive demand in the domestic and foreign markets, and by reason of the fact that the order authorizes no action which has for its purpose the maintenance of prices to farmers above the level which it is declared to be the policy of Congress to establish in said act;

(12) That this order will tend to establish and maintain such orderly marketing conditions for celery in interstate commerce as will establish prices to growers at a level that will give such celery a purchasing power with respect to articles that farmers buy equivalent to the purchasing power of such celery in the base period; and

(13) That there are no differences in the production and marketing of celery in the production area covered by this order that make necessary different terms applicable to different parts of such area; and

Whereas the Secretary of Agriculture further finds:

(1) That the marketing agreement regulating the handling of celery grown in the State of Florida executed by him on November 9, 1937, and upon which a public hearing was held on June 25, 1937, was signed by handlers who handled more than fifty percent of such commodity produced during the period August 1, 1936–July 31, 1937; and

(2) That this order regulates the handling of said celery in the same manner as the said marketing agreement does, and is made applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activities specified in the aforesaid marketing agreement; and

Whereas the Secretary of Agriculture finds and determines that the issuance of this order is favored by producers who during the marketing season of 1937, which the Secretary determines to be a representative period, produced for market at least two-thirds of the volume of such commodity produced for market within the production area specified in such order;

Now, therefore, it is ordered by the Secretary of Agriculture, acting under the authority vested in him as aforesaid, that the handling of celery, grown in the State of Florida, in the current of interstate or foreign commerce or so as directly to burden, obstruct or affect interstate or foreign commerce in such celery, from and after the date herein specified shall be in conformity to, and in compliance with, the terms and conditions of this order.

2. (a) Grower members, and their respective alternates, for each district shall be selected by the Secretary from nominees elected by growers in that district or from growers in such districts. Nominations shall be made on or before June 15th of each year (except in the year 1937, when nominations shall be made as soon as possible after the effective date of this order) in the following manner, and the number of nominees and places of election for each district shall be as follows:

(1) Sanford District.—Six (6) persons to be nominated in an election held at the city of Sanford.

(2) Oviedo District.—Two (2) persons to be nominated in an election held at the town of Oviedo.

(3) Manatee District.—Four (4) persons to be nominated in an election held at the city of Bradenton.

(4) Sarasota District.—Four (4) persons to be nominated in an election held at the city of Sarasota.

(b) A grower may participate only in the elections held in the district in which he grows celery. Each grower shall be entitled to cast only one (1) vote at any such election, and no grower shall participate (in any one season) in elections held in more than one (1) district. The results of any such election, including the number of votes received by each nominee, shall be transmitted to the Secretary.

3. Shipper members, and their respective alternates, for each district shall be selected by the Secretary from shippers in such district or from the respective nominees of groups designated to make nominations as follows:

(a) Each shipper who shipped five hundred (500) cars or more of celery during the current season (except 1937 when the season shall be the one just concluded) shall, on or before June 15th (except in the year 1937 when nominations shall be made as soon as possible after the effective date of this order), nominate two (2) persons (indicating preferences) for membership. From each such group of nominations the Secretary may select one (1) member and one (1) alternate. However, if there are more than three (3) 500-car shippers whose principal places of business are in the Sanford District, only the three (3) largest shall make nominations as hereinabove provided. If there is more than one (1) 500-car shipper whose principal place of business is located in the Oviedo District, only the largest shall make nominations as hereinabove provided. If there is more than one (1) 500-car shipper whose principal place of business is located in the Sarasota District, only the largest shall make nominations as hereinabove provided. If there is more than one (1) 500-car shipper whose principal place of business is located in the Manatee District, only the largest shall make nominations as hereinabove provided.

(b) Nominations for the remaining shipper members from each district, if any, shall be made by elections in which only shippers shall be entitled to participate. From each group of nominations made pursuant to this subparagraph, or from shippers in such district, the Secretary shall select one (1) member and one (1) alternate. In any such election, each shipper shall be entitled to cast but one (1) vote on behalf of himself, or his agent, partners, affiliates, subsidiaries, and representatives. The results of any such election, including the number of votes received by each nominee, shall be transmitted to the Secretary.

(1) Two (2) persons shall be nominated, at an election held in the city of Sanford, for each of the remaining members of the Control Committee for the Sanford District for which nominations have not been made pursuant to subparagraph (a) of this paragraph.

(2) Two (2) persons shall be nominated, at an election held in the town of Oviedo, for the member for the Oviedo District for which nominations have not been made pursuant to subparagraph (a) of this paragraph.

(5) Two (2) persons shall be nominated, at an election held in the city of Sarasota, for the member for the combined Manatee and Sarasota Districts.

4. Members of the Control Committee shall be selected annually for a term of one (1) year, beginning August 1, and shall serve until their respective successors shall be selected and shall qualify, except that those selected in the year 1937 shall hold office until August 1, 1938, and until their respective successors shall be selected and shall qualify. Each shipper shall participate only in the elections held in the district in which such shipper has his principal place of business, except that any shipper whose place of business is located in either the Manatee or Sarasota Districts may participate in the election of shipper nominees for the combined Manatee and Sarasota Districts. If any of the above groups fail to select nominees in the number above specified on or before June 15th, except in the year 1937 when selections shall be made as soon as practicable after the effective date of this order, the Secretary may select, without nominations, the members and alternates for such groups.

5. An alternate for a member of the Control Committee shall act in the place and stead of such member (1) in his absence, or (2) in the event of his removal, resignation, or disqualification, until a successor for his unexpired term has been selected.

6. To fill any vacancy occasioned by the removal, resignation, or disqualification of any member or alternate of the Control Committee, a successor for his unexpired term shall be selected, in the manner provided for in this section, within thirty (30) days after such vacancy occurs: Provided, however, That only one (1) nomination shall be made for each vacancy; and Provided, further, That nominations for the successor to any member or alternate previously selected by the Secretary from the nominations made by any 500-car shipper shall be made by such 500-car shipper. If nominations are not made within such thirty (30) days after such vacancy occurs, the Secretary may select a member to fill such vacancy without regard to nominations.

SEC. 2. Powers.—The Control Committee shall have the following powers:

1. To administer, as hereinafter specifically provided, the terms and provisions of this order;

2. To make administrative rules and regulations in accordance with, and to effectuate the terms and provisions of, this order;

3. To receive, investigate, and report to the Secretary complaints of violations of this order; and

4. To recommend to the Secretary amendments to this order.

SEC. 3. Duties.—The duties of the Control Committee shall be as follows:

2. To keep minute books and records which will clearly reflect all its acts and transactions, and such minute books and records shall at any time be subject to the examination of the Secretary;

3. To investigate, from time to time, and assemble data on, the growing, shipping, and marketing conditions respecting Florida celery, and to furnish to the Secretary such available information as he may request;

4. To negotiate, from time to time, with representatives of growers and shippers of celery produced in competing areas respecting the formulation of a marketing agreement and order, pursuant to the act, providing for coordinated regulation of celery shipments from such areas with celery shipments from Florida;

5. To appoint subcommittees or additional committees to assist it in administering this order;

6. To appoint such employees as it may deem necessary, and to determine the salaries and define the duties of such employees;

7. To select a chairman and a vice-chairman, who must be members of the Control Committee, and a secretary and a treasurer, who need not be members of the Control Committee. The secretary and treasurer shall be appointed by the Control Committee, and both offices may be filled by one (1) person. The treasurer shall give bond in an amount satisfactory to the Control Committee.

8. To give the Secretary or his designated agent and representatives the same notice of meetings of the Control Committee as is given the members thereof;

10. To cause the books of the Control Committee to be audited by one or more competent accountants at least once for each season and at such other times as the Control Committee deems necessary or as the Secretary may request, and to file with the Secretary copies of all audit reports made.

SEC. 4. Procedure.—The Control Committee shall not perform any of its powers or duties herein prescribed while there are more than four (4) vacancies in its membership. A quorum shall consist of nine (9) members in attendance at the meeting, and all decisions of the Control Committee shall be by a majority vote of the members present.

2. The Control Committee may provide for simultaneous meetings of various groups of its members at designated places upon due notice to all members, and, after the groups have established telephone communication with loud speaker receivers for each group throughout the entire meeting, shall proceed with such meeting as if the Control Committee were assembled in one place. Actions taken by the Control Committee in this manner shall have the same force and effect as though an assembled meeting had been held.

3. The Control Committee may provide for voting by mail or telegraph upon due notice to all members, and when any proposition is submitted for voting by such method, nine (9) affirmative votes shall be necessary for its adoption.

4. The members of the Control Committee (including successors and alternates) and any agent or employee appointed or employed by the Control Committee shall be subject to removal or suspension by the Secretary at any time. Each and every regulation, decision, determination, or other act of the Control Committee shall be subject to the continuing right of the Secretary to disapprove of the same at any time, and upon such disapproval, shall be deemed null and void except as to acts done in reliance thereon or in compliance therewith.

SEC. 5. Funds and Other Property.—1. All funds received by the Control Committee pursuant to any of the provisions of this order shall be used solely for the purpose herein specified and the Secretary may require the Control Committee and its members to account for all receipts and disbursements.

2. The officer designated by the Control Committee shall have charge of all books, records and other property of said committee. He shall act as secretary to all subcommittees which may be selected or appointed. Upon the death, resignation, removal or expiration of the term of office of any member of the Control Committee, all books, records, funds and other property of the Control Committee in his possession shall be delivered to the Control Committee or to his successor in office, and such assignments and other instruments shall be executed as may be necessary to vest in the Control Committee or his successor full title to all the books, records, funds and other property in the possession or under the control of such member or officer pursuant to this order.

3. The Control Committee may, with the approval of the Secretary, maintain in its own name or in the names of its members a suit against any shipper subject hereto for the collection of such shipper's pro rata share of expenses.

ARTICLE III—REGULATION BY PRORATION

SECTION 1. Recommendation for Proration Period.—1. It shall be the duty of the Control Committee to investigate supply and demand conditions of celery. Whenever such conditions make it advisable to regulate the shipment of celery, the Control Committee shall recommend to the Secretary the establishment of a proration period, or series of proration periods, during which the shipment of celery may be regulated pursuant to this article. Such recommendations shall be made at a meeting of the Control Committee held at least two (2) days prior to the commencement of such recommended regulation period. The Control Committee shall promptly notify shippers and growers of such recommendation by giving notice in such manner as the Control Committee shall deem adequate under the circumstances. Such notice shall contain a direction to shippers and growers to make the applications required pursuant to section 2 of this article.

2. Based upon the recommendations made pursuant to paragraph 1 of this section, or other information available to the Secretary, the Secretary may establish a prorate period or series of prorate periods, including the time of commencement, duration, and termination thereof, if the Secretary deems that such regulation of the flow of shipments of celery in the current of interstate or foreign commerce during any particular period or periods within the season would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

SEC. 2. Applications from Shippers.—1. Every shipper desiring to ship celery in the current of interstate or foreign commerce during any such prorate period shall make application to the Control Committee for allotments at such time and in such manner as the Control Committee shall determine. Each such application shall include information specifying:

(a) The identification of each block of celery available for harvest; and

(b) An estimate of the number of crates of celery which will be available for shipment during such regulation period from each such block.

2. No shipper shall include in any such application the celery of any grower whose production such shipper does not own or have exclusive written authority to ship.

3. Every grower who desires to ship celery in the current of interstate or foreign commerce during any such regulation period, and who has not given a shipper written authority to handle such celery shipment, may make application in the manner set forth in paragraph 1 of this section.

SEC. 3. Computation of Quantity Available for Shipment.—The Control Committee shall examine all applications submitted, and check the quantities of celery reported therein. The Control Committee shall correct any errors, omissions, or inaccuracies, or make such changes as it finds are necessary to bring the quantities reported into conformity with the results of the check. For this purpose the Control Committee shall employ as many competent representatives as it deems necessary, which representatives shall not be affiliated with or employed by any grower or shipper. From the applications filed pursuant to section 2 hereof, corrected as herein provided, the Control Committee shall compute the quantity of celery available for shipment during such regulation period by each applicant making reports as hereinbefore provided and the total quantity available for shipment by all applicants during such regulation period.

SEC. 4. Quantity advisable for shipment.—For each regulation period established pursuant to section 1 hereof the Control Committee shall procure available evidence concerning (1) movement of Florida celery to market during previous weeks; (2) track holdings at principal destinations; (3) changes in seasonal demands; (4) prices for current and previous weeks at wholesale markets and shipping points; (5) returns to growers; (6) shipments of celery from competing States and shipments of competing vegetables; (7) supplies of Florida celery available for shipment and the condition of such supplies; and (8) other pertinent market information, including opinions of experienced persons in the celery industry. From such evidence the Control Committee shall make a determination of the quantity of celery it deems advisable to be shipped during such regulation period. The evidence procured pursuant to this paragraph shall be transmitted to the Secretary together with such determination.

SEC. 5. Recommendations by control committee.—The Control Committee shall calculate the recommended allotment percentage by dividing the quantity deemed advisable to be shipped, determined pursuant to section 4 of this article, by the total quantity available for shipment, determined pursuant to section 3 of this article. Such division shall be calculated to the nearest one-hundredth. The Control Committee shall calculate the recommended allotment of each applicant by applying the recommended allotment percentage to each applicant's supply of celery available for shipment, determined pursuant to section 3 of this article. Thereupon, the Control Committee shall report to the Secretary its recommendations made pursuant to this section, with its computations and determinations made pursuant to sections 3 and 4 of this article. At least twenty-four (24) hours prior to the commencement of any proposed regulation period, the Control Committee shall notify each applicant of (1) the quantity of celery such applicant has available for shipment during such proposed regulation period, determined pursuant to section 3 of this article, (2) the proposed allotment percentage determined pursuant to this section, and (3) such applicant's proposed allotment determined pursuant to this section.

SEC. 6. Fixing of allotments by the Secretary.—1. From the reports made pursuant to section 5 of this article, and other available information, the Secretary shall determine:

(a) The total quantity of celery deemed advisable for shipment during such regulation period;

(b) The quantity of celery available for shipment during such regulation period by each applicant making reports as hereinbefore provided; and

(c) The total quantity of celery available for shipment during such regulation period.

2. The Secretary shall advise the Control Committee of each determination made pursuant to subparagraphs (a), (b) and (c) of paragraph 1 of this section, and the Control Committee shall thereupon determine, in the manner hereinafter provided, the allotment percentage for such regulation period and the allotment for each applicant, and shall then notify every applicant of his allotment and the amount of same.

3. The allotment percentage for such regulation period shall be the result of the division of the total quantity of celery advisable for shipment during such regulation period by the total quantity of celery available for shipment during such regulation period. Such calculation shall be made to the nearest one-hundredth.

4. The allotment for each applicant shall be the product of such applicant's available quantity of celery for shipment during such regulation period and the allotment percentage for such regulation period.

5. Every shipper shall apportion the quantity of celery represented by his allotment equitably among the growers whose celery he has exclusive authority, in writing, to ship (including celery produced by such shipper) by applying the allotment percentage for such regulation period to the available quantity for such grower.

SEC. 7. Allotments to first shipper only.—1. Where a shipment of celery moves in a series of shipments through two or more shippers in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, allotments made pursuant to the foregoing provision of this article shall be applicable to the first shipment of such celery; the subsequent shipments of any such celery shall be made without the issuance of additional allotments therefor to subsequent shippers: Provided, That such subsequent shippers ship only celery which was included within the allotment applicable to the first shipment of such celery, and such subsequent shippers furnish to the Control Committee such evidence of such shipment at such time as it may, with the approval of the Secretary, require.

SEC. 8. Transfer of allotments.—Subject to such procedural rules and regulations as the Control Committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may prescribe, shippers to whom allotments have been made may transfer such allotments, in whole or in part. The amount of such transfer shall be deducted from the allotment of the transferor and added to the allotment of the transferee: Provided, That no transfer of allotment may be made when all of the celery from the acreage upon which allotment has been granted has been harvested and a portion of such allotment remains unshipped. In such event the unshipped portion of such allotment shall revert to the Control Committee for cancellation.

SEC. 9. Withdrawals.—No application for allotment shall include celery as available for shipment during such regulation period from any block of celery which has been previously included in an application for allotment, unless a new crop shall be matured on such block: Provided, however, That the Control Committee shall permit withdrawal of applications for allotments on blocks of celery which the Control Committee finds are not, in fact, available for shipment because (1) not sufficiently matured to warrant shipment; (2) mechanical conditions prevent shipment; (3) labor conditions prevent harvest; (4) weather conditions prevent harvest; (5) other conditions justify such withdrawal. Such blocks may be included in an application for an allotment in the next succeeding regulation period: Provided, further, That the allotment percentage for such withdrawn celery shall be five (5) percent less than the allotment percentage in effect at the time of harvest, and no such withdrawal shall be granted unless the request therefor is made before the time when the Control Committee meets to consider applications for allotments for the next succeeding regulation period.

SEC. 10. Emergency allotments.—Upon verified application therefor, the Control Committee shall grant, subject to the approval of the Secretary, allotments to applicants on celery not included in applications filed pursuant to section 2 of this article: Provided, That the Control Committee finds that the failure to ship such celery will result in serious damage thereto and consequent loss to the owner. The amount of such allotment shall be the product of such applicant's available quantity of celery, determined by the Control Committee, and an allotment percentage five (5) percent less than the allotment percentage determined for such regulation period pursuant to section 6 of this article.

SEC. 11. Overshipment.—No shipper shall ship celery during any regulation period in excess of the allotment fixed for him by the Secretary except for additional allotments granted or transferred to him pursuant to the foregoing provisions of this article: Provided, however, That overshipment not exceeding two (2) percent of such shipper's allotment fixed for him by the Secretary shall not be a violation of this agreement if not made for the purpose of taking advantage of marketing conditions: And provided, further, That report of such overshipment is made to the Control Committee on or before the end of the prorate period.

SEC. 12. Modification or cancellation of regulation period.—If the limitation of shipments during any regulation period is rendered unnecessary by reason of crop failure in any district, unforeseen increased demand, or other causes, the Secretary, or the Control Committee with the approval of the Secretary, may cancel or modify regulation of shipments. No such action by the Control Committee shall become effective until approved by the Secretary.

SEC. 13. Petitions for adjustments of applications for allotments.—Any shipper or grower dissatisfied with the revision of his application by the Control Committee may request the said committee to reconsider such revision, and may further appeal to the Secretary. In the event of such appeal to the Secretary, the Control Committee shall furnish a report to the Secretary setting forth the action taken and the reasons therefor. The parties involved shall abide by the determination of the Control Committee pending the disposition of such petition by the Secretary.

SEC. 14. Adjustment of allotments.—Subsequent to the issuance of allotments, the Control Committee may, with the approval of the Secretary, adjust allotments in such a manner as to eliminate the effect of any errors, omissions, and inaccuracies in such allotments.

SEC. 15. Shipments for by-product and relief purposes.—The provisions of this article are not applicable to shipments of celery for conversion into by-products, or for charitable or unemployment relief purposes, except that if any shipper makes shipments for these purposes, he shall report to the Control Committee the amount thereof, the person to whom shipped, and the purposes for which shipped.

ARTICLE IV—ASSESSMENTS

SECTION 1. Expenses and assessments.—1. The Control Committee is authorized to incur such expenses as the Secretary finds may be necessary to carry out its functions under this order. The funds to cover such expenses shall be acquired by the levying of assessments as hereinafter provided.

2. Each shipper shall pay to the Control Committee upon demand such shipper's pro rata share, as is approved by the Secretary, of the expenses in the amount of $24,640.00 (which amount the Secretary has found will necessarily be incurred by the Control Committee during the season ending July 31, 1938), or expenses in such other amount as the Secretary may later find will necessarily be incurred by the Control Committee during said season for the maintenance and functioning of the Control Committee during the said season as set forth herein. Each shipper's share of such expenses shall be that portion thereof which the total quantity of celery shipped by such shipper in the current of interstate or foreign commerce during said season is of the total quantity of celery shipped by all shippers in the current of interstate or foreign commerce during said season, and, such pro rata share is hereby approved by the Secretary. The present assessment upon each shipper shall be one cent per crate of celery shipped by such shipper in the current of interstate or foreign commerce. Said assessment may be adjusted from time to time by the Control Committee with the approval of the Secretary, in order to cover any later finding by the Secretary of estimated expenses, or the actual expense of the Control Committee during said season: Provided, however, That in no case shall the assessment be in excess of 1 cent per crate of celery shipped by such shipper in the current of interstate or foreign commerce. The assessment of each shipper for any season shall be due at such time and shall be payable in such installments, if any, as the Control Committee, with the approval of the Secretary, shall determine.

3. For seasons subsequent to the season ending July 31, 1938, every shipper shall pay to the Control Committee, upon demand, such shipper's pro rata share as is approved by the Secretary of such expenses as the Secretary may find will necessarily be incurred by the Control Committee for the maintenance and functioning of the Control Committee as set forth in this order: Provided, however, That in no case shall the assessment be in excess of 1 cent per crate of celery shipped by each shipper in the current of interstate or foreign commerce.

4. At the end of each season, the Control Committee shall credit each contributing shipper with the excess of the amount paid by such shipper above his pro rata share of the expenses, or debit such shippers with the difference between his pro rata share and the amount paid by such shipper. Any such debits shall become due and payable upon the demand of the Control Committee.

5. Members of the Control Committee shall serve without compensation as members, but shall be allowed their expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their powers and duties hereunder.

ARTICLE V—REPORTS

SECTION 1. Reports.—Upon the request of the Control Committee, made with the approval of the Secretary, every shipper shall furnish the Control Committee, in such manner and at such times as it prescribes, such information as will enable it to perform its powers and duties under this order.

ARTICLE VI—AMENDMENTS

SECTION 1. Proposals.—Amendments to this order may from time to time be proposed by the Control Committee.

ARTICLE VII—AGENTS

SECTION 1. Agents.—The Secretary may, by a designation in writing, name any person, including any officer or employee of the Government or any Bureau or Division in the Department of Agriculture, to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this order.

ARTICLE VIII—EFFECTIVE TIME AND TERMINATION

SECTION 1. Effective time.—This order shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare above his signature attached hereto, and shall continue in force until terminated in one of the ways hereinafter specified.

SEC. 2. Termination.—1. The Secretary may at any time terminate this order.

2. The Secretary shall terminate this order at the end of any marketing season whenever he finds that such termination is favored by a majority of the growers, who during the preceding marketing period, have been engaged in the production for market of celery in Florida: Provided, That such majority have during such period produced more than fifty (50) percent of the volume of such celery produced within Florida, but such termination shall be effective only if notice thereof is given on or before July 1 of such marketing season.

3. This order shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing it cease to be in effect.

SEC. 3. Proceedings after termination.—1. Upon the termination of this order, the members of the Control Committee then functioning shall continue as joint trustees, for the purpose of administering this order, of all funds and property then in the possession or under the control of the Control Committee, including claims for any funds unpaid or property not delivered at the time of such termination. Said trustees (a) shall continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary; (b) shall from time to time account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all funds and property on hand, together with all books and records of the Control Committee and the joint trustees, to such person as the Secretary shall direct; and (c) shall, upon the request of the Secretary, execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title to all of the funds and claims vested in the Control Committee or the joint trustees pursuant to this order. Any funds collected for expenses pursuant to article IV of this order and held by such joint trustees or such person over and above amounts necessary to meet outstanding obligations and the expenses necessarily incurred by the joint trustees or such other person in the performance of their duties hereunder, shall as soon as practicable after the termination of this order, be returned to the shippers pro rata in proportion to their contributions made thereto pursuant to this order.

2. Any person to whom funds, property or claims have been delivered by the Control Committee or its members upon direction of the Secretary as herein provided shall be subject to the same obligations and duties with respect to said funds, property or claims as are hereinabove imposed upon the members of said Committee or upon said joint trustees.

ARTICLE IX—DURATION OF IMMUNITIES

SECTION 1. Duration of immunities.—The benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred by virtue of this order shall cease upon its termination except with respect to acts done under and during the existence of this order, and benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred by this order upon any party shall cease upon its termination as to such party except with respect to acts done under and during the existence of this order.

ARTICLE X—SEPARABILITY

SECTION 1. Separability.—If any provision of this order is declared invalid or the applicability thereof to any person, circumstance, or thing is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this order or the applicability thereof to any other person, circumstance, or thing shall not be affected thereby.

ARTICLE XI—DEROGATION

SECTION 1. Derogation.—Nothing contained in this order is or shall be construed to be in derogation or in modification of the rights of the Secretary or of the United States (1) to exercise any powers granted by the act or otherwise, and (2) in accordance with such powers, to act in the premises whenever such action is deemed advisable.

ARTICLE XII—LIABILITY OF CONTROL COMMITTEE MEMBERS

SECTION 1. Liability.—No member of the Control Committee nor any employee thereof shall be held liable individually in any way whatsoever to any person for errors in judgment, mistakes, or other acts either of commission or omission as such member or employee, except for acts of dishonesty.

In witness whereof, the Secretary of Agriculture does hereby execute in duplicate this order under his hand and the official seal of the Department of Agriculture in the city of Washington, District of Columbia, on this 9th day of November, 1937, and pursuant to the provisions hereof, declares this order to be effective on and after 12:01 a. m., eastern standard time, November 13, 1937.

REGULATIONS FOR THE INSPECTION OF CANNED SHRIMP UNDER AMENDMENT TO FEDERAL FOOD AND DRUGS ACT

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE:

Under the authority conferred by the amendment of August 27, 1935, to the Federal Food and Drugs Act (Sec. 10A), I recommend the adoption and promulgation, to become effective at once, of the following amendments to the regulations governing the inspection of canned shrimp approved June 8, 1937:

PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

THANKSGIVING DAY—1937

By the President of the United States of America

A PROCLAMATION

I, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, President of the United States of America, hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-fifth day of November 1937 as a day of national thanksgiving.

The custom of observing a day of public thanksgiving began in Colonial times and has been given the sanction of national observance through many years. It is in keeping with all of our traditions that we, even as our fathers in olden days, give humble and hearty thanks for the bounty and the goodness of Divine Providence.

The harvests of our fields have been abundant and many men and women have been given the blessing of stable employment.

A period unhappily marked in many parts of the world by strife and threats of war finds our people enjoying the blessing of peace. We have no selfish designs against other nations.

We have been fortunate in devoting our energies and our resources to constructive purposes and useful works. We have sought to fulfill our obligation to use our national heritage by common effort for the common good.

Let us, therefore, on the day appointed forego our usual occupations and, in our accustomed places of worship, each in his own way, humbly acknowledge the mercy of God from whom comes every good and perfect gift.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this ninth day of November, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and [SEAL] thirty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixty-second.

FRANKLIN D ROOSEVELT

By the President:

Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

DETERMINATION OF THE SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED ORDER REGULATING THE HANDLING OF MILK IN THE LA PORTE COUNTY, INDIANA, MARKETING AREA

Whereas the Secretary of Agriculture, pursuant to the provisions of Public Act No. 10, 73rd Congress, as amended and as reenacted by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, hereinafter called the "act", having reason to believe that the execution of a marketing agreement and the issuance of an order with respect to the handling of milk in the La Porte County, Indiana, Marketing Area would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, gave, on the 11th day of June 1937, notice of a public hearing to be held at La Porte, Indiana, on the 28th day of June 1937, on a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order, said hearing being reopened at La Porte, Indiana, on the 30th day of August 1937, for the purpose of receiving additional evidence, and at the said times and places conducted, jointly with the Milk Control Board of the State of Indiana, public hearings at which all interested parties were afforded an opportunity to be heard on the proposed marketing agreement and the proposed order; and

Whereas after such hearings and after the tentative approval by the Secretary of Agriculture of a marketing agreement on the 24th day of September 1937, handlers of more than fifty (50) per centum of the volume of milk covered by such proposed order and which is marketed within the La Porte County, Indiana, Marketing Area, refused or failed to sign such marketing agreement relating to milk;

Now, therefore, the Secretary of Agriculture, by virtue of the authority vested in him by the act, does hereby determine:

1. That the refusal or failure of said handlers to sign the said marketing agreement tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act;

2. That the issuance of the proposed order is the only practical means, pursuant to such policy, of advancing the interests of producers of milk in the said marketing area; and

3. That the issuance of the proposed order is approved or favored by over two-thirds (⅔) of the producers who, during the month of July 1937, said month being herewith determined by the Secretary of Agriculture to be a representative period, engaged in the production of milk for sale in the said marketing area.

In witness whereof, M. L. Wilson, Acting Secretary of Agriculture, has executed this determination in duplicate and has hereunto set his hand and caused the official seal of the Department of Agriculture to be affixed in the city of Washington, District of Columbia, this 5th day of November, 1937.

ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE REGULATING THE HANDLING IN INTERSTATE COMMERCE, AND SUCH HANDLING AS DIRECTLY BURDENS, OBSTRUCTS OR AFFECTS INTERSTATE COMMERCE, OF MILK IN THE LA PORTE COUNTY, INDIANA, MARKETING AREA

Whereas under the terms and provisions of Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress, as amended and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States is empowered, after due notice and opportunity for hearing, to enter into marketing agreements with processors, producers, associations of producers, and others engaged in such handling of any agricultural commodity or product thereof as is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, or which directly burdens, obstructs, or affects interstate or foreign commerce in such commodity or product thereof; and

Whereas under the terms and provisions of said act, the Secretary of Agriculture is empowered to issue orders applicable to processors, producers, associations of producers, and others engaged in the handling of any agricultural commodity or product thereof specified in subsection (2) of section 8c, such orders to regulate only such handling of such agricultural commodity or product thereof as is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce or which directly burdens, obstructs, or affects interstate or foreign commerce in such commodity or product thereof; and

Whereas the Secretary, having reason to believe that the execution of a marketing agreement and the issuance of an order with respect to the handling of milk in the La Porte County, Indiana, Marketing Area would tend to effectuate the declared policy of said act, gave, on the 11th day of June, 1937, notice of a public hearing to be held at La Porte, Indiana, on the 28th day of June, 1937, on a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order, said hearing being reopened at La Porte, Indiana, on the 30th day of August, 1937, for the purpose of receiving additional evidence, and at the said times and places conducted, jointly with the Milk Control Board of the State of Indiana, public hearings, at which all interested parties were afforded an opportunity to be heard on the proposed marketing agreement and the proposed order; and

Whereas the Secretary has found and proclaimed the period August 1919–July 1929 to be the base period to be used in connection with ascertaining the purchasing power of milk handled in the La Porte County, Indiana, Marketing Area; and

Whereas after said hearings and after the tentative approval by the Secretary of a marketing agreement on the 24th day of September, 1937, handlers of more than 50 per cent of the volume of milk covered by this order, which is marketed within the La Porte County, Indiana, Marketing Area, refused or failed to sign such tentatively approved marketing agreement relating to milk; and

Whereas the Secretary determined on the 5th day of November, 1937, said determination being approved by the President of the United States on the 6th day of November, 1937, that said refusal or failure tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the said act, and that the issuance of this order is the only practical means, pursuant to such policy, of advancing the interests of producers of milk in said area, and is approved or favored by over two-thirds of the producers who, during the month of July, 1937, said month being herewith determined by the Secretary to be a representative period, have been engaged in the production of milk for sale in the La Porte County, Indiana, Marketing Area; and

Whereas the provision of the order providing for the payment to all producers delivering milk to the same handler of uniform prices for all milk delivered by them is approved or favored by at least three-fourths of the producers who, during the month of July, 1937, said month being herewith determined by the Secretary to be a representative period, have been engaged in the production for market of milk covered in such order, said approval being separate and apart from the approval of producers as set forth above; and

Whereas the Secretary finds, upon the evidence introducted at the said hearings:

1. That approximately 8.1 per cent of the total volume of milk handled in the La Porte County, Indiana, Marketing Area, is in the current of interstate commerce and that the regulation of the handling of such milk in the said area, complementary to the regulation by the State of Indiana, is necessary in order to obtain uniformity in the administration of the Federal and State programs relating to the regulation of the handling of milk in the La Porte County, Indiana, Marketing Area;

2. That the prices, ascertained in accordance with sections 2 and 8e of the aforesaid act, which will give milk sold in the Marketing Area a purchasing power equivalent to the purchasing power of milk during the base period, August 1919–July 1929, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, the available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the Marketing Area, but that the minimum prices fixed in the marketing agreement do reflect such factors, will insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest;

3. That the classification of milk into three classes follows a custom already established in the market and is a valid economic method of classifying milk;

4. That the determination of uniform prices to producers and the payment of such prices through individual handler pools is a fair and reasonable method of distributing to producers the proceeds of sales to handlers;

5. That the La Porte County, Indiana, Marketing Area, as defined in this order, is the natural marketing area within which handlers distribute the aforesaid milk;

6. That the Market Administrator is a proper agency to administer this order and that the powers granted to, and duties specified for, such Market Administrator in this order are necessary for the administration of this order;

7. That the deduction of 3¢ per hundredweight from payments made to producers, except those producers for whom a duly qualified association is actually performing services, is a proper deduction for such services rendered by the Market Administrator for market information to such producers, and for verification of weights, sampling, and testing of milk;

8. That the reports required of handlers by this order are reasonably necessary for the proper administration of this order;

9. That this order regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to handlers specified in the marketing agreement mentioned above, upon which a hearing has been held;

10. That the issuance of this order and all of the terms and conditions hereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy to establish a level of prices for milk to producers that will reflect the price of feeds, the available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the La Porte County, Indiana, Marketing Area;

NOW, THEREFORE, the Secretary, pursuant to the authority vested in him by said act, hereby orders that such handling of milk in the La Porte County, Indiana, Marketing Area as is in the current of interstate commerce or which directly burdens, obstructs, or affects interstate commerce, shall, from the effective date hereof, be in conformity to and in compliance with the following terms and conditions:

4. Obtain a bond with reasonable security thereon covering each employee who handles funds entrusted to the Market Administrator; and

5. Publicly disclose to handlers and producers, unless otherwise directed by the Secretary, the name of any person, who, within 15 days after the date upon which he is required to perform such acts, has not (a) made reports pursuant to article V or (b) made payments pursuant to article VIII.

SEC. 4. Responsibility.—The Market Administrator, in his capacity as such, shall not be held responsible in any way whatsoever to any handler or any other person for errors in judgment, for mistakes, or for other acts either of commission or omission, except for his own willful misfeasance, malfeasance, or dishonesty.

ARTICLE III—CLASSIFICATION OF MILK

SECTION 1. Sales and use classification.—Milk purchased or handled by handers shall be classified as follows:

1. All milk sold or distributed as milk, all milk used to produce cream for consumption as cream, and all milk not specifically accounted for as Class II or Class III milk shall be Class I milk;

2. All milk sold as flavored milk or milk drinks, buttermilk, cottage cheese, condensed milk, evaporated milk, powdered milk, and cream for the manufacture of ice cream shall be Class II milk; and

3. All milk specifically accounted for (a) as being sold, distributed, or disposed of other than as Class I or Class II milk and (b) as actual plant shrinkage within reasonable limits shall be Class III milk.

SEC. 2. Interhandler and nonhandler sales.—Milk sold by a handler to another handler, or to a person not a handler who distributes milk or manufactures milk products, shall be considered to be Class I milk. In the event that such selling handler on or before the date fixed for filing reports pursuant to article V furnishes proof satisfactory to the Market Administrator that such milk has been sold or disposed of by such purchaser other than as milk, then, and in that event, such milk shall be classified in accordance with such proof.

ARTICLE IV—MINIMUM PRICES

SECTION 1. Class I price.—Each handler shall pay producers, in the manner set forth in article VIII, for Class I milk, at such handler's plant, not less than $2.60 per hundredweight.

SEC. 2. Class II price.—Each handler shall pay producers, in the manner set forth in article VIII, for Class II milk, not less than that price per hundredweight calculated for each delivery period by the Market Administrator as follows: Multiply by 4 the average price per pound of 92-acre butter at wholesale in the Chicago market as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture, for the delivery period during which such milk is purchased, and add 30 percent thereof.

SEC. 3. Class III price.—Each handler shall pay producers, in the manner set forth in article VIII, for Class III milk, not less than that price per hundredweight calculated for each delivery period by the Market Administrator as follows: Multiply by 4 the average price per pound of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture, for the delivery period during which such milk is purchased, and add 10 percent thereof.

ARTICLE V—REPORTS OF HANDLERS

SECTION 1. Periodic reports.—On or before the 5th day after the end of each delivery period each handler shall, with respect to milk or cream which was, during such delivery period, (a) received from producers, (b) received from handlers, and (c) produced by such handler, report to the Market Administrator, in the detail and form prescribed by him, as follows:

1. The receipts at each plant from producers who are not handlers and the quantity of such receipts which represents the total of all milk delivered by producers in excess of their respective bases;

2. The receipts at each plant from any other handler, including any handler who is also a producer;

3. The quantity, if any, produced by such handler; and

4. The respective quantities of milk which were sold, distributed, or used, including sales to other handlers, for the purpose of classification pursuant to article III.

SEC. 2. Reports as to producers.—Each handler shall report to the Market Administrator:

1. Within 10 days after the Market Administrator's request, with respect to any producer for whom such information is not in the files of the Market Administrator, and with respect to a period or periods of time designated by the Market Administrator, (a) the name and address, (b) the total pounds of milk delivered, (c) the average butterfat test of milk delivered, and (d) the number of days upon which deliveries were made; and

2. As soon as possible after first receiving milk from any producer, (a) the name and address of such producer, (b) the date upon which such milk was first received, and (c) the plant at which such producer delivered milk.

SEC. 3. Reports of payments to producers.—Each handler shall submit to the Market Administrator on or before the 20th day after the end of each delivery period his producer pay roll for such delivery period which shall show for each producer (a) the net amount of such producer's payment with the prices, deductions, and charges involved, (b) the total delivery of milk with the average butterfat test thereof, and (c) the portion of such delivery which was in excess of the base of such producer.

SEC. 4. Verification of reports.—In order that the Market Administrator may submit verified reports to the Secretary, pursuant to paragraph 3 of section 4 of article II, each handler shall permit the Market Administrator or his agent, during the usual hours of business, to (a) verify the information contained in reports submitted in accordance with this article, and (b) weigh milk delivered by each producer and sample and test milk for butterfat.

ARTICLE VI—HANDLERS WHO ARE ALSO PRODUCERS

SECTION 1. With respect to each handler who is also a producer:

1. The Market Administrator shall, subject to the condition set forth in paragraph 2 of this section, exclude from the computations made pursuant to section 1 of article VII, the quantity of milk produced and sold, used, or distributed by such handler; provided, that where any such handler has purchased milk from other producers the value of the milk so purchased shall be computed under section 1 of article VII as follows: The quantity of such milk shall be ratably apportioned among such handler's total Class I, Class II, and Class III sales (after excluding purchases, if any, from other handlers) and multiplied by the Class I, Class II, and Class III prices, respectively.

2. The Market Administrator shall, upon prior written notice from such handler of the exercise thereof, grant the option of having all milk produced by such handler included in the computation made pursuant to section 1 of article VII in lieu of the provisions of paragraph 1 of this section.

3. The Market Administrator shall consider as Class III milk any milk or cream sold in bulk by any such handler, who has not exercised the option set forth in paragraph 2 of this section, to another handler operating a bottling or processing plant. If such buying handler uses or sells such milk or cream other than in Class III the Market Administrator shall add to the total value computed for such buying handler pursuant to section 1 of article VII the difference between (1) the value of such milk or cream at the Class III price and (2) the value according to its actual usage.

ARTICLE VII—DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICES TO PRODUCERS

SECTION 1. Computation of value of milk for each handler.—For each delivery period the Market Administrator shall compute, subject to the provisions of article VI, the value of milk sold or used by each handler, which was not purchased from other handlers, by (a) multiplying the quantity of such milk in each class by the price applicable pursuant to article IV and (b) adding together the resulting value of each class; provided, that if milk, including skim milk, is sold by a handler to another handler and if such selling handler has not filed reports pursuant to section 1 of article V and made the payments required by article VIII, the Market Administrator shall, in computing the value of milk for the purchasing handler, multiply the quantity of milk reported by the purchasing handler as purchased from such selling handler and classified as Class I milk, by the difference between the Class I and Class II prices, and add the resulting sum to the value of milk otherwise computed pursuant to this section.

SEC. 2. Computation and announcement of uniform prices.—The Market Administrator shall compute for each handler and announce the uniform prices per hundredweight of milk delivered to such handler during each delivery period as follows:

1. From the total value of milk computed for such handler pursuant to section 1 of this article, subtract the sum obtained from multiplying by the Class III price the total quantity of milk, if any, delivered by producers who did not regularly sell milk for consumption in the Marketing Area during a period of 30 days next preceding the effective date hereof;

2. If the Class I milk of such handler is greater than the base milk delivered to him by producers, subtract a sum equal to the base milk times the Class I price;

3. If the Class I milk of such handler is less than the base milk delivered to him by producers subtract a sum equal to the excess milk times the Class III price;

4. Divide the remaining sum of money by the excess milk if paragraph 2 be true or by the base milk if paragraph 3 be true to secure the blended price for excess milk or for base milk, as the case may be; and

5. On or before the 10th day after the end of each delivery period notify such handler and make public announcement of the uniform prices computed for him pursuant to this section, and of the Class II and Class III prices.

SEC. 3. Base rating.—The base of each producer shall be a quantity of milk for each delivery period calculated in the following manner; multiply the rating, if any, effective pursuant to section 4 of this article, by the number of days on which such producer delivered milk during such delivery period. Milk delivered by a producer not in excess of his base shall be designated as "base milk" and that delivered in excess of his base shall be designated as "excess milk."

SEC. 4. Determination for base rating.—For the purpose of calculating, pursuant to section 3 of this article, the bases of producers, the Market Administrator shall determine a rating with respect to milk delivered in bulk by each producer to handlers as follows:

1. Effective for the remainder of the calendar year 1937 the rating of each producer shall be the daily base, if any, of each such producer which is on file July 15, 1937, with the administrator of the order for the Marketing Area, issued by the Milk Control Board of the State of Indiana;

2. Effective for each of the first three delivery periods following the effective date hereof, during which any producer delivers milk and for whom the reports of handlers do not supply information necessary for a determination of a rating pursuant to paragraphs 1, 3 and 4 of this section the rating of each such producer shall be that proportion of his milk delivered which is the proportion of the aggregate daily base milk to the aggregate daily delivery of milk of all other producers; effective for the remainder of the then current calendar year the rating of each such producer shall be the average of his ratings for each of such first three delivery periods: Provided, that ratings under this paragraph shall not be effective for any producer during the period when handlers are required to make payment to any such producer pursuant to paragraph 1 of section 1 of article VIII;

3. Effective for each year subsequent to 1937, divide the total deliveries in bulk to handlers during the four months of the preceding year when deliveries were lowest by the number of days on which deliveries were made and take such a percentage of the result as will make the total of all figures so determined approximately equal to 115 percent of the average Class I and Class II milk per day sold during such preceding year by all handlers to whom such milk was delivered; and

4. Effective for the remainder of the then current calendar year, in the case of any producer whose delivery of milk in bulk to handlers during any 2 consecutive delivery periods is less than 85 percent of his base, that figure which is equal to the average delivery per day of such producer during such 2 consecutive delivery periods.

ARTICLE VIII—PAYMENTS FOR MILK

SECTION 1. Time and method of payment.—On or before the 15th day after the end of each delivery period, each handler shall, with respect to milk purchased outside the State of Indiana or delivered to the handler's plant outside the State of Indiana during such delivery period, make payment to producers from whom such milk was purchased, subject to the butterfat differential set forth in section 3 of this article, as follows:

1. To any such producer who did not regularly sell milk during a period of 30 days next preceding the effective date hereof to a handler or to persons within the Marketing Area, at the Class III price for all the milk delivered by such producer during the period beginning with the first regular delivery by such producer and continuing until the end of two full calendar months following the first day of the next succeeding calendar month; and

2. To all other such producers, at the uniform prices per hundredweight for base milk and for excess milk as notified by the Market Administrator pursuant to section 2 of article VII.

SEC. 2. Errors in payments.—Errors made from whatever cause in the payments prescribed in this article shall be corrected not later than the date for making payments next following the determination of such errors.

SEC. 3. Butterfat differential.—If any producer has delivered to any handler during any delivery period milk having an average butterfat content other than 4 percent, such handler shall pay to each producer for each one-tenth of one percent of average butterfat content above 4 percent, or shall deduct for each one-tenth of one percent of average butterfat content below 4 percent, an amount per hundredweight as follows:

If the average butter price used in section 2 of article IV is 29¢ or less—3¢.,

If the average butter price used in section 2 of article IV is 29.1¢ to 34¢—3.5¢.

If the average butter price used in section 2 of article IV is 34.1¢ to 39¢—4¢.

If the average butter price used in section 2 of article IV is over 39¢—4.5¢.

ARTICLE IX—MARKETING SERVICES

SECTION 1. Deductions for marketing services.—Except as set forth in section 2, each handler shall deduct 3 cents per hundredweight from the payments made to each producer pursuant to paragraphs 1 and 2 of section 1 of article VIII, with respect to all milk delivered to such handler during each delivery period by such producer, and shall pay such deductions to the Market Administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of such delivery period. Such monies shall be expended by the Market Administrator for market information to, and for verification of weights, sampling, and testing of milk purchased from the said producers.

SEC. 2. Producers' cooperative association.—In the case of producers for whom a cooperative association, which the Secretary determines to be qualified under the provisions of the act of Congress of February 18, 1922, as amended, known as the "Capper-Volstead Act," is actually performing, as determined by the Secretary, the services set forth in section 1 of this article, each handler shall make the deductions from the payments to be made pursuant to paragraphs 1 and 2 of section 1 of article VIII which are authorized by such producers and, on or before the 15th day after the end of each delivery period, pay over such deductions to the associations of which such producers are members.

ARTICLE X—EFFECTIVE TIME, SUSPENSION, AND TERMINATION

SECTION 1. Effective time.—The provisions hereof or any amendment hereto shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated pursuant to section 2 of this article.

SEC. 2. Suspension and termination.—Any or all provisions hereof or any amendment hereto shall be suspended or terminated as to any or all handlers after such reasonable notice as may be given by the Secretary, and shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing it cease to be in effect.

SEC. 3. Effect.—Unless otherwise provided by the Secretary in the notice of amendment, suspension, or termination of any or all provisions hereof, the amendment, suspension, or termination shall not (a) affect, waive, or terminate any right, duty, obligation, or liability which shall have arisen or may thereafter arise in connection with any provision hereof; (b) release or waive any violation hereof occurring prior to the effective date of such amendment, suspension, or termination; or (c) affect or impair any rights or remedies of the Secretary or of any other person with respect to any such violation.

SEC. 4. Continuing power and duty.—If upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions hereof there are any obligations arising hereunder, the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any handler, by the Market Administrator, or by any other person, the power and duty to perform such further acts shall continue notwithstanding such suspension or termination: Provided, that any such acts required to be performed by the Market Administrator shall, if the Secretary so directs, be performed by such other person, persons, or agency as the Secretary may designate.

The Market Administrator or such other person as the Secretary may designate shall (a) continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary; (b) from time to time account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all funds or property on hand, together with the books and records of the Market Administrator or such person, to such person as the Secretary shall direct; and (c) if so directed by the Secretary, execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title to all funds, property, and claims vested in the Market Administrator or such person pursuant hereto.

SEC. 5. Liquidation after suspension or termination.—Upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions hereof the Market Administrator or such person as the Secretary may designate shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the Market Administrator's office and dispose of all funds and property then in his possession or under his control, together with claims for any funds which are unpaid and owing at the time of such suspension or termination. Any funds collected pursuant to the provisions hereof, over and above the amounts necessary to meet outstanding obligations and the expenses necessarily incurred by the Market Administrator or such person in liquidating and distributing such funds, shall be distributed to the producers in an equitable manner.

ARTICLE XI—LIABILITY

SECTION 1. Handlers.—The liability of the handlers hereunder is several and not joint and no handler shall be liable for the default of any other handler.

In witness whereof, M. L. Wilson, Acting Secretary of Agriculture, does hereby execute in duplicate and issue this order in the city of Washington, District of Columbia, on this 9th day of November 1937, and declares this order to be effective on and after 12:01 a. m., c. s. t., November 13, 1937.

RESOLUTION

Whereas, by the terms of the Act of June 19, 1937 (Public No. 158, 75th Cong.) a code of all executive and administrative "documents", rules and orders "of general applicability and legal effect", of "each agency" of the Federal government, is required to be prepared and submitted to the President (Sec. 11a) and, thereafter, at his direction, to be published and to be "prima-facie evidence of the text of such documents and of the fact that they are in full force and effect" (Sec. 11c); in carrying out this purpose, the Congress has provided that "each agency of the Government" within the executive and administrative branch is required to prepare and file with the Administrative Committee of the Federal Register, not later than July 1, 1938, a "complete codification" of all such documents which "are in force and effect and relied upon by the agency as authority for, or invoked or used by it in the discharge of, any of its functions or activities" (Sec. 11a); a Codification Board to "supervise and coordinate the form, style, arrangement, and indexing" of the codifications of the various agencies is established (Sec. 11b); and the Administrative Committee of the Federal Register is required to "prescribe, with the approval of the President, regulations for carrying out" these purposes and provisions (Sec. 11d);

And whereas, the Administrative Committee, after some months of careful study and deliberation upon the problem of carrying through a project of such extended scope and vital importance to both the federal executive and administrative establishment and the public, agrees that the prompt, accurate, efficient, and adequate carrying out of the Act of Congress requires (1) an immediate and close liaison between the Codification Board and the several agencies, together with the prompt and energetic prosecution of the work by each agency; (2) the submission of completed units of the proposed codification of each agency from time to time prior to July 1, 1938; for criticisms, suggestions, and fitting into the general code, subject, however, to the final approval, amendment, and certification of each code by the agency concerned not later than July 1, 1938, as provided in the act and the regulations which follow herein; (3) the exertion of every effort to assure that each of the several Federal agencies will submit creditable codifications so that no agency will suffer by comparison with the codifications of other agencies or be subject to legal difficulties or practical embarrassments in its operations after the codification for the whole executive and administrative branch is published; and (4) the submission of the whole completed code of executive and administrative rules and orders to the President in accurate, complete, and usable form, ready for printing, within the time limit prescribed in the Act of Congress;

Therefore, pursuant to the authority contained in Section 11 (d) of the Federal Register Act, as amended by the Act of June 19, 1937 (Pub. No. 158, 75th Cong.), the Administrative Committee of the Federal Register hereby prescribes, with the approval of the President, the following regulations to govern the preparation (including form, style, arrangement, and indexing) and submission of the codes required to be submitted thereunder.

TITLE I. CODIFICATION OF EXECUTIVE OR ADMINISTRATIVE DOCUMENTS

Chapter I. Definitions

SEC. 1. As used herein, unless the context otherwise requires, PAR. a. Act.—The term "act" means the Federal Register Act, approved July 26, 1935 (49 Stat. 500) as amended by the Act of June 19, 1937 (Pub. No. 158, 75th Cong.).

PAR. b. Document.—"The term 'document' means any Presidential proclamation or Executive order, and any order, regulation, rule, certificate, code of fair competition, license, notice, or similar instrument issued, prescribed, or promulgated by a Federal agency" (Sec. 4 of the act) and of "general applicability and legal effect" which is "in force and effect and relied upon by such agency as authority for, or invoked or used by it in the discharge of, any of its functions or activities" (Sec. 11a of the act).[1]

PAR. c. Agency or Federal Agency.—The terms "Federal agency" or "agency" mean "the President of the United States, or any executive department, independent board, establishment, bureau, agency, institution, commission, or separate office of the administrative branch of the Government of the United States, but not the legislative or judicial branches of the Government" (Sec. 4 of the act).

PAR. d. Committee or Administrative Committee.—The terms "Committee" or "Administrative Committee" mean the Administrative Committee of the Federal Register established under Section 6 of the act.

PAR. e. Secretary.—The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Administrative Committee.

PAR. f. Board and Chairman.—The term "Board" means the "Codification Board" established under Section 11 of the act, and the term "Chairman" means the Chairman of the Codification Board by virtue of his office as Director of the Division of the Federal Register, The National Archives.

Chapter II. Preparation, Submission and Certification by Agencies

Part A. Contents of Codifications

SEC. 2. Nature of the codification.—"Codification" as ordinarily used in the United States and as intended in the act and these regulations means the collection of all documents and their orderly and systematic arrangement, with all obsolete and repealed matter eliminated and all new matter or amendments incorporated in their appropriate sections or paragraphs, so that the whole may be republished as one simultaneously issued document.[2]

SEC. 3. Revisions.—The complete revision or restatement of documents, either in their language or substance, is not necessarily contemplated, although agencies are free to do so provided such work may be completed and the revision made effective not later than June 1, 1938. On the other hand, portions of documents consisting of extensive quotation of statutory provisions, with or without quotation marks, should be excluded.

SEC. 4. Completeness.—Main emphasis should be laid upon completeness and accuracy rather than form, since the act requires a "complete" codification of "all" documents (Sec. 11a of the act) and obviously the omission of material which should be included will lessen the legal effect as well as the practical value of each codification and will prove confusing and embarrassing to the agency in its future work.

SEC. 5. Present general applicability and legal effect.—Each agency should keep constantly in mind the fact that the codifications are to include only documents which are (1) currently "in force and effect and relied upon by the agency as authority for, or invoked or used by it in the discharge of, any of its functions or activities", and also (II) "of general applicability and legal effect". Without attempting to set forth all applications of present "general applicability and legal effect", the phrase means all documents (1) prescribing a penalty (Sec. 5 (a) (3) of the act), conferring rights, privileges, authority, or immunities, or imposing obligations, and (2) currently relevant or applicable to the general public, the members of a class, or the persons

[1] See also Chapter II, Sec. 5, infra.

[2] "The word 'codification' is not intended to lay down rigid requirements. It means an orderly presentation of 'documents' brought up to date in the form best adapted to usefulness as tested by the experience of the agency. Thus, if there have been a series of amendments to a regulation, the minimum requirement would be a rewriting of such regulation, eliminating from its text obsolete provisions, and inserting therein new matter. If a regulation is already in such form, the agency may in its discretion deem further codification unnecessary, even though the inclusion of various regulations in that form may involve some repetition of provisions common to two or more of them.

"If a regulation has never been set forth by the agency in an orderly and easily available form, the amendment would require that this be done. In many cases an adequate codification would also require the systematizing of regulatory material according to subject matter." House Report 478, 75 Cong. 1 Sess.

of a locality, as distinguished from named individuals or organizations. In short, such documents must be of "public" as distinguished from "private" import, as generally exemplified in the classification of laws in the Statutes at Large into "Public Laws" and "Private Laws", and in the regulations approved by the President respecting the type of matter to be published in the Federal Register.[3] More particularly, the following types of documents require special treatment:

PAR. a. Internal administration.—Those documents or parts of documents "effective only against Federal agencies or persons in their capacity as officers, agents, or employees thereof" shall not be included (Cf. Sec. 5 (a) (1) of the act); but documents or portions thereof prescribing intra-departmental procedure which the public should know or follow in dealing with an agency shall be included.

PAR. b. Administrative decisions.—The decisions of executive or administrative agencies, made upon hearing or otherwise and applicable only to named parties, unless also promulgated as formal and general rules, shall not be included, although upon analogy with judicial decisions they may be said to form a body of rules or principles in which the public or a class may be interested.

PAR. c. Repealed or superseded matter.—No obsolete, repealed, or superseded matter should be included even though it might be called in question or become relevant in cases arising under past states of fact. In short, the term "in force or effect and relied upon by the agency as authority for, or invoked by it in the discharge of, any of its functions or activities" means present activities under the latest statutes or regulations on the same subject matter. Thus, regulations under old tax statutes should be excluded, except as they are applicable to current taxation.[4]

PAR. d. Documents referring to public lands.—Where there are masses of documents referring to public lands, the agency concerned should consult with representatives of the Board before attempting a codification of such documents, in order that special rules may be formulated.

SEC. 6. Other information to be included.—In addition to the text of all documents, each document, or section or paragraph of the codification, should have noted at the bottom thereof the following:

PAR. a. Authority on which based.—The authority (statute, order, proclamation, or otherwise) for the issuance of each document which is embodied in a section of the code shall be cited in parenthesis at the end of each section or paragraph. This citation should include (a) the specific authorization, if any, for the issuance of regulations, and (b) if possible, the statutory provisions interpreted or applied by the section. Citations, as nearly as possible, should be in the following form:

Statutes—

"(Sec. 6, 49 Stat. 501; 44 U. S. C. 306)"

Where statutes are cited, the United States Code citations should be given as well as the Statutes at Large. Only the section number and page or pages of the Statutes at Large on which the authority for the regulation appears should be given, rather than the first page of the statute or the chapter; and in citing the United States Code, the 1934 edition should be used and only the title number and the section number (and subsection number or letter, if any) should be given, separated by "U. S. C."

Proclamations.—

"(Proc., Sec. Ag., April 3, 1936.)"

Executive orders.—

"(Ex. Order 7298, Feb. 18, 1936.)"

"(Adm. Order 145, R. E. A., Oct. 5, 1937.)"

Treaty.—

"(Par. 21, Art 22. General Radio Regulations annexed to International Telecommunication Convention, Proclaimed by President, June 27, 1934, 49 Stat. 2391.)"

PAR. b. Citation of sources.—At the end of each section or paragraph, (1) the official designation or type of original document (Executive Order, Administrative Order, Memorandum, Bulletin, etc.) from which the text of section or paragraph originally formed a part and is taken, together with (2) the date of its adoption and (3) the title of the officer, board or commission issuing the same, unless the issuing agency is the same as the agency named in the "Title"[5] of the codification, and (4) the same information with respect to all amendments thereto, shall be cited in brackets immediately following the citations of authority on which the documents are based—in the following form:

"[Reg. R–1001 (K), V. Ad., Oct. 14, 1937.]"
"[Reg. 100, Art. 603, Bu. Int. Rev., Oct. 12, 1937.]"

"[SR–Bull.–1, A. A. A., March 20, 1936.]"

Orders (Federal Communications Commission):

"[Order 17–A, F. C. C., Sept. 29, 1937.]"

[Rule 3D8, S. E. C., Oct. 4, 1937.]

Circulars (Treasury).—

[Dept. Circ. 570, Sec. Treas., Oct. 11, 1937.]

PAR. c. Explanatory material or references.—Any other material which the agency deems necessary by way of explanation or reference may be submitted in the form of footnotes.

PAR. d. Decisions and interpretations.—Since the act has not required the submission of "annotated" codifications and since an attempt to do so would make codification impossible for many agencies in the time available, decisions of executive or administrative agencies, construing or applying documents, but which do not have the effect of a formal amendment of the text, and judicial opinions referring to documents shall not be cited except in unusual circumstances and then only in the form of explanatory footnotes.

Part B. Liaison and Cooperation with Board

SEC. 7. Codification committees in agencies.—In the execution of the codifications within the short time prescribed by Congress, it is indispensable that each agency set up an organization for the preparation of its codification. In order that the Board may deal with each agency from day to day, a responsible person of legal training or knowledge, such as the solicitor or general counsel for the agency, should be placed in charge of the codification in each agency, with assistants drawn from the several units of the agency. Agencies, with extended functions and organization, should set up in effect their own codification committees. The Codification Board at the Department of Justice shall be informed of the codification organization and plans of each agency at once.

[3] "As the President has for purposes of the daily issues determined the classes of documents having general applicability and legal effect, the several agencies would in general be guided by that determination in selecting the kinds of material for inclusion in the codification." House Report 478, 75 Cong. 1 Sess. See the last revision of "Regulations Prescribed by the Administrative Committee of the Federal Register with the Approval of the President". The National Archives (Published in pamphlet form by the Government Printing Office and in the Federal Register for Jan. 12, 1937).

[4] "Regulations, under acts of Congress which have been repealed or superseded, for instance, would presumably be found no longer to have 'general applicability', even though a few cases arising under them still remain open." House Report 478, 75 Cong. 1 Sess.

[5] See Ch. III, Part B, Sec. 1, Par. 1, infra.

SEC. 8. Cooperation with Board.—The several members of the Board will be individually assigned to the several agencies, to effect an immediate and continuous liaison between the Board and the several agencies, so that there may be mutual information, advice, and suggestions and the problems of the separate agencies may be presented to the Board for prompt and early decision.

Part C. Preliminary Submission of Codifications

SEC. 9. Early submission of portions of codifications.—While the act does not require the submission of the completed codifications by the several agencies until July 1, 1938 (Sec. 11a of the act), it is indispensable that the Codification Board receive units or parts of the codifications of each agency from time to time so that the work of arranging the code for the entire executive and administrative branch of the government may proceed immediately. Such partial codifications, so submitted, may be those of separate units or functions within an agency. Through this method of procedure, the complete codification for each agency may proceed by stages, the simpler and less extensive parts of the codification being submitted first. Both the agency and the Board will thus be afforded an opportunity to perfect form and arrangement prior to the final submission of the full codification for each agency.

SEC. 10. Resubmission.—Partial codifications, submitted as suggested in the preceding section, should be reasonably final but will not bind the agency and will be resubmitted to the agency for final approval and certification as hereinafter provided.

Part D. Transmission, Certification, and Final Submission of Codifications

SEC. 11. Preliminary or partial submissions.—Where preliminary or partial codifications are submitted in accordance with Part C, above, they should be accompanied by a letter setting forth (1) the nature of the matter submitted, (2) its relation to the other portion of the codification being prepared by the agency, and (3) any questions or problems in connection therewith which the agency desires to submit to the Board.

SEC. 12. Final submission and certification.—Between June 1 and July 1, 1938, each agency must submit in final form its codification (Sec. 11a of the act), to each copy of which shall be attached a certificate signed by the chief authority of the submitting agency (with the seal, if any, affixed), in the following language:

Certificate

It is hereby certified that the attached document is a complete codification of all documents which, in the opinion of this agency, have general applicability and legal effect and which have been issued or promulgated by this agency and were in force and effect and relied upon by this agency as authority for, or invoked or used by it in the discharge of, any of its functions or activities on June 1, 1938:

SEC. 13. To whom submitted.—All material submitted shall be addressed and delivered to

Secretary of the Administrative Committee,
c/o Codification Board,
Department of Justice,
Washington, D. C.

Chapter III. Form, Style, and Arrangement

Part A. Physical Format

SEC. 14. The partial and final codifications submitted shall conform to the following:

PAR. a. Number of copies.—Three copies shall be submitted.

PAR. b. Size of paper.—Only letter size paper (approximately 8½x10 or 11 inches) shall be used, and the material shall be placed thereon parallel with the long side of the sheet so that the individual sheets may be conveniently handled and filed, and in order to leave a maximum of margins for notes and corrections or insertions.

PAR. c. Contents and numbering of pages.—Not more than one section, subsection, or numbered paragraph shall be placed on one page, and the pages shall be numbered consecutively in Arabic numerals.

PAR. d. Typing.—All matter shall be legibly typewritten, mimeographed, or printed, except that material already in such form may be cut and pasted on pages of the prescribed size in order to save time and eliminate typing and the errors often consequent therein, and in such cases corrections may be made in ink or by typewriter in the margins or by interlineation and striking out.

PAR. e. Forms—Illustrations and diagrams.—Ordinarily, forms should not be incorporated in the codifications. Illustrations shall not be incorporated in the code as a part of a document unless publication is essential in the public interest. In cases where an illustration was incorporated as a part of a document which has been issued and amended prior to June 1, 1938, and the publication of the illustration is essential, a new illustration including the necessary changes to conform to the amendments shall be prepared and forwarded with the codified document. Illustrations accompanying codes, when published, shall be reduced to page size and be line-cuts only. Copy for illustrations, preferably tracings on linen, must be securely attached to the part of the code which incorporates such illustration.

Part B. Arrangement

SEC. 15. System of heading and numbers.—As stated above, main emphasis should be laid upon the completeness of the collection of documents which comprise the codification of each agency rather than revisions in form or substance. However, it will be necessary for each agency to assemble the whole of its codification according to some system of headings and numbers. Similarly, it will be necessary for the Board to assemble the codifications of all the agencies in order to produce the complete codification required by the act (Sec. 11a of the act). While considerable latitude is necessarily given each agency in determining the headings, headnotes, and numbering of its codification, the following should be followed as nearly as practicable:

PAR. a. Titles, chapters, etc.—The final and complete codification, comprised of the codification of all the agencies, will be submitted to the President by the Administrative Committee in the following form (as exemplified in the form of these regulations), so far as practicable and adaptable to each agency:

1. "Titles", numbered in Arabic and preceded by the word "Title", will be assigned to each agency by the Board, and these will constitute the major units of the complete codification; such assignments of "titles" will be made in the following order: (1) the President of the United States; (2) the Executive departments, in the order of their precedence; (3) all other Federal agencies, listed in alphabetical order by their official titles.

I. "Chapters", numbered in Roman and preceded by the word "Chapter", should be assigned to each division, bureau, or unit of each agency, within its "title";

A. "Parts", differentiated by capitals and preceded by the word "Part", will be used, where necessary or convenient, to indicate the major divisions of "Chapters";

1. "Sections", numbered in Arabic and preceded by "Sec.", will be the normal unit within "Chapters" or "Parts";

a. "Paragraphs", differentiated in lower case letters of the alphabet and preceded by "Par.", will be the subdivisions of "Sections" where necessary.

PAR. b. Headings of titles, chapters and parts.—Each title, chapter, and part shall have a heading. Titles will be headed by the official name of the agency to which it is assigned, as for example:

"TITLE 1. THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES"

Chapters will be headed by the official title of divisions, bureaus, or units, as for example:

"Chapter II. Bureau of Agricultural Economics"

PAR. c. Headnotes to sections and paragraphs.—Sections and paragraphs shall have headnotes in the style now in use in the United States Code, as for example:

SEC. 3. Notice of Application; Service; Order for Taking.—Reasonable notice of not less than ten days, and when the deposition is to be taken in a foreign country, of not less than fifteen days, must first be given in writing. * * *

SEC. 16. Table of contents; indexing.—Each submission of a partial or final codification shall be accompanied by a table of contents in outline form, giving the titles, chapters, parts, sections, and paragraphs, together with their numbers, headings, and headnotes; but no index need be prepared, since the indexing for the entire codification for all agencies must necessarily be done by the central codification organization according to one system.

SEC. 17. Joint regulations.—Whenever officers of two or more Federal agencies have joint power to issue documents, or whenever regulations issued by one officer affect two or more subdivisions of one agency, the question of location of the joint regulations within the codifications involved should be submitted to the Board in order to assure uniformity of treatment.

Part C. Style

SEC. 18. Abbreviations.—Each agency shall cooperate with the Board in settling the abbreviations peculiar to, and to be used by, the agency in order that there may be no confusion of abbreviations as between agencies and so that identical matter will be cited by different agencies according to the same abbreviations.

SEC. 19. Style manual.—Punctuation, capitalization, orthography, and other matters of style should conform, so far as possible and practicable, to the most recent edition of the Style Manual of the United States Government Printing Office. The spelling of geographic names shall conform to the most recent decisions of the United States Geographic Board made pursuant to Executive Orders, No. 27–A of September 4, 1890, No. 399 of January 23, 1906, and No. 6680 of April 17, 1934.

SEC. 20. Descriptions of tracts of land.—Descriptions of tracts of land shall conform, so far as practicable, with the most recent edition of the Specifications for Descriptions of Tracts of Land for Use in Executive orders and Proclamations, issued by the Board of Surveys and Maps of the Federal Government.

Chapter IV. Miscellaneous

SEC. 21. Effective date of regulations.—The foregoing regulations, subject to amendment or amplification, shall be effective immediately upon the approval of the President.

SEC. 22. Official mail.—All official mail on matters arising under Section 11 of the act or these regulations should be addressed to:

The Chairman, Codification Board,
Department of Justice,
Washington, D. C.

SEC. 23. Publication of regulations.—The foregoing regulations shall be printed in the Federal Register; and there shall be appended thereto a copy of the Federal Register Act, as amended, with pertinent portions italicized.

PUBLIC NO. 220, 74TH CONGRESS (49 STAT. 500–503), AS AMENDED BY PUBLIC NO. 158, 75TH CONGRESS

AN ACT

To provide for the custody of Federal proclamations, orders, regulations, notices, and other documents, and for the prompt and uniform printing and distribution thereof

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Archivist of the United States, acting through a division established by him in the National Archives Establishment, hereinafter referred to as the "Division", is charged with the custody and, together with the Public Printer, with the prompt and uniform printing and distribution of the documents required or authorized to be published under section 5. There shall be at the head of the Division a director, appointed by the President, who shall act under the general direction of the Archivist of the United States in carrying out the provisions of this Act and the regulations prescribed hereunder, who shall receive a salary, to be fixed by the President, not to exceed $5,000 a year.

SEC. 2. The original and two duplicate originals or certified copies of any document required or authorized to be published under section 5 shall be filed with the Division, which shall be open for that purpose during all hours of the working days when the Archives Building shall be open for official business. The Director of the Division shall cause to be noted on the original and duplicate originals or certified copies of each document the day and hour of filing thereof: Provided, That when the original is issued, prescribed, or promulgated outside of the District of Columbia and certified copies are filed before the filing of the original, the notation shall be of the day and hour of filing of the certified copies. Upon such filing, at least one copy shall be immediately available for public inspection in the office of the Director of the Division. The original shall be retained in the archives of the National Archives Establishment and shall be available for inspection under regulations to be prescribed by the Archivist. The Division shall transmit immediately to the Government Printing Office for printing, as provided in this Act, one duplicate original or certified copy of each document required or authorized to be published under section 5. Every Federal agency shall cause to be transmitted for filing as herein required the original and the duplicate originals or certified copies of all such documents issued, prescribed, or promulgated by the agency.

SEC. 3. All documents required or authorized to be published under section 5 shall be printed and distributed forthwith by the Government Printing Office in a serial publication designated the "Federal Register." It shall be the duty of the Public Printer to make available the facilities of the Government Printing Office for the prompt printing and distribution of the Federal Register in the manner and at the times required in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the regulations prescribed hereunder. The contents of the daily issues shall be indexed and shall comprise all documents, required or authorized to be published, filed with the Division up to such time of the day immediately preceding the day of distribution as shall be fixed by regulations hereunder. There shall be printed with each document a copy of the notation, required to be made under section 2, of the day and hour when, upon filing with the Division, such document was made available for public inspection. Distribution shall be made by delivery or by deposit at a post office at such time in the morning of the day of distribution as shall be fixed by such regulations prescribed hereunder. The prices to be charged for the Federal Register may be fixed by the administrative committee established by section 6 without reference to the restrictions placed upon and fixed for the sale of Government publications by section 1 of the Act of May 11, 1922, and section 307 of the Act of June 30, 1932 (U. S. C., title 44, secs. 72 and 72a), and any amendments thereto.

SEC. 4. As used in this Act, unless the context otherwise requires, the term "document" means any Presidential proclamation or Executive order and any order, regulation, rule, certificate, code of fair competition, license, notice, or similar instrument issued, prescribed, or promulgated by a Federal agency; the terms "Federal agency" or "agency" mean the President of the United States, or any executive department, independent board, establishment, bureau, agency, institution, commission, or separate office of the administrative branch of the Government of the United States but not the legislative or judicial branches of the Government; and the term "person" means any individual, partnership, association, or corporation.

SEC. 5. (a) There shall be published in the Federal Register (1) all Presidential proclamations and Executive orders, except such as have no general applicability and legal effect or are effective only against Federal agencies or persons in their capacity as officers, agents, or employees thereof; (2) such documents or classes of documents as the President shall determine from time to time have general applicability and legal effect; and (3) such documents or classes of documents as may be required so to be published by Act of the Congress: Provided, That for the purposes of this Act every document or order which shall prescribe a penalty shall be deemed to have general applicability and legal effect.

(b) In addition to the foregoing there shall also be published in the Federal Register such other documents or classes of documents as may be authorized to be published pursuant hereto by regulations prescribed hereunder with the approval of the President, but in no case shall comments or news items of any character whatsoever be authorized to be published in the Federal Register.

SEC. 6. There is established a permanent Administrative Committee of three members consisting of the Archivist or Acting Archivist, who shall be chairman, an officer of the Department of Justice designated by the Attorney General, and the Public Printer or Acting Public Printer. The Director of the Division shall act as secretary of the committee. The committee shall prescribe, with the approval of the President, regulations for carrying out the provisions of this Act. Such regulations shall provide, among other things:

(a) The manner of certification of copies required to be certified under section 2, which certification may be permitted to be based upon confirmed communications from outside of the District of Columbia; (b) the documents which shall be authorized pursuant to section 5 (b) to be published in the Federal Register; (c) the manner and form in which the Federal Register shall be printed, reprinted, compiled, indexed, bound, and distributed; (d) the number of copies of the Federal Register which shall be printed, reprinted, and compiled, the number which shall be distributed without charge to Members of Congress, officers and employees of the United States, or any Federal agency for their official use, and the number which shall be available for distribution to the public; and (e) the prices to be charged for individual copies of, and subscriptions to, the Federal Register and reprints and bound volumes thereof.

SEC. 7. No document required under section 5 (a) to be published in the Federal Register shall be valid as against any person who has not had actual knowledge thereof until the duplicate originals or certified copies of the document shall have been filed with the Division and a copy made available for public inspection as provided in section 2; and, unless otherwise specifically provided by statute, such filing of any document, required or authorized to be published under section 5, shall, except in cases where notice by publication is insufficient in law, be sufficient to give notice of the contents of such document to any person subject thereto or affected thereby. The publication in the Federal Register of any document shall create a rebuttable presumption (a) that it was duly issued, prescribed, or promulgated; (b) that it was duly filed with the Division and made available for public inspection at the day and hour stated in the printed notation; (c) that the copy contained in the Federal Register is a true copy of the original; and, (d) that all requirements of this Act and the regulations prescribed hereunder relative to such document have been complied with. The contents of the Federal Register shall be judicially noticed and, without prejudice to any other mode of citation, may be cited by volume and page number.

SEC. 8. Whenever notice of hearing or of opportunity to be heard is required or authorized to be given by or under an Act of the Congress, or may otherwise properly be given, the notice shall be deemed to have been duly given to all persons residing within the continental United States (not including Alaska), except in cases where notice by publication is insufficient in law, if said notice shall be published in the Federal Register at such time that the period between the publication and the date fixed in such notice for the hearing or for the termination of the opportunity to be heard shall be (a) not less than the time specifically prescribed for the publication of the notice by the appropriate Act of the Congress; or (b) not less than fifteen days when no time for publication is specifically prescribed by the Act, without prejudice, however, to the effectiveness of any notice of less than fifteen days where such shorter period is reasonable.

SEC. 9. Every payment made for the Federal Register shall be covered into the Treasury as a miscellaneous receipt. The cost of printing, reprinting, wrapping, binding, and distributing the Federal Register and any other expenses incurred by the Government Printing Office in carrying out the duties placed upon it by this Act shall be borne by the appropriations to the Government Printing Office and such appropriations are hereby made available, and are authorized to be increased by such additional sums as are necessary for such purposes, such increases to be based upon estimates submitted by the Public Printer. The purposes for which appropriations are available and are authorized to be made under section 10 of the Act entitled "An Act to establish a National Archives of the United States Government, and for other purposes" (48 Stat. 1122) are enlarged to cover the additional duties placed upon the National Archives Establishment by the provisions of this Act. Copies of the Federal Register mailed by the Government shall be entitled to the free use of the United States mails in the same manner as the official mail of the executive departments of the Government. The cost of mailing the Federal Register to officers and employees of Federal agencies in foreign countries shall be borne by the respective agencies.

SEC. 10. The provisions of section 2 shall become effective sixty days after the date of approval of this Act and the publication of the Federal Register shall begin within three business days thereafter. Provided, That the appropriations involved have been increased as required by section 9 of this Act. The limitations upon the effectiveness of documents required, under section 5 (a), to be published in the Federal Register shall not be operative as to any document issued, prescribed, or promulgated prior to the date when such document is first required by this or subsequent Act of the Congress or by Executive order to be published in the Federal Register.

SEC. 11. (a) On July 1, 1938, and on the same date of every fifth year thereafter, each agency of the Government shall have prepared and shall file with the Administrative Committee a complete codification of all documents which, in the opinion of the agency, have general applicability and legal effect and which have been issued or promulgated by such agency and are in force and effect and relied upon by the agency as authority for, or invoked or used by it in the discharge of, any of its functions or activities on June 1, 1938. The Committee shall, within ninety days thereafter, report thereon to the President, who may authorize and direct the publication of such codification in special or supplemental editions of the Federal Register.

(b) There is hereby established a Codification Board, which shall consist of six members: The Director of the Division of the Federal Register, chairman ex officio; three attorneys of the Department of Justice, designated by the Attorney General; and two attorneys of the Division of the Federal Register, designated by the Archivist. The Board shall supervise and coordinate the form, style, arrangement, and indexing of the codifications of the various agencies.

(c) The codified documents of the several agencies published in the supplemental edition of the Federal Register pursuant to the provisions of subsection (a) hereof, as amended by documents subsequently filed with the Division, and published in the daily issues of the Federal Register, shall be prima-facie evidence of the text of such documents and of the fact that they are in full force and effect on and after the date of publication thereof.

SEC. 12. Nothing in this Act shall be construed to apply to treaties, conventions, protocols, and other international agreements, or proclamations thereof by the President.

SEC. 13. All Acts or parts of Acts in conflict with this Act are hereby repealed insofar as they conflict herewith.

SEC. 14. This Act may be cited as the "Federal Register Act."

REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE LEASING OF RESTRICTED ALLOTTED INDIAN LANDS FOR MINING PURPOSES

APPLICABLE TO ALL RESTRICTED LANDS ALLOTTED TO OR HELD IN TRUST BY INDIVIDUAL MEMBERS OF INDIAN TRIBES EXCEPT THE FIVE CIVILIZED TRIBES AND OSAGE NATION

A provision in the act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat. 781, 783), reads:

That all lands allotted to Indians in severalty, except allotments made to members of the Five Civilized Tribes and Osage Indians in Oklahoma, may by said allottee be leased for mining purposes for any term of years as may be deemed advisable by the Secretary of the Interior; and the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized to perform any and all acts and make such rules and regulations as may be necessary for the purpose of carrying the provisions of this paragraph into full force and effect.

1. To carry this provision of law into effect the following regulations are prescribed:

The term "Superintendent" herein refers to the superintendent or other officer of the Indian Service or of the Government who may have jurisdiction over the allotments involved.

The term "Supervisor" herein refers to a representative of the Secretary of the Interior, under direction of the Director of the United States Geological Survey, authorized and empowered to supervise and direct operations under oil and gas or other mining leases, to furnish scientific and technical information and advice, to ascertain and record the amount and value of production, and to determine and record rentals and royalties due and paid.

Applications for leases should be made to the Superintendent having jurisdiction over the lands.

2. No lease, assignment thereof, or interest therein will be approved to any employee or employees of the United States Government whether connected with the Indian Service or otherwise, and no employee of the Interior Department shall be permitted to acquire any interest in such leases by ownership of stock in corporations having leases or in any other manner.

3. At such times and in such manner as he may deem appropriate, the Superintendent shall publish notices that oil and gas leases on specific tracts, each of which shall be in a compact body, will be offered to the highest responsible bidder for a bonus consideration, in addition to stipulated rentals and royalties. The successful bidder must deposit with the Superintendent on the day of sale a certified check or bank draft on a solvent bank in an amount equal to 20 percent of the bid as a guaranty of good faith. Balance of the bonus and the first year's rental shall be paid and lease in completed form shall be filed within 20 days after the lease is forwarded to the lessee by the Superintendent for execution, unless such period shall have been extended by the Superintendent for good and sufficient reason. If the successful bidder fails to complete the lease or pay the full consideration within said period or extension thereof, or if the lease is disapproved through no fault of the lessor or the Interior Department, the amount of bonus deposited will be forfeited for the use and benefit of the Indian allottee, in the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior.

The right is reserved by the Secretary of the Interior to reject any and all bids and to disapprove and reject prior to approval any lease made on an accepted bid; and should any bid be rejected after bonus deposit is made by bidder, such deposit shall be immediately returned. The successful bidder or bidders shall pay the costs of advertising lands for oil and gas, or other mineral leases.

4. The Superintendent shall execute leases on behalf of allottees who are incompetent by reason of mental incapacity, and of minor allottees, except such persons for whom guardians have been appointed, in accordance with tribal constitutions which provide for the appointment of guardians.

5. Leases for minerals other than oil and gas shall be negotiated with the Indian allottee whose lands are sought to be leased after permission so to do has first been obtained from the Superintendent and, with the papers required, shall be filed with the Superintendent within 30 days from and after the date of execution: Provided, That no such lease on lands of allottees incompetent by reason of mental incapacity, and of minor allottees, shall be made until competitive bids have been invited therefor by advertising for at least two weeks in two or more papers of general circulation in the vicinity; but if a minor or such incompetent person is interested with competent adults in inherited lands, and such adults agree respecting a lease, the Superintendent or properly designated guardian may sign for the minor or mentally incompetent person without advertising. The minor's age and date of birth must be shown whenever possible.

6. If the applicant for a lease is a corporation it shall file evidence of authority of its officers to execute papers, and with its first application it shall also file:

(I) A certified copy of its articles of incorporation, and, if foreign to the State in which the lands are located, evidence showing compliance with the corporation laws thereof.

(II) Lists of officers, principal stockholders and directors, with postoffice addresses and number of shares held by each.

(III) A sworn statement of the proper officer showing:

(a) The Total number of shares of the capital stock actually issued and the amount of cash paid into the treasury on each share sold; or, if paid in property, the kind, quantity, and value of the same paid per share.

(b) Of the stock sold, how much remains unpaid, and subject to assessment.

(c) The amount of cash the company has in its treasury and elsewhere.

(d) The property, exclusive of cash, owned by the company and its value.

(e) The total indebtedness of the company and the nature of its obligations.

7. Statements of changes in officers and stockholders shall be furnished by a corporation lessee to the Superintendent on January 1 of each year, and at such other times as may be requested. Affidavits may also be required of individual stockholders at any time, setting forth in what corporations or with what persons, firms, or associations such individual stockholders are interested in mining leases of restricted Indian lands within the State, and whether they hold such interests for themselves or in trust.

8. Except to prevent loss or waste, leases of undivided, inherited lands will be approved only when accompanied by proof that the lessors are the only heirs of the deceased allottee. Heirship must be established in accordance with the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 855), and the regulations prescribed thereunder. If the heirs have already been so determined, the Superintendent when forwarding the lease shall refer to the date and file number of Indian Office letter notifying him of such determination. If the heirs include a life tenant, the lease must be accompanied by an agreement between such life tenant and the remaindermen, providing for the division of the rents and royalties, subject to approval of the Secretary of the Interior.

If the heirs to an allotment are undetermined or can not be located, or if heirs owning less than one-half interest in the land refuse to sign a lease, and it appears necessary to lease the land to prevent loss or waste, the Superintendent will report the facts to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and ask for instructions.

9. Lessees shall furnish with each lease a bond (Form 5–154b) with two or more personal sureties, or with an acceptable company authorized to act as sole surety. Such bond shall be in amount as follows: for less than 40 acres, $500; for 40 acres and less than 80 acres, $1,000; for 80 acres and less than 120 acres, $1,500; for 120 acres and not more than 160 acres, $2,000; and for each additional 40 acres or part thereof above 160 acres, $500: Provided, That a lessee may file one bond (Form 5–154f) in the sum of $15,000, covering all leases of a particular class in any one State up to 10,240 acres, to which he is or may become a party. The right is reserved at any time before or after approval of lease to increase the amount of a bond above the sum named in any case where the Secretary of the Interior deems it proper to do so. Bonds with personal sureties will be accepted only where the sureties deposit with the Commissioner of Indian Affairs collateral consisting of any public debt obligations of the United States guaranteed as to principal and interest by the United States, equal in value to the full amount of the bond, or other collateral satisfactory in kind and value, to the Secretary of the Interior, or show ownership of unencumbered real estate equal in value to twice the amount of the bond. In lieu of other bonds, lessees may execute their own surety contracts upon deposit of Government bonds as collateral (Form 5–154a).

10. The Superintendent may, either before or after approval of a lease, call for any additional information desired to carry out these regulations. If a lessee shall fail to furnish the papers necessary to put his lease and bond in proper form for consideration, the Superintendent shall forward such lease for disapproval.

11. Oil and gas mining leases shall be made for a period of ten years from the date of approval by the Secretary of the Interior and as much longer thereafter as oil, gas, casinghead gas, or any of them, is produced in paying quantities.

Leases for other minerals shall be for a period of 15 years.

12. No individual, corporation, partnership, company, or association shall hold under leases for mining purposes restricted Indian lands in any one State in excess of the following areas, exclusive of holdings in the Five Civilized Tribes and the Osage Nation:

(a) On deposits of the nature of lodes or veins, containing ores of gold, silver, copper, lead, zinc, or other useful metals, not more than 640 acres.

(b) For beds of placer gold, gypsum, asphaltum, phosphate, iron ores, or other useful minerals other than coal, oil, and gas, not more than 960 acres.

(c) For coal, oil, or gas, not more than 10,240 acres, except that in the State of Oklahoma there is no limitation on the number of acres any lessee may acquire, by lease or assignment, for oil or gas mining purposes.

Rents and Royalties

13. All rents and other payments due under leases which have been or may be approved by the Secretary of the Interior shall be paid to the Superintendent or to such other person as may be designated by the Secretary of the Interior, for the benefit of the various lessors. Except advance payments for the first year which shall be sent direct to the Superintendent at the time of filing leases, payments of rental and royalty under oil and gas leases shall be transmitted through the oil and gas supervisor, shall be accompanied by a statement by the lessee, in triplicate, showing the specific items of rental or royalty that the remittance is intended to cover, and shall be made at such time or times as the lease provides. No credit will be given any lessee for rents or royalties paid direct to the lessors or their representatives.

In the event of the discovery of minerals in paying quantities all advance payments shall be allowed as credit on stipulated royalties for the year for which the payment is made. No refund will be made under oil, gas, or other mining leases, in the event the royalty on production for any year is not sufficient to equal the advance payment for that year, nor will any part of the moneys so paid be refunded to the lessee because of any subsequent surrender or cancellation of the lease, nor shall the lessee be relieved from the obligations to pay said advance rental annually when it becomes due by reason of any subsequent surrender or cancellation of the lease.

For leases other than oil and gas, all advance rental for the first year shall be paid to the Superintendent at the time of filing the lease, and the amounts so paid shall be and become the property of the lessor if the lease be disapproved because of the lessee's failure to meet the requirements of the law or these regulations, or because of any other fault or defect chargeable to the lessee.

14. Advance annual rentals shall be paid on leases for minerals other than oil and gas at the following rates: Fifteen cents per acre per annum for the first and second years; 30 cents per acre per annum for the third and fourth years; 75 cents per acre per annum for the fifth year; and $1 per acre per annum for each succeeding year during the term of the lease.

15. The lessee shall pay, beginning with the date of approval of oil and gas leases by the Secretary of the Interior, a rental of $1.25 per acre per annum in advance during the continuance thereof, the rental so paid for any one year to be credited on the royalty for that year, together with a royalty of 12½ percent of the value or amount of all oil, gas, and/or natural gasoline, and/or all other hydrocarbon substances produced and saved from the land leased, save and except oil, and/or gas used by the lessee for development and operation purposes on the lease, which oil or gas shall be royalty free. During the period of supervision, "value" for the purposes of the lease, may, in the discretion of the Secretary, be calculated on the basis of the highest price paid or offered (whether calculated on the basis of short or actual volume) at the time of production for the major portion of the oil of the same gravity, and gas, and/or natural gasoline, and/or all other hydrocarbon substances produced and sold from the field where the leased lands are situated, and the actual volume of the marketable product less the content of foreign substances as determined by the oil and gas supervisor. The actual amount realized by the lessee from the sale of said products may, in the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior, be deemed mere evidence of or conclusive evidence of such value. When paid in value, such royalties shall be due and payable monthly on the last day of the calendar month following the calendar month in which produced; when royalty on oil produced is paid in kind, such royalty oil shall be delivered in tanks provided by the lessee on the premises where produced without cost to the lessor unless otherwise agreed to by the parties thereto, at such time as may be required by the lessor. The lessee shall not be required to hold such royalty oil in storage longer than 30 days after the end of the calendar month in which said oil is produced. The lessee shall be in no manner responsible or held liable for loss or destruction of such oil in storage caused by acts of God. All rental and royalty payments, except as provided in sections 4 (c) and 8 (a) of the lease form (5–154h, revised April 24, 1935), shall be made by check or draft drawn on a solvent bank, open for the transaction of business on the day the check or draft is issued, to the order of the Superintendent. Except the advance rental for the first year, which as provided in section 13 of these regulations, shall be paid to the Superintendent when the lease is filed, payments shall be transmitted through the oil and gas supervisor, shall be accompanied by a statement by the lessee, in triplicate, showing the specific items of rental or royalty that the remittance is intended to cover, and shall be made at such times as the lease provides. In determining the value for royalty purposes of products, such as natural gasoline, that are derived from treatment of gas, a reasonable allowance for the cost of manufacture shall be made, such allowance to be two-thirds of the value of the marketable product unless otherwise determined by the Secretary of the Interior on application of the lessee or on his own initiative, and that royalty will be computed on the value of gas or casinghead gas, or on the products thereof (such as residue gas, natural gasoline, propane, butane, etc.), whichever is the greater.

In time of war or other public emergency any of the executive departments of the United States Government shall have the option to purchase at the highest posted market price on the date of sale all or any part of the oil produced under any lease.

16. The royalty on coal shall not be less than ten cents per ton of 2,000 pounds on mine run, or coal as it is taken from the mines, including what is commonly called "slack".

17. The royalty on asphaltum shall not be less than ten cents per ton of 2,000 pounds on crude asphalt or 60 cents per ton on refined asphalt.

18. For gold, silver, copper, lead, zinc, and tungsten the lessee shall pay quarterly a royalty of not less than ten percent, to be computed on the gross value of the ores as shown by reduction returns after deducting freight and treatment charges.

19. For substances other than gold, silver, copper, lead, zinc, tungsten, coal, asphaltum and allied substances, oil, and gas the lessee shall pay quarterly a royalty of not less than ten percent of the value at the nearest shipping point.

20. Lessees may make arrangements with the purchasers of oil for the payment of the royalties to the Superintendent by such purchasers, but such arrangement, if made, shall not operate to relieve a lessee from responsibility should the purchaser fail or refuse to pay royalties when due. Where lessees avail themselves of this privilege, division orders permitting the pipe line companies or other purchasers of the oil to withhold the royalty interest shall be executed and forwarded to the oil and gas supervisor for approval, as pipe line companies are not permitted to accept or run oil from leased Indian lands until after the approval of a division order showing that the lessee has a lease regularly approved and in effect. The right is reserved for the oil and gas supervisor to cancel a division order at any time or require the pipe line company to discontinue to run the oil of any lessee who fails to operate the lease properly or otherwise violates the provisions of the lease, of these regulations, or of the operating regulations.

Lessee or his representative shall actually be present when oil taken under division orders is run by pipe line companies and lessee shall be responsible for the correct measurement and report of oil so run; otherwise the approval of division order may be revoked.

21. Royalty payments on all leases shall be made monthly, on or before the last day of the calendar month following the calendar month for which such payment is to be made.

Stipulations

22. The lessee under any lease heretofore approved may, by stipulation (Form 5–154i), with the consent of the lessor and the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, make such approved lease subject to all the terms, conditions, and provisions contained in these regulations and in the lease form currently in use.

Assignments

23. (a) Leases hereafter approved, or any interest therein, may be assigned or transferred only with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and to procure such approval the assignee must be qualified to hold such lease under existing rules and regulations, and shall furnish a satisfactory bond for the faithful performance of the covenants and conditions thereof.

(b) No lease or any interest therein or the use of such lease shall be assigned, sublet, or transferred, directly or indirectly, by working or drilling contract, or otherwise, without the consent of the Secretary of the Interior.

(c) Assignments of leases and stipulations modifying the terms of existing leases shall be filed with the Superintendent within 30 days after the date of execution.

Cancellations

24. A lease will be cancelled by the Secretary of the Interior for good cause upon application of the lessor or lessee, or if at any time the Secretary is satisfied that the provisions of the lease or of any regulations heretofore or hereafter prescribed have been violated. When the lessee applies for cancellation he must, before the same will be considered, pay a surrender fee of $1 and all royalties and rents due to the date of completion of such application, surrender all parts of the lease actually delivered to him, and furnish a duly recorded release of the acreage covered by the application if the lease thereon has been recorded: Provided, That where the application is made by an assignee to whom no copy of the lease was delivered he will be required to surrender only his copy of the assignment.

If the lease is owned in undivided interests by more than one person, firm, or corporation all shall join in the application for cancellation.

All required fees and papers must be at least in the mail on or before the date upon which rents and royalties become due in order for the lessee and his surety to be relieved from liability for the payment thereof.

If there has been a contest respecting a lease or leases, the approved, disapproved, or cancelled parts thereof will be held in the office of the Superintendent for five days after promulgation by him, by mailing or delivery of the department's decision, and will not be delivered if within that period a motion for review or reconsideration be filed until such motion is passed upon by the department.

No part of any advance rentals shall be refunded to the lessee, nor shall he be relieved from his obligation to pay rentals annually when due by reason of any subsequent surrender or cancellation of the lease. Upon cancellation of a lease the lessor shall be entitled to take immediate possession of the land.

Further Requirements of Lessees

25. Lessees will be required to carry out and observe the operating regulations now or hereafter in force governing oil and gas operations on restricted Indian lands. Operations will not be permitted under any lease requiring approval of the Secretary of the Interior until the approved lease has been delivered.

All leases issued under the provisions of these regulations shall be subject to imposition by the Secretary of such restrictions as to time or times for the drilling of wells and as to the production from any well or wells as in his judgment may be necessary or proper for the protection of the natural resources of the leased land and in the interests of the Indian lessor. In the exercise of his judgment the Secretary may take into consideration among other things the Federal laws, State laws, or regulations by competent Federal or State authorities or lawful agreements among operators regulating either drilling or production or both, and also any regulatory action desired by tribal authorities.

All leases issued pursuant to these regulations shall be subject to a cooperative or unit development plan affecting the leased lands if and when required by the Secretary of the Interior.

26. Lessees shall agree to allow the lessors and their agents or any authorized representative of the Interior Department to enter, from time to time, upon and into all parts of the leased premises for the purposes of inspection, and shall further agree to keep a full and correct account of all operations and make reports thereof, as required by the regulations of the Department governing operations on public and restricted Indian lands; and their books and records showing manner of operations and persons interested shall be open at all times for examination of such officers of the department as shall be instructed in writing by the Secretary of the Interior or authorized by regulations to make such examination.

Land From Which Restrictions Have Been or May Be Removed

27. All leases of any description whatever executed by an allottee on land from all of which the restrictions against alienation had been removed before such execution may be executed without any provision for reference to or supervision by the Secretary of the Interior or any official of the Department of the Interior; and the Superintendent shall refuse to accept for consideration any lease covering land from all of which restrictions had been removed before such execution.

28. All leases executed before the removal of restrictions against alienation on land from all of which restrictions against alienation shall be removed after such execution, if such leases contain specific provision for approval by the Secretary of the Interior, whether now filed with the department or presented for consideration hereafter, will be considered and acted upon by this department as heretofore.

29. Oil and gas leases heretofore or hereafter approved and leases for other minerals now or hereafter in force on land from all of which restrictions against alienation have been or shall be removed, even if such leases contain provisions authorizing supervision by this department, shall, after such removal of restrictions against alienation, be operated entirely free from such supervision, and the authority and power delegated to the Secretary of the Interior in said leases shall cease, and all payments required to be made to the Superintendent shall thereafter be made to lessor or the then owner of said land; and changes in regulations thereafter made by the Secretary of the Interior applicable to oil and gas leases shall not apply to such leased land from which said restrictions are removed.

In the event restrictions are removed from a part of the land included in any lease to which this section applies the entire lease shall continue subject to the supervision of the Secretary of the Interior, and all royalties thereunder shall be paid to the Superintendent until such time as the lessor and lessee shall furnish the Secretary of the Interior satisfactory information that adequate arrangements have been made to account for the oil, gas, or mineral upon the restricted land separately from that upon the unrestricted. Thereafter the restricted land only shall be subject to the supervision of the Secretary of the Interior, provided that the unrestricted portion shall be relieved from such supervision as in the lease or regulations provided.

30. Sections 8 and 9 of the approved oil and gas lease form (5–154h, as revised April 24, 1935), relative to relinquishment of supervision and terms operative after such relinquishment, read as follows:

"8. Relinquishment of supervision by the Secretary of the Interior.—Should the Secretary of the Interior, at any time during the life of this instrument, relinquish supervision as to all or part of the acreage covered hereby, such relinquishment shall not bind lessee until said Secretary shall have given 30 days written notice. Until said requirements are fulfilled, lessee shall continue to make all payments due hereunder as heretofore in section 3 (c). After notice of relinquishment has been received by lessee, as herein provided, this lease shall be subject to the following further conditions:

(a) All rentals and royalties thereafter accruing shall be paid in the following manner: Rentals and royalties shall be paid to lessor or his successors in title, or to a trustee appointed under the provisions of section 9 hereof. Rentals and royalties shall be paid directly to lessor or his successors in title, or to said trustee as the case may be.

(b) If, at the time supervision is relinquished by the Secretary of the Interior, lessee shall have made all payments then due hereunder, and shall have fully performed all obligations on its part to be performed up to the time of such relinquishment, then the bond given to secure the performance hereof, on file in the Indian Office, shall be of no further force or effect.

(c) Should such relinquishment affect only part of the acreage, then lessee may continue to drill and operate the land covered hereby as an entirety: Provided, That lessee shall pay in the manner prescribed by section 3 (c), for the benefit of lessor such proportion of all rentals and royalties due hereunder as the acreage retained under the supervision of the Secretary of the Interior bears to the entire acreage of the lease, the remainder of such rentals and royalties to be paid directly to lessor or his successors in title or said trustee as the case may be, as provided in subdivision (a) of this section.

"9. Division of fee.—It is covenanted and agreed that should the fee of said land be divided into separate parcels, held by different owners, or should the rental or royalty interests hereunder be so divided in ownership, after the execution of this lease and after the Secretary of the Interior relinquishes supervision hereof, the obligations of lessee hereunder shall not be added to or changed in any manner whatsoever save as specifically provided by the terms of this lease. Notwithstanding such separate ownership, lessee may continue to drill and operate said premises as an entirety: Provided, That each separate owner shall receive such proportion of all rentals and royalties accruing after the vesting of his title as the acreage of the fee, or rental or royalty interest, bears to the entire acreage covered by the lease; or to the entire rental and royalty interest as the case may be: Provided further, That if, at any time after departmental supervision hereof is relinquished, in whole or in part, there shall be four or more parties entitled to rentals or royalties hereunder, whether said parties are so entitled by virtue of undivided interests or by virtue of ownership of separate parcels of the land covered hereby, lessee, at his election may withhold the payment of further rentals or royalties (except as to the portion due the Indian lessor while under restrictions), until all of said parties shall agree upon and designate in writing and in a recordable instrument a trustee to receive all payments due hereunder on behalf of said parties and their respective successors in title. Payments to said trustee shall constitute lawful payments hereunder, and the sole risk of an improper or unlawful distribution of said funds by said trustee shall rest upon the parties naming said trustee and their respective successors in title."

These, or similar provisions, will be contained in all leases.

31. Should the removal of restrictions affect only part of the acreage covered by an oil and gas lease containing provisions to the effect that the royalties accruing under the lease, where the fee is divided into separate parcels, shall be paid to each owner in the proportion which his acreage bears to the entire acreage covered by the lease, the lessee or assignee of such unrestricted portion will be required to make the reports required by these regulations and the operating regulations with respect to the beginning of drilling operations, completion of wells, and production, the same as if the restrictions had not been removed. In the event the unrestricted portion of the leased premises is producing, the owners of the lease thereon will be required to pay the portion of the royalties due the Indian lessor at the time and in the manner specified by these regulations.

Fees

32. In accordance with the provisions of the act of February 14, 1920 (41 Stat. 408–415), a fee of $5 is hereby required upon approval of each lease, sublease, or assignment. This fee shall be paid at the time of filing the lease, sublease, or assignment, and will be refunded in case the instrument is disapproved.

Forms

33. The forms prescribed for use in connection with these regulations are designated as follows, and may be obtained from the Superintendent at a cost of ten cents each:

5–154. Lease for minerals, other than oil and gas.
5–154a. Lessee's personal bond supported by Government securities.
5–154b. Bond for separate leases.
5–157d. Authority of officers to execute papers.
5–154e. Assignment.
5–154f. $15,000 collective bond.
5–154g. Affidavit of personal surety to accompany bonds.
5–154h. (Revised April 24, 1935). Oil and gas lease.
5–154i. Stipulation modifying terms of oil and gas mining lease.

34. The reference in these regulations to "allottees" and "allotments" does not include assignments of tribal lands made pursuant to tribal constitutions for the use of individual Indians and assignees of such lands; but such tribal assignments may be leased by Indians to whom mineral rights have been so assigned, subject to the terms of the tribal constitution and subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Interior for such periods of time as are authorized by existing law. In the leasing of such lands preference will be given to Indian cooperative associations and to individual Indians.

The foregoing regulations are respectfully submitted to the Secretary of the Interior with recommendation that they be approved.

JOHN COLLIER,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Approved, October 8, 1937.

NOTICE UNDER ACT TO REGULATE INTERSTATE AND FOREIGN COMMERCE IN LIVESTOCK, ETC.

NOVEMBER 11, 1937.

To H. L. Anderson, doing business as Farmers' Livestock Sales Company, McCook, Nebraska

Whereas Section 301 of Title III of an Act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate and foreign commerce in livestock, livestock products, dairy products, poultry, poultry products, and eggs, and for other purposes", approved August 15, 1921, provides in part that, when used in said Act, the term "stockyard owner" means any person engaged in the business of conducting or operating a stockyard; and Section 302 of said Act provides as follows:

(a) When used in this title the term "stockyard" means any place, establishment, or facility commonly known as stockyards, conducted or operated for compensation or profit as a public market, consisting of pens, or other inclosures, and their appurtenances, in which live cattle, sheep, swine, horses, mules, or goats are received, held, or kept for sale or shipment in commerce. This title shall not apply to a stockyard of which the area normally available for handling livestock, exclusive of runs, alleys, or passage ways, is less than twenty thousand square feet.

(b) The Secretary shall from time to time ascertain, after such inquiry as he deems necessary, the stockyards which come within the foregoing definition, and shall give notice thereof to the stockyard owners concerned, and give public notice thereof by posting copies of such notice in the stockyard, and in such other manner as he may determine. After the giving of such notice to the stockyard owner and to the public, the stockyard shall remain subject to the provisions of this title until like notice is given by the Secretary that such stockyard no longer comes within the foregoing definition:

Notice is hereby given that after inquiry it has been ascertained by me as Secretary of Agriculture of the United States that the stockyard known as Farmers' Livestock Sales Company, at McCook, State of Nebraska, comes within the foregoing definition and is subject to the provisions of said Act.

The attention of stockyard owners, market agencies, dealers and other persons concerned is directed to Sections 303 and 306 and other pertinent provisions of said Act and the rules and regulations issued thereunder by the Secretary of Agriculture.

NOTICE OF HEARING

To all Contract Markets, Futures Commission Merchants, and Parties Interested:

Whereas Section 4a of the Commodity Exchange Act, 7 U. S. C. Supp. II, Sec. 6a, directs that, for the purpose of diminishing, eliminating, or preventing excessive speculation causing sudden, unreasonable, or unwarranted price changes in any commodity named in the act, the Commodity Exchange Commission shall, from time to time, after due notice and opportunity for hearing, proclaim and fix such limits on the amount of trading under contracts of sale of such commodity for future delivery on or subject to the rules of any contract market which may be done by any person as said Commission finds is necessary for such purpose;

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that a hearing will be held beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., on December 1, 1937, in Room 300, Chicago Board of Trade Building, 141 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois, for the presentation of evidence as to (1) what maximum limit should be fixed for the amount of wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, and flaxseed which any person directly or indirectly may buy or sell, or agree to buy or sell, under contracts of sale for future delivery on or subject to the rules of all contract markets, on any one business day, and (2) what maximum limit should be fixed for the net long or net short position in wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, and flaxseed which may be held or taken by any person as a result of contracts for future delivery on or subject to the rules of all contract markets.

Neither of the aforesaid limits will apply to transactions which are shown to be bona fide hedging transactions as that term is specifically defined in Section 4a of the Commodity Exchange Act, 7 U. S. C. Supp. II, Sec. 6a.

NOTICE OF HEARING

To all Contract Markets for Grain and All Parties Interested:

Whereas, Sec. 5a (4) of the Commodity Exchange Act, 7 U. S. C. Supp. II, Sec. 7a (4), provides that whenever the Secretary of Agriculture finds, after due notice and opportunity for hearing, that it would prevent or tend to prevent "squeezes" and market congestion endangering price stability if he were to require any contract market or markets to make provision for a period of not less than three nor more than ten business days during which delivery of the actual cash commodity may be made on any futures contract after trading in futures for such commodity has ceased for any delivery month, he shall issue an order requiring any one or more contract markets to provide for such delivery period for any one or more commodities;

Whereas, Sec. 5a (5) of said act, 7 U. S. C. Supp. II, Sec. 7a (5), provides that whenever the Secretary finds, after due notice and opportunity for hearing, that the giving of a longer notice of delivery than the notice of at least one business day required by said section is necessary to prevent or diminish unfair practices in trading in any one or more commodities or markets, he shall, by order, require such longer notice of delivery, which shall not be more than ten business days, and shall make it applicable to such commodities and markets as he finds will prevent or diminish unfair practices; and

Whereas the Secretary of Agriculture has reason to believe that each contract market on which wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye and flaxseed, or any of them, are traded in for future delivery, should be required to provide for such period, with respect to such commodities, to prevent "squeezes" and market congestion endangering price stability, and to require such notice of delivery, with respect to such commodities, to prevent or diminish unfair practices in trading;

Now, Therefore, notice is hereby given that a hearing will be held beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., on November 30, 1937, in Room 300, Chicago Board of Trade Building, 141 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois, at which any interested party may appear and present such facts as may tend to show that such action should or should not be taken.

[Docket No. 3666]

ORDER IN THE MATTER OF REGULATIONS FOR TRANSPORTATION OF EXPLOSIVES AND OTHER DANGEROUS ARTICLES

Present: Frank McManamy, Commissioner, to whom the above entitled matter has been assigned for action thereon.

Regulations for the transportation of explosives and other dangerous articles being under further consideration;

And it appearing, That applications of the War Department, United States Government, and Gulf Oil Company, unanimously recommended by the Tank Car Committee, and concurred in by the Bureau of Explosives, Association of American Railroads, request permission to construct and operate in experimental rail service in the transportation of gasoline within the description of materials in paragraph 236 (a) of the aforesaid regulations, a total of thirty tank cars with riveted aluminum alloy tanks, twenty-five for the War Department and five for the Gulf Oil Company, to be constructed in accordance with shipping container specification 103AL embodied herein, including requirements of the Association reproduced as an appendix to the specification;

It further appearing, That the Tank Car Committee, in recommending approval of these applications, submits that the proposed specification will provide aluminum-alloy tank-car tanks having the same strength as steel tanks of specification 103 type in current use in the transportation of gasoline of the grade described, and that use thereof is in accordance with the best-known practicable means for securing safety in transit;

It further appearing, That there are in use at the present time 169 tank cars with tanks constructed of aluminum, 93 riveted and 76 of welded construction, for commodities of nondangerous character in transportation, and not within the terms of the aforesaid regulations;

And it further appearing, That reports are required to be made to the Bureau of Explosives and the secretary, mechanical division, Association of American Railroads before any car is placed in service, certifying to compliance with the specification, and further periodical reports to same parties on the condition of tanks and safety valves:

It is ordered, That the pending applications be granted and the construction and use be and is hereby authorized of a total of 30 tank cars, with tanks in accordance with the following shipping container specification 103AL, including appendix thereof, subject to requirements for the safe transportation of gasoline and safety appliances, and carrier rules for the interchange of tank cars:

SHIPPING CONTAINER SPECIFICATION 103AL

Riveted Aluminum Alloy, Heat Treated, Tanks to be Mounted on or to Form Part of a Car

[Effective November 5, 1937]

1. (a) Type.—Tanks built under this specification must be cylindrical, with heads dished convex outward, and must have at least one expansion dome with manhole, and such other external projections as are prescribed herein.

(b) Lagging.—The tank shell and dome must be lagged with an approved insulation material having a thermal efficiency at least equal to 85 per cent carbonate of magnesia 2 inches in thickness.

The entire insulation must be covered with a metal jacket, not less than 1/8" in thickness, efficiently flashed around all openings so as to be weather-tight.

2. (a) Bursting pressure.—The calculated bursting pressure, as determined by the following formula, must be at least 300 lbs. per square inch. Castings and attachments must be designed for the same bursting pressure.

(b) Formula for determining bursting pressure.

$$\frac{S \times 2t \times E}{d} = \text{Bursting Pressure.}$$

$S$ = Ultimate tensile strength in lbs. per sq. in.
$t$ = Thickness in inches thinnest plate.
$E$ = Seam efficiency.
$d$ = Inside diameter in inches.

3. (a) Material.—All plates for tank and expansion dome must be made of aluminum alloy, heat treated, in accordance with Federal Specification No. QQ-A-353, dated 6-6-33, condition "T."

(b) All rivets must be of aluminum alloy having a minimum shearing value when driven in the tank of 33,000 lbs. per sq. in. They must be heated in pyrometrically controlled furnace and be driven hot.

(c) Aluminum alloy castings must conform to Proposed Federal specification for aluminum base alloy sand castings QQ-A-363 dated 2-13-37.

(d) Aluminum alloy forgings heat treated, must conform to Federal specification QQ-A-367 effective on the date hereof.

4. Thickness and widths of plates.—The minimum thickness of plates, including thickness of each plate at rivet seams, must be as follows:

| Inside diameter of tanks | Bottom sheets | Shell sheets | Expansion dome sheets | Tank heads | Expansion dome heads |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Inch | Inch | Inch | Inch | Inch |
| Over 78 to 96 inches | 1/2 | 3/8 | 5/16 | 1/2 | 5/16 |

The minimum width of bottom sheet of tank must be 60 inches, measured on the arc, but in all cases the width must be sufficient to bring the entire width of the longitudinal seam, including overlaps, above the cradle.

5. Dishing of tank heads.—Tank heads must be of approved contour.

6. (a) Riveting.—For computing rivet areas the effective diameter of a driven rivet is the diameter of its reamed hole, which hole must in no case exceed nominal diameter of rivet by more than 1/16 inch. Use of rivets less than 5/8 inch nominal diameter not permissible on any part of tank or attachments. All rivets must be driven hot.

(b) All seams formed in the manufacture of the tank and expansion dome proper and the attachment of the expansion dome to the tank must be at least double riveted. Dome head, manhole ring, safety valve flange, and bottom outlet chamber flange must be single or double riveted. Riveted seams and joints must be made metal to metal without interposition of other material. The efficiency of multiple riveted seams must be at least 70% of the strength of the thinnest plate. The efficiency of single riveted seams must be at least 35% of the strength of the thinnest plate.

(c) The manner in which tank is supported on and securely attached to the car structure must be approved.

7. Preparation for calking.—The edges of plates at all riveted seams must be beveled so that the angle of the calking edges will be between 70 to 80 degrees with the flat surface of the plate. The extreme calking edge distance, measured from center line of rivet hole, must be at least one and one-half times the diameter of the hole and not more than that distance plus 1/4 inch.

8. Calking.—All seams, including those formed by attachment of expansion dome and other external projections, must be calked both inside and outside, except that inside calking of the seam fomed by attachment of expansion dome to tank is not required and outside calking of seams formed by attachment of all external projections, except the expansion dome is not required. Split calking and calk welding prohibited.

9. (a) Expansion dome.—The expansion dome must have a capacity, measured from the inside top of shell of tank to the inside top of dome or bottom of any vent pipe projecting inside dome, of at least 2 per cent of the total capacity of the tank and dome combined.

(b) The manhole in the dome head must be of sufficient diameter to permit access to the interior of the tank. The opening in tank shell within the dome must be at least 29 inches and not more than 30 inches in diameter.

(c) The dome head must be dished convex outward.

10. (a) Closures for manholes.—All covers not hinged to tank must be attached to outside of the dome head by at least a 3/8 inch steel chain or its equivalent.

(b) All joints between manhole covers and their seats must be made tight against vapor pressure, and to secure this a suitable gasket must be used. The manhole cover must be of approved type and design to make it practically impossible to remove the cover while the interior of the tank is subjected to pressure.

(c) Manhole rings and covers must be of cast, forged or pressed aluminum alloy.

11. Gauging devices, venting and loading and discharge pipes extending through dome of tanks.—Not specification requirements. When installed, these external projections, including their valves, must be protected from accidental injury by being set into a securely covered recess, or by means of cast or pressed steel, malleable iron or aluminum equivalent housing with a cover that can be securely closed. Openings in wall of housing must be equipped with screw plugs or other closures.

12. Venting, loading and discharge pipes.—These pipes, when installed, must be closed by efficient valves of metal not subject to rapid deterioration by the lading. Provision must be made for closing the pipe connections of the valves.

13. (a) Bottom discharge outlets.—The bottom discharge outlet, when applied, must be made of metal not subject to rapid deterioration by the lading, be of approved construction and be provided with a valve at its upper end and a liquid tight closure at its lower end.

(b) The valve operating mechanism and outlet chamber construction must be such as to insure against unseating of valve due to stresses or shocks incident to transportation.

14. (a) Safety valves.—The tank must be equipped with one or more safety valves mounted on expansion dome. Total valve discharge capacity must be sufficient to prevent building up of pressure in the tank in excess of 45 pounds per square inch.

(b) One safety valve must be provided for each tank, or compartment thereof, of 6,650 gallons capacity or less, and two safety valves for each tank, or compartment thereof, of over 6,650 gallons capacity.

(c) Each safety valve must be set to open at a pressure of 25 pounds per square inch. (For tolerance see paragraph 18.)

15. Fixtures, reinforcements, and other attachments not otherwise specified.—All external attachments to tank must be riveted in place and calked to comply with conditions prescribed in paragraphs 6 and 8, or applied by other approved means of at least equal strength and efficiency.

16. Plugs for openings.—When plugs are used in the heads or other parts of tanks they must be solid, of aluminum alloy, with standard pipe thread and taper, and of a length which will screw at least 6 threads inside the face of fitting or tank.

17. Test of tanks.—Each tank must be tested, before being put into service and also at intervals as prescribed in paragraph 19, by completely filling tank and dome with water, or other liquid having similar viscosity, of a temperature which must not exceed 100 degrees F. during the test, and applying a pressure of 60 pounds per square inch. Tank must hold the prescribed pressure for at least 10 minutes without leakage or evidence of distress. All rivets and closures, except safety valves, must be in place while test is made.

18. Tests of safety valves.—Each valve must be tested, before being put into service and also at intervals as prescribed in paragraph 19, by attaching to an air line and applying pressure. The valve must not leak below 20 pounds pressure. (See Note paragraph 218 (d) of freight regulations.) The valve must open at the pressure prescribed in paragraph 14 (c) with a tolerance of plus or minus 3 pounds.

19. Retests of tanks and safety valves.—Tanks and safety valves must be retested, as prescribed for original tests in paragraphs 17 and 18, within 10 years after the original test, and thereafter at intervals of five years or less. Tanks must also be retested before being returned to service after any repairs requiring extensive riveting or calking. Reports must be rendered as prescribed in paragraph 21.

20. Marking.—Each tank must be marked, thus certifying that the tank complies with all the requirements of this specification. These marks must be as follows:

(a) ICC-103-AL in letters and figures at least 3/8 inch high stamped plainly and permanently into the metal near the center of one outside head of the tank. This mark must also be stenciled on the insulation jacket near the center of one outside head in letters and figures at least 2 inches high.

(b) Initials of manufacturer and date of original test of tank in letters and figures at least 3/8 inch high, stamped plainly and permanently into the metal of the tank immediately below the stamped mark specified in paragraph 20 (a). These initials and date must also be stenciled on the insulation jacket immediately below the stenciled mark specified in paragraph 20 (a) in letters and figures at least 2 inches high.

(c) Date on which the tank was last tested, pressure to which tested, place where test was made, and by whom, stenciled on the insulation jacket.

(d) Date on which the safety valves were last tested, pressure to which tested, place where test was made and by whom, stenciled on the insulation jacket.

21. Reports.—Before a tank car is placed in service, the party assembling the completed car must furnish to car owner, Bureau of Explosives, and the secretary, mechanical division, Association of American Railroads, a report in approved form certifying that the tank and its equipment comply with all the requirements of this specification. In case of alterations of the tank or equipment therefor from original design, a similar report must be rendered to the same parties. For the periodic retests of tank and safety valves, other than above mentioned, reports must be rendered to the Bureau of Explosives and to car owner. In addition to the foregoing, owners or operators of cars where construction is authorized herein shall make semi-annual inspections of the tanks and report their condition to the above parties.

APPENDIX

A. A. R. Requirements

AAR-5. Dishing of tank heads.—Tank heads must be dished for pressure on concave side and to main inside radius not exceeding 10 feet. The inside knuckle radius must be not less than 3 3/4 inches.

AAR–6. (a) Anchorage.—The minimum shearing and bearing values of rivets connecting longitudinal anchor plates to tank and underframe shall be as follows:

Connection of single piece anchor plates to tank: (A single piece anchor is one having one longitudinal anchor plate on each side of the center sill construction.)

Shearing area of aluminum rivets, not less than 40 square inches.

Bearing area of aluminum rivets, not less than 24 square inches.

Connection of single piece anchor plates to underframe:

Shearing area of steel rivets, not less than 15 square inches.

Bearing area of steel rivets, not less than 12 square inches.

The shearing and bearing values of rivets securing anchor plates to underframe shall not exceed 70 per cent of the shearing and bearing values, respectively, of those used for connection of anchor plates to tank. The maximum diameter of a driven aluminum rivet in the anchor must not exceed its normal diameter plus $\frac{1}{32}$ inch. Head block anchorage prohibited.

(b) Tank bands.—Each tank shall have at least two bands, one at each bolster or other approved means of equal strength and security. If more than the prescribed two bands are used, their location is optional.

All tank bands shall be in direct contact with outside of main shell.

The cross sectional area of the tank band shall at no place be less than the equivalent of one square inch of steel. A threaded end $1\frac{3}{8}$ inch or more in diameter, with body consisting of a flat band 2 inch by $\frac{1}{2}$ inch, or equivalent section, or round $1\frac{1}{8}$ inch in diameter, will be accepted as meeting this requirement.

(c) Bolster slabbing.—Contact bearing area shall be not less than 15 square feet.

Not less than 50 per cent of the above prescribed minimum of number of square feet of bolster slabbing bearing area shall be outside the zone of center sill construction.

AAR–10. Closures for manholes.—Approved bolted type or bolted and hinged type, see Figs. 5 and 6, AAR specifications, or other approved type must be used.

AAR–13. (a) Bottom discharge outlets.—To provide for the attachment of standard unloading connections, the bottom of the main portion of the outlet valve chamber or some fixed attachment thereto, must have external U. S. F. threads four threads to the inch. The liquid-tight closure at its lower end must have corresponding female threads machined to give proper clearance.

(b) For outlet chambers that project 6 inches or more from shell of tank a V groove must be cut (not cast) in the upper part of the outlet valve chamber at a point immediately below lowest part of valve to a depth that will leave thickness of chamber wall at the root of the V not over $\frac{3}{8}$ inch. Where outlet chamber is not a single piece, arrangement must be made to provide the equivalent of the breakage groove.

(c) The flange on the outlet chamber must be of a thickness which will prevent distortion of the valve seat or valve by any change in contour of the shell resulting from expansion of lading, or other causes, and which will insure that accidental breakage of the outlet chamber will occur at or below the V-groove.

(d) The valve must have no wings or stem projecting below the V-groove in the outlet castings, unless they are scored or designed to break or bend without unseating valve. The valve and seat must be readily accessible or removable for repairs, including grinding.

(e) The valve operating mechanism must have means for compensating for variation in the vertical diameter of the tank produced by expansion, weight of the liquid contents, or other causes, and should operate from the interior of the tank.

(f) In no case must extreme projection of bottom discharge outlet equipment extend to within 12 in. above top of rail. All bottom discharge outlet reducers and closures and their attachments must be secured to car by at least $\frac{3}{8}$ in. steel chain or its equivalent, except that outlet closure plugs may be attached by $\frac{1}{4}$ in. chain. When the bottom discharge outlet closure is of the combination cap and valve type, the pipe connection to the valve must be closed by a plug or cap.

AAR–14. Safety valves.—Safety valves must be of approved design. See Fig. 2, AAR specifications.

AAR–20. Marking.—For all other markings see Fig. 1, AAR specifications.

AAR–21. Certificate of construction.—For form of certificate of construction see section F, page 6, AAR specifications.

AAR–22. Car structure.—For car structure see section H, page 8, AAR specifications.

It is further ordered, That tank cars constructed under this order are hereby authorized for use on and after the date of approval and publication hereof, or until further order by the Commission;

And it is further ordered, That copies of this order be served upon all the respondents herein, and that notice to the public be given by posting in the office of the Secretary of the Commission at Washington, D. C.

Dated at Washington, D. C., this 5th day of November, 1937.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

NOTICE OF HEARING WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER REGULATING HANDLING OF MILK IN CINCINNATI, OHIO, MARKETING AREA

Whereas under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, which reenacts and further amends Public No. 10, 73rd Congress, as amended, notice of hearing is required in connection with a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order, and the General Regulations, Series A, No. 1, as amended, of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, provide for notice and opportunity for hearing upon marketing agreements and orders;

Whereas the Secretary of Agriculture has reason to believe that the execution of a marketing agreement and the issuance of an order will tend to effectuate the declared policy of said act with respect to the handling of milk in the Cincinnati, Ohio, Marketing Area;

Now, therefore, pursuant to the said act and said general regulations notice is hereby given of a hearing to be held on a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order regulating the handling of milk in the Cincinnati, Ohio, Marketing Area, in the Ballroom of the Alms Hotel, McMillan and Victory Parkway, Cincinnati, Ohio, on November 29, 1937 at 9:30 a. m., eastern standard time.

This public hearing is for the purpose of receiving evidence as to the general economic conditions which may necessitate regulation in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act and as to the specific provisions which a marketing agreement and order should contain.

The proposed marketing agreement and the proposed order each embodies, in similar terms, a plan for the regulation of such handling of milk in the Cincinnati, Ohio, Marketing Area as is in the current of interstate commerce, or which directly burdens, obstructs or affects interstate commerce in such milk. Among other things, the proposed marketing agreement and order provide for: (a) selection of a market administrator; (b) classification of milk; (c) minimum prices; (d) payments to producers through the use of a marketwide settlement fund with a base rating plan; (e) deductions from payments to producers for marketing services by market administrator; (f) reports of handlers; (g) expense of administration.

Copies of the proposed marketing agreement and proposed order may be inspected in or procured from the office of the Hearing Clerk, Room 0318, South Building, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

DETERMINATION OF FAIR AND REASONABLE WAGE RATES FOR HARVESTING OF THE 1937 CROP OF LOUISIANA SUGARCANE, PURSUANT TO THE SUGAR ACT OF 1937

Whereas, Section 301 (b) of the Sugar Act of 1937, approved September 1, 1937, provides, as one of the conditions for payment to producers of sugar beets and sugarcane, as follows:

(b) That all persons employed on the farm in the production, cultivation, or harvesting of sugar beets or sugarcane with respect to which an application for payment is made shall have been paid in full for all such work, and shall have been paid wages therefor at rates not less than those that may be determined by the Secretary to be fair and reasonable after investigation and due notice and opportunity for public hearing; and in making such determinations the Secretary shall take into consideration the standards therefor formerly established by him under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended, and the differences in conditions among various producing areas: Provided, however, That a payment which would be payable except for the foregoing provisions of this subsection may be made, as the Secretary may determine, in such manner that the laborer will receive an amount, insofar as such payment will suffice, equal to the amount of the accrued unpaid wages for such work, and that the producer will receive the remainder, if any, of such payment.

And whereas, section 301 (e) of the said act provides, in part, as follows:

The conditions provided in * * * subsection (b) with respect to wage rates, of this section shall not apply to work performed prior to the enactment of this Act; * * *.

And

Whereas, the Secretary of Agriculture, on October 4, 1937, held a public hearing in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, for the purpose of receiving evidence likely to be of assistance to him in determining fair and reasonable wage rates for persons employed in the production, cultivation, or harvesting of the 1937 crop of Louisiana sugarcane.

Now, therefore, I, H. A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, after investigation and due consideration of the evidence obtained at the aforesaid hearing and all other information before me, do hereby determine fair and reasonable wage rates with respect to the harvesting of the 1937 crop of Louisiana sugarcane as follows:

1. For adult male workers, not less than $1.50 per day for cutting cane, and for adult female workers, not less than $1.20 per day for cutting cane; or

2. Not less than 75 cents per ton for cutting cane on a tonnage basis.

In addition to the foregoing, the following requirements shall be met:

(1) That the producer shall not, through any subterfuge or device whatsoever, reduce the wage rates to laborers below those determined above.

(2) That the producer shall provide laborers, free of charge, with the perquisites customarily furnished by him, e. g., a habitable house, a suitable garden plot with facilities for its cultivation, pasture for livestock, medical attention, and similar incidentals.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 12th day of November 1937. Witness my hand and the seal of the Department of Agriculture.

General Land Office.

[Circular No. 1438]

INSTRUCTIONS AUTHORIZING THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR TO ISSUE PATENTS TO STATES UNDER THE EXCHANGE PROVISIONS OF SECTION 8 OF THE TAYLOR GRAZING ACT, AS AMENDED, SUBJECT TO PRIOR LEASES ISSUED UNDER SECTION 15 OF THE ACT

OCTOBER 13, 1937.

Registers, U. S. Land Offices.

SIRS: The Act of Congress approved August 24, 1937 (Public No. 346, 75th Congress), reads as follows:

That the Secretary of the Interior in adjudicating State exchanges, under section 8 of the Act of June 28, 1934 (48 Stat. 1269), as amended by the Act of June 26, 1936 (49 Stat. 1976), involving lands embraced in outstanding leases under section 15 of said Act issued prior to the filing of the State exchange application, is hereby authorized upon the request of any State to issue patent to the State, subject to such outstanding lease: Provided, That the United States shall not by reason of the issuance of any such patents be required to account to the State for any money due and collected prior thereto as rent for any part of the then-current annual rental period except as is now provided by law.

In accordance with the provisions of this Act, where a State application for exchange under the provisions of the Taylor Grazing Act approved June 28, 1934 (48 Stat. 1269), as amended by the Act of June 26, 1936 (49 Stat. 1976), is found to embrace lands included in an outstanding lease issued under Section 15 of said Act, before final action is taken by this office with a view to the issuance of patent on such application, the State will be afforded an opportunity to request the issuance of patent for the land involved subject to such outstanding lease, and upon receipt of such a request by the State, further action will be taken with a view to the issuance of patent, should no objection appear of record.

Accordingly, any application for lease, or for the renewal of a lease, under Section 15 of the Grazing Act, found to be in conflict with a pending State application under Section 8 of the Act, will be suspended and held in this office awaiting final action on the State's application.

When an application by the State has been approved for patenting, any such conflicting application for lease, or for the renewal of a lease, will be finally rejected and the case closed by this office. Should the State's application be finally rejected, the application for lease, or for renewal of a lease, will be considered upon its merits.

In accordance with the proviso to said Act of August 24, 1937, in cases where the United States has, prior to the issuance of such a patent, received payments for an unexpired portion of the then current annual rental period, no payment other than that provided for by Section 10 of the Grazing Act, as amended, will be required to be made to the State by the United States.

Very respectfully,

ANTOINETTE FUNK,
Acting Commissioner.

National Bituminous Coal Commission.

[Order No. 64]

AN ORDER PROVIDING FOR A HEARING TO DETERMINE THE NATURE AND EXTENT OF INTRASTATE COMMERCE IN BITUMINOUS COAL IN THE STATE OF MISSOURI AND THE EFFECT OF SUCH COMMERCE UPON INTERSTATE COMMERCE IN SUCH COAL, TO BE HELD AT KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, ON NOVEMBER 29, 1937, BEFORE AN EXAMINER, AND NOTICE THEREOF

Pursuant to act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes" (Public, No. 48, 75th Cong., 1st Sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, the National Bituminous Coal Commission, upon being advised that substantially all transactions in bituminous coal in intrastate commerce within the State of Missouri directly affect interstate commerce in such coal and will cause undue and unreasonable advantage, preference or prejudice as between such commerce in Missouri on the one hand and interstate commerce in such coal on the other hand as such interstate commerce is provided to be regulated by the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, and that a hearing to determine the effect of intrastate transactions in bituminous coal upon interstate transactions in bituminous coal in the State of Missouri would be desirable, and upon investigation hereby orders:

1. That on November 29, 1937, commencing at the hour of ten (10) o'clock A. M., at the Hearing Room of the Commission in the Hotel Kansas Citian, Kansas City, Missouri, a public hearing will be held to determine the nature and extent of intrastate commerce in bituminous coal in the State of Missouri, and the effect of such commerce upon interstate commerce in such coal and to determine what, if any, undue or unreasonable advantage, preference or prejudice, will exist between localities in Missouri in such commerce on the one hand and interstate commerce as regulated by the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937 on the other hand and what, if any, undue, unreasonable or unjust discriminations against interstate commerce in coal have occurred or will occur under the administration of Section 4 of said Act to the end that the Commission may, after hearing, take such action as is necessary to give effect to the Bituminous Coal Code and to the provisions of Section 4–A of said Act.

2. That said hearing will be conducted by an Examiner designated by the Commission.

3. That interested parties may appear and present evidence at such hearing.

4. That any producer believing that particular transactions in intrastate commerce in bituminous coal are not subject to the provisions of the first paragraph of Section 4–A will, subsequent to the final order of the Commission in the proceeding herein noticed, be afforded full opportunity to file an application for exemption as provided in said section, upon which application a hearing will thereafter be held by the Commission upon proper notice given.

5. That failure of any producer to appear and present evidence at the hearing herein noticed to be held in Kansas City, Missouri, on November 29, 1937, will not prejudice the case of any producer to be heard upon such application.

6. That the Secretary of the Commission shall forthwith mail a copy of this notice to the Consumers' Counsel, to each known producer of bituminous coal in the State of Missouri, and to the secretaries of all of the District Boards, and shall cause to be published at the expense of the Commission copy of this order and notice for three (3) days in newspapers of general circulation in the counties of Missouri in which bituminous coal is produced.

PART I

SCOPE OF OPERATIONS UNDER SECTION 207

1. The National Housing Act provides for the insurance of mortgages upon two general classes of property:

(a) Properties consisting of one- to four-family dwellings. Rules and Regulations with respect thereto are set forth in FHA Form No. 2010, entitled Mutual Mortgage Insurance, and, with respect to activities of operative builders, in Circular No. 4.

(b) Properties consisting of a larger number of family units either in one building or in a group of buildings. The Rules and Regulations set forth in this Circular apply to such properties.

2. The general class of property described in the preceding subparagraph (b) is herein termed "rental housing" and is further subdivided into

(a) Large Scale Rental Projects;
(b) Small Scale Rental Projects;
(c) Public Housing Projects;

the requirements for each of which are set forth in Parts II-A, II-B, and II-C, respectively, of this Circular (No. 3).

3. The term "rental housing" includes housing the occupancy of which is permitted by the owner thereof in consideration of the payment of agreed monthly charges, whether or not by the terms of the agreement such payment over a period of time will entitle the occupant to the ownership of the premises. Where the project involves a total of fifty (50) or more family units in detached structures containing three (3) or more family units in each structure, the project must be submitted under Section 207 and must meet the requirements outlined in this Circular (No. 3). Where the project involves a total of less than fifty (50) family units or consists of detached structures containing less than three (3) family units in each structure, and it is intended from time to time to deed individual parcels separately from the whole, the project may, at sponsor's election, be submitted either under the operative builders' program (Circular No. 4) or under Section 207.

[1] This Circular covers in general terms the procedure involved in the insurance of mortgages on housing projects under Section 207 of the National Housing Act and sets forth the Administrative Rules and Regulations governing such insurance. Those contemplating the initiation of such projects, or desiring further information on the subject, should communicate directly, either by correspondence or in person, with the Rental Housing Division, Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C., or with the local F. H. A. State or District Director.

GENERAL POLICY

Among the purposes set forth in the preamble to the National Housing Act, the first is "to encourage improvement in housing standards and conditions." In Section 207, under the heading of "Low-Cost Housing Insurance", the Act provides for the insurance of mortgages "covering property held by Federal or State instrumentalities, private limited dividend corporations, or municipal corporate instrumentalities of one or more States, formed for the purpose of providing housing for persons of low income, which are regulated or restricted by law or by the Administrator as to rents, charges, capital structure, rate of return, or methods of operation."

Under these provisions of such Act the Federal Housing Administration seeks to obtain the widest possible usefulness for the facilities arising out of its power to insure mortgages on low-cost housing projects. The projects themselves may be of different types such as the construction or rehabilitation of an apartment building or groups of such buildings; detached single-family houses so arranged as to create a more or less self-contained neighborhood; a community of semi-detached or row houses; any combination of the types aforementioned. The essential consideration, whatever the type of project, is that the housing shall be well planned and of sound construction, intended for rental at the lowest figure consistent with sound operation.

The precise application of the phrase "for the purpose of providing housing for persons of low income" will be determined by the Administrator with respect to each separate project submitted for insurance on the basis of the following general principles:

(1) In a given community or neighborhood persons of low income will be taken to mean persons whose incomes at the time a project is submitted are insufficient to permit, without sacrifice of other essentials of living or security, their occupancy of housing of adequate standards of sanitation, safety, and amenity which has been erected under conditions of financing, construction, and operation less favorable than those made possible by the National Housing Act.

(2) If through the use of the mortgage insurance facilities of the National Housing Act, through the efficient planning, construction, and operation of a group of dwelling units, and through the control of rents, charges, capital structure, rate of return, and methods of operation of the mortgagor during the term of the insured mortgage, the cost of housing of the required standards can be so reduced as to fall within the means of such persons of low income, the Administrator will consider a proposal to erect such a group of dwellings as a low-cost housing project.

(3) No project will be deemed to fall within this classification if it provides housing accommodations which are obviously in the luxury class or which are obliged to compete for tenancy by the offering of extraordinary facilities and services; nor will any project be approved for mortgage insurance if the housing accommodations called for are so incompatible with the general character of the community or neighborhood as to impair the economic soundness of the undertaking.

(4) When through the provision of new housing or otherwise, any low-income group can find in a given community or neighborhood a reasonable choice of accommodations of the required standard within a rental range which it can afford to pay, no additional housing for such group will be considered low-cost housing.

(5) In cases where applications for mortgage insurance on low-cost housing projects are submitted by Federal or State instrumentalities or municipal corporate instrumentalities which receive public grants, subsidies, or other advantages not available to private limited dividend corporations, the accommodations provided by such projects must be so designed and restricted as to occupancy that such projects may not be directly competitive with private operations.

Two main types of financing may be accomplished under an insured mortgage under Section 207 of the Act. Both types are alike in the requirement that the mortgagor—the sponsor of the project—must be a definite legal entity endowed with full responsibility and possessed of the requisite degree of permanence and reliability to make the periodic payments on the debt.

One type of transaction will be the execution to a single lending institution, which advances the entire amount borrowed, of a credit instrument or instruments secured by a so-called straight mortgage creating a first lien on the property. In such case the mortgage, together with the credit instrument or instruments secured thereby, will be held by the lending institution for its own use and benefit without the intervention of a trustee.

The second method may consist of the execution by the mortgagor corporation of an indenture of trust to an appropriate trustee providing for the issue and sale thereunder of bonds or other obligations. In such cases it will be required that the bonds be retired at or before maturity by means of sinking funds operating through purchase in the market or call by lot.

In the case of low-cost housing projects sponsored by Federal, State, or municipal instrumentalities, opportunity is afforded for the cooperation of public funds and private capital. Agencies of the Federal or of any State Government having funds available for low-cost housing and slum-clearance projects, may employ substantial sums in the form of grants or subsidies as the equity investment, and the remainder of the funds required for the project can be advanced from private sources against an insured first mortgage.

PART II

ADMINISTRATIVE RULES

A. Large-Scale Rental Projects

Section I. Application and Commitment.

1. Information required for preliminary examination of a Large Scale Rental project shall be submitted by the sponsors of such project through the local Federal Housing Administration State or District Director on FHA Form 2013. No application will be considered unless the exhibits called for by that form are furnished. The submission of the Form 2013 will be deemed to be the applicant's agreement to pay an amount computed at the rate of $3.00 per thousand of the original principal face amount of the mortgage loan to be insured, on account of the costs of appraisal and examination during construction. Such amount shall be payable in two installments:

(a) one-half (referred to as "commitment fee") prior to the issuance of a conditional commitment, and

(b) the remainder (referred to as "closing fee") before the Administrator's Contract of Mortgage Insurance shall issue.

If the Administrator shall (1) refuse to issue a commitment or (2) issue a commitment unacceptable to the applicant because it contains conditions not covered by the application, one-half of the commitment fee shall be returned to the applicant upon written request, if made within thirty (30) days from the date of such refusal or of such commitment, as the case may be. If after commitment an application to increase the amount of the insured mortgage is presented, a new commitment fee based upon the amount of such increase will be required to be paid at the time the application for such increase is filed. If the principal amount of the mortgage finally insured by the Contract of Insurance is greater or less than the principal amount of the mortgage applied for, an adjustment will be made in the closing fee so that the aggregate amount of the commitment and closing fees shall equal $3.00 per thousand of the original principal face amount of the insured mortgage. If after insurance the amount of the insured mortgage is increased either by amendment or by the substitution of a new insured mortgage, the fees herein provided for shall be based upon the amount of such increase.

2. Upon the submission of a project, the Administration will examine such information and determine therefrom whether the project is eligible for insurance. In the event that a project is found to be eligible, the Administration will verify the representations of the sponsors, make such further examination, and require such further information from sponsors or such changes in the project as it may deem necessary.

3. Upon payment of the commitment fee and if the project shall, in the opinion of the Administrator, be satisfactory, the Administrator will issue to sponsors his commitment to insure the proposed mortgage. No commitment shall be valid unless signed by the Administrator or on his behalf by the Acting Administrator. The commitment will be conditioned upon special requirements applicable to the project and upon full compliance satisfactory to the Administrator with the requirements of these Rules and upon the submission in final form within a time specified of all appropriate documents, drawings, plans, specifications, estimates, and other instruments evidencing such compliance.

Section II. Eligible Mortgages

1. The Administrator does not furnish mortgage forms for each project or for each jurisdiction. The forms customarily used in any particular jurisdiction if so modified and amplified as to include the matters herein set forth, and if otherwise satisfactory to the Administrator, will be approved.

2. In order to be eligible for insurance as a Large Scale Rental Mortgage under the provisions of this Part II–A a mortgage shall create a first lien securing a principal obligation not in excess of $10,000,000, and such part thereof as may be attributable to dwelling use shall not exceed $1,300 per room, depending upon the location of the project and local building costs and rental conditions. The principal obligation of such mortgage shall not exceed eighty per centum (80%) of the amount which the Administrator estimates will be the fair value of the property or project when completed.

3. The mortgage must have a maturity satisfactory to the Administrator, depending upon the risk involved and the general character of the project, and shall contain amortization or sinking-fund provisions satisfactory to the Administrator.

4. The mortgage shall provide for payments by the mortgagor to the mortgagee on account of interest, principal, and mortgage insurance at intervals of not more than six (6) months.

5. The mortgage shall bear interest at such rate, not exceeding four and one-half per centum (4½%) per annum, as may be agreed upon between the mortgagor and the mortgagee. All charges made in connection with the mortgage transaction shall be subject to the approval of the Administrator.

6. The mortgage shall cover the entire property included in the rental housing project. Where the project consists wholly of single-family houses the mortgage may include appropriate provisions for the release from the lien thereof of any such house and the land upon which it is located in consideration of the payment to the mortgagee, in reduction of the principal of the mortgage, of an amount set forth in a schedule attached to and forming part of said mortgage. Such mortgages shall provide that the released property be subject to deed restrictions, approved by the Administrator at the time of the insurance of the mortgage and providing to the properties remaining under the mortgage adequate protection against adverse influences. Where the mortgage does not contain such release provisions no property shall, except with the consent of the mortgagee and the Administrator, be released from the lien thereof so long as the mortgage insurance is in force.

7. The mortgage shall contain a covenant against the creation by the mortgagor of liens against the property inferior to the lien of the mortgage.

8. The mortgage shall contain a covenant binding the mortgagor to keep the premises insured against fire and such other hazards as the Administrator may stipulate, in companies and in amounts satisfactory to the Administrator. The policies evidencing such insurance shall include as one of the assured the Administrator as his interest may appear, and shall have attached standard form mortgage clause making loss, if any, payable to the mortgagee.

9. No mortgage shall be accepted for insurance unless the Administrator finds that the project with respect to which it is executed is economically sound.

10. The mortgage shall provide for payments by the mortgagor to the mortgagee on each interest payment date of an amount sufficient to accumulate in the hands of the mortgagee the next annual mortgage insurance premium payable by the mortgagee to the Administrator. Such payments shall continue only so long as the contract of insurance shall remain in effect. The mortgage shall provide that upon the payment of the mortgage before maturity, the mortgagor shall pay the premium charge referred to in Article III, Paragraph 2 of the Regulations.

11. All periodic payments to be made by the mortgagor to the mortgagee shall be added together and the aggregate amount thereof shall be paid by the mortgagor upon each periodic payment date in a single payment. The mortgagee shall apply the same to the following items in the order set forth:

(a) premium charges under the contract of insurance;
(b) at its discretion, to any sums due under the terms of the mortgage or the credit instrument which it secures.

Any deficiency in the amount of any such aggregate periodic payment shall, unless made good by the mortgagor within any grace period stated in the mortgage, constitute an event of default under the mortgage.

Section III. Eligible Mortgagors

1. In order to be eligible as a mortgagor of a Large Scale Rental Project such mortgagor must be a private limited dividend corporation organized under the general business incorporation law of the state wherein the project is located, or under other authority, subject to the approval of the Administrator.

2. Such mortgagor corporation (a) must have been formed for the purpose of providing housing for persons of low income as interpreted by the Administrator with respect to such project, in accordance with the general principles hereinbefore set forth, and (b) shall be regulated or restricted by law or by the Administrator as to rents, charges, capital structure, rate of return, and methods of operation as set forth in the following Section. It shall engage in no business other than the construction and operation of a rental housing project or projects covered by an insured mortgage or mortgages. Such regulation or restriction shall terminate at such time as the mortgage insurance contract is no longer in effect.

Section IV. Regulation or Restriction of Mortgagors

The regulation or restriction of an eligible mortgagor of a Large Scale Rental Project shall be as set forth in the certificate of incorporation, and shall embody, in substance, the requirements hereinafter mentioned. The regulation or restriction thus imposed will be made effective through the issuance of certain shares of special stock which will acquire majority voting rights in the event of default under the mortgage or violation of a provision of the certificate of incorporation, but only for a period coexistent with the duration of such default or violation. Such special stock shall be held and all voting rights with respect thereto exercised by the Administrator or his nominee. When the contract of insurance shall have been terminated the shares of special stock shall be surrendered by the Administrator or such nominee.

1. Rents and charges.—Except as hereinafter provided,

(a) No charge shall be made by the mortgagor corporation for the accommodations offered by the project in excess of a rental schedule to be filed with the Administrator prior to the opening of the project for rental, which schedule shall be based upon a maximum average rental fixed prior to the insurance of the mortgage. Such schedule shall not thereafter be changed except upon application of the mortgagor corporation and the written approval of the Administrator. In establishing such maximum and in passing upon applications for changes, consideration will be given the following and similar factors:

(1) Relation of the proposed rentals to those currently being paid in the given community by families for whom this type of housing is intended.
(2) Average annual earnings of the families for whom the housing is intended.
(3) Rental income necessary to maintain the economic soundness of the project.

(b) The established maximum rental shall be the maximum authorized charge against any tenant for the accommodations offered exclusive of telephone, gas, electric, and refrigeration facilities. Charges in addition to such maximum rental may be made against a tenant for telephone, gas, electric, refrigeration, and other facilities and privileges furnished by the mortgagor, subject to the approval of the Administrator.

(c) In the case of a project subject to a mortgage containing release clauses, all matters with respect to the release and all agreements between the mortgagor and its vendees with respect to the amount and terms of sale must first be approved by the Administrator.

2. Capital structure.—

(a) In appraising a project for commitment the Administrator will value the contribution of the sponsors (which shall be in the form of unencumbered land, and such cash and services as the Administrator shall require) at an amount determined by him to represent its value as a component part of the project upon completion, and shall credit sponsors, for appraisal purposes, with the amount of equity so found. The sponsors shall satisfy the Administrator that the cash and services contributed as part of such equity shall, when added to the proceeds of the mortgage, be sufficient to cover all estimated costs of the project and to provide a cash reserve for contingencies, preopening expense, and other items during the construction period.

(b) Such number of shares of capital stock may be issued either with or without par value, as sponsors may deem appropriate, and such stock, together with such amount, if any, as may be carried on the books of the corporation as paid-in surplus, shall represent such equity. Additional stock may be authorized but the certificate of incorporation shall provide that it may not be issued except with the approval of the Administrator. No stock shall be redeemed or purchased by the corporation during the period in which the mortgage insurance is in force, except with the approval of the Administrator.

3. Rate of return.—No dividends shall be declared or paid by the corporation in any one dividend year in excess of an aggregate amount fixed by the Administrator at the time the mortgage is accepted for insurance. Such amount shall not exceed an amount equal to six per centum (6%) per annum of the equity as valued by the Administrator, but the Administrator may permit an additional stated amount not in excess of two per centum (2%) per annum payable out of surplus earnings of the corporation after provision for required reserves, provided that no such additional dividends shall be declared or paid unless the principal of the insured mortgage shall be prepaid in an amount at least equal to required interest and principal payments for the first amortization year.

4. Methods of operation.—

(a) No compensation shall be paid by the corporation except for necessary services and except at such rate as is fair and reasonable in the locality for similar services, nor, except with the prior written approval of the Administrator, shall any compensation be paid by the corporation to its officers, directors, or stockholders, or to any person or corporation for supervisory or managerial services, or to any employee in an amount in excess of eighteen hundred dollars ($1,800) per annum. No officer, director, stockholder, agent, or employee of the corporation shall in any manner become indebted to the corporation.

(b) The corporation shall maintain its project, the grounds, buildings, and equipment appurtenant thereto, in good repair and in such condition as will preserve the health and safety of its tenants.

(c) Before the payment of any dividend by the corporation reserves shall be accumulated and so replenished from time to time as to remain intact so long as the mortgage insurance is in force. The amount and types of such reserves and the conditions under which they shall be accumulated, replenished, and used, shall be specified in the certificate of incorporation.

(d) The corporation, its property, equipment, buildings, plans, offices, apparatus, devices, books, contracts, records, documents, and papers shall be subject to inspection and examination by the Administrator or his duly authorized agent at all reasonable times.

(e) The books and accounts of the corporation shall be kept in accordance with the uniform system of accounting prescribed by the Administrator. The corporation shall file with the Administrator the following reports verified by the oath of such officer of the corporation as the Administrator may designate and in such form as prescribed by the Administrator:

(1) monthly occupancy reports;
(2) semi-annual reports to be filed within thirty (30) days after the end of each dividend period established in the certificate of incorporation;
(3) annual reports prepared by a certified public accountant, to be filed within sixty (60) days after the end of each fiscal year; and
(4) specific answers to questions upon which informaton is desired from time to time relative to the operation and condition of the property and the status of the insured mortgage.

5. Control of funds during construction.—Funds involved in the construction of a project representing security for an insured mortgage loan shall be subject to the following restrictions:

(a) Funds representing the required cash equity shall, as a condition precedent to the insurance of the mortgage, be placed in a special account with a depositary satisfactory to the Administrator and subject to withdrawal only upon written approval of the Administrator. Upon completion of construction to the satisfaction of the Administrator, any balance then remaining in such special account shall be paid over to the general account of the corporation for the purpose of establishing its reserves.

(b) No funds representing the proceeds of an insured mortgage shall be advanced except upon proper requisition approved by the Administrator.

(c) Assurance for the completion of the project must be approved by the Administrator prior to the insurance of the mortgage. The bond of a satisfactory surety company; in the standard A. I. A. form of construction bond and in an amount approved by the Administrator as sufficient to cover estimated disbursements under the construction contract for any two (2) month period, will be required, except that the Administrator may, depending upon the circumstances of each case, accept in lieu of such surety bond such alternate method of assuring completion as he may approve as adequate.

Section V. Eligible Mortgagees

1. The following are eligible for approval as mortgagees:

(a) A chartered institution or other permanent organization having succession.

(b) The Federal or a State Government, or an agency, instrumentality, or subdivision thereof.

(c) The holder or holders of a credit instrument or instruments given in connection with a mortgage, acting by and through a trustee appointed pursuant to the terms of such mortgage.

2. An eligible institution, organization, agency, or entity may become the mortgagee under an insured mortgage upon its approval as such at the time by the Administrator.

3. In the event that bonds are to be issued as a part of the insured mortgage transaction, all arrangements in respect to the issuance and sale of such bonds shall be subject to approval by the Administrator.

Section VI. Eligible Properties

1. In order for property to be eligible as the subject of an insured mortgage, such property must be held in fee simple, or under a lease for not less than ninety-nine (99) years which is renewable, or under a lease having not less than fifty (50) years to run from the date the mortgage is insured. Such mortgage may also cover other property approved by the Administrator.

2. The property constituting security for the mortgage must be held by an eligible mortgagor as herein defined and must at the time the mortgage is accepted for insurance be free and clear of all liens other than that of such mortgage.

3. At the time the mortgage is insured:

(a) There shall be located on the mortgaged property housing accommodations which shall conform to standards satisfactory to the Administrator and may consist of a group of detached, semi-detached, or row houses, or multi-family dwellings; or

(b) The mortgagor shall be obligated to construct and complete such housing accommodations thereon and shall have furnished such assurance of the performance of such obligation as the Administrator may require.

Section VII. Title

1. In order to be eligible for insurance, the Administrator must determine that marketable title to the mortgaged property is vested in the mortgagor as of the date the mortgage is acceped for insurance. Title to property covered by the mortgage will be examined by the Administrator, and if found to be eligible such finding shall be recited in the contract of insurance and shall inure to the benefit of the mortgagee according to Paragraph 8 of Article VI of the Regulations.

2. Upon acceptance of the mortgage for insurance, the mortgagee, without expense to the Administrator, shall furnish to the Administrator a policy of title insurance as provided in subparagraph (a) of this paragraph, or, if the mortgagee is unable to furnish such policy for reasons satisfactory to the Administrator, the mortgagee, without expense to the Administrator, shall furnish such evidence of title as provided in subparagraphs (b), (c), or (d) of this paragraph, as the Administrator may require.

(a) A policy of title insurance with respect to such mortgage, issued by a company satisfactory to the Administrator. Such policy shall comply with the "L. I. C. Standard Mortgagee Form" or the "A. T. A. Standard Mortgagee Form", or such other form as may be approved by the Administrator and which offers substantially the same coverage under substantially the same conditions and stipulations; shall be payable to the mortgagee and the Administrator as their respective interests may appear; and shall become an owner's policy, running to the mortgagee as owner upon the acquisition of property by the mortgagee in extinguishment of the debt through foreclosure or by other means as provided in Paragraph 5 (a) of Article VI of the Regulations, and to the Administrator as owner upon the acquisition of the property by him pursuant to the mortgage insurance contract.

(b) An abstract of title satisfactory to the Administrator, prepared by an abstract company or individual engaged in the business of preparing abstracts of title, accompanied by a legal opinion satisfactory to the Administrator, as to the quality of such title, signed by an attorney at law experienced in the examination of titles.

(c) A Torrens or similar title certificate.

(d) Evidence of title conforming to the standards of a supervising branch of the Government of the United States of America, or of any State or Territory thereof.

If the title and title evidence are such as to be acceptable to prudent lending institutions and leading attorneys in the locality in which the property is situated, such title and title evidence will be satisfactory to the Administrator. The Administrator will not object to the title by reason of the following matters, provided they are not such as to impair the value of the property for insurance purposes, and provided they have been brought to his attention for consideration in fixing valuations:

(a) customary easements for public utilities, party walls, driveways, and other purposes, customary building or use restrictions for breach of which there is no reversion and which have not been violated to a material extent;

(b) such restrictions when coupled with a reversionary clause, provided there has been no violation prior to the date of the deed to the Administrator;

(c) slight encroachments by adjoining improvements;

(d) outstanding oil, water, or mineral rights, except those which include the right to sink wells or shafts on the subject property, withdraw the subjacent support, or otherwise impair the value of the property for residence purposes without payment of adequate damages.

Section VIII. Premiums

The contract of insurance shall provide for the payment by the mortgagee to the Administrator of an annual mortgage insurance premium at the rate of one-half of one per centum (½ of 1%) of the original principal face amount of the mortgage.

B. Small Scale Rental Projects

Section I. Eligible Mortgages

1. In order to be eligible for insurance under the provisions of this Part II–B, a mortgage shall not exceed a principal obligation of $200,000, and such part thereof as may be attributable to dwelling use shall not exceed $1,300 per room, depending upon the location of the project and local building costs and rental conditions. The principal obligation of such mortgage shall not exceed eighty per centum (80%) of the amount which the Administrator estimates will be the fair value of the property or project when completed.

2. The mortgage must be executed, upon a form approved by the Administrator for use in the jurisdiction in which the property covered by the mortgage is situated, by a mortgagor with the qualifications set forth in Section III of Part II–A of these Rules, and must be a first lien upon property that conforms with property standards prescribed by the Administrator.

3. The mortgage must have a maturity satisfactory to the Administrator, depending upon the risk involved and the general character of the project.

4. The mortgage may bear interest at such rate, not exceeding four and one-half per centum (4½%) per annum, as may be agreed upon between the mortgagor and the mortgagee. Interest shall be payable in monthly installments on the principal then outstanding. All charges made in connection with the mortgage transaction shall be subject to the approval of the Administrator.

5. The mortgage must contain amortization or sinking fund provisions satisfactory to the Administrator requiring monthly payments by the mortgagor. Such amortization payments shall commence not less than twelve (12) months nor more than eighteen (18) months from the date of the mortgage. The sum of the principal and interest payments in each month shall be substantially the same, except that prior to the required commencement of amortization payments, payments of interest alone shall be made. The mortgage shall provide for monthly payments by the mortgagor to the mortgagee of an amount equal to one-twelfth (1/12) of the annual mortgage insurance premium payable by the mortgagee to the Administrator. Such payments shall continue only so long as the contract of insurance shall remain in effect.

6. The mortgagee may charge the mortgagor the amount of any fee paid by the mortgagee to the Administrator on account of costs of appraisal and examination during construction as required by these Rules.

7. The provisions of Paragraphs 6 to 11, both inclusive, of Section II of Part II–A of these Rules shall be applicable to Small Scale Rental Projects insured under this Part II–B.

Section II. Regulation or Restriction of Mortgagors

The regulation or restriction of an eligible mortgagor of a Small Scale Rental Project shall be embodied in a contract to be executed by the mortgagor and the Administrator prior to the execution of the contract of insurance, except that regulation or restriction of dividends and provisions for reserves shall be by means of provisions satisfactory to the Administrator embodied in the certificate of incorporation of such mortgagor.

The provisions of Paragraphs 1 (Rents and Charges), 2 (Capital Structure), 3 (Rate of Return), 4 (Methods of Operation), and 5 (Control of Funds During Construction), of Section IV, Part II–A of these Rules, shall apply to mortgagors of projects insured under this Part II–B.

Section III

The provisions of Section I (Application and Commitment), Section III (Eligible Mortgagors), Section V (Eligible Mortgagees), Section VI (Eligible Properties), Section VII (Title), and Section VIII (Premiums), of Part II–A of these Rules, shall apply to Small Scale Rental Mortgages insured under this Part II–B.

PART II–C

PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS

Section I. Eligible Mortgagors

In order to be eligible as a mortgagor under this Part II–C a mortgagor must be either—

(a) a private limited dividend corporation organized under a State Housing Law;

(b) a municipal corporate instrumentality of one or more States;

(c) a State instrumentality; or

(d) a Federal instrumentality.

Section II. Regulation or Restriction

Since an eligible mortgagor under this Part II–C will be regulated or restricted by law as to rents, charges, capital structure, rate of return, and methods of operation, the regulation or restriction thus imposed will ordinarily be deemed sufficient to insure the economic operation of such projects and to meet the requirements of Section 207 of the Act. The Administrator may in unusual cases, however, further regulate and restrict as the particular case may require in such manner as may be agreed upon in advance by and between the mortgagor and the Administrator.

Public housing authorities or other governmental instrumentalities undertaking rental housing projects to be insured hereunder must have initial funds which may be considered in lieu of the equity required of private corporations. Such funds (which may be in the form of government loans, grants, or subsidies, or in other form) if sufficient in amount will be considered satisfactory provided they do not create a lien against the property prior to that of the insured mortgage. Liens inferior to the lien of the insured mortgage may be allowed against properties insured under this Part.

Section III

Additional Requirements

In the case of a Public Housing Project the Administrator shall determine in each case the fee to be paid on account of costs of appraisal and examination during construction. Such fee, however, shall not exceed $3.00 per thousand of the original principal face amount of the insured mortgage. Except as specifically modified by this Part, all of the applicable provisions of Parts II–A and II–B of these Rules, shall apply to mortgages on Public Housing Projects.

Effective Date

These Administrative Rules shall be effective as to all mortgages upon which insurance shall be issued on or after the date hereof. The Administrator with the consent of the mortgagor and the mortgagee may amend to conform to these Rules any contract of mortgage insurance issued prior to the date hereof.

PART III

REGULATIONS

Article I

These Regulations may be cited and referred to as "Regulations of the Federal Housing Administrator for Rental Housing Insurance, revised November 1, 1937."

Article II. Definitions

As used in these Regulations—

1. The term "Administrator" means the Federal Housing Administrator.

2. The term "Act" means the National Housing Act, as amended.

3. The term "mortgage" means such a first lien upon real estate and other property as is commonly given to secure advances on, or the unpaid purchase price of, real estate under the laws of the jurisdiction where the real estate is situated, together with the credit instrument or instruments, if any, secured thereby.

4. The term "insured mortgage" means a mortgage accepted by the Administrator for insurance.

5. The term "mortgagor" means the original borrower under a mortgage and its successors and such of its assigns as are approved by the Administrator.

6. The term "mortgagee" means the original lender under a mortgage and its successors and assigns. The original lender may be a single entity acting in its own behalf or consist of one or more entities acting by and through a trustee appointed pursuant to the terms of the mortgage.

7. The term "contract of insurance" means the endorsement of the Administrator upon the credit instrument or instruments given in connection with the insured mortgage, together with the written instrument duly executed by the Administrator and the mortgagee, setting forth the terms, conditions, and provisions of insurance, which terms, conditions, and provisions shall be subject to these Regulations.

Article III. Premiums

1. The mortgagee shall pay to the Administrator the annual mortgage insurance premium established by the Administrator as a part of the contract of insurance in accordance with the Rules. The first such premium shall be paid on the date on which such insurance becomes effective, and the next and each succeeding premium shall be paid on the same date each year thereafter until the mortgage is paid in full, or the mortgaged property is acquired by the mortgagee and transferred to the Administrator as hereinafter set forth, or until the contract of insurance is otherwise terminated: Provided, However, That in event the mortgagee, after giving notice of default to the Administrator in accordance with the provisions of Paragraph 5 of Article VI of these Regulations, shall be prevented from instituting foreclosure proceedings or prosecuting such proceedings for a period in excess of ninety (90) days by virtue of any mortgage moratorium or similar law for the relief of debtors, the premium charge during the period in which the mortgagee is so prevented exclusive of such 90-day period shall be one per centum (1%) of the initial annual premium charge imposed for the insurance of the mortgage. The mortgagee shall establish to the satisfaction of the Administrator that it was so prevented for a period coexistent with the period during which the benefit of the reduced premium charge is claimed and the determination of the Administrator as to the precise duration of such period shall be final and conclusive.

2. In the event that the principal obligation of any mortgage accepted for insurance is paid in full prior to maturity, the mortgagee shall within thirty (30) days thereafter notify the Administrator of the date of prepayment and shall collect from the mortgagor and pay to the Administrator a prepayment premium charge of one per centum (1%) of the original principal face amount of the prepaid mortgage, except that if at the time of such prepayment there is placed on the mortgaged property a new insured mortgage in an amount less than the original principal face amount of the prepaid mortgage, such prepayment premium shall be one per centum (1%) of the difference in such amounts.

In no event shall the prepayment premium exceed the aggregate amount of premium charges which would have been payable if the mortgage had continued to be insured until maturity.

No prepayment premium shall be collected by the mortgagee in the following cases:

(a) where at the time of such prepayment there is placed on the mortgaged property a new insured mortgage for an amount equal to or greater than the original principal face amount of the prepaid mortgage; or

(b) where the final maturity specified in the mortgage is accelerated solely by reason of partial prepayments made by the mortgagor which do not exceed in any one calendar year fifteen per centum (15%) of the original principal face amount of the mortgage; or

(c) where the final maturity specified in the mortgage is accelerated solely by reason of payments to principal to compensate for (1) damage to the mortgaged property, or (2) a release of a part of such property if approved by the Administrator; or

(d) where payment in full is made of a delinquent mortgage on which foreclosure proceedings have been commenced, or for the purpose of avoiding foreclosure, if the transaction is approved by the Administrator.

Upon such prepayment the contract of insurance shall terminate.

3. In the event that the Administrator terminates, under Paragraph 3 of Article VI, the insurance as to the group to which the insured mortgage is assigned, the mortgagee shall pay to the Administrator an amount equal to that proportion of the annual insurance premium which would otherwise have been payable for the period between the date to which the premium has been paid and the maturity date of the mortgage.

Article IV. Acceptance for Insurance

1. Upon accepting a mortgage for insurance, the Administrator and the mortgagee shall execute the contract of insurance and the mortgage shall be an insured mortgage from the effective date of such contract. The Administrator shall also endorse the original credit instrument or instruments with a reference to such insurance contract. The Administrator and the mortgagee shall thereafter be bound by the contract of insurance, subject to the provisions of these Regulations which shall form part of each such contract.

Article V. Classification of Mortgages

1. Mortgages accepted for insurance shall be so classified into groups that the mortgages in any group shall involve substantially similar risk characteristics and have similar maturity dates.

2. Premium charges received for the insurance of any mortgage, the receipts derived from the property covered by the mortgage and claims assigned to the Administrator in connection therewith, and all earnings on the assets of the group account shall be credited to the account of the group to which the mortgage is assigned.

3. The principal of, and interest paid or to be paid on, debentures issued in exchange for any property, payments made or to be made to the mortgagee and mortgagor, and expenses incurred in the handling of the property originally covered by the mortgage and in collection of claims assigned to the Administrator in connection therewith, shall be charged to the account of the group to which such mortgage is assigned.

Article VI. Rights and Duties of a Mortgagee Under the Contract of Insurance

1. Whenever the credit balance in the account of the group to which the insured mortgage has been assigned exceeds the remaining unpaid principal of the then outstanding mortgages assigned to such group by an amount equal to ten per centum (10%) of the total premium payments which have theretofore been credited to such account, the Administrator shall terminate the insurance as to that group of mortgages by paying to each of the mortgagees holding an outstanding mortgage assigned to such group a sum sufficient to pay off the unpaid principal of such mortgage coming due after the date of such termination, the payment in each case being for the benefit and account of the mortgagor. Such termination, however, shall not affect or impair any right or claim of a mortgagee arising from any default on the part of the mortgagor in complying with the terms, provisions, and covenants of the mortgage or other happening occurring prior to the date of such termination, and the mortgagee in such case upon complying with the terms and provisions of the contract of insurance shall be entitled to receive debentures and a certificate of claim as provided in Paragraph 6 of this Article.

2. The mortgagee shall accept such payment and apply it in satisfaction of the obligation of the mortgagor under the insured mortgage. If such payment is sufficient to satisfy the obligation of the mortgagor under the mortgage in full, the mortgagee shall coincidentally deliver to the mortgagor such instruments as may be necessary or proper to discharge the insured mortgage.

3. If the credit balance in the account of the group to which the insured mortgage is assigned fails to exceed, at the beginning of the final year prior to the maturity date of the mortgages assigned to such group, the remaining unpaid principal of the then outstanding mortgages assigned to such group by an amount equal to ten per centum (10%) of the total premium payments which have theretofore been credited to such account, the Administrator shall terminate the insurance as to that group of mortgages (1) by transferring to the general reinsurance account an amount equal to ten per centum (10%) of the total premium charges theretofore credited to such group account, and (2) by distributing for the benefit and account of the mortgagors under the mortgages hereinafter mentioned the remainder of such credit balance, if any, pro rata to the mortgagees holding such then outstanding mortgages. Such termination, however, shall not affect or impair any right or claim of a mortgagee arising from any default on the part of the mortgagor in complying with the terms, provisions, and covenants of the mortgage or other happening occurring prior to the date of such termination, and the mortgagee in such case upon complying with the terms and provisions of the contract of insurance shall be entitled to receive debentures and a certificate of claim as provided in Paragraph 6 of this Article.

4. If the mortgagor pays the insured mortgage in full prior to its final maturity date, and pays to the mortgagee the premium charge provided for in Paragraph 2 of Article III hereof, the Administrator shall thereupon pay over to the mortgagor such share of the credit balance of the account of the group to which the insured mortgage has been assigned as the Administrator shall determine to be equitable and not inconsistent with the preservation of the solvency of such account and of the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund.

5. If the mortgagor fails to make any payment to the mortgagee required by the mortgage, or to perform any other covenant or obligation under the mortgage, and such failure continues for the period of grace, if any, set forth in the mortgage, the mortgage shall be considered in default, and the mortgagee, within the period set forth in the contract of insurance after the occurrence of a default arising on account of such failure to make any such payment or within the period set forth in the contract of insurance after the mortgagee shall have knowledge of the occurrence of a default arising on account of such failure to perform any other covenant or obligation under the mortgage, shall give notice in writing to the Administrator of such default. At any time within the period set forth in the contract of insurance from the date of such notice, the mortgagee, at its election, shall either—

(a) with, and subject to, the consent of the Administrator, acquire by means other than foreclosure of the mortgage, possession of, and title to, the mortgaged property; or

(b) institute proceedings for the foreclosure of the mortgage: Provided, That if the laws of the state in which the mortgaged property is situated do not permit the institution of such proceedings within such period of time, the mortgagee shall institute such proceedings within thirty (30) days after the expiration of the time during which the institution of such proceedings is prohibited by such laws.

Nothing contained in this Paragraph 5 shall be construed so as to prevent the mortgagee from taking action at a later date than herein specified, provided the Administrator so agrees in writing.

The mortgagee shall promptly give notice in writing to the Administrator of the institution of foreclosure proceedings and shall exercise reasonable diligence in prosecuting such proceedings to completion.

6. If the mortgagee has complied with the provisions of Paragraph 5 of this Article, and at any time within thirty (30) days (or such further time as may be allowed by the Administrator in writing) after acquiring title to and possession of the mortgaged property in accordance with Paragraph 5 of this Article, tenders to the Administrator possession of, and a deed containing a covenant which warrants against acts of the mortgagee and all claiming by, through, or under it conveying title satisfactory to the Administrator as provided in Paragraph 8 of this Article to, such property, free and clear of all liens and encumbrances which may have attached subsequent to the date on which the mortgage was accepted for insurance, including all past due and unpaid ground rents, general taxes, or special assessments, and assigns (without recourse or warranty) any and all claims which it may have acquired in connection with the mortgage transaction and as a result of the foreclosure proceedings or other means by which it acquired such property, including any claim on account of title insurance and fire, or other hazard insurance, the Administrator shall promptly accept conveyance of such property and such assignment, notwithstanding that the buildings or improvements thereon may be incomplete or may have been destroyed, damaged, or injured, in whole or in part, and shall deliver to the mortgagee—

(a) Debentures of the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund as set forth in Section 204 (b) of the Act, bearing interest at the rate of three per centum (3%) per annum, and in a principal amount equal to the value of the mortgage as defined in Section 204 (a) of the Act, to wit, the principal of the mortgage which is unpaid at the date of conveyance to the Administrator (exclusive of all sums which might otherwise be credited to the mortgagor or deemed "paid" on account of such principal through acquisition of the mortgaged property by foreclosure or other means as set forth in Paragraph 6 of this Article), plus all taxes, assessments, and water rents which are prior liens upon the mortgaged premises and premiums for insurance against fire or other hazard paid by the mortgagee during the period between the date of default and the date of such conveyance and assignment to the Administrator, and interest on such unpaid principal from the date foreclosure proceedings were instituted, or the property was otherwise acquired as provided in Paragraph 5 (a) of this Article, to the date of such conveyance at the rate of three per centum (3%) per annum, less any amount received on account of interest accrued on such unpaid principal between such dates; and

(b) A certificate of claim in accordance with Section 204 (c) of the Act which shall become payable, if at all, upon the sale of the property covered by the insured mortgage in accordance with Section 204 (d) of the Act which provides as follows: "If the net amount realized from any property conveyed to the Administrator under this section and the claims assigned therewith, after deducting all expenses incurred by the Administrator in handling, dealing with, and disposing of such property and in collecting such claims, exceeds the face amount of the debentures issued in exchange for the mortgage covering such property plus all interest paid on such debentures, such excess shall be divided as follows:

(1) If such excess is greater than the total amount payable under the certificate of claim issued in connection with such property, the Administrator shall pay to the holder of such certificate the full amount so payable; and any excess remaining thereafter shall be paid to the mortgagor of such property.

(2) If such excess is equal to or less than the total amount payable under such certificate of claim, the Administrator shall pay to the holder of such certificate the full amount of such excess.

This certificate shall be for an amount which the Administrator shall determine to be sufficient to pay costs of foreclosure, or such other proceedings, including reasonable attorneys' fees, unpaid interest, and any other amounts due under the mortgage and not covered by the amount of the debentures. Each such certificate of claim shall provide that there shall accrue to the holder of such certificate with respect to the fact amount of such certificate an increment at the rate of three per centum (3%) per annum.

7. In the event that the mortgagee fails to comply with the provisions of Paragraphs 5 and 6 of this Article, then the contract of insurance shall thereupon terminate, and the mortgagor shall be entitled to receive a share of the credit balance of the account of the group to which the mortgage has been assigned, in such amount as the Administrator shall determine to be equitable and not inconsistent with the preservation of the solvency of such account and of the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund.

8. Title satisfactory to the Administrator within the meaning of Section 204 (a) of the Act will be a marketable title. Such marketable title as was determined to be vested in the mortgagor by the Administrator pursuant to Section VII of Part II–A of the Administrative Rules of the Federal Housing Administrator for Rental Housing Insurance, revised November 1, 1937, as of the date the mortgage was accepted for insurance, will be accepted as satisfactory under Section 204 (a) of the Act, for conveyance to the Administrator by deed as provided in Paragraph 6 of this Article, unless such title is impaired by any act or omission of the mortgagee or other event occurring subsequent to the date of the acceptance of the mortgage for insurance: Provided, That the Administrator will not object to the title because of mechanics' liens excepted from the title evidence, as unfiled at the date of the recording of the mortgage or of any advance thereunder, provided that advances under the mortgage are disbursed with the approval of the Administrator and that the certification of a title insurer or title attorney satisfactory to the Administrator be obtained to the effect that, as of the date of each advance, no lien appeared of record and the title policy or title opinion had been extended accordingly.

9. The mortgagee, at the time a deed is tendered in accordance with Paragraph 6 of this Article, shall furnish without expense to the Administrator satisfactory evidence that such marketable title as was found by the Administrator to be vested in the mortgagor as of the date the mortgage was acceped for insurance is not, at the time a deed is tendered as aforesaid, impaired by any act or omission of the mortgagee or other event occurring subsequent to the date the mortgage was accepted for insurance. Such evidence may be a policy of title insurance issued by a company and in owner form satisfactory to the Administrator, and payable to the Administrator, and effective as of a date subsequent to the recording of the deed to the Administrator, or such evidence may be in form satisfactory to the Administrator as provided in subparagraphs (b), (c), or (d) of Section VII of Part II–A of the Administrative Rules.

10. The Administrator will accept title from the mortgagee subject to building or use restrictions or reversionary clauses for the breach of such restrictions, if such restrictions have not been violated prior to the date of the deed to the Administrator.

11. The mortgagee without cost or expense to the Administrator shall, in default of the mortgagor, keep the mortgaged premises insured against fire and other hazard as provided in the mortgage. In the event the mortgagee fails to pay any premiums necessary to keep the mortgaged premises so insured and such failure shall continue for a period of time set forth in the contract of insurance after receipt of written notice of such failure from the Administrator to the mortgagee, then the contract of insurance shall, at the election of the Administrator, thereupon terminate, and the mortgagor shall be entitled to receive a share of the credit balance of the account of the group to which the mortgage has been assigned, in such amount as the Administrator shall determine to be equitable and not inconsistent with the preservation of the solvency of such account and of the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund. In the event a loss has occurred to the mortgaged property under any policy of fire or other hazard insurance and the amount of any funds received by the mortgagee in payment of such loss shall be sufficient to pay in full the entire mortgage indebtedness, the said mortgage shall, upon receipt of such funds by the mortgagee, be deemed paid and the contract of insurance made with the Administrator shall thereupon terminate. If, however, any funds so received shall be insufficient to pay such mortgage indebtedness in full, the mortgagee shall not exercise its option under the mortgage to use the proceeds of such insurance for the repairing, replacing, or rebuilding of such premises or to apply such proceeds to the mortgage indebtedness without the prior written approval of the Administrator. If the Administrator shall fail to give his approval to the use or application of such funds for either of said purposes within fifteen (15) days after written request by the mortgagee, the mortgagee may use or apply such funds for any of the purposes specified in the mortgage without the approval of the Administrator.

Article VII. Assignments

1. Bonds or other obligations issued in connection with an insured mortgage executed in the form of an indenture of trust providing for the issue and sale of such bonds or other obligations and appointing a trustee to act on behalf of the holders of such bonds or other obligations may be transferred as provided in the indenture of trust.

2. An insured mortgage other than a mortgage executed in the form of an indenture of trust providing for the issue and sale of bonds or other obligations and appointing a trustee to act on behalf of the holders of such bonds or other obligations may be transferred to a transferee who may be a mortgagee previously approved by the Administrator or who may be approved at the time of such transfer as a mortgagee responsible and able to service such insured mortgage. Upon such approval and transfer the transferor shall be released from its obligations under the contract of insurance.

3. The contract of insurance shall terminate with respect to mortgages described in Paragraph 2 of this Article upon the happening of either of the following events:

(a) The acquisition of the insured mortgage by or the pledge thereof to any person, firm, or corporation, public or private, except as specifically provided in Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article.

(b) The disposal by a mortgagee of any partial interest in the insured mortgage by means of a declaration of trust or by a participation or trust certificate or by any other device except as specifically provided in Paragraph 1 of this Article.

Upon the termination of the insurance under this Paragraph 3 the mortgagor shall be entitled to receive a share of the credit balance of the account of the group to which the insured mortgage has been assigned, in such amount as the Administrator shall determine to be equitable and not inconsistent with the preservation of the solvency of such account and of the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund.

Article VIII. Vested Rights

Neither the mortgagee nor the mortgagor shall have any vested right in the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund, and the determination by the Administrator as to the amount payable out of such fund to or for the benefit of the mortgagee and mortgagor under these Regulations shall be final and conclusive as to all parties.

Article IX. Amendments

These Regulations may be amended by the Administrator at any time and from time to time, in whole or in part, but such amendment shall not affect the contract of insurance on any mortgage already insured or any mortgage or prospective mortgage on which the Administrator has made a commitment to insure.

Article X. Effective Date

These Administrative Regulations are effective as to all mortgages upon which insurance shall be issued on or after the date hereof.

Issued at Washington D. C., November 1, 1937.

PART IV

PROJECT STANDARDS

The National Housing Act requires the administrator to find that the project with respect to which a mortgage is to be executed is economically sound, as a prerequisite to his insurance of such mortgage. The following criteria will guide the Administrator in forming his opinion as to the economic soundness of any project:

1. Community.—

(a) A satisfactory economic background in general and specifically with reference to sources of employment for the population group for which the housing accommodations are intended.

(b) Existence of a need for dwellings meeting approved physical standards, and available for rent at prices within the limitations set forth elsewhere in the Rules and Regulations, and also within the rent paying capacity of the income group the project is designed to serve.

(c) The financial condition and administration of the community, with particular reference to the possibility of excessive tax burdens or increased tax rates; the probability of future special assessments and the general tendency in the community with respect to the placing of further levies, and the relation of such added burdens to the sums likely to be available to meet them.

2. The neighborhood.—

(a) Appropriate neighborhood zoning, or other regulation of land use; character and age of the neighborhood, its prospective trend of development, and conformity of the proposed improvement thereto; future of the neighborhood as influenced by present or prospective improvements external thereto; and by present or possible inharmonious land uses within it.

(b) Size of the proposed project as a factor in influencing neighborhood development and stabilizing, modifying, or reversing discernible trends; relation of the neighborhood and the project to community plans tending to promote homogeneity of land use, permanent population betterments, and the rehabilitation of blighted or slum areas.

(c) Conformity of the project and its prospective tenants to the needs and characteristics of predominant ethnic groups nearby; probable long term immunity of the neighborhood from adverse influences.

(d) Accessibility of the neighborhood to churches and to centers of employment, trade, education, and recreation; adequacy and economy of public means of transit, and conformity of the project to local custom and habit as regards transportation.

3. The site.—

(a) Freedom from adjacent adverse influences either topographic, industrial, or psychological.

(b) Adequate and acceptable local land planning, or possibility of modifications thereof.

(c) Freedom from flood danger or other hazards; satisfactory and non-costly foundation conditions; the presence nearby of all necessary utility connections; and topographic adaptability, within the property lines, to the intended use.

(d) General conformity of the proposed improvement to the discernible real estate characteristics of the site, and to appropriate densities, rents, layouts, and type of structure as indicated by these characteristics.

4. The buildings.—

(a) Open land within the project shall be so distributed as to avoid narrow courts and to assure adequate light and air, and a satisfactory outlook for all rooms. Net lot coverage must be kept to the minimum consistent with a sound project based on a reasonable land value. Densities should not ordinarily exceed eight (8) families per gross acre for free standing houses, fifteen (15) families per gross acre for grouped or row houses, and one hundred (100) families per gross acre for multiple family dwellings.

(b) Buildings not over three stories in height are preferred, and no walkup may exceed four stories. Elevators will be required for buildings of greater height which will be acceptable only if appropriate to the location.

(c) Conformity of the land use, buildings and all accessory features with the requirements of all applicable laws, ordinances, and regulations relating to the utilization of land and the safety and sanitation of buildings.

(d) Suitability of the type of construction to the general plan of housing proposed. (Generally, preference will be given to buildings promising slow depreciation and moderate maintenance costs.)

(f) Suitability of the buildings as quarters for families of average size.

Layouts containing not less than three habitable rooms and one bathroom should be heavily predominant, but a small proportion of smaller units may be included. One of the habitable rooms shall have a floor area of not less than one hundred sixty (160) square feet; one a floor area of not less than one hundred (100) square feet; and one a floor area of not less than seventy (70) square feet; except that a kitchen may have a floor area of not less than fifty (50) square feet. Buildings of the corridor-type plan will ordinarily not be approved for mortgage insurance.

5. Finance and operation.—

(a) Relation of rental levels of the project to the existing pattern of rentals in the community.

(b) Adequacy of the estimation of costs of administration, operation, and maintenance in conformity with local prices and conditions.

(c) Reasonableness of assumptions as to occupancy ratio in relation to a long-term expectancy.

(d) Possibility of accumulating a surplus in excess of dividend requirements after all expenses and the service of the mortgage.

(e) Land valued to conform to the local pattern of land values and to a capitalized value as determined by the residuals of gross income available for such capitalization.

(f) Sufficiency of the cash and other equity in the project to provide for all improvement costs above the mortgage and to assure continuing interest in the project by the sponsors.

(g) Provisions for a continuing and responsible management organization.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION.

Commissioners: Clyde L. Seavey, Acting Chairman; Claude L. Draper, Basil Manly, John W. Scott.

[Docket No. D. I.–131]

IN RE DECLARATION OF INTENTION OF PLATTE VALLEY PUBLIC POWER AND IRRIGATION DISTRICT

ORDER SETTING DATE OF FURTHER HEARING; ALLOWING INTERVENTION

Upon declaration of intention filed January 5, 1934, and supplemented July 6, 1936, by Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District (hereinafter referred to as "declarant") and the petition filed May 14, 1937, by The Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District (hereinafter referred to as "petitioner") requesting that it be allowed to intervene and present testimony in respect of the said declaration of intention:

It appears:

(1) That a copy of said petition to intervene was served on the declarant on May 15, 1937.

(2) That on May 17, 1937, declarant, by telegram, challenged the petitioner's right to intervene and the allegations of the petition and requested opportunity to file a formal pleading thereto;

(3) That at the hearing on said declaration of intention held May 17, 1937, pursuant to Commission order of March 23, 1937, after appropriate notice was duly given to the declarant, declarant failed to appear;

(4) That petitioner introduced testimony at said hearing upon the understanding that the same would be stricken from the record if the petition of intervention should be disallowed by the Commission, and the hearing was recessed subject to the further order of the Commission;

(5) That on May 17, 1937, the date of said hearing, Elm Creek Ditch Company, Gothenburg Ditch Company, Dawson County Irrigation Company, Thirty-mile Canal Company, Cozad Ditch Company, Six-mile Canal Company, Southside Irrigation Company, and Kearney Mutual Irrigation Company (hereinafter referred to as "protestants"), by telegram, informed the Commission that they had contracts approved by the Federal Government for all of the water of Sutherland District (declarant's project) for thirty years, and requested that they be afforded an opportunity to intervene in protection of their rights and that no order be made permitting intervention by other districts until they had been afforded an opportunity to object and to be heard; but said protestants were not otherwise represented at the hearing;

(6) That on June 16, 1937, the Commission addressed a telegram to the declarant as follows:

"Commission desires to afford you every reasonable opportunity to be heard further in this matter consistent with closing record within thirty days. Do you still wish to be heard in answer and argument against allowing intervention of Central Nebraska, or to present rebuttal testimony? Or perhaps having examined record made at recent hearing you are content to rely upon record already made. Please wire reply";

(7) That on the same date the Commission addressed a telegram to the protestants informing them of the limited nature of the present proceeding and requesting that they reply by wire whether they still desired to intervene and be heard upon the single question then pending; but no further communication has been received either from the declarant or from the eight protestants;

From the record herein the Commission finds:

(1) That the project works of the petitioner and of the declarant are contiguous and complementary; the petitioner has such an interest as entitles it to intervene in the proceedings on said declaration of intention, DI–131, and the testimony introduced by the petitioner should stand as a part of the record thereon;

(2) That the protestants, after full opportunity, have not complied with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Regulations governing filing of petitions of intervention and hence are not yet entitled to be permitted to intervene;

The Commission orders:

(A) That the petitioner be and it hereby is allowed to intervene and the evidence introduced by it at said hearing is admitted as a part of the record in the proceedings on said declaration of intention;

(B) That a further public hearing on the said declaration of intention and the said petition for intervention be held on December 8, 1937, at 10 a. m., in the hearing room of the Commission in the Hurley-Wright Building, 1800 Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D. C., for the following purposes, to wit:

(1) To afford the declarant opportunity to offer such additional pertinent evidence as it may desire and particularly in rebuttal of the evidence given at the said hearing held may 17, 1937, on behalf of the petitioner, now the intervenor, Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District;

(2) To afford opportunity to said protestants, Elm Creek Ditch Company, Gothenburg Ditch Company, Dawson County Irrigation Company, Thirty-mile Canal Company, Cozad Ditch Company, Six-mile Canal Company, Southside Irrigation Company, and Kearney Mutual Irrigation Company, to present their respective petitions for intervention with evidence in support thereof;

(C) That the declarant and the petitioner (now the intervenor), as well as the eight protestants hereinbefore named as having requested an opportunity to intervene, be each notified by registered mail immediately (a copy of this order to be enclosed with each notice) that immediately following the adjournment of the further hearing to be held as aforesaid on December 8, 1937, the record on the said declaration of intention, the petition or petitions for intervention, and the hearings held thereon will be closed and the matter thereupon submitted to the Commission for its findings as provided by the Federal Power Act.

Adopted by the Commission on November 9, 1937.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Bureau of Internal Revenue.

[T. D. 4776]

MUTILATED OR MISSING STRIP STAMPS

To Collectors of Internal Revenue, District Supervisors and Other Officers and Employees of the Bureau of Internal Revenue Concerned:

Pursuant to Section 205, Title II, Liquor Taxing Act of 1934 (U. S. C., 1934 ed., Title 26, Section 1152E) the following regulations are hereby prescribed:

1. Any person who has in his possession bottles containing distilled spirits required to be stamped by Title II of the Liquor Taxing Act of 1934, on which the stamps are so mutilated that they cannot again be affixed in their entirety, or to which no stamps are affixed, may purchase strip stamps to affix to such bottles in accordance with the conditions herein set forth.

2. Proper remittance and application under oath for the necessary stamps shall be submitted with Form 428, in triplicate, to the District Supervisor, Alcohol Tax Unit. The applicant in every case will state the cause of mutilation or absence of the stamps and submit evidence that the spirits are taxpaid. Such evidence may consist of the invoices covering the purchase of such spirits, in addition to other available documents. The District Supervisor will approve the requisition, Form 428, if he is satisfied from the evidence submitted that the tax has been paid on the spirits, and that the mutilation or absence of the stamps has been satisfactorily explained. He will forward the original Form 428 and one copy with the remittance to the Collector of Internal Revenue. The Collector will enter the serial numbers of the stamps issued and stamp the date of sale on both copies of Form 428. He will send the stamps and the copy of Form 428 to the District Supervisor, who will deliver the stamps to the applicant, either by mail or by a representative of his office, together with instructions in regard to marking and affixing them to the containers.

3. Where a bottle containing distilled spirits on which the stamp is so mutilated that it cannot again be affixed in its entirety, or to which no stamp is affixed, is discovered and it is ascertained that no application for a stamp has been made, such bottle will be detained pending appropriate action. If, upon investigation, it develops that the spirits in the bottle have been taxpaid, the officer who made the discovery shall secure an affidavit from the proper party setting forth the reason for the mutilation or absence of the stamp, as well as documentary evidence, if any, in support thereof. He shall then require the party involved to execute a suitable application to be submitted to the Supervisor, accompanied by a statement of the facts and the officer's recommendation. Such officer will inform the possessor of such bottle that it is his privilege to submit an offer in compromise. In the event a suitable offer in compromise is tendered, the procedure shall thereafter conform with the procedure governing cases in which an application for stamps was made without the intervention of a Government officer. When received, the stamp may be issued and affixed, and the bottle may be released from detention without awaiting action on the offer in compromise. Where no offer in compromise is submitted, the bottle and the spirits therein shall be seized for forfeiture.

4. Nothing contained in these regulations shall supersede or otherwise affect the authority granted and the procedure established by Treasury Decision 4744, approved June 24, 1937, for obtaining, without cost, stamps to replace those which have been lost or destroyed.

Sec. 2. All articles which shall be imported from foreign countries for the purpose of exhibition at the International Petroleum Exposition, or for use in constructing, installing, or maintaining foreign buildings or exhibits at the said exposition, upon which articles there shall be a tariff or customs duty, shall be admitted without payment of such tariff, customs duty, fees, or charges under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe; but it shall be lawful at any time during or within three months after the close of the said exposition to sell within the area of the exposition any articles provided for herein subject to such regulations for the security of the revenue and for the collection of import duties as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe: Provided, That all such articles, when withdrawn for consumption or use in the United States, shall be subject to the duties, if any, imposed upon such articles by the revenue laws in force at the date of their withdrawal; and on such articles, which shall have suffered diminution or deterioration from incidental handling or exposure, the duties, if payable, shall be assessed according to the appraised value at the time of withdrawal from entry hereunder for consumption or entry under the general tariff law: Provided further, That imported articles provided for herein shall not be subject to any marking requirements of the general tariff laws, except when such articles are withdrawn for consumption or use in the United States, in which case they shall not be released from customs custody until properly marked, but no additional duty shall be assessed because such articles were not sufficiently marked when imported into the United States: Provided further, That at any time during or within three months after the close of the exposition, any article entered hereunder may be abandoned to the Government or destroyed under customs supervision, whereupon any duties on such article shall be remitted: Provided further, That articles which have been admitted without payment of duty for exhibition under any tariff law, and which have remained in continuous customs custody or under a customs exhibition bond, and imported articles in bonded warehouses under the general tariff law may be accorded the privilege of transfer to and entry for exhibition at the said exposition under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe: And provided further, That the International Petroleum Exposition shall be deemed, for customs purposes only, to be the sole consignee of all merchandise imported under the provisions of this Act, and that the actual and necessary customs charges for labor, services, and other expenses in connection with the entry, examination, appraisement, release, or custody, together with the necessary charges for salaries of customs officers and employees in connection with the supervision, custody of, and accounting for, articles imported under the provisions of this Act, shall be reimbursed by the International Petroleum Exposition to the Government of the United States under regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, and that receipts from such reimbursements shall be deposited as refunds to the appropriation from which paid, in the manner provided for in section 524, Tariff Act of 1930.

Sec. 3. That the Government of the United States is not by this Act obligated to any expense in connection with the holding of such exposition and is not hereafter to be obligated other than for suitable representation thereat.

(1) All packages containing imported merchandise to be entered under the provisions of the public resolution shall be plainly marked "International Petroleum Exposition" and with the name of the country of origin and shall bear separate serial numbers.

(2) All importations of articles of a class requiring a consular invoice, intended for exhibition under the provisions of the public resolution and valued at more than $100, must be covered by consular invoices certified as provided in article 276 of the Customs Regulations of 1937. Such invoices shall contain the information prescribed under section 481 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (U. S. C., title 19, sec. 1481) and shall show that the articles covered thereby are destined to the port of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and are intended for exhibition or use at the International Petroleum Exposition, Tulsa, Oklahoma.

(3) The International Petroleum Exposition shall give to the deputy collector of customs at Tulsa, Oklahoma, such security for compliance with the public resolution and these regulations as may be approved by the Commissioner of Customs.

(4) The collector of customs at St. Louis, Missouri, shall detail an officer to act as his representative at the International Petroleum Exposition and shall station inside the exhibition buildings as many additional customs officers and employees as may be necessary to properly protect the revenue.

(5) All actual and necessary customs charges for labor, services, and other expenses in connection with the entry, examination, appraisement, release, or custody of imported articles, together with the necessary charges for salaries of customs officers and employees in connection with the supervision and custody of, and accounting for, articles imported for exhibition at the International Petroleum Exposition or transferred thereto for exhibition, shall be reimbursed by the International Petroleum Exposition to the Government, payment to be made monthly to the deputy collector of customs, Tulsa, Oklahoma, for deposit to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States as a refund to the appropriation "Collecting the revenue from customs."

(6) Articles to be entered under these regulations which arrive at ports other than Tulsa shall be entered for immediate transportation without appraisement to the latter port in the manner provided by the general customs regulations.

(7) Articles which have been admitted without payment of duty for exhibition under any tariff law and which have remained in continuous customs custody or under a customs exhibition bond may be transferred to entry for exhibition at the International Petroleum Exposition in the manner prescribed in article 453 (c) of the Customs Regulations of 1937, except that in each case an entry under paragraph (8) of these regulations shall be filed, which shall supersede any previous entry, and no new bond other than that specified in paragraph (3) shall be required. Imported articles in bonded warehouses under the general tariff law may be transferred to entry for exhibition at the International Petroleum Exposition in the manner prescribed in article 323 of the Customs Regulations of 1937.

(8) Upon the arrival at the port of Tulsa of articles to be entered under these regulations the same should be entered on a special form of entry to read substantially as follows:

(9) Upon such entry being made, the deputy collector shall issue a special permit for the transfer of the articles covered thereby to the buildings in which they are to be exhibited or used, or, in the discretion of the deputy collector, to the appraiser's stores for examination and subsequent transfer to the buildings in which they are to be exhibited or used. Upon the receipt of the articles at such buildings or at the appraiser's stores, the same shall be given a tentative appraisal prior to their exhibition or use. All imported exhibits so received in such buildings shall be kept segregated from domestic articles and imported duty-paid articles and shall not be removed from the exhibition building except in accordance with paragraph (11) of these regulations.

(10) If for any reason articles imported for entry under these regulations are not upon their arrival to be delivered immediately at an exhibition building, the importer should so indicate to the deputy collector in writing, who will cause such articles to be placed in a bonded warehouse under a "general order permit" at the importer's risk and expense, and such articles may be entered at any time within one year from the date of importation for exhibition, as herein provided, or under the general tariff law, or for exportation. If not so entered within such period they will be regarded as abandoned to the Government.

(11) Any articles entered under these regulations may be withdrawn for exportation, for abandonment to the Government, destruction under customs supervision, or for consumption or entry under the general tariff law, but not otherwise, at any time during or within three months after the close of the exposition. Upon the withdrawal of such articles for consumption or for entry under the general tariff law, or at the expiration of three months after the close of the exposition in the case of articles not previously so withdrawn, they shall be appraised with due allowance made for diminution or deterioration from incidental handling or exposure. Such appraisal shall be final in the absence of an appeal to reappraisement, as provided in section 501 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (U. S. C., title 19, sec. 1501). In the case of such articles withdrawn for entry under the general tariff law under a warehouse bond or a bond conditioned upon exportation, the statutory period of the bond and any extension thereof shall be computed from the date of withdrawal.

(12) At any time during or within three months after the close of the exposition, any article entered hereunder may be abandoned to the Government or destroyed under customs supervision, as provided in article 808 of the Customs Regulations of 1937.

(13) Any articles entered under these regulations which have not been withdrawn for consumption, entry under the general tariff law, or exportation, or which have not been abandoned to the Government or destroyed under customs supervision, before the expiration of three months after the close of the exposition, shall be regarded as abandoned to the Government.

(14) All entries under these regulations shall be made in the name of the International Petroleum Exposition, which shall be deemed for customs purposes the sole consignee of the merchandise entered under the act and which shall be held responsible to the Government for all duties and charges due the United States on account of such entries; but, in the case of merchandise withdrawn from entry under these regulations, an entry under the general tariff law, in the name of any person duly authorized in writing by the International Petroleum Exposition to make such entry, may be accepted by the deputy collector, and the bond of the International Petroleum Exposition shall thereafter be considered as collateral security for any duties and charges accruing on the merchandise covered by any such entry, unless the entry is for permanent exhibition, in which case the liability of the International Petroleum Exposition under its bond with respect to the articles covered by such entry, shall be terminated when the security required by the general tariff law has been given.

(15) The marking requirements of the Tariff Act of 1930 and the regulations promulgated thereunder will not apply to articles imported under these regulations except when such articles are withdrawn for consumption or use in the United States, in which case they shall be released from customs custody only upon a full compliance with the marking requirements of the tariff act and the regulations promulgated thereunder. No additional duty shall be assessed because such articles were not properly marked when imported into the United States.

National Bituminous Coal Commission.

Docket No. 18-FD

INVESTIGATION OF THE NATURE AND EXTENT OF INTRASTATE COMMERCE IN BITUMINOUS COAL IN THE STATE OF OHIO AND ITS EFFECT UPON INTERSTATE COMMERCE IN SUCH COAL

REPORT, FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS OF THE COMMISSION

The National Bituminous Coal Commission on the 14th day of July, 1937, made and entered of record its Order No. 13 which was thereafter amended by Orders No. 13-a and No. 27, authorizing and directing that an investigation and hearing me conducted under and by virtue of the provisions of Section 4-A of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, for the purposes of determining whether transactions in intrastate commerce in bituminous coal in the various localities within the State of Ohio, directly affect interstate commerce in bituminous coal or cause or will cause any undue or unreasonable advantage, preference or prejudice in such commerce on the one hand, and interstate commerce in bituminous coal on the other hand;

In said order a trial examiner of the Commission was designated, authorized and directed to preside at said hearing and to receive evidence adduced by interested parties; to cause the same to be preserved of record and to make findings of fact therefrom; to report his proceedings in that behalf together with a record of all testimony and exhibits, and all record and documentary evidence, and his findings of fact and recommendations for an appropriate order in the premises;

Due and reasonable public notice of the time and place of said hearing was given by publication of said order in a newspaper of general circulation in each county within the State of Ohio in which bituminous coal is produced, and in the FEDERAL REGISTER, Washington, D. C., and by mailing in the United States Mail to each producer of bituminous coal within said State known to the Commission, a true copy of said order fixing the time, place and purposes of said hearing;

An investigation was duly and lawfully conducted at the time and place prescribed in said order, and pursuant to the provisions of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, and at said hearing large numbers of producers and distributors of bituminous coal appeared and asked to be heard, and were heard, and ample opportunity was afforded to all interested parties to be heard, and a full and complete hearing was had and said Trial Examiner has duly filed his report as directed. The Commission has duly considered said report and the record of the proceedings and now makes its findings and conclusions. The report and findings herein differ somewhat from those recommended by the Examiner.

From the evidence contained in said record, the Commission finds:

1. That there are eleven principal coal producing areas within the State of Ohio located in the eastern one-fourth of the State, namely, Jackson, Pomeroy, Hocking, Shawnee, Crooksville, Cambridge, Middle, Pittsburg No. 8, Amsterdam-Bergholz, Massillon and Leetonia-Lisbon.

2. That during the years of 1929 and 1934 to 1936 inclusive, there was a total of 88,861,334 tons of bituminous coal produced in Ohio.

3. That of the production of bituminous coal in Ohio during said years aforesaid, approximately 46,017,736 tons were consumed within the State of Ohio, which is approximately one-half of the total production.

4. That during the year 1936 the production of bituminous coal in Ohio amounted to 23,327,450 tons, of which Ohio consumed 12,730,011 tons; approximately 10,597,449 tons of Ohio's production in bituminous coal was shipped in interstate commerce or sold as railroad and steamship fuel.

5. That the State of Ohio is a large potential producer of bituminous coal; that during the year 1935 there was produced by mines within the State of Ohio, 21,153,000 tons of coal on an average working time of 162 days, however, mines within the State of Ohio in the past produced as much as 40,546,000 tons annually; that during none of the years from 1929 to date have the mines within the State of Ohio produced as much coal as has been consumed within the State of Ohio; that more than one-half of the coal consumed within the State of Ohio comes from interstate sources, however, there are large coal resources in Ohio and many inactive mines that are potential producers.

6. That the State of Ohio is one of the largest consumers of bituminous coal; that during the predepression year of 1929, the State of Ohio consumed a total of 49,055,000 tons exclusive of the tonnage consumed by railroads and steamships.

7. That during the year 1929 the State of Ohio consumed a total of 25,365,523 tons more than was produced within the State.

8. That tonnage of interstate shipments of bituminous coal consumed within the State of Ohio during the year 1929 was 38,627,585 tons, which was 79.8 per cent of the total consumption of coal within the State; that in 1936 Ohio consumed 26,815,000 tons of bituminous coal from interstate sources, or 67.8% of the total consumption, a relative decrease of 12% of interstate coal.

9. That there are three broad classes of use for bituminous coal used in Ohio—industrial fuel, railroad fuel and domestic fuel; that neither Ohio coals nor coals from interstate sources dominate the Ohio market for any one of these classes of use; that for one or more of these uses, all coals shipped interstate into Ohio are of such a similar character to that produced in Ohio, that they are competitive and the demand for coal in Ohio markets shows that the volume of heat derived from coal is ordinarily the principal consideration upon which the consumer bases his selection of coal, but, however, in both the commercial and domestic markets, price is the determining factor when there is sufficient price differential to yield a material saving in cost.

10. That the production and consumption of bituminous coal within the State of Ohio has fluctuated from year to year, marketing conditions and prices have been unstable and the industry unprofitable and during none of the years from 1929 to date have producers in Ohio produced more than 36 per cent of the total amount of bituminous coal consumed within the State.

11. That heavy shipments of interstate bituminous coal pass through the heart of Ohio producing fields into the large consuming marketing areas in Ohio; that six industrial counties consumed 56.9 per cent of the total bituminous coal consumed for industrial purposes within the State of Ohio in 1929; that during the depression years immediately following there was a 20 per cent decrease from the peak of 1929; that since such decrease Ohio's consumption of bituminous coal has been increasing; that the largest proportion of coal from interstate sources shipped into Ohio is transported by rail, although a substantial tonnage comes into Ohio markets by barge and truck; that the interstate rail coal moving into Ohio markets is subject to a substantial freight differential; but freight tariffs are published covering rail transportation from interstate and intrastate producing fields to substantially all rail destinations within the State of Ohio.

12. That transportation charges have been an important factor in determining the price and movement of bituminous coal; that in the investigations of the Interstate Commerce Commission it has been found that there is keen and active competition between interstate coals and Ohio coals at rail destinations in Ohio and it was further found that certain intrastate rates on bituminous coal to Ohio destinations had resulted in preferences to Ohio shippers in intrastate commerce and unjust discrimination against interstate commerce, as shown in, Ohio-Michigan Coal Case, Docket No. 12698, 80 I. C. C. 663; In the Matter of Intrastate Rates on Bituminous Coal Within the State of Ohio, Docket No. 12851, 80 I. C. C. 687; Intrastate Rates on Bituminous Coal Within the State of Ohio, Docket No. 25566, 192 I. C. C. 413; Surcharge on Bituminous Coal Within the State of Ohio, Docket No. 25885, 192 I. C. C. 734. Certified copies of the Interstate Comperce Commission's findings of fact and decisions were introduced as exhibits in this proceeding.

13. That a large number of representative cities and towns throughout the State of Ohio, numbering over 1,000, received shipments by rail of bituminous coal from both intrastate and interstate origins in 1936; that there is keen and active competition of intrastate commerce in bituminous coal with interstate commerce in bituminous coal in substantially all coal markets in the State; that the evidence of production and distribution presented concerning previous years establishes the fact that the distribution of coal in intrastate transactions and interstate shipments by rail in Ohio, follow generally the conditions prevailing in Ohio in 1936; that, in addition, there are substantial shipments of intrastate and interstate bituminous coals moving by trucks into Ohio market areas; and that this coal engages in keen and active competition with interstate and intrastate rail coal.

14. That a group of twenty-three Class I carriers and their subsidiaries are in a position as a group to purchase and do purchase railroad fuel from Ohio mines and railroad fuel from coal fields in six nearby states; that all of such fields including those in Ohio produce coal, which for railroad fuel purposes is comparable; that in 1929 approximately 8,000,000 tons of bituminous coal were purchased from Ohio mines and approximately 34,000,000 tons from coal fields in adjoining states by the same group of twenty-three Class I carriers; and that Ohio coal is in keen and active competition with coal from interstate origins in the railroad fuel market in Ohio; and that the railroad fuel market in Ohio has not changed materially since 1929.

15. That bituminous coal produced by the same Ohio mines is sold partly in Ohio markets and partly in markets in other states; that in Ohio markets such bituminous coal competes with interstate coal; that a number of producers own mines both in Ohio and in nearby states, and ship coal both intrastate and interstate into Ohio markets wherein the coal of such producers competes with other intrastate and interstate coals; and that transactions in bituminous coal in interstate and intrastate commerce in the State of Ohio are so interwoven and interrelated that they cannot be separated from each other and intrastate shipments have a direct effect upon the interstate shipments and one cannot be regulated apart from the other.

16. That there is active, keen and continuous competition of Ohio coals with interstate coals in the State of Ohio; that such competition has had and now has a direct effect upon the interstate shipments into Ohio markets; that generally, this competition has affected interstate coals by causing a loss of tonnage in Ohio markets; and this effect has resulted primarily from destructive competition based on prices and generally the quality of the coals has been disregarded when the differential in price became sufficiently wide.

17. That with very few exceptions producers do not store bituminous coal, as storage over any appreciable period results in substantial losses from spontaneous combustion, disintegration and deterioration; that instead, the producer loads directly from the mine tipple into railroad cars on his tracks; that the producer also produces several different sizes of coal and has little or no control over the relative proportions of the different sizes that come from his mine; that this is primarily dependent upon the physical character of the seam, hardness of the coal, cleavage and other factors that influence the yield. To illustrate this, one witness testified that to produce 1000 tons of egg coal, the producer would be required to produce 4000 tons of run of mine coal; that the demand for the several sizes varies with the state of business and the seasons; in times of industrial activity the demand for steam sizes, the screenings, tends to rise, and, in general, there is a tendency for a surplus of screenings to develop during the winter months and a surplus of larger sizes to develop during the summer. A surplus of screenings has at times caused such pressure on the market that to move such coal from the producer's railroad siding, the surplus sizes have been sold for a price far below the cost of production. This is done so that the producer may keep his tracks clear and continue to produce sizes of coal for which there is demand. We conclude:

1. That bituminous coal produced and consumed in the State of Ohio, and shipped to Ohio destinations, is in direct, keen, active and continuous competition with bituminous coal shipped to the same markets from interstate sources and transactions in bituminous coal in intrastate commerce between localities in Ohio directly affect and burden the flow of interstate commerce in bituminous coal from producing localities without the State of Ohio to consuming localities within the State of Ohio; that such situation will be further accentuated and accelerated by the fact that Ohio producers shipping bituminous coal in interstate commerce will obtain a realization on such interstate transactions under a regulated minimum price that will further enable such producers to maintain the unregulated prices in the Ohio markets at a level that will do much to prevent interstate shippers into Ohio, subject to regulated prices, from competing in the markets in Ohio.

2. That if all transactions in intrastate commerce in bituminous coal as between localities within the State of Ohio or any substantial part thereof, are exempt from regulation as to the minimum price at which such coal could be sold or disposed of by the producer, the interstate coal now being disposed of in Ohio markets would be diminished, if not entirely eliminated in such markets and thus cause an undue and unreasonable advantage, preference or prejudice as between localities in such intrastate commerce on the one hand and interstate commerce in bituminous coal on the other hand and an undue, unreasonable or unjust discrimination against interstate commerce in bituminous coal.

3. That there does not exist an opportunity for interstate commerce in coal to continue to freely flow into the consuming market areas within the State of Ohio and compete upon a fair basis; that coordination of prices in both interstate and intrastate commerce in bituminous coal is necessary and that such coordination cannot be effected except by adjustment of prices; that unless intrastate transactions in such coal are subjected to regulation, effect cannot be given to the minimum price structures and coordination of prices in common consuming marketing areas established and approved by the Commission, as provided by the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937; and that the Commission will be unable to effectively enforce the provisions of the Act.

4. That intrastate shipments in coal and interstate shipments in bituminous coal into markets in the State of Ohio are so inter-related and interwoven that one cannot be regulated apart from the other; and that interstate commerce in coal cannot be protected unless both intrastate and interstate commerce in bituminous coal are regulated as provided by Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937.

5. That unless intrastate commerce in bituminous coal within the State of Ohio is subjected to regulation, the practice of dumping, which is always demoralizing to the trade, cannot be prevented; that lack of regulation will not only enable the Ohio producer to enjoy an unfair and discriminatory advantage over interstate shippers in disposing of coal within the State of Ohio, but also to enjoy an unfair and discriminatory advantage in disposing of his coal in interstate commerce in other states; and that in the absence of regulation such producer will be able to use the unregulated intrastate Ohio market as a dumping ground to dispose of his surplus sizes, and thereby keep his tracks clear and be in a better position to supply prepared sizes then in demand and to ship into the regulated interstate markets, at a great advantage over the regulated interstate shipper, not possessing an outlet, to dispose of his surplus sizes.

An appropriate order will be entered.

Recognizing the vital importance of bituminous coal in the national economy, Congress by the enactment of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937 provided for stabilization of that major natural resource industry.

The purposes of the Act are clearly set forth in the declaration, "That regulation of the sale and distribution in interstate commerce of bituminous coal is imperative for the protection of such commerce; that there exist practices and methods of distribution and marketing of such coal that waste the coal resources of the Nation and disorganize. burden, and obstruct interstate commerce in bituminous coal, with the result that regulation of the prices thereof and of unfair methods of competition therein is necessary to promote interstate commerce in bituminous coal and to remove burdens and obstructions therefrom."

To accomplish these objects the law provides for the banning of certain specific trade practices in the industry which have been found to be unfair and the establishment of minimum prices and proper marketing rules and regulations governing sales of coal by code member producers and by distributors. Such minimum prices and regulations are to be determined according to well defined standards which are set forth in detail in Section 4 of the Act and were duly promulgated by the Commission on June 21, 1937 as the Bituminous Coal Code.

Section 4 of the Act provides, inter alia, "for the purpose of carrying out the declared policy of this Act, the Code shall contain the following conditions and provisions, which are intended to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal and which shall be applicable only to matters and transactions in or directly affecting interstate commerce in bituminous coal."

Having provided for regulation of commerce in coal among the several states, Congress recognized the incontrovertible fact that relationships between interstate and intrastate commerce are so intimate and direct that its interstate commerce could not be successfully dealt with if commerce in coal within individual states was permitted to continue unregulated.

Consequently there was invoked the Congressional power to regulate phases of intrastate commerce which has become clearly recognized under the doctrine of the Shreveport case, where Federal control was found essential in order to secure the freedom of interstate traffic from interference or unjust discrimination and to promote the efficiency of the interstate service, Houston, E. & W. T. R. Company versus United States 234 U. S. 342.

Accordingly Congress, by Section 4–A of the Act, vested authority in the Coal Commission to extend the applicability of the provisions of Section 4 to intrastate commerce in coal when carried on by any person or in any locality, in cases where the Commission, upon investigation and after hearing, finds transactions in intrastate commerce cause any undue or unreasonable advantage, preference or prejudice as between persons and localities in such commerce on the one hand and interstate commerce on the other hand, or any undue, unreasonable or unjust discrimination against interstate commerce in coal or in any manner directly affect such interstate commerce.

The Commission, acting upon its own motion, has duly investigated the relationship between interstate commerce in coal and intrastate commerce in coal in the State of Ohio, and, after hearing, has concluded and specifically found that substantially all transactions in intrastate commerce in all localities in the State of Ohio do directly affect interstate commerce in coal, and that transactions in coal in Ohio, interstate and intrastate, are so commingled together and interwoven that regulation of interstate commerce as required under the Act cannot be accomplished without like regulation of intrastate commerce in all localities within the State.

The general facts concerning the production, distribution and use of bituminous coal throughout the United States are clearly set forth in the records of twenty or more hearings held in recent years before Committees of Congress, as well as in the findings and opinions of the courts in Appalachian Coals versus United States, 288 U. S. 344, and Carter versus Carter Coal Company, et al., 298, U. S. 238.

Large tonnages of bituminous coal are produced in 28 counties of Ohio, as well as in the adjacent States of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana and Illinois. Facilities for coal production throughout the coal mining areas of Ohio range from the small mine producing a few tons per day by hand labor to the highly mechanized operation employing hundreds of men and capable of loading and shipping enormous tonnages of coal daily. Wages in the coal mines of Ohio, as elsewhere, constitute the major item of cost and because of a mobility due to modern conditions of organization, transportation and employment, labor is peculiarly sensitive to any disturbance of the delicate balance now maintained between competitive coal districts as to their wage levels and working conditions. In late years prices realized by producers for their coal have not, on the average, equalled production costs, with the result that throughout the industry price demoralization inevitably leads to wage reductions, less rigid observation of safety standards and increased wastes in the process of mining.

In recent years radical changes have taken place in methods of coal distribution. At one time coal from individual mines and producing fields was limited to local use or to markets available only by railroad and steamship lines. Today the development of improved roads and the widespread use of motor trucks has broadened immeasurably the markets available to any individual mine or producing district, and by reason of this new method of distribution tonnages produced by small mining operations which individually would appear to have little bearing upon markets, now seriously affect conditions because of the cumulative effect of tonnages made available from groups of small mines and transported to distant markets by truck.

Bituminous coal has likewise undergone a transformation insofar as uses are concerned. At one time coal as produced from the mine, that is, run of mine, was universally accepted by consumers. Today, elaborate screening facilities must be provided to meet market demands and a wide variety of sizes and grades is generally offered. Producers, therefore, are under constant stress to find outlets for particular sizes of coal not in immediate demand in order to continue operation of their mines.

In former years industries using coal were to a large extent local or, at most, statewide in scope. Today, those industries which depend on coal for energy and raw materials are organized and conducted on the basis of finding outlets for their products, not only within the state of origin but throughout other states. Electric power produced from coal is now generated in huge units whose output under modern transmission methods enters consuming centers beyond the state. Bituminous coal still serves as a main source of energy for the railroads, whose principal activities are in interstate commerce. Today, in all of its markets, bituminous coal must meet the competition of other fuels and forms of energy, supplies of which are transported in many instances from producing areas hundreds of miles distant.

It may therefore be concluded that, in general, the production and distribution of coal has ceased to be an activity, local in effect, and that commerce in coal cannot any longer be dealt with as a business activity limited in scope to areas within the confines of a single state.

The production and distribution of coal in the State of Ohio presents a picture typical of the industry. With 23,327,450 tons produced in 1936 by Ohio mines, 12,630,011 tons were consumed within the state for domestic fuel and industrial purposes, and 10,597,449 tons shipped for consumption in other states or sold as railroad and steamship fuel. In the same year Ohio imported 26,815,000 tons of coal although its own production facilities were not operating at full capacity.

In surveying the uses of coal within the state, we find a range from the industrial plants of the Mahoning Valley, the power plants scattered at strategic points throughout the state, and railroads and steamship lines, to domestic heating not only in the stores and apartments of large cities but in the humblest dwellings in rural communities.

Coal is today transported throughout Ohio by a network of railroads which cover the state, as well as by barges and steamers on the Ohio River and Lake Erie. These methods of transportation are supplemented by the movement of coal by motor truck, not only directly from producing mines but from distribution facilities located in every substantial community and serving wide areas.

A review of the marketing of coal in the State of Ohio shows that state lines are not a factor in distribution. Coal moves in and out of the state by barges, railroad cars and trucks. Coals produced within Ohio compete actually in every market with coals produced in other states, and all coals must constantly meet the keen competition of other fuels. Undoubtedly cases exist where it will be shown that in isolated communities or in individual transactions there may be no direct relationship between interstate commerce and intrastate commerce in coal. Nevertheless it is clear that in the overwhelming majority of instances, intrastate commerce cannot be set apart and distinguished from interstate commerce. From our study of commerce in coal in the State of Ohio we find no line of distinction between mines and producing fields engaging in intrastate commerce in the state and those engaging in interstate commerce, nor do we find that any particular size, grade or quality of coal can be earmarked for movement into other states. Neither the cost or methods of producing and preparing coal determines its market within or without the state. Coal is produced and loaded at the mine for shipment without regard to its ultimate destination which is determined entirely by marketing factors.

This relationship between the two types of commerce becomes significant in administering any stabilization plan using minimum prices and fair trade practice rules as media or regulation. In the coal industry of Ohio, as in other states, with potential capacity substantially exceeding demand, with consumption varying from season to season as well as with the rise and fall of industrial activities, with continued encroachments on coal markets by other fuels which are not subject to regulation, the price of coal is, in the vast majority of cases, the essential determining factor in the selection of coals by consumers. Small price differences lead not only to substantial changes in the demand for particular coals but also to diversion of business from one mine or mining field to another. The presence or absence of fair trade regulations definitely affects the ability of producers and distributors to compete and unfair trade practices very frequently result in advantages which may be calculated in terms of price.

From the highly competitive conditions presently existing in the coal industry in the State of Ohio and neighboring states, it would appear that the competition is and will continue to be so keen that the failure to regulate transactions in intrastate commerce within the state renders impossible any effective regulation of interstate coal moving into Ohio. In this case the question of price and fair trade practices certainly dominates coal in trade between the states.

The Commission therefore has found that these relationships will continue in effect and that failure to guard against consequences of non-regulation of intrastate commerce in Ohio will undoubtedly lead to irreparable injury to producers and producing districts now engaged in interstate commerce and serving consumers within the State of Ohio.

In its investigation of intrastate commerce in coal in Ohio, the Coal Commission has followed the only practical method of procedure. Transactions in bituminous coal by individual producers vary from day to day, coal from a particular mine may be shipped entirely in interstate commerce on one hand and in intrastate commerce on the succeeding day and carloads of particular sizes may be sold in local markets while other sizes find outlets in other states. To investigate and define specifically the character and effect of each transaction by every individual producer or in any given locality would be impracticable because such transactions number thousands daily and complete records of such transactions are not available. Consequently the Commission has arrived at its determinations through a review and analysis of general practices in coal distribution throughout the state, leaving for future determinations the status of individual cases as they may arise.

Adequate provision has been made in the Act for the protection of any person whose commerce in coal may hereafter be determined not to conform to the general rule. Section 4–A, after authorizing the Commission to extend application of the provisions of Section 4 to phases of intrastate commerce in coal, provides further that any producer believing that any commerce in coal is not subject to the provisions of Section 4 of the Act or to the provisions of Section 4–A extending operation of the Act and Code to phases of intrastate commerce, may file an application for exemption with the Commission, setting forth the facts upon which the claim is based.

Pending hearing and decision by the Commission the petitioner is exempted from any obligations, duty or liability imposed by said Section 4 or by any order of the Commission extending the operation of Section 4 to phases of intrastate commerce, a portion of which the producer claims to be exempt.

Provision is also made for the review of any order of the Commission denying or otherwise disposing of any application for exemption, such review to be had in conformity with subsection (b) of Section 6 of the Act.

The Commission by its order in Docket No. 18–FD, extending operation of Section 4 of the Act and the Bituminous Coal Code to intrastate commerce in all localities within the State of Ohio, provided further that notice of its action shall be given by mail to all known producers of coal who have not heretofore accepted the Code and directs publication of proper notice in newspaper of general circulation in each county known to produce bituminous coal within the State.

By the terms of the Commission's order the provisions of Section 4 and the Code do not begin to apply to persons engaged in intrastate commerce in coal in the State of Ohio, and therefore no obligation, duty or liability is imposed upon those persons, until the 15th day of December, 1937, thus affording adequate opportunity to such persons to file applications for exemption and thereby avoid liability until full hearing has been had in their individual cases.

ORDER

At a Regular Session of the National Bituminous Coal Commission Held at its Offices in Washington, D. C., on the 11th Day of November, 1937.

It appearing, That by Orders No. 2 and 13, the Commission, upon its own motion entered into and conducted an investigation under the provisions of Section 4–A of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, for the purpose of determining the nature and extent of transactions in intrastate commerce in bituminous coal in the State of Ohio and the effect of such transactions upon interstate commerce in such coal; and

It further appearing, That reasonable public notice of a hearing was provided and that at said hearing interested parties were afforded an opportunity to be heard; that the presiding Examiner duly designated by the Commission having filed his report and recommendations and the Commission having given due consideration to said report and recommendations and to the record of the evidence in this proceeding; and, the Commission having on the 8th day of November, 1937, made and filed its report, containing its findings of fact and conclusions thereon, which said report is hereby referred to and made a part hereof;

Now, therefore, It is by order declared:

That substantially all transactions in bituminous coal in intrastate commerce in all localities within the State of Ohio directly affect interstate commerce in such coal; and

That there will be an undue or unreasonable advantage, preference or prejudice as between transactions in intrastate commerce in Ohio on the one hand and interstate commerce in bituminous coal on the other hand, and an undue, unreasonable, or unjust discrimination against interstate commerce in such coal if such transactions in intrastate commerce or any substantial part thereof are not regulated and subjected to the provisions of Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937.

Therefore, it is further ordered:

1. That on and after the 15th day of December, 1937, all bituminous coal sold, delivered or offered for sale in transactions in intrastate commerce in such coal in all localities within the State of Ohio, shall be subject to the provisions of Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, to the Bituminous Coal Code, as promulgated by the Commission and made effective on the 21st day of June, 1937, and to all relevant orders of the Commission in effect on the date of this order, as well as all further orders which may thereafter be issued by the Commission under Section 4 of said Act, so as to apply to such intrastate commerce in coal within the State of Ohio.

2. That any producer of bituminous coal in intrastate commerce within the State of Ohio, who may believe that his or its particular transactions in intrastate commerce in bituminous coal should be exempted from this order and/or from the provisions of Sections 4 and 4–A of said Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, may file application at any time hereafter for exemption pursuant to the second paragraph of Section 4–A of said Act, and be entitled to a hearing and appropriate orders thereon.

3. That the Secretary of the Commission shall give notice to each known producer of bituminous coal within the State of Ohio, who is not upon the date of this Order a member of the Bituminous Coal Code, by mailing, within five (5) days from this date, a copy of this Order, together with three (3) copies of the Form of Code Acceptance and rules prescribed by the Commission for filing acceptances, and a copy of the Bituminous Coal Code as promulgated under date of June 21, 1937.

The Secretary shall cause a copy of this Order to be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, and shall also publish a copy thereof in a newspaper of general circulation in each county within the State of Ohio known to produce bituminous coal, publication thereof to be made three (3) times within fourteen (14) days from the date of this Order.

By order of the Commission.

Dated this 11th day of November, 1937.

COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION.

C. C. C. Cotton Form 1
INSTRUCTIONS
1937–38

1937–38 INSTRUCTIONS CONCERNING THE MAKING OF LOANS BY COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION TO COTTON PRODUCERS ON NOTES SECURED BY COTTON WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has extended to Commodity Credit Corporation a line of credit for the purpose of enabling Commodity Credit Corporation to make loans and/or purchase paper of producers of cotton, secured by pledge of cotton warehouse receipts. These instructions state the requirements with reference to making such loans and the purchase of such paper.

1. Definitions.—As used in these instructions, unless the context otherwise requires, the following terms will be construed respectively to mean—

(a) Producer.—Any person, partnership, association, or corporation producing cotton either as landowner, landlord, or tenant.

(b) Eligible cotton.—Cotton produced in 1937 of grade and staple as specified in paragraph 3 hereof, the beneficial title to which is and always has been in the producer. Attention is called to the fact that landlords cannot borrow on the tenant's share nor on cotton taken in on account. The tenant may borrow separately on his share.

(c) Lending agency.—Any bank, cooperative marketing association, or other corporation, partnership, association, or person lending money to producers on eligible cotton warehouse receipts, upon 1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form A. (A Loan Agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is not included within this definition.)

(d) Eligible paper.—Notes of producers with loan agreements upon 1937–38 C. C C. Cotton Form A or any form hereafter approved by Commodity Credit Corporation dated subsequent to September 10, 1937, and prior to April 1, 1938, and executed in accordance with these instructions with State documentary revenue stamps affixed thereto where required by law. (Notes executed by an administrator, executor, or trustee will be acceptable only where valid in law, and all such notes must be submitted for direct loans in accordance with paragraph 5 hereof.)

2. Forms.—The following documents must be delivered in connection with every loan made or note purchased by Commodity Credit Corporation:

(a) Note of producer (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form A).
(b) Loan agreement (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form A).
(c) Warehouse receipts complying with the provisions of Section 11 hereof issued by approved warehouses.
(d) Producer's Letter of Transmittal (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form B) or Lending Agency's Letter of Transmittal (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form C).

3. Amount.—Loans to producers will be made upon a basis of 9 cents per pound for cotton classed seven-eighths inch or longer as to staple and middling or better as to grade, and 7.75 cents per pound on cotton classed seven-eighths inch or longer as to staple and under middling in grade, provided no cotton shall be eligible for a loan which is of a grade not deliverable on contracts in compliance with the regulations of the New York and New Orleans Cotton Exchanges. Loans at the rate of 8 cents per pound will be made on cotton classed thirteen-sixteenths inch as to staple and middling or better in grade. Thirteen-sixteenths inch staple cotton under middling in grade is not eligible for a loan. The term, "middling or better", as used herein, shall include only the following grades of cotton:

White Standards and Extra White:
Middling Fair.
Strict Good Middling.
Good Middling.
Strict Middling.
Middling.
Spotted:
Good Middling—Spotted.
Strict Middling—Spotted.

4. Time and manner of loans and purchase.—Commodity Credit Corporation will purchase eligible paper, as defined above, only from lending agencies which have executed and delivered to the Loan Agency to which notes are submitted Contract to Purchase (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form D) obtainable only from Loan Agencies. Under the terms of this contract, lending agencies are required to report on 1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form F all payments or collections on producers' notes held by them, and to remit promptly to Commodity Credit Corporation, Washington, D. C., an amount equivalent to one and one-half percent per annum interest on the principal amount collected from the date of the note to the date of payment.

Notes must be tendered on Lending Agency's Letter of Transmittal (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form C) in duplicate prior to July 1, 1938, to the Loan Agency serving the district in which the cotton is stored as indicated in paragraph 15 hereof. The purchase price to be paid by Commodity Credit Corporation for notes accepted will be the face amount of such notes, plus accrued interest from their respective dates to the date of payment of the purchase price at the rate of two and one-half percent per annum.

5. Direct loans.—It is contemplated that producers will ordinarily obtain loans from a local bank or other lending agency which, in turn, may sell the paper evidencing such loans to Commodity Credit Corporation. Arrangements, however, have been made for making direct loans to producers prior to April 1, 1938. In such cases the note must be made payable to Commodity Credit Corporation and must be tendered to the Loan Agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation serving the district in which the cotton is stored on a producer's Letter of Transmittal (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form B), in duplicate, postmarked not later than midnight of March 31, 1938, if tendered by mail. Upon delivery of all necessary documents properly executed and upon approval of the loan by the Manager of the Loan Agency, payment will be made in accordance with the directions of the producer contained in said 1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form B.

6. Preparation of documents.—A producer desiring a loan upon eligible cotton may obtain the necessary forms from any county extension agent in the cotton-producing areas, also from the Loan Agencies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation listed in Section 15 of these instructions. Such forms may also be obtained from Commodity Credit Corporation, Washington, D. C. The forms are identified and no reprints or substitutes may be used.

All blanks in both the note and loan agreement must be filled in with ink, indelible pencil, or typewriter in the manner indicated therein, and no documents containing additions, alterations, or erasures will be accepted by Commodity Credit Corporation or Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Only the white copy of the note and loan agreement marked original is to be executed; the colored copy marked duplicate is to be retained by the producer.

7. Liability of producer.—If the producer complies with the terms of the loan agreement, he will not be personally liable for any deficiency upon the sale of the pledged cotton. The note and loan agreement govern the liability of the producer and should be read carefully.

8. Lending agency.—The lending agency may endorse the notes of producers without recourse as provided in the note, 1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form A. Care should be exercised by the lending agency to determine the genuineness of the signatures to the note and loan agreement and that the warehouse receipts are genuine and represent merchantable cotton in existence. No provision is made for any deduction from the loan proceeds as a charge for handling the loan documents. Lending agencies must complete the "Advice of Loan" slip appended to the loan agreement, detach and mail same to Commodity Credit Corporation, Washington, D. C., as loans are made to producers. All blanks in the Advice of Loan and Schedule of Repayments (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form F) must be filled in with ink, indelible pencil, or typewriter.

9. Liens.—All cotton tendered to Commodity Credit Corporation must be free and clear of all liens except in favor of the lienholders listed in the space provided therefor in the loan agreement. The names of the holders of all existing liens on the pledged cotton such as landlords, laborers, or mortgagees (but not warehousemen), must be listed in the space provided therefor in paragraph 2 of the loan agreement. If the borrower is a tenant, the landlord must sign the lien waiver whether or not he claims lien. A misrepresentation as to prior liens, or otherwise, will render the producer personally liable under the terms of the loan agreement (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form A) and subject to criminal prosecution under the provisions of Section 10 (a) of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, which section is printed at the end of the loan agreement. The waiver and consent to the pledge of the cotton and the payment of the proceeds of the loan and the proceeds of the sale of the cotton solely to the producer as contained in paragraph 2 of the loan agreement must be signed personally by all lienholders listed or by their agents whose duly executed authority must be attached firmly; or, if corporations, by the designated officer thereof customarily authorized to execute such instruments, in which case the duly executed authority need not be attached. Notes in which the waiver and consent to pledge, as contained in paragraph 2 of the Loan Agreement, are not signed by all prior lienholders listed by producer, will not be acceptable to Commodity Credit Corporation. The producer may direct in the Letter of Transmittal (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form B) that the proceeds check for a direct loan from Commodity Credit Corporation be made payable to him and/or such other person or concern as he may direct thereon.

10. Warehouses.—Commodity Credit Corporation will accept only insured warehouse receipts covering cotton pledged as collateral to notes on 1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form A issued by any warehouse approved by the Loan Agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation serving the district in which such warehouse is located. Warehousemen are advised to communicate with the Loan Agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation concerning approval. When warehouses are approved, notification will be given either by letter or published lists. All cotton pledged as security for a note must be in the same warehouse.

The warehouseman guarantees in the certificate and waiver, provided in paragraph 1 of the loan agreement, that the cotton falls within the proper grade and staple classification for the loan made and is responsible to Commodity Credit Corporation for any loss occasioned by reason of misrepresentation of the class whether intentional or otherwise.

11. Warehouse receipts.—Only negotiable insured warehouse receipts dated prior to the date of the producer's note and properly assigned by an endorsement in blank so as to vest title in the holders or issued to bearer, executed by warehousemen who are not owners of the cotton, will be acceptable. They must set out in their written or printed terms a description by tag number and weight of the bale or bales represented thereby, and all other facts and statements required to be stated in the written or printed terms of a warehouse receipt under the provisions of Section 2 of the Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act. Warehouse receipts issued prior to August 1, 1937, which by their terms will expire prior to August 1, 1938, must bear endorsement of the warehouse extending the terms of the warehouse receipt for a period of 1 year from August 1, 1937. Block warehouse receipts will be accepted only when the tag number and weight of each bale is indicated on the block receipt.

12. Warehouse charges.—The warehouseman's charges are limited and his obligations defined by the form of warehouseman's certificate and waiver provided in paragraph 1 of the loan agreement. This should be read carefully and must be executed by the warehouseman issuing the cotton warehouse receipts pledged as collateral to the producer's note.

13. Insurance.—Holders of notes desiring insurance coverage in addition to the insurance coverage provided by the warehousemen as specified in paragraph 1 of the loan agreement (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form A), should obtain such coverage at their own expense. In addition to the insurance provided by the warehousemen, Commodity Credit Corporation has obtained a blanket insurance policy covering any differences between the market value of the cotton and the loan value plus interest and accrued charges, in the event that the market value of the cotton at the time and place of a loss is less than the amount of the note plus interest and accrued charges. This blanket policy protects the Corporation in the event the warehouseman fails to comply with the insurance requirements of the Corporation and also covers any losses or damage to the cotton to the amount of the loan, plus interest and charges, due to flood.

The premium under this blanket policy is 1¾ cents per $100 per month on the daily average balance of the outstanding loans, with respect to the insurance of warehousemen, and flood. The premium for any difference between loan value and market value is at the rate of 7 cents per $100 per month on the actual amount of such difference, this premium to be reported and paid only in the event that the market value, as quoted by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, for middling seven-eighths inch cotton on the New Orleans spot market, is less than the loan value plus interest and accrued charges.

Banks and other lending agencies may obtain such insurance coverage as they desire through the usual channels or they may secure coverage under the blanket policy carried by Commodity Credit Corporation. Banks and other lending agencies desiring to obtain this coverage should write Commodity Credit Corporation, Washington, D. C., and appropriate instructions will be issued together with the necessary forms for reporting thereunder. Upon purchase by Commodity Credit Corporation no allowance will be made to cover the costs of insurance obtained by lending agencies.

14. How money is to be obtained from the Commodity Credit Corporation.—Where the loan is to be made by Commodity Credit Corporation direct to the producer, the Producer's Letter of Transmittal (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form B) is to be completed by the producer and presented in duplicate either in person or preferably by mail with eligible paper to the Loan Agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation serving the district in which the cotton is stored as indicated in paragraph 15 hereof. A copy of this letter is to be retained by the producer as a memorandum. Upon approval of the documents, payment will be made pursuant to the letter.

Where the letter and documents are presented by the producer in person the certificate printed at the bottom of the letter need not be executed, provided the producer can furnish evidence satisfactory to the Agency Manager as to his identity.

Lending agencies desirous of selling eligible paper to Commodity Credit Corporation will follow the same procedure except that the Lending Agency's Letter of Transmittal (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form C) will be used. It must be completed in accordance with the instructions printed thereon.

15. Loan Agencies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.—The location of the Loan Agencies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation previously referred to herein and the district served by each agency in connection with this loan are shown below:

If his note was made payable to a payee other than Commodity Credit Corporation, the producer should notify the payee named therein. Warehouse receipts representing cotton held by Commodity Credit Corporation will be released by the Federal Reserve Bank or branch thereof holding the receipts, upon the payment of the amount of the loan, the accrued interest, and proper charges. Upon written request of the producer or the lending agency, the note and warehouse receipts will be forwarded to an approved bank, to be released to the producer or his agent against payment. REPORT OF THE COMMISSION

Division 5. Commissioners Eastman, Lee, and Rogers

By Division 5:

Exceptions were filed by one of the parties to the order recommended by the examiner, and the proceeding was argued orally. Our conclusions differ from those recommended by the examiner.

This is an investigation, on our own motion, to determine the area of the municipality of Los Angeles, Calif., and municipalities contiguous thereto, and of the zone adjacent to and commercially a part of such municipalities, within the meaning of section 203 (b) (8) of the Motor Carrier Act, 1935,[2] and to take such other action and make such other findings, determinations, and orders as the facts and circumstances warrant.

Los Angeles, in southern California, is about 200 miles from the nearest State line and 125 miles from the international border. It occupies an area of 480 square miles and in 1930 had a population of 1,238,048. Since the original settlement just south of San Gabriel Mountains, the city has grown in every direction assuming an irregular outline. On the south a narrow strip of annexed land, between one-half and three-quarters of a mile wide and known as the "shoe string" strip, connects the main area of Los Angeles with the annexed districts of San Pedro, Wilmington, and Terminal Island. The southwestern limits of the city also extend to the Pacific Ocean.

Separate municipalities contiguous to Los Angeles in the sense that they actually touch or border thereon are San Fernando, Beverly Hills, Santa Monica, Culver City, Inglewood, Hawthorne, El Segundo, Torrance, Burbank, Glendale, Pasadena, South Pasadena, Alhambra, Vernon, Huntington Park, and Long Beach, Calif. The unincorporated town of Gardena, Calif., is also contiguous. Los Angeles and its surrounding group of cities and towns occupy practically all of Los Angeles County south of the San Gabriel and Santa Susana Mountains and west of the San Gabriel River, and have a population of approximately 2,000,000.

Across the city in an east and west direction, from the western limits of Alhambra to the western edge of Santa Monica, the distance is approximately 23 miles, and from the extreme northwestern corner of the city to the extreme southern corner it is about 50 miles.

The port facilities of Los Angeles are in the San Pedro, Wilmington, and Terminal Island districts. These facilities together with those at Long Beach constitute the Port of Los Angeles. A few years ago the port ranked second in foreign tonnage and first in intercoastal tonnage. It now ranks fifth in total tonnage. About 90 percent of the wharves in the Los Angeles harbor districts are owned by the city, of which some are leased to private interests.

The industrial activity of Los Angeles was originally confined to the eastern section of the city just north of what is now Vernon. In recent years it has moved beyond the city limits; and many industries have relocated and new industries have been established in the territory east of the city, mainly in Vernon, Huntington Park, Bell, and Southgate, Calif., and in unincorporated areas in the vicinity of these municipalities. These manufacturing or industrial districts are generally considered to be commercially a part of Los Angeles where most of the products are absorbed.

The principal point of difference between the parties is whether the Los Angeles harbor districts and Long Beach should be included within the area in which the exemption in section 203 (b) (8) applies. The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the Los Angeles Traffic Conference, a group of traffic managers of 20 or more leading industrial firms, contend that the Los Angeles commercial zone embraces all of Los Angeles and the territory west of the harbor line of the Union Pacific Railroad Company and northeast of the line of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company from the harbor districts, through Torrance, to a point at approximately the center of the northern limits of El Segundo. On the other hand, the motor carriers, with a single exception, and the rail carriers are adverse to the inclusion of the San Pedro, Wilmington, and Terminal Island districts and Long Beach in the same zone with the business and industrial sections of Los Angeles.

Petroleum products from California points to the Port of Los Angeles move generally by pipe line. Other freight between the port and the business and industrial districts of Los Angeles is transported by 4 rail carriers and approximately 140 motor carriers. Between the wharves within the port, transshipments are handled by motor carriers engaged entirely in this specialized form of service.

Prior to 1923 traffic from wharves at the port to the central business section of the city was handled chiefly by rail carriers. In that year business through the port began to increase materially, the wharves became congested, and trucks began to move a large volume of the tonnage. Formerly the steamship lines collected a loading charge on all traffic which was transferred from steamer to rail or truck, but, in order to facilitate handling, the charge was discontinued when movement from the port was by motor truck, and the rail lines' proportion of the traffic has constantly diminished since that time. In 1923 the rail proportion was approximately 75 percent. In 1935 about 62 percent of the inbound tonnage of general cargo through the port, except lumber and oil, was moved by truck, and 90 percent thereof was destined to points within the switching limits of the city.

The total movement of merchandise and lumber handled over municipally operated wharves in 1935 was 2,544,122 inbound tons and 1,242,438 tons outbound. Of this inbound and outbound tonnage, 1,240,628 tons and 601,013 tons, respectively, or an average of 48.6 percent, moved by truck.

No highway connecting the central business section of Los Angeles and the port lies entirely within the city limits. If a route over Figueroa Street is used from the City Hall of Los Angeles to 190th Street and Normandie Avenue beyond, all but one and one-half miles is within the city limits. Truck Boulevard (Alameda Boulevard) and Wilmington Boulevard are through rather thickly settled territory north of Compton and through sparsely settled territory between Compton and the Wilmington section. Over Long Beach Boulevard, the route is through a densely populated area. Main Street and Avalon Boulevard, between 120th Street and the northern limits of the Wilmington section, a distance of approximately 9 miles, run through unincorporated territory consisting mainly of small farm lands.

At present there is no effective regulation by the Railroad Commission of California of the rates of motor carriers operating between the port and Los Angeles proper. That Commission attempted to exercise jurisdiction over a carrier operating between these areas, but the carrier claimed that he was operating in interstate and foreign commerce exclusively and that the order of the Commission directing him to cease and desist from operating was a direct burden on such commerce. The Supreme Court of California in Meyers v. Railroad Commission, 23 Pac. (2nd) 26, sustained his contention and annulled the Commission's order.

Transportation by motor vehicle in interstate and foreign commerce between the port and the main business and industrial sections of Los Angeles, not under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment to or from a point beyond, is now exempt from regulation by us under the provisions of section 203 (b) (8), except with respect to qualifications and maximum hours of service of employees, safety of operations, and standards of equipment. The motor carriers generally which perform this transportation ask us to exercise our authority to remove this exemption in order to prevent unfair and destructive competitive practices between the motor carriers which operate to and from the port, and to carry out in other respects the policy of Congress declared in section 202.

In New York, N. Y., Commercial Zone, 1 M. C. C. 665, 2 M. C. C. 191, and St. Louis, Mo.-East St. Louis, Ill., Commercial Zone, 1 M. C. C. 656, we discussed the principles underlying the determinations of commercial zones for the purpose of applying the exemption in section 203 (b) (8). As we stated in the supplemental report in New York, N. Y., Commercial Zone, 2 M. C. C. 191, Congress intended by the exemption in that section to remove from Federal regulation operations which, although in interstate or foreign commerce, were nevertheless of a distinctly local or urban type, as distinguished from intercity or intercommunity operations. In St. Louis, Mo.-East St. Louis, Ill., Commercial Zone, supra, we found that the application of all provisions of the act to transportation by motor vehicle between Belleville, Ill., a municipality contiguous to East St. Louis, Ill., on the one hand, and points in the St. Louis-East St. Louis Commercial Zone, on the other, was necessary to carry out the policy of Congress, and the exemption respecting this transportation was removed. Elizabeth and other municipalities in New Jersey contiguous to New York, N. Y., were not included in the commercial zone prescribed in New York, N. Y., Commercial Zone, supra.

The port is separate from the main residential, business, and industrial sections of Los Angeles. Although the motor carriers' pick-up and delivery areas and the rail carriers' switching limits extend to areas beyond the corporate limits of Los Angeles, they do not embrace any part of the San Pedro, Wilmington, and Terminal Island districts or Long Beach. A separate switching district for the Los Angeles harbor, which has had our approval, is maintained by the rail carriers. See Unified Operation at Los Angeles Harbor, 150 I. C. C. 649, and Wilmington Cham. of Com. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 198 I. C. C. 213. Because of the distance between the port and the main business and industrial sections of Los Angeles, and because of the nature of the transportation, the movement of property to and from the port is not local but intercity in character, and should be regulated under all provisions of the act.

We find that the removal of the exemption provided in section 203 (b) (8) respecting transportation by motor vehicle between the Los Angeles harbor districts and Long Beach, on the one hand, and other points within the considered area, on the other, it is necessary to carry out the policy of Congress enunciated in section 202. To effect the removal of the exemption we shall designate two zones, one which may be termed the Los Angeles Commercial Zone and the other, the Los Angeles Harbor Commercial Zone. The exemption provided in section 203 (b) (8) will continue to apply to transportation by motor vehicle subject to the act within each zone, but not to transportation from points in one zone to points in the other.

We further find that the zones adjacent to and commercially a part of Los Angeles and contiguous municipalities (except the San Pedro, Wilmington and Terminal Island districts and Long Beach), in which transportation by motor vehicle in interstate or foreign commerce, not under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment to or from a point beyond the zone will, until further order, be partially exempt from regulation, is the area east of a line extending in a generally northwesterly and northerly direction from the intersection of Inglewood Avenue and Redondo Beach Boulevard along the eastern and northern corporate limits of Redondo Beach, Calif., to the eastern corporate limits of Manhattan Beach, Calif., thence along the eastern and northern corporate limits of Manhattan Beach to the Pacific Ocean, thence along the shore line of the Pacific Ocean to the western corporate limits of Los Angeles at a point east of Topanga Canyon, and thence along the western corporate limits of Los Angeles to a point near Santa Susana Pass; south of a line extending in a generally easterly direction from a point near Santa

[1] This report does not embrace that part of the investigation relating to classifications of groups of motor carriers.

[2] Section 203 (b) (8) and the immediately preceding and qualifying portions of section 203 are as follows:

> • • • nor, unless and to the extent that the Commission shall from time to time find that such application is necessary to carry out the policy of Congress enunciated in section 202, shall the provisions of this part, except the provisions of section 204 relative to qualifications and maximum hours of service of employees and safety of operation or standards of equipment apply to: (8) The transportation of passengers or property in interstate or foreign commerce wholly within a municipality or between contiguous municipalities or within a zone adjacent to and commercially a part of any such municipality or municipalities, except when such transportation is under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment to or from a point without such municipality, municipalities, or zone, and provided that the motor carrier engaged in such transportation of passengers over regular or irregular route or routes in interstate commerce is also lawfully engaged in the intrastate transportation of passengers over the entire length of such interstate route or routes in accordance with the laws of each State having jurisdiction; • • •.

Susana Pass along the northern corporate limits of Los Angeles to the eastern corporate limits of Burbank, thence along the eastern corporate limits of Burbank to the northern corporate limits of Glendale, and thence along the northern corporate limits of Glendale and Pasadena to the northeastern corner of Pasadena; west of a line extending in a generally southerly and southwesterly direction from the northeastern corner of Pasadena along the eastern and a portion of the southern corporate limits of Pasadena to the eastern corporate limits of San Marino, Calif., thence along the eastern corporate limits of San Marino and the eastern and a portion of the southern corporate limits of Alhambra to the western corporate limits of Monterey, Calif., thence along the western corporate limits of Monterey and the western corporate limits of Montebello, Calif., to the Rio Hondo, and thence along the Rio Hondo and the Los Angeles River to the northern corporate limits of Long Beach; and north of a line extending in a generally westerly direction from the Los Angeles River along the northern corporate limits of Long Beach and the southern and a portion of the western corporate limits of Compton, Calif., to Olive Street, thence along Olive, Main, Walnut, and 182nd Streets to the eastern corporate limits of Torrance, thence along a portion of the eastern and the northwestern corporate limits of Torrance to Redondo Beach Boulevard, and thence along Redondo Beach Boulevard to Inglewood Avenue.

We further find that the zone adjacent to and commercially a part of the Wilmington, San Pedro, and Terminal Island districts of Los Angeles and Long Beach in which transportation by motor vehicle in interstate or foreign commerce, not under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment to or from a point beyond the zone will, until further order, be partially exempt from regulation, is the area east of a line extending in a generally northerly and northwesterly direction from the Pacific Ocean along the western corporate limits of Los Angeles to 258th Street, thence along 258th Street to the eastern corporate limits of Torrance, and thence along a portion of the eastern, and along the southern and western corporate limits of Torrance to the northwestern corner of Torrance; south of a line extending in a generally easterly direction from the northwestern corner of Torrance along the northwestern and a portion of the eastern, corporate limits of Torrance to 182nd Street, thence along 182nd, Walnut, Main, and Olive Streets to the western corporate limits of Compton, and thence along a portion of the western and along the southern corporate limits of Compton and the northern corporate limits of Long Beach to the northeastern corner of Long Beach; west of the eastern corporate limits of Long Beach; and north of the southern corporate limits of Long Beach and Los Angeles.

An order giving effect to these findings will be entered.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE,
NOVEMBER 3, 1937.

The Honorable, THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEAR MR. SECRETARY: Further reference is made to the letter of September 15 from Acting Secretary West submitting for the concurrence of this Department a recommendation of the Acting Chief of the Bureau of Reclamation that certain described lands within the boundaries of the [1] See letter signed by Secretary of Agriculture which follows.

Payette, Challis, Weiser, Sawtooth and Boise National Forests be withdrawn from location and entry under Section 3 of the Act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388). The described lands are somewhat scattered through these National Forests but in the aggregate comprise an area of approximately 115,000 acres. It is stated that the immediate object of the withdrawal is to prevent the location of mineral claims within the area.

This Department, through its administration of the National Forests, is fully cognizant of the unfortunate degree to which important public enterprises can be obstructed or defeated by dubious mining locations under the general mining laws. It also understands that under the laws authorizing such withdrawals, lands also under withdrawal for National Forest purposes, except so far as they actually are needed for project works, shall continue subject to the National Forest rules and regulations and to administration by this Department. It is anticipated that if the construction of the project necessitates the submergence or destruction of physical improvements essential to the administration of the National Forests, the Bureau of Reclamation will arrange for the satisfactory replacement of the improvements thus submerged or destroyed, to the degree that such improvements thereafter will be required by this Department in its administration of the National Forests.

Without being privy to the plans of the Reclamation Service and the probable location and extent of project works requiring such extensive withdrawal, this Department is not in a position to concur in the proposed withdrawal. However, the statement that the withdrawal will be modified where it subsequently is found to be in excess of the area actually needed is noted. Under these circumstances, and until more fully advised, the Department is not disposed to object to the withdrawal as proposed.

Sincerely,

H. A. WALLACE, Secretary.

NOTICE OF HEARING AND DESIGNATION OF PRESIDING OFFICER

Pursuant to the authority contained in sub-sections (d) and (b) of Section 301, and in Section 511 of the Sugar Act of 1937, (Public 414, 75th Congress),

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held at San Juan, Puerto Rico, in the Auditorium of the Ateneo, on November 30, 1937, at 9 A. M.

The purpose of such hearing is to receive evidence likely to be of assistance to the Secretary of Agriculture in determining, (1) pursuant to the provisions of Section 301 (d) of the said act, fair and reasonable prices for sugarcane to be paid by processors who, as producers, apply for payments under the said act; and (2) pursuant to the provisions of Section 301 (b) of the said act, fair and reasonable wage rates for persons employed in the production, cultivation or harvesting of the 1938 crop of sugarcane on farms with respect to which applications for payment under the said act are made.

J. Bernhardt, J. B. Frisbie and G. Laguardia are hereby designated as presiding officers to conduct either jointly, or severally the foregoing hearing.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 17th day of November, 1937. Witness my hand and the seal of the Department of Agriculture.

DETERMINATION OF PROPORTIONATE SHARES FOR SUGARCANE PRODUCERS IN PUERTO RICO FOR THE CROP YEARS 1938 AND 1939, PURSUANT TO THE SUGAR ACT OF 1937

NOVEMBER 18, 1937.

Whereas, Section 302 of the Sugar Act of 1937 provides in part as follows:

(a) The amount of sugar or liquid sugar with respect to which payment may be made shall be the amount of sugar or liquid sugar commercially recoverable, as determined by the Secretary, from the sugar beets or sugarcane grown on the farm and marketed (or processed by the producer) not in excess of the proportionate share for the farm, as determined by the Secretary, of the quantity of sugar beets or sugarcane for the extraction of sugar or liquid sugar required to be processed to enable the producing area in which the crop of sugar beets or sugarcane is grown to meet the quota (and provide a normal carry-over inventory) estimated by the Secretary for such area for the calendar year during which the larger part of the sugar or liquid sugar from such crop normally would be marketed.

(b) In determining the proportionate shares with respect to a farm, the Secretary may take into consideration the past production on the farm of sugar beets and sugarcane marketed (or processed) for the extraction of sugar or liquid sugar and the ability to produce such sugar beets or sugarcane, and the Secretary shall, insofar as practicable, protect the interests of new producers and small producers and the interests of producers who are cash tenants, share-tenants, adherent planters, or sharecroppers.

(c) That there shall not have been marketed (or processed) an amount (in terms of planted acreage, weight, or recoverable sugar content) of sugar beets or sugarcane grown on the farm and used for the production of sugar or liquid sugar to be marketed in, or so as to compete with or otherwise directly affect interstate or foreign commerce, in excess of the proportionate share for the farm, as determined by the Secretary pursuant to the provisions of section 302, of the total quantity of sugar beets or sugarcane required to be processed to enable the area in which such sugar beets or sugarcane are produced to meet the quota (and provide a normal carry-over inventory) as estimated by the Secretary for such area for the calendar year during which the larger part of the sugar or liquid sugar from such crop normally would be marketed.

Now, therefore, pursuant to the foregoing sections of the said act, I, H. A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, do hereby determine that proportionate shares for sugarcane producers in Puerto Rico for the crop years 1938 and 1939 shall be established on the following bases:

I

1. For a producer for whom a 1937 marketing allotment was established, pursuant to the provisions of Puerto Rico Sugar Order No. 5, issued November 24, 1936, such 1937 marketing allotment shall constitute his 1937 base, and his proportionate share for the 1938 crop shall be calculated, in terms of short tons of sugar, raw value, by multiplying such 1937 base by a fraction whose numerator shall be the sum of the sugar quotas to be established for Puerto Rico for the calendar year 1938, pursuant to sections 201 and 203 of the said act, plus whatever amount may be required to provide a normal carry-over inventory for Puerto Rico pursuant to section 302 (a) of the said act, and whose denominator shall be the total of such 1937 bases, plus the total of the 1937 bases determined for new growers[1] as provided in 2 and 3 below. A producer for whom a 1937 marketing allotment was established as aforesaid, and who is now growing sugarcane on land covered by a 1937 marketing allotment but from which no sugarcane was harvested during the crop year 1931, 1932, or 1934, or any subsequent crop year, may be considered as a new grower for 1938 with respect to such new production, in accordance with the provisions of 2 and 3 below.

[1] A new grower (producer) for the 1938 crop year shall be the person who is the legal owner of the sugarcane crop grown on land for which a 1937 marketing allotment was not established pursuant to the provisions of Puerto Rico Sugar Order No. 5; and for the crop year 1939, a new grower (producer) shall be the person who is the legal owner of the sugarcane crop grown on land for which a proportionate share for 1938 has not been established pursuant to the provisions of this determination.

2. For a producer for whom a 1937 marketing allotment was not established pursuant to the provisions of the said Puerto Rico Sugar Order No. 5, and whose current production, as estimated by the Secretary of Agriculture, is 15 tons of sugar, raw value, or less, the production so estimated shall constitute his 1937 base, and his proportionate share for the 1938 crop shall be calculated, in terms of short tons of sugar, raw value, by adjusting such 1937 base in the manner specified in 1 above.

3. For a producer for whom a 1937 marketing allotment was not established pursuant to the provisions of the said Puerto Rico Sugar Order No. 5, and whose current production, as estimated by the Secretary of Agriculture, is more than 15 tons of sugar, raw value, the 1937 base shall be the greater of either:

(a) 15 tons, plus an amount determined by multiplying the first ton of such estimated production in excess of 15 tons by 98 per centum, and thereafter by multiplying each successive ton by a percentage figure which shall be progressively reduced by 2 per centum for every such ton;

(b) 30 per centum of the current production in terms of short tons of sugar, raw value, estimated as aforesaid; and his proportionate share for the 1938 crop year shall be calculated in terms of short tons of sugar, raw value, by adjusting such 1937 base in the manner specified in 1 above.

II

For the crop year 1939, proportionate shares shall be established in the same manner as set forth above, except that for a producer for whom a proportionate share was established in 1938, such proportionate share shall constitute the base to be adjusted for the crop year 1939 as provided in 1 above, and the figure resulting from such adjustment shall be the proportionate share for the crop year 1939; and except, further, that for a producer for whom a proportionate share was not established in 1938 (i. e., for a new grower for 1939), the figure obtained pursuant to the provisions of 2 or of alternative (a) of 3 above, whichever is applicable, shall constitute the base to be adjusted as provided in 1 above, and the figure resulting from such adjustment shall be the proportionate share for the crop year 1939.

III

1. Where a producer wishes to be considered as a new grower for any of the years referred to above, application must be made at such time and in such manner as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture.

2. In the event that a proportionate share for any year, established in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this determination, is not filled, the unfilled portion thereof shall be prorated, on the basis of the proportionate shares then in effect, among all other producers within the same mill area who are able to supply such unfilled portion, to the extent that each such producer is able to supply his pro rata share.

IV

In addition to the foregoing, the following conditions shall be met:

1. That no change shall have been made in the leasing or cropping agreements for the purpose of, or which shall have the effect of, diverting to any producer any payment to which tenants or share-croppers would be entitled if the 1937 leasing or cropping agreements were in effect.

2. That there shall have been no interference by any producer with contracts heretofore entered into by tenants or share-croppers for the sale of their sugarcane.

V

The Chief, or the Acting Chief, of the Sugar Section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and the Officer in Charge of the San Juan office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, or the Acting Officer in Charge thereof, are hereby designated to act, jointly or severally as agents of the Secretary of Agriculture in administering the provisions of this determination.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 18th day of November, 1937. Witness my hand and the seal of the Department of Agriculture.

AMENDMENT OF ORDER PERMITTING THE SHOOTING OF CERTAIN BLACKBIRDS WHEN FOUND SERIOUSLY INJURIOUS TO AGRICULTURAL OR OTHER INTERESTS

Order of the Acting Secretary of Agriculture of June 26, 1937, "Permitting The Shooting of Certain Blackbirds When Found Seriously Injurious to Agricultural or Other Interests" (2 F. R. 1328), is amended so as to read as follows:

ORDER PERMITTING AND GOVERNING THE SHOOTING OF CERTAIN BLACKBIRDS AND BOAT-TAILED GRACKLES WHEN FOUND SERIOUSLY INJURIOUS TO AGRICULTURAL OR OTHER INTERESTS

Information having been furnished to the Secretary of Agriculture that yellow-headed blackbirds, red-wing blackbirds, bicolored red-wing blackbirds, tricolored red-wing blackbirds, Brewer's blackbirds, and boat-tailed grackles, by reason of heavy seasonal concentrations in their respective ranges in the United States, have become seriously injurious to agricultural crops and ornamental or shade trees, and an investigation having been made to determine the nature and extent of the injury and whether the birds should be killed and if so during what times and by what means, and the Secretary having determined that the aforesaid birds, under the conditions stated, have become seriously injurious as aforesaid and that the most practical means of safeguarding such crops and trees from such injury is to shoot the birds,

By virtue of authority conferred upon the Secretary of Agriculture by the Migratory Bird Treaty Act of July 3, 1918 (40 Stat. 755) as amended by the Act of June 20, 1936 (49 Stat. 1555),

It is ordered, That the owner or custodian of any agricultural crop or of ornamental or shade trees is hereby authorized to shoot the aforesaid birds, under the following conditions, restrictions, and requirements, when found committing or about to commit serious depredations upon such crop or trees owned by or in his custody:

1. No birds killed pursuant to this Order shall be shipped or transported or sold or offered for sale except that they may be transported to such place within the vicinity as may be necessary to bury or otherwise destroy their carcasses: Provided, however, That State agricultural departments, colleges, or other public institutions and the United States Department of Agriculture may requisition such number of the birds so killed as they may need for scientific investigations.

2. Every person availing himself of the privileges of this Order shall at all reasonable times, and particularly during any operations thereunder, permit any Federal or State game or deputy game agent, warden, protector, or other game law enforcement officer free and unrestricted access to the premises on which such operations have been or are being conducted and shall promptly furnish such officer all such information touching his operations as such officer shall require.

3. This Order does not permit the killing of any of the aforesaid birds in violation of any State law or regulation and if a State permit to kill the birds is required such permit must be procured before exercising the privileges conferred by this Order.

4. On or before January 1 of each year during the continuance of this Order every person who kills any of the aforesaid birds under the authority hereby conferred shall submit to the Chief, Bureau of Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., a report of his operations.

This Order is not effective in California, provision having previously been made for handling such depredations by the County Agricultural Commissioners.

Delete present Section I–1–1. (a), (b) and (c), and insert in lieu thereof the following:

*I–1–1. Issuance of Certificate of Inspection. TB/ALL. (a) Every tank vessel subject to these regulations shall be inspected to see that its hull, boilers, machinery, apparatus for storage, and appliances comply with law and these regulations. If such vessel is found to comply with law and these regulations, a certificate of inspection shall be issued to it, or to its owners, by the local inspectors of the Bureau.

TB/ALL. (b) Certificates of inspection for tank vessels shall be similar in form to certificates issued to other cargo vessels, and in addition to the manning requirements and waters over which they may be operated, they shall be endorsed "Inspected and approved for the carriage of inflammable or combustible liquids of Grades A, B, C, D, or E" (as the case may be), and such endorsement shall serve as a permit for such vessel to operate.

TB/ALL. (c) The certificate of inspection shall be verified by the oaths of the inspectors signing it before the chief officer of the customs of the district or any other person competent by law to administer oaths. Such certificate shall be delivered to the master or owner of the tank vessel to which it relates and shall be framed under glass and posted in a conspicuous part of the vessel: Provided, however, That where it is not practicable so to expose said certificate, it shall be carried in the vessel in such manner as prescribed by the inspectors.

Delete Section I–3–2. TB/ALL. (a) and (b), and insert in lieu thereof the following:

*I–3–2. American Bureau of Shipping. TB/ALL. (a) In the inspection of hulls, boilers, and machinery of vessels, the rules promulgated by the American Bureau of Shipping designated "Rules for Building and Classing Steel Vessels, 1936" and "Entered according to Act of Congress, in the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington, by the American Bureau of Shipping, April 1936" respecting material and construction of hulls, boilers, and machinery, except as otherwise provided for by law and these rules and regulations, are hereby adopted and shall be accepted as standard by the inspectors of this Bureau. If in the development of the industry improved materials or methods of construction cause the American Bureau of Shipping to change the requirements of the above-mentioned edition of their rules, their latest rules, if approved by the Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation and entered in the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington, shall be accepted as standard.

*TB/ALL. (b) The approved plans and certificate of the American Bureau of Shipping, or other recognized classification society for classed vessels, may be accepted by the Bureau or its inspectors as evidence of the structural efficiency of the hull and reliability of machinery of vessels subject to these regulations, except as otherwise provided for by law and these rules and regulations.

Immediately following Section I–3–3. TB/ALL. (b), add the following in place of TB/ALL. (c):

*TB/ALL. (c) Certificate of Class May be Accepted. In the event such tank vessel is classed by the American Bureau of Shipping or other recognized classification society, the approved plans and certificates of such society may be accepted by the Bureau or its inspectors as evidence of the structural efficiency of the hull and reliability of machinery, except as otherwise provided for by law and these rules and regulations.

Delete Section I–3–4. TB/ALL. (a), and insert in lieu thereof the following:

*I–3–4. First Inspection of Existing Tank Vessels. TB/ALL. (a) Certificate of class may be accepted as evidence. If the tank vessel has been classed and maintained in class with the American Bureau of Shipping or other recognized classification society, the approved plans and certificates of such society may be accepted by the Bureau or its inspectors as evidence of the structural efficiency of the hull and reliability of machinery of such vessel, except as otherwise provided for by law and these rules and regulations.

Delete Section I–3–6. TB/ALL. (c), and insert in lieu thereof the following:

*TB/ALL. (c) The annual inspection of all tank vessels shall be made on written application to the local inspectors by the owner, master, or authorized agent of the vessel to be inspected. Such application shall state upon its face that previous application for inspection has not been made to any other board of local inspectors or supervising inspectors, and shall also state the grade of cargo the vessel is to be inspected for and certificated to carry, such as A, B, C, D, or E grades as described in these regulations and the route or waters over which the vessel is to operate.

Delete Section I–3–7. TB/ALL. (a), (b), (c) and (d), and insert in lieu thereof the following:

*I–3–7. Drydocking or Hauling Out. TB/ALL. (a) Each steel hull tank vessel shall be placed in drydock or on a slipway or hauled out for examination depending upon its service as follows:

1. Each tank vessel whose operations in salt water service aggregate more than six months in a calendar year shall be drydocked or hauled out at least once each calendar year.

2. Each tank vessel whose operations in salt water service aggregate six months or less in a calendar year shall be drydocked or hauled out at least once in every two calendar years.

3. Each tank vessel used in fresh water service exclusively shall be drydocked or hauled out at least once in every five calendar years.

TB/ALL. (b) Each wood hull tank vessel shall be placed in drydock or on a slipway, or hauled out for examination at least once every four years: Provided, however, That vessels without independent metal tanks shall be placed in drydock or on a slipway or hauled out for examination at least once every two years.

TB/ALL. (c) Each tank vessel, irrespective of service, which has not complied with these drydocking requirements, either because it was on a voyage or was tied up, shall be drydocked or hauled out upon the completion of such voyage or before being placed in service.

TB/ALL. (d) Whenever any tank vessel is placed in drydock or on a slipway or hauled out for repairs it shall be the duty of the master, owner, or agent to report the same, together with the nature of any repairs or alterations contemplated, to the local inspectors of that district, and if the condition or age of the vessel in the judgment of the inspectors renders an examination necessary, a thorough inspection shall be made by them to determine what is necessary to make such vessel seaworthy and come within the provisions of these regulations.

Delete present Section I–3–8. TB/ALL. (a), and insert in lieu thereof the following:

*I–3–8. Special Inspections. TB/ALL. (a) Repairs and alterations involving safety. No extensive alterations involving the safety of a tank vessel either in regard to hull or machinery shall be made without the approval of the Bureau. Before such alterations are carried out, copies of drawings and specifications, in triplicate, for the work involved shall be forwarded to the local inspectors for submission to the Bureau for approval, and if approval is given one set of said plans and specifications, properly approved and dated, shall be returned to the owner or to the repair yard designated by the owner, and one set to the local inspectors who forwarded same to the Bureau. If such plans and specifications are not approved, the Bureau shall promptly notify the owner or designated shipyard wherein they fail to comply with these regulations. No extensive repairs to the hull or machinery which affect the safety of a vessel shall be made without the knowledge of the local inspectors.

Delete Section I–3–8. TB/ALL. (c), and insert in lieu thereof the following:

*TB/ALL. (c) To proceed to other ports for repairs. The local inspectors may issue a permit to proceed to another port for repairs, if in their judgment the vessel can proceed with safety. In the issuance of such a permit, the local inspectors will state upon its face the conditions upon which it is granted and whether the vessel is to be allowed to carry freight or passengers. A vessel whose certificate of inspection has expired shall not be issued a permit to carry passengers while enroute to another port for repairs.

When a permit has been issued by the local inspectors of a district for a tank vessel to proceed to another district to make repairs, such local inspectors shall notify the supervising inspector of their district, stating the repairs to be made on such vessel. Said supervising inspector shall notify the supervising inspector of the district where the repairs are to be made, furnishing him a copy of the report of the inspectors indicating the repairs ordered on the vessel.

Immediately following section 1–3–8 (d), add new Subsection as follows:

Section I–3–8. TB/ALL. (e) Crew Accommodations. Crew's quarters shall be inspected to determine their sanitary condition. The local inspectors, upon completing such inspection, shall notify the master or officer in charge of the vessel of their findings, which shall be entered in the vessel's log book.

The complement may be changed from time to time by endorsement on such certificate by local inspectors by reason of change of conditions or employment.

TB/ALL. (b) Wherever these regulations refer to a certificated tankerman, the holder of a license as master, mate, pilot, or engineer shall be considered as qualified to perform all duties of such tankerman without being certificated as such.

TB/ALL. (c) In all cases where a certificate of inspection does not require at least two licensed officers, the local inspectors shall enter in the permit issue to any manned tank vessel subject to these regulations the number of the crew to be certificated as tankermen. If the total complement of a tank vessel is either one or two persons only one such person need be a certificated tankerman. If the total complement exceeds two, only two such persons need be certificated tankermen.

Delete Section I–4–2. Insert in lieu thereof the following:

*I–4–2. Tank Barges. B/BLR. Tank barges operating on inland waters or on the Great Lakes or rivers need not be manned unless in the judgment of the local inspectors such manning is necessary for the protection of life and property and for the safe operation of the vessel: Provided, however, That towing vessels, while towing barges which are not required to be manned, shall carry in the regular complement of the towing vessel a sufficient number of licensed officers or certificated tankermen to provide at least one such licensed officer or certificated tankerman on each watch.

Delete Section I–4–3. B/LBR. (a), and insert in lieu thereof the following:

*I–4–3. Towing vessels may carry persons in addition to crew. B/LBR. Delete Section I–5. Insert in lieu thereof the following:

*Section I–5. Waters Operated Over.

Delete Section I–5–1. Waterways. TB/ALL. Insert in lieu thereof the following:

*I–5–1. Waters. TB/ALL. The certificate of inspection shall show the waters over which the tank vessel is permitted to operate, such as: all waters; oceans, coastwise; Great Lakes; bays, sounds and lakes, other than the Great Lakes; rivers; or inland waters tributary to the Gulf of Mexico.

Delete Section II–1–2. T/ALL. Insert in lieu thereof the following:

*II–1–2. Means of Escape. T/ALL. On all tankships where the plans and arrangements will possibly permit, all passageways leading to living quarters, or places where anyone may be regularly employed, shall be provided with not less than two avenues of escape so located that if one of such avenues is not available another may be. The locality and arrangement of such additional means of escape shall be determined by the inspectors as will in their judgment best carry out the purpose for which this provision was made.

Immediately following II–1–3. T/ALL. (b), add the following Section:

TB/ALL. (c) Every undocumented tank barge shall have its name or number carved, punch-marked, or welded on the main beam, inside the cargo hatch, or other suitable permanent part of the vessel's structure for the purpose of identification. The vessel's name or number shall also be displayed on both sides of the highest part of the vessel's hull or house structure.

Delete Section II–1–4. T/ALL. Insert in lieu thereof the following:

*II–1–4. Draft Marks. TB/ALL. All tank vessels of 50 gross tons and over shall have the drafts of the vessel plainly and legibly marked upon the stem and upon the sternpost or rudderpost, or at such other places forward and aft as may be necessary for easy observance. The draft shall be taken from the bottom of the lowest part of the keel to the surface of the water, the bottom of the mark to indicate the draft in feet.

Delete Section II–1–5. TB/ALL. (a), (b) and (c), and insert in lieu thereof the following:

••••II–1–5. Hull Fittings. TB/ALL. (a) All main and auxiliary inlet and discharge pipes leading through any part of the vessel's hull or to sea chests shall be fitted with efficient means of preventing the ingress of water in the event of a fracture of such pipes.

TB/ALL. (b) All scuppers, sanitary and other similar discharges leading through the vessel's hull from enclosed spaces, shall be fitted with means for preventing the ingress of water. All scupper and sanitary piping shall be adequately protected where necessary. Drains from sanitary fixtures in living quarters which pass through cargo tanks shall be provided with water seals, valves, or other suitable means for preventing the entrance of gases into such quarters.

TB/ALL. (c) Sea chests, sea valves, and strainers shall be carefully examined by the inspector when the vessel is in drydock, and, if he deems it necessary, he may order them opened up for internal examination. This also applies to bilge injection valves.

TB/ALL. (d) It shall be the duty of the inspectors when inspecting vessels to examine carefully all air ports and deadlights in the hull and to satisfy themselves that they are safe.

Add new Section II–1–6 to read:

••II–1–6. T/ALL. Crew Accommodations. On all tankships of 100 gross tons and over, the construction of which is begun after January 1, 1938, the minimum requirements relative to construction, location, and equipment of crew accommodations are as follows:

(a) Sleeping Quarters. At least 120 cubic feet of space and not less than 16 square feet of deck area shall be allotted to each member of the crew for sleeping purposes. In measuring sleeping quarters allotted to crews of vessels, the local inspectors shall not deduct from the total volume or from the deck area any equipment contained therein which is provided for the exclusive use of the crew. Not more than one bunk shall be placed above another, and the lower bunk shall be at least 12 inches above the deck. The upper bunk shall be located as nearly as practicable midway between the lower bunk and the lower side of the deck beams overhead.

(b) Toilet and Washing Facilities. Each such tankship shall be provided with at least one washbasin, one bathtub or shower, and one toilet for each eight members of the crew or portion thereof, exclusive of licensed officers. There shall also be provided at least one washbasin, one bathtub or shower, and one toilet for the use of the licensed officers. When the engine room crew, exclusive of licensed officers and others separately provided for exceeds eight, separate washing facilities shall be provided.

(c) Hospital Accommodations. Each such tank vessel which in the ordinary course of its trade makes voyages of more than three days' duration between ports, and which carries a crew of 12 or more, shall be equipped with a compartment suitably separated from other spaces for hospital purposes, and such compartment shall have at least 1 bunk for every 12 seamen constituting her crew, provided that not more than 6 bunks shall be required in any case.

(d) Location, Construction and Equipment.

1. Crew accommodations shall not be located forward of the collision bulkhead, or where there will be undue risk to members of the crew in getting to stations.

2. Where crew quarters abut galley, boiler, or engine room bulkheads, such bulkheads shall be insulated with fire-resistive material to reduce transmission of heat.

3. Insofar as practicable, crew quarters shall be so located or constructed that they will be protected against objectionable odors of cargo, fuel tanks, paint lockers, oil rooms, bilges, toilets, etc.

4. Crew quarters shall be adequately lighted, heated and ventilated. The minimum standard for natural lighting is that it will be possible in daylight and in clear weather to read the print of an ordinary newspaper in any part of the space allotted. When it is not possible to provide adequate natural lighting, artificial lighting may be accepted on the same basis, provided, however, that in the artificial lighting of the crew's quarters, the use of portable wiring is prohibited, except when approved by the chief engineer.

Bare metal surfaces of ship's sides and metal weather decks overhead which are not decked over with wood externally, shall be covered with suitable fire-resistive material to aid in keeping the crew's quarters dry.

In the ventilation of crew accommodations provision shall be made for the ingress of fresh air and for the egress of impure air; it shall be adequate for the purpose intended, and so arranged as to be effective in any ordinary weather conditions, and to distribute fresh air without undue discomfort to the occupants. Where natural ventilation is provided, each inlet shall have an area of at least 6 square inches for each person accommodated, the outlet to be at least equal in size to the inlet. In no case shall any one such inlet or outlet have a cross sectional area of less than 24 square inches.

Mechanical ventilation may be provided if such system is equal in effectiveness to the requirements for natural ventilation and is approved by the Bureau.

Mess rooms shall be provided for both officers and crew, and shall be separate from each other where space and conditions will permit. Such mess rooms shall be sufficient in size to accommodate all persons allotted to such space: Provided, however, That this sub-paragraph need not apply to vessels operating on the Great Lakes, lakes, bays and sounds, or rivers.

5. All washbasins, showerbaths, or tubs required by these regulations shall be equipped with proper plumbing, including hot and cold running water. Washbasins for the crew may be located in the crew's sleeping quarters, if properly installed, equipped with proper plumbing for draining and supplied with hot and cold running water.

6. All toilets shall be installed and equipped with the proper plumbing for flushing. Where more than one toilet is located in a space or compartment, each toilet shall be separated with a screen constructed of fire-resistive material to afford privacy. Such screens may be installed so as to be open at top and bottom for ventilation purposes. Toilet seats shall be so constructed as to remain in an upright position when not in use.

7. Floors of toilets and washrooms shall be covered with cement, tile, or other suitable floor covering.

8. On each such tankship there shall be provided at least one sink or other suitable means for washing clothes.

9. Each hospital shall have a toilet, washbasin, and bathtub or shower conveniently situated.

10. A clothes locker shall be provided for each person accommodated of a size not less than 12'' x 21'' x 5' high and so placed as to be readily accessible.

11. Living accommodations shall be properly screened to exclude insects.

••Section II–1–7. Crew Accommodations. TB/ALL. All tankships of less than 100 gross tons and all manned tank barges, the construction of which is begun after January 1, 1938, shall be provided with crew accommodations of sufficient size, adequate construction, and with suitable equipment to provide for the protection and accommodation of its crew in a manner practicable for the size, facilities and service of the vessel, and consistent with the principles underlying the requirements for crew accommodations on tankships of 100 gross tons or more.

••Section II–1–8. Crew Accommodations. T/ALL. On all tankships of 100 gross tons or over the construction of which was begun after March 4, 1915, and prior to January 1, 1938, the crew accommodations shall be of a character and number in compliance with Section II–1–6 (a), (b) and (c), except that separate washing facilities are not required where the engine room crew, exclusive of licensed officers, and others separately provided for, does not exceed ten. In cases where an improvement is necessary in the sanitary conditions of such vessels, Section II–6–1 (d) will also apply in principle insofar as space and conditions will permit.

••II–1–9. Crew Accommodations. TB/ALL. All tankships and all manned tank barges not heretofore provided for shall have crew quarters and washing and toilet facilities in keeping with the age, size, facilities and service of the vessel, and suitable for the accommodation and protection of the crew.

Delete Section II–2–6. TB/ALL. (a) and (b), and insert in lieu thereof the following:

•••II–2–6. Vessels With Independent Tanks. TB/ALL. (a) Independent cargo tanks may be located in hold spaces or in other cargo tanks, but in all cases a working space of at least 15 inches shall be provided around such independent tanks, or else provision shall be made for moving them to secure such space. When independent cargo tanks are located in an enclosed space other than a cargo tank, such enclosed space shall be considered as equivalent to a pump room, and shall be safeguarded as such, as required in these regulations.

TB/ALL. (b) Cargo tanks for Grade A liquids having a Reid vapor pressure in excess of 25 pounds shall be independent of the hull.

Delete Section II–3–5. TB/ALL. Insert in lieu thereof the following:

•II–3–5. Cargo Tanks. TB/ALL. Cargo shall comply with the conditions specified in II–2–6 (a) and II–2–6 (b), and shall pass the tests required in II–2–7 (a), II–2–7 (b), and II–2–7 (c): Provided, however, That less than 15 inches around such tanks may be accepted if in the judgment of the local inspectors making the inspection a satisfactory inspection of the cargo tanks and hull structure can be made.

Delete Section II–4–2. TB/ALL. Insert in lieu thereof the following:

••••II–4–2. Cargo Tanks. TB/ALL. (a) Cargo tanks shall be independent of the wood hull, shall be made of steel or iron, except as provided in Section II–4–2 (b), and shall pass the tests required in Section II–2–7 (a) and II–2–7 (b). Where cargo tanks in wood hulls are not arranged to provide working spaces around them they shall be so constructed as to allow inspection of the hull, tanks, and bilges, and they shall be so installed that they can be moved to allow repairs to the hull structure and to themselves.

B/LBR. (b) Wood hull tank barges not provided with metal tanks, which prior to the effective date of these regulations (November 10, 1936) were in use in the carriage of inflammable or combustible products in bulk, may be certificated for service until November 10, 1941, subject to the following restrictions:

1. The service of such barges shall be limited to the carriage of combustible products of Grades D and E only.

2. The use of such vessels shall be restricted to the waters over which, in the judgment of the local inspectors, they may be operated without undue hazard.

3. Before such vessels receive a regular certificate of inspection, and at least every two years from the date of issue of such regular certificate, they shall be placed on drydock or hauled out for examination, at which time the cargo tanks shall be thoroughly cleaned and the hull searched for leaks and caulked and repaired as necessary. The inspector shall adopt any other means to satisfy himself that the vessel is tight and in good condition.

Delete Section II–4–4. TB/ALL. Insert in lieu thereof the following:

•II–4–4. Hold Spaces and Bulkheads. TB/ALL. In existing wood hull tank vessels containing independent cargo tanks for the transportation of Grades A, B, C, or D liquids, the hold spaces shall be considered as equivalent to a pump room and shall be safeguarded and ventilated as such as required in these regulations. Where the hold spaces contain equipment or operations which are sources of vapor ignition, such equipment or operations shall be isolated from other spaces by gas-tight bulkhead or, if it is impracticable to construct a gas-tight bulkhead, two structurally tight bulkheads without openings, separated by a well ventilated air space 24'' wide, where possible, may be used.

Delete Section II–5–1. TB/ALL. Insert in lieu thereof the following:

••••II–5–1. Design and Construction of Boilers. TB/ALL. The design and construction of all boilers, mountings, steam pipes, etc., built on and after January 1, 1935, shall conform to Rules I and II, General Rules and Regulations of the Bureau. The design and construction of all boilers built prior to January 1, 1935, shall conform to the regulations in effect at the time such boilers were built.

Boilers on tank vessels not previously required to be inspected and which were not built according to the specifications of the Bureau, may be considered the same as foreign built boilers as specified in Section C–1–11 of Rule II, General Rules and Regulations, and treated as such.

Delete Section II–5–5. Insert in lieu thereof the following:

••••II–5–5. Installation of Fuel-oil System. TB/ALL. No system for the use of petroleum or other mineral oil on any tank vessel as fuel shall be installed without the approval of the Bureau. Application for permission to install such fuel-oil systems shall be made to the Bureau on the prescribed blank form together with blue prints, in triplicate. The blue prints shall show the fuel-oil tanks, bracings, pumps, piping, riveting schedule, control valves, control apparatus, vent pipes, suction pipes and their controls, also the piping and appurtenances forming part of the fuel-oil burning system, and the test to be applied to all fuel-oil tanks. The applications and blue prints shall be forwarded through the local inspectors of the district where the installation is to be made. The installation of such fuel-oil systems shall comply with the requirements of Rule II, General Rules and Regulations, Section P–19–3, P–19–6, P–19–15, P–19–16, except paragraph (r) of Section P–19–3. All fuel tanks which are independent of the hull shall be constructed so as to conform to the requirements contained in Section II–5–6 (b), Gasoline Fuel Tanks.

Delete Section II–5–6. TB/ALL. (a), (b) and (c), and insert in lieu thereof the following:

••••II–5–6. Installation of Internal Combustion Engines—New Vessels. TB/ALL. (a) Engines. Gasoline engines, whether for propulsion or for driving auxiliaries, shall have their air intakes so directed that backfire can not blow down into the bilges. They shall be fitted with effective backfire flame arresters. All carburetors shall be fitted with suitable metal drip collectors.

*IV–2–5. Fire pump relief valves, and piping. T/ALL. (a) Fire pumps shall be equipped on the discharge side with a relief valve and a pressure gauge to indicate the pressure on the firemain. Except when the fire pump is being used in connection with tank cleaning operations, the relief valve shall be set to relieve at 125 pounds per square inch pressure.

Paragraphs (b), (c) and (d) remain unchanged.

Delete Paragraph (e).

Change title of Section IV–3. Fire Equipment for Cargo Space, etc., to read:

*Section IV–3. Fire Extinguishing Equipment—Cargo Spaces—Boiler Room and Machinery Spaces, Etc.

Delete Section IV–3–1. Insert in lieu thereof the following:

*IV–3–1. General Requirement. Cargo Spaces. T/ALL. (a) Every tankship shall be provided with suitable pipes and valves attached to the boiler to convey steam into the hold and into the different compartments thereof, and into the fuel tanks, to extinguish fire, or such other suitable apparatus as may be prescribed.

*(b) The valves on steam and carbon dioxide fire extinguishing systems shall be plainly marked to indicate the compartment into which they discharge. Such smothering pipes shall enter the tank at a point above the highest liquid level at which cargo is carried.

Delete Section IV–3–2. Insert in lieu thereof the following:

*IV–3–2. Systems Which May be Substituted for Steam—Cargo Spaces. T/ALL. On tankships, foam, gases, or vapors, or any other effective fire extinguishing system may be substituted for steam, provided such system, if fixed, is completely installed in accordance with approved drawings and specifications. Such systems may be portable, semi-portable, or fixed, and may be of more than one type, provided its total capacity equals the requirements of these regulations. Provided, however, carbon tetrachloride may be used for fighting fire in cargo spaces allowing one quart of carbon tetrachloride for each 225 cubic feet of space, upon approval of the Bureau only. In no case will carbon tetrachloride be allowed for fighting fire in cargo spaces on tankships where the volume of the largest cargo compartment exceeds 6,300 cubic feet.

Delete Section IV–3–3. T/ALL. (a), and insert in lieu thereof the following:

*IV–3–3. Minimum capacity of fire-extinguishing systems for cargo spaces. T/ALL. (a) For steam, inert gases, and vapors. The minimum capacity of fire systems for cargo spaces shall be based upon the volume of the largest cargo compartment, in cubic feet, which shall be determined by measurements taken between fire-retarding boundaries such as decks, shells, tank bottoms, and bulkheads.

Change present Section IV–3–9. T/ALL to Section IV–3–13 and insert in its place the following:

IV–3–9. Fixed fire-extinguishing systems for boiler room and machinery spaces. T/ALL. Fixed fire-extinguishing systems, when installed in boiler rooms or machinery spaces of tank ships, shall be fitted with equipment of the type and character specified as follows:

(a) Carbon Dioxide System Requirements. 1. When a carbon dioxide smothering system is installed in the boiler room of steam propelled tankships, the quantity of carbon dioxide carried shall not be less than that determined by the following formula:

$$W=\frac{L\times B\times D}{36}$$

Where

$W$ = weight of $CO_2$ required, in pounds.
$L$ = length of the boiler room, in feet.
$B$ = breadth of the boiler room, in feet.
$D$ = distance in feet from tank top to highest point of shell of fire tube boilers, or top of drum or casing, whichever is highest on water tube boilers.

When a carbon dioxide smothering system is installed in the machinery space of vessels which are propelled by internal combustion engines, the quantity of carbon dioxide carried shall not be less than that determined by the following formula:

$$W=\frac{L\times B\times D}{22}$$

$W$ = weight of $CO_2$ required, in pounds.
$L$ = length of the machinery space, in feet.
$B$ = breadth of the machinery space, in feet.
$D$ = distance in feet from tank top to top of engine.

Provided, however: That all tankships propelled by internal combustion engines using gasoline as fuel shall be fitted with a fixed $CO_2$ smothering system in the engine room space.

2. The whole charge of gas shall be capable of being released simultaneously by operating one valve and control; such valve or control shall be adequately protected to avoid the accidental discharge of gas. All cylinders shall be completely discharged in not more than two minutes. The arrangement of the piping shall be such as to give a general and fairly uniform distribution over the entire area protected. A suitable alarm shall be provided to operate automatically when the control valve is operated, and shall be located in the area protected. Provision shall be made to prevent the admission of air into the lower parts of the area protected when the system is in operation.

3. Where $CO_2$ equipment is provided for cargo spaces and also for boiler and machinery spaces, it shall be so interconnected that the entire equipment may be used for fighting fire in any one of such spaces.

(b) Foam Smothering System Requirements. 1. When a foam type system is fitted, its capacity shall be such as to discharge rapidly over the entire area of the bilge (tank top) of the largest boiler room a volume of foam six inches deep. The arrangement of piping shall be such as to give a uniform distribution over the entire area protected.

2. The foregoing system may be of a type employing either two-solution tanks or one or more generators using an approved dry chemical mixture. All containers and valves by which they are operated shall be easily accessible and so placed that they will not readily be cut off from use by an outbreak of fires.

3. When a semi-portable foam generator using a dry chemical mixture in conjunction with the fire line is provided, stop valves, which may be closed in case of a rupture of the fire line, shall be installed in such line, and a connection for at least two fire hoses shall be provided aft of the after stop valve, provided, however, foam generators will not be allowed on any tank vessels unless at least one fire pump of suitable capacity is located or can be controlled outside of the space to be protected.

(c) Where the boiler room is not entirely separated from the machinery space by a fire-resistive bulkhead, both compartments shall be considered to be one space for the purpose of determining the amount of foam or inert gas necessary.

Change Section IV–3–10. T/ALL to Section IV–3–12, and insert in its place the following:

IV–3–10. Fire extinguishing equipment other than fixed—For Boiler Room and Machinery Spaces. T/ALL.

The minimum requirements for fire fighting equipment on all tankships which are not fitted with fixed fire extinguishing systems in boiler room and machinery spaces shall be of the type and character specified as follows:

(a) 1. Steam vessels of more than 750 gross tons. One foam type fire extinguisher of not less than 40 gallon capacity, or not less than 100 pounds of carbon dioxide, for each boiler room.

2. Steam vessels of 750 gross tons and under. One foam type fire extinguisher of not less than 20 gallon capacity, or not less than 50 pounds of carbon dioxide for each boiler room.

(b) 1. Internal combustion engine driven ships of 50 gross tons and upward. One foam type fire extinguisher of not less than 12 gallon capacity, or not less than 30 pounds of carbon dioxide for each 1,000 B. H. P. or fraction thereof.

2. When donkey boilers using oil as fuel are located in the machinery space on vessels propelled by internal combustion engines, there shall be substituted for one of the 12 gallon foam type, or 30 pound carbon dioxide fire extinguishers, one foam type fire extinguisher of not less than 40-gallon capacity, or at least 100 pounds of carbon dioxide.

(c) 1. All of the above extinguishers shall be fitted with suitable hose attachments or other approved methods of distributing the foam or carbon dioxide in any part of the spaces to be protected.

Immediately following Section IV–3–10 insert new Section IV–3–11 as follows:

IV–3–11. Spray Nozzles. T/ALL. Fire hose lines in boiler and machinery spaces of vesesls of 3,000 gross tons or over, except vessels driven by electric motors, shall be provided with at least two suitable nozzles of an approved type which are capable of effectively extinguishing oil fires. This equipment shall be kept in efficient condition and ready for use at all times.

IV–5–6. Hand Fire Extinguishers—Numbers Required on Tank Ships. T/ALL.

Add new paragraph (e) to this section to read as follows:

*(e) Tank ships of 15 gross tons and under shall be equipped with at least two 2½ gallon foam type, or the equivalent, fire extinguishers as provided in IV–5–6 (c).

1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form 1

SUPPLEMENT TO COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION'S "INSTRUCTIONS"

1937 COTTON CIRCULAR LETTER NO. 3

OCTOBER 19, 1937.

Further supplementing the printed instructions contained in 1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form 1, with reference to loans on 1937 cotton, the following information is given for the assistance of banks and other lending agencies:

(1) If a landlord and tenant store cotton in a warehouse in their joint names, they may obtain a loan thereon by executing the note (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form A) jointly. All of the other documents should be executed jointly also.

(2) Where a note is executed by a landlord and tenant jointly, as indicated above, it is not necessary for the landlord to sign the lien waiver in the loan agreement, and in the space in the loan agreement indicating whether the cotton was raised as a landowner, landlord or tenant, it should be indicated that it was raised as landlord and tenant.

(3) Notes executed by a tenant who has an administrator, executor or trustee as a landlord should be submitted for direct loans under Section 5 of 1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form 1, in order that Counsel may ascertain prior to their acceptance, that the documents are satisfactory.

(4) Warehouse receipts dated not later than the date of the note of the producer, which otherwise meet the requirements of section 11 of 1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form 1, are acceptable.

(5) The lending agency may rely upon the representation of the producer as to his status as landowner, landlord or tenant, as well as the other representations made by the producer under the terms of the loan agreement and those made by the warehouseman in the warehouseman's certificate and waiver, provided the lending agency acts in good faith and has no reason to believe that such statements and representations are untrue.

(6) Attention is again called to the fact that this Corporation's obligation to purchase eligible paper is applicable only to those banks and other lending agencies which have executed and delivered to each Loan Agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation through which paper is tendered for purchase, contract on 1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form D. This contract may be procured only from the Loan Agencies listed in Section 15 of 1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form 1, and must be completed by the counter-signature of the Managers or Acting Managers of such Loan Agencies as Agents of Commodity Credit Corporation. Banks or others acting or expecting to act as lending agencies should procure and execute contract to purchase immediately.

(7) Attention also is called to the requirement that the advice of loan slip attached to the loan agreement (1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form A) be completed, detached and mailed promptly to Commodity Credit Corporation, Washington, D. C. Failure to do so is a violation by the lending agency of the contract to purchase.

(8) Banks and other lending agencies holding producers' notes, on 1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form A, desiring, for their protection while they hold such notes, insurance coverage in addition to that provided by the warehouse man, must obtain such additional coverage at their own expense. This is explained fully in Section 13 of 1937–38 C. C. C. Cotton Form 1.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

NEGOTIATION OF TRADE AGREEMENT WITH THE UNITED KINGDOM CONTEMPLATED

NOVEMBER 18, 1937.

Pursuant to section 4 of an act of Congress approved June 12, 1934, entitled "An Act to Amend the Tariff Act of 1930", as extended by Public Resolution 10, approved March 1, 1937, and Executive Order No. 6750 of June 27, 1934, the Secretary of State announced today that this Government contemplates the negotiation of a trade agreement with the United Kingdom, and invited interested persons to submit suggestions as to the products that should be considered.

This preliminary announcement, which is made with a view to obtaining suggestions from interested persons in the early stages of the discussions, should not be confused with the formal notice of intention to negotiate regularly given. The formal notice will be issued at a later date, after receipt of the proposals of the Government of the United Kingdom, at which time there will also be made public a list of products on which the United States will consider granting concessions to the United Kingdom.

The object of this preliminary announcement is to provide notification at the earliest possible date that negotiations are contemplated, in order that interested parties may have an opportunity to suggest the import or export products which, in their opinion, should be included in the negotiations. Such suggestions, particularly those in regard to export products, are most useful to the trade-agreements organization if available at an early stage. Full information should be submitted as soon as possible. Exact technical descriptions of the products in question should be given, including, so far as possible, their nomenclature in the tariff laws of the importing country. These suggestions may be submitted in any form, and need not be under oath. They should be addressed to the Chairman of the Committee for Reciprocity Information, 7th and F Streets, NW, Washington, D. C., and should reach the Committee not later than December 16, 1937.

Suggestions received by the Committee for Reciprocity Information will be distributed promptly to all agencies of the trade-agreements organization for use in the preparation of lists of commodities that may be involved in the negotiations. The list of commodities upon which the United States will consider the granting of concessions to the United Kingdom will be published along with the formal notice of intention to negotiate. The formal notice, as heretofore, will indicate dates for the submission of briefs and applications for oral hearings, and the dates on which the customary open hearings will be held. The listing of products will indicate to American producers and importers whether or not particular tariff rates in which they are interested are under consideration. They will thus be saved the work of preparing briefs on products of interest to them but which are not expected to be involved in the negotiations.

A detailed compilation showing the principal products involved in the 1929 and 1936 trade between the United Kingdom and the United States, prepared in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce, may be obtained from that Bureau or from any of the District Offices of the Department of Commerce, as well as from the Committee for Reciprocity Information or the Department of State.

The applicant hereby releases the United States from any and all claims for loss or damages on account of (1) the exclusion of said lands or any part thereof, from the irrigable lands of said project, or (2) the failure to supply water for the irrigation of any part of the lands hereinbefore described when such exclusion or failure is due to (a) the destruction by flood, erosion, encroachment, or other action of the Colorado River, of the levees erected by the Bureau of Reclamation along the banks of said river, or (b) a change in the location of said levees when such change is considered necessary by the proper officials of the United States to prevent the destruction of said levees from the said causes. Land so excluded shall be relieved from payment of all construction and of operation and maintenance charges which otherwise would thereafter become due from the lands so excluded.

[Docket No. A-60 O-60]

NOTICE OF HEARING WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER REGULATING HANDLING OF PACKAGE HONEY BEES AND QUEEN BEES

Whereas under Public Act No. 10, 73rd Congress, as amended and as reenacted by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, notice of hearing is required in connection with a proposed marketing agreement or a proposed order, and the General Regulations, Series A, No. 1, as amended, of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, provide for such notice; and

Whereas the Secretary of Agriculture has reason to believe that the execution of a marketing agreement and the issuance of an order will tend to effectuate the declared policy of said act with respect to the handling in interstate and foreign commerce, and such handling as directly burdens, obstructs, or affects interstate or foreign commerce, of package honey bees and queen bees;

Now, therefore, pursuant to the said act and said general regulations, notice is hereby given of a hearing to be held on a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order regulating such handling of honey bees and queen bees in the Hotel Monteleone, New Orleans, Louisiana, on December 6, 1937 at 9:30 a. m., central standard time.

This public hearing is for the purpose of receiving evidence as to the general economic conditions which may necessitate regulation in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act and as to the specific provisions which a marketing agreement and order should contain.

The proposed marketing agreement and the proposed order each embodies, in similar terms, a plan for the regulation of such handling in interstate and foreign commerce, and such handling as directly burdens, obstructs, or affects interstate or foreign commerce, of package honey bees and queen bees produced in the United States. Among other things, the proposed marketing agreement and order provide for: (a) the establishment of a Control Board, (b) filing of sale prices and prohibiting the sale of package honey bees and queen bees at other than the price filed, (c) prohibiting certain unfair methods of competition and unfair trade practices, (d) expenses of administration, and other matters relating to the handling of package honey bees and queen bees produced in the United States.

Copies of the proposed marketing agreement and proposed order may be inspected in or procured from the office of the Hearing Clerk, Room 0318, South Building, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION.

Commissioners: Clyde L. Seavey, Vice Chairman; Claude L. Draper, Basil Manly, John W. Scott.

[Project No. 708]

ORDER SETTING HEARING ON ANNUAL CHARGES, ETC.

The Commission having under consideration an application filed May 23, 1934, by Sierra and San Francisco Power Company, then licensee under the license for project No. 708, for amendment of said license to relieve it of the requirement imposed by Article 7 of the license to clear brush and trees in the Melones reservoir area between elevations 735 feet and 630 feet, United States Geological Survey datum, until and unless further clearing should become necessary or advisable due to additional road construction or to the development of some reservoir margin for recreational purposes; said license and application having been transferred to Pacific Gas and Electric Company; and

It appearing that the requirement for clearing the reservoir area may have some bearing upon the power capacity of 500 horsepower set forth in the license as issued and said power capacity may have been erroneously fixed in said license; and

The order of the Commission of November 13, 1934, authorizing the amendment sought may have been predicated upon a misunderstanding of the situation presented by said application, for which reason more complete information is necessary in order to finally pass upon the application and the questions raised thereby;

It is ordered:

That a hearing be held upon the matter of the fixing of the power capacity of said project No. 708, the annual charges due under the license therefor, and upon a recomputation of such annual charges, said hearing to begin at 10 a. m. on December 7, 1937, in the hearing room of the Commission, Hurley-Wright Building, 1800 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, D. C.

Adopted by the Commission on November 16, 1937.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

NEGOTIATION OF TRADE AGREEMENT WITH CANADA CONTEMPLATED

NOVEMBER 19, 1937.

Pursuant to section 4 of an act of Congress approved June 12, 1934, entitled "An Act to Amend the Tariff Act of 1930", as extended by Public Resolution 10, approved March 1, 1937, and Executive Order No. 6750 of June 27, 1934, the Secretary of State announced today that this Government contemplates the negotiation of a trade agreement with Canada, and invited interested persons to submit suggestions as to the products that should be considered.

This preliminary announcement, which is made with a view to obtaining suggestions from interested persons in the early stages of the discussions, should not be confused with the formal notice of intention to negotiate regularly given. The formal notice will be issued at a later date, after receipt of the proposals of the Government of Canada, at which time there will also be made public a list of products on which the United States will consider granting concessions to Canada.

The object of this preliminary announcement is to provide notification at the earliest possible date that negotiations are contemplated, in order that interested parties may have an opportunity to suggest the import or export products which, in their opinion, should be included in the negotiations. Such suggestions, particularly those in regard to export products, are most useful to the trade-agreements organization if available at an early stage. Full information should be submitted as soon as possible. Exact technical descriptions of the products in question should be given, including, so far as possible, their nomenclature in the tariff laws of the importing country. These suggestions may be submitted in any form, and need not be under oath. They should be addressed to the Chairman of the Committee for Reciprocity Information, 7th and F Streets, NW., Washington, D. C., and should reach the Committee not later than December 17, 1937.

Suggestions received by the Committee for Reciprocity Information will be distributed promptly to all agencies of the trade-agreements organization for use in the preparation of lists of commodities that may be involved in the negotiations. The list of commodities upon which the United States will consider the granting of concessions to Canada will be published along with the formal notice of intention to negotiate. The formal notice, as heretofore, will indicate dates for the submission of briefs and applications for the customary public hearings, and the dates on which the public hearings will be held. The listing of products will indicate to American producers and importers whether or not particular tariff rates in which they are interested are under consideration. They will thus be saved the work of preparing briefs on products of interest to them but which are not expected to be involved in the negotiations.

A detailed compilation showing the principal products involved in the 1929 and 1936 trade between Canada and the United States, prepared in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce, may be obtained from that Bureau or from any of the District Offices of the Department of Commerce, as well as from the Committee for Reciprocity Information or the Department of State.

3. That District Boards Number Nine, Ten, Eleven and Twelve shall, on or before the 22nd day of November, 1937, at twelve o'clock noon, transmit to and place in the hands of the Commission, all statistical data secured by the District Boards from code members within their respective districts, together with all compilations made therefrom relative to the distribution and use of coals produced within their respective districts, and all data upon which the minimum prices proposed by the several District Boards were computed, as well as all data utilized by said Boards in proceeding with the work of coordination, all of which data and reports shall be available to the Commission for its use in proposing coordinated minimum prices.

4. That the Commission may from time to time require the appearance, formally or informally, of any District Board member, officer, or employee thereof, for the purpose of further informing the Commisison as to facts concerning the production and distribution of coals in the several Districts.

The Secretary shall give notice of this order by mailing a copy thereof to the Secretary of each of the District Boards above named and by mailing a copy to each member of said Boards.

By order of the Commission.

Dated this 19th day of November, 1937.

NOTICE OF HEARING WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT ORDER REGULATING HANDLING OF MILK IN ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI, MARKETING AREA

Whereas, under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, which reenacts and further amends Public No. 10, 73rd Congress, as amended, notice of hearing is required in connection with a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order, and the General Regulations, Series A, No. 1, as amended, of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, provide for such notice; and

Whereas, the Secretary of Agriculture has reason to believe that the execution of a marketing agreement and the issuance of an order will tend to effectuate the declared policy of said act with respect to the handling of milk in the St. Louis, Missouri Marketing Area;

Now, therefore, pursuant to the said act and said general regulations notice is hereby given of a hearing to be held on a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order regulating the handling of milk in the St. Louis, Missouri,

Marketing Area, in the Roof Solarium, Chase Hotel, Lindell and Kingshighway, St. Louis, Missouri, on December 8, 1937 at 9:30 a. m.

This public hearing is for the purpose of receiving evidence as to the general economic conditions which may necessitate regulation in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act and as to the specific provisions which a marketing agreement and order should contain.

The proposed marketing agreement and the proposed order each embodies, in similar terms, a plan for the regulation of such handling of milk in the St. Louis, Missouri, Marketing Area as is in the current of interstate commerce, or which directly burdens, obstructs, or affects interstate commerce in such milk. Such record shall show the name and address of the person making the statement and the substance of such statement. When the date of hearing has been set, if the matter is designated for hearing, the Secretary shall notify all persons shown by the records to have communicated with the Commission regarding the merits of such matter in order that such persons will have an opportunity to appear and give evidence at such hearing, provided, that in the case of communications bearing more than one signature notice shall be given to the person first signing unless the communication clearly indicates that such notice should be sent to some one other than such person.

No such person shall be precluded from giving any relevant, material and competent testimony at such hearing because he lacks a sufficient interest to justify his intervention as a party in the matter.

INCOME TAX

Regulations 94 Amended by Renumbering Chapters XXXIV and XXXV as Chapters XXXV and XXXVI, and by Amending Articles 351-1 and 351-4: Article 351-4 of Regulations 86 Also Amended

To Collectors of Internal Revenue and Others Concerned:

1. Regulations 94, approved November 12, 1936, are amended as follows:

(a) Chapters XXXIV and XXXV are renumbered as Chapters XXXV and XXXVI.

(b) The following is substituted for the heading of Chapter XXXIV renumbered as Chapter XXXV.

"SURTAX ON PERSONAL HOLDING COMPANIES

"(Under Title IA of the Revenue Act of 1936 as it existed prior to the amendment made by section 1 of the Revenue Act of 1937)"

(c) Immediately after the quotation of section 351 the following is inserted:

"Section 3 of the Revenue Act of 1937 enacted August 26, 1937 provides in part:

"'• • • Title IA of the Revenue Act of 1936, as it existed prior to such amendment, [section 1 of the Revenue Act of 1937] shall not apply to a foreign personal holding company (as defined in section 331 of the Revenue Act of 1936, added to such Act by section 201 of this Act) with respect to any taxable year ending after the date of the enactment of this Act.'"

[NOTE.—The provisions of this chapter apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1935, but do not apply to any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1936, or, in the case of a foreign personal holding company as defined in section 331 of the Revenue Act of 1936 (added to such Act by section 201 of the Revenue Act of 1937) to any taxable year ending after August 26, 1937.]

(d) The following sentence is added at the end of the second paragraph of article 351-1:

"A foreign corporation which is a foreign personal holding company (as defined in section 331 of the Revenue Act of 1936, added to such Act by section 201 of the Revenue Act of 1937) is not subject to the tax imposed by section 351 with respect to any taxable year ending after August 26, 1937 (see section 3 of the Revenue Act of 1937)."

2. Articles 351-4 of Regulations 86 and 94 are amended to provide:

"ART. 351-4. Amounts used or set aside to retire indebtedness incurred prior to January 1, 1934.

"(a) Indebtedness.—The term 'indebtedness' means an obligation, absolute and not contingent, to pay, on demand or within a given time, in cash or other medium, a fixed amount. The term 'indebtedness' does not include the obligation of a corporation on its capital stock.

"The indebtedness must have been incurred (or, if incurred by assumption, assumed) by the taxpayer prior to January 1, 1934. An indebtedness evidenced by bonds, notes or other obligations issued by a corporation is ordinarily incurred as of the date such obligations are issued and the amount of such indebtedness is the amount represented by the face value of the obligations. In the case of renewal or other changes in the form of an indebtedness, so long as the relationship of debtor and creditor continues between the taxpayer and his creditor, the giving of a new promise to pay by the taxpayer will not have the effect of changing the date the indebtedness was incurred.

"(b) Amounts used or set aside.—The deduction is allowable, in any taxable year, only for amounts used or set aside in that year. The use or setting aside must be to effect the extinguishment or discharge of indebtedness. Since, therefore, in the case of renewal and other changes in the form of an indebtedness, the relationship of debtor and creditor continues between the taxpayer and his creditor, the mere giving of a new promise to pay by the taxpayer will not result in an allowable deduction. If amounts are set aside in one year, no deduction is allowable for such amounts for a later year in which actually paid. As long as all other conditions are satisfied, the aggregate amount allowable as a deduction for any taxable year includes all amounts (from whatever source) used and, as well, all amounts (from whatever source) set aside, irrespective of whether in cash or other medium. Double deductions are not permitted.

"A resolution, specifying the particular indebtedness to be retired, the plan of retirement, and the specific assets to be used for that purpose, passed by the board of directors or corresponding authority during the taxable period or prior thereto, will be considered sufficient to meet the statutory requirement that the amounts must be 'set aside.' A certified copy of such resolution must accompany the return on Form 1120H.

"(c) Reasonableness of the amounts with reference to the size and terms of the indebtedness.—The reasonableness of the amounts used or set aside must be determined by reference to the size and terms of the particular indebtedness. Hence, all the facts and circumstances with respect to the nature, scope, conditions, amount, maturity, and other terms of the particular indebtedness must be shown in each case.

"Ordinarily an amount used to pay or retire an indebtedness, in whole or in part, at or prior to the maturity and in accordance with the terms thereof will be considered reasonable, and may be allowable as a deduction for the year in which so used, if no adjustment is required by reason of an amount set aside in a prior year for payment or retirement of the same indebtedness.

"All amounts set aside for the payment or retirement of an indebtedness in accordance with and pursuant to the terms of the obligation, for example, the annual contribution required by a mandatory sinking fund, will be considered as complying with the statutory requirement of reasonableness. Amounts set aside by a corporation voluntarily and without specific requirement by the terms of the indebtedness to which they apply will be considered reasonable if set aside pursuant to and in accordance with a definite and reasonable plan for payment or retirement of the particular obligation at maturity. Thus, an amount of $250,000 set aside in one year for the payment or retirement of an indebtedness of $300,000 which still has several years to run would not, except under extraordinary circumstances, be considered reasonable. To be considered reasonable it is not necessary that the plan of retirement provide for a retroactive setting aside of amounts for years prior to that in which the plan is adopted. However, if a voluntary plan was adopted prior to 1934, no adjustment is allowable in respect of the amounts set aside in the years prior to 1934. A plan once adopted must be adhered to in all subsequent years unless circumstances other than mere tax liability later arise which justify a modification of the plan.

"(d) General.—The burden of proof will rest upon the taxpayer to sustain the deduction claimed. Therefore, the taxpayer must furnish the information required by the return, and such other information as the Commissioner may require in substantiation of the deduction claimed."

This Treasury Decision is issued under the authority contained in sections 62 of the Revenue Acts of 1934 and 1936.

To the Secretary of War.

On March 9, 1928, the Acting Secretary of War approved rules and regulations to govern the operation of the drawbridges crossing the Saint Joe River, Idaho. Investigation now discloses that this river is a navigable water of the State of Idaho, but it is not a navigable water of the United States since it has no navigable connection with navigable waters outside the State of Idaho. Accordingly, I recommend that the regulations approved March 9, 1928, be revoked.

The destruction, injury, defacement, removal, or disturbance in any manner of any building, notice, sign, signboard, equipment, fence, post, road, trail, dike, dike embankment, dam, bridge, fireplace, grate, table, bench, camp equipment, or any other public property of any kind; or of any tree, flower, vegetation, rock, or soil; or of any animal, bird, or other form of wildlife is prohibited, except as otherwise provided.

Domestic livestock and dogs trespassing on a refuge may be impounded by the officer in charge. If the owner is known, prompt written notice of the impounding will be served upon him and in the event of his failure to remove the impounded animal within 5 days from delivery of such notice it will be sold or otherwise disposed of as hereinafter prescribed. If the owner is unknown, no sale or other disposition of the animal shall be made until at least 15 days have elapsed from the date that a notice of the impounding is first published in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the trespass occurs and posted at the county courthouse. Regional directors and officers in charge of refuges are hereby authorized to order the publication of such notices in newspapers by direct transmittal to the publisher of the standard form of advertising order approved by the Comptroller General. Prior to such sale the owner may redeem the animal by submitting proof of ownership and paying all expenses incurred by the United States for gathering, advertising, pasturing, feeding, and impounding. Upon the sale of any animal in accordance with this regulation, the Chief of Bureau or his authorized representative shall issue a certificate of sale. If an animal impounded under this regulation is offered at public sale and no bid is received, it may, in the discretion of the Chief of Bureau, or the regional director, be sold at private sale or be condemned and destroyed.

In all livestock trespasses on wildlife refuges the value of the forage consumed will be computed at the daily, monthly, or yearly commercial rates prevailing in the locality for the class of livestock found in trespass.

In addition to the damages to wildlife refuge property injured or destroyed, and in order to compensate the United States fully for any loss resulting from trespass by livestock, a charge may be made and added to the value of the forage consumed, which shall include the pro rata salary of refuge officers for the time spent and the expenses incurred in and about the investigations, reports, and prosecution of the case.

REGULATION 17—SALE OF SURPLUS ANIMALS AND PRODUCTS

Within the limitations of the act of June 15, 1935, 49 Stat. 383, the following conditions and requirements are prescribed governing the sale or other disposition of wildlife, including long-horned cattle, wild burros, and wild horses, and hay, timber, grass, or other spontaneous products of the soil that may become surplus to refuge needs or requirements:

Big-game animals and long-horned cattle.—The Chief of Bureau shall from time to time determine the number of surplus big-game animals, including long-horned cattle, in the respective herds on fenced big-game refuges under his administration and, upon submitting lists of such animals to the Secretary, shall announce them for sale for propagation, restocking, exhibition, or food, in accordance with such schedule of prices as may be prescribed from time to time by order of the Secretary and under such conditions as the Chief of Bureau may impose for the safeguarding of the Government's interests. In the sale of such animals preference shall be given to applications for purchase alive for propagation, restocking, or exhibition: Provided, That in the discretion of the Chief of Bureau surplus animals may be exchanged for like or other species or they may be donated or loaned to State, county, city, or municipal zoos, parks, or game preserves, or to private institutions for propagation, restocking, or exhibition, the recipients to pay expenses incident to the capture, crating, removal, and transportation of such animals as the Chief of Bureau shall direct.

Surplus animals not disposed of as hereinbefore provided may be transferred to an Indian Agency or other Federal service on application therefor by such agency or service, for restocking, propagation, or food, said agency or service to pay all expenses incident to the capturing or butchering of the animals and their removal and transportation from the refuge.

Substandard animals, carcasses of animals accidentally killed or injured, and hides, heads, horns, or other parts of such animals may be disposed of at public or private sale in the discretion of the Chief of Bureau, at the best price obtainable.

Fur-bearing animals.—Under the direction of the Chief of Bureau, fur-bearing animals surplus to refuge needs and requirements or the disposal of which is essential to the maintenance of a balanced wildlife population and management program may be taken and exchanged, sold or donated, to any State or county for restocking or propagation, or they may be trapped and the pelts thereof sold in the open market at the prevailing market price; but the Chief of Bureau may, if consistent with refuge administration, extend public trapping privileges on such refuge, giving preference to local residents of the county or counties in which the refuge is situated, subject to State trapping laws and regulations and to such regulations, conditions, and rates of charge, if any, as the Secretary by order may prescribe, and, unless otherwise provided in the order, under permit issued by the officer in charge.

Wild burros and wild horses.—Wild burros and wild horses existing on wildlife refuges surplus to refuge needs and requirements, or the disposal of which is essential to the maintenance of a balanced wildlife population, may be disposed of by private or public sale at the best price obtainable, or they may be otherwise disposed of in the discretion of the Chief of Bureau.

Wild game birds.—Wild game birds, including migratory and upland species, propagated, introduced, or mantained on refuges surplus to refuge needs or requirements, or the disposal of which is essential to the maintenance of a balanced population, may be disposed of in such manner and under such conditions as the Chief of Bureau may determine to be appropriate.

Hay, grass, timber, and other products.—Hay, grass, timber, or other spontaneous products of the soil produced on any refuge surplus to refuge needs and requirements may be sold by the Chief of Bureau, preference being given to local residents of the county or counties in which the refuge is situated, at prevailing market prices for such products in the locality where produced.

Whenever in the opinion of the Chief of Bureau or the regional director it shall be advantageous to the United States, he may, in his discretion, enter into cooperative agreements with officials, organizations, associations, and individuals for the cultivation of lands of the United States within refuges, whereby specified areas of grain, hay, or other feed and cover for wildlife will be allowed to remain on the refuge in lieu of further consideration for such agreements or permits.

REGULATION 18—APPLICATION FOR PERMITS

Applications for permits shall be made in writing and shall be addressed to the regional director of the Bureau of Biological Survey of the region in which the refuge is situated or to the officer in charge of the refuge, when the permits are authorized to be issued by such officers; otherwise, to the Chief, Bureau of Biological Survey, Washington, D. C.

REGULATION 19—EXHIBITION AND REVOCATION OF PERMITS

The holder of a permit authorizing him to be upon a refuge shall exhibit it at any reasonable time upon request of any officer or employee of the Department of Agriculture engaged in the administration or enforcement of laws or regulations applicable to the refuge and shall furnish such further information as to his identification as may be required by such officer or employee. A permit may be terminated at any time by agreement between the officer in charge and the permittee; it may be revoked by the Chief of Bureau or by the regional director who issued it for noncompliance with the terms thereof or of these regulations, for nonuse, or for violation of any law, regulation, or order applicable to the refuge, or for violation of any State or Federal law protecting wildlife or the nests or eggs of birds; and it is subject at all times to discretionary revocation by the Secretary.

These regulations supersede the regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture of May 7, 1930, for the administration of Federal wildlife refuges, and the regulations of the Secretary of October 5, 1935, relating to the impounding of animals, and of October 14, 1936, relating to the disposal of surplus big-game animals.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the official seal of the United States Department of Agriculture to be affixed in the city of Washington, this 23d day of November, 1937.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

REGULATIONS TO GOVERN THE USE, ADMINISTRATION, AND NAVIGATION OF THE CAPE COD CANAL, MASSACHUSETTS

THE LAW

Extract from the River and Harbor Act of August 8, 1917:

SEC. 7. That section four of the river and harbor Act of August 18, 1894, as amended by section 11 of the river and harbor Act of June 13, 1902, be, and is hereby, amended so as to read as follows:

SEC. 4. That it shall be the duty of the Secretary of War to prescribe such regulations for the use, administration, and navigation of the navigable waters of the United States as in his judgment the public necessity may require for the protection of life and property, or of operations of the United States in channel improvement, covering all matters not specifically delegated by law to some other executive department. Such regulations shall be posted, in conspicuous and appropriate places, for the information of the public; and every person and every corporation which shall violate such regulations shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, on conviction thereof in any district court of the United States within whose territorial jurisdiction such offense may have been committed, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500, or by imprisonment (in the case of a natural person) not exceeding six months, in the discretion of the court."

In pursuance of the foregoing law, the following regulations are prescribed to govern the use, administration, and navigation of the Cape Cod Canal, Massachusetts.

The Regulations

1. Limits.—The Cape Cod Canal, including approaches, is defined as the waterway from a point in Buzzards Bay, Massachusetts, about one mile west of Wings Neck Light, thence through dredged channels and land cuts to the outer extremity of the northerly stone breakwater in Cape Cod Bay at Sandwich.

2. Authority of canal officers.—The movement of all boats, or craft of every description in the canal, shall be subject to the supervision of the District Engineer of the Engineer Department at Large, in general charge of Federal Waterway improvements in the locality, whose address is 3d Floor, Park Square Building, 31 St. James Avenue, Boston, Mass.

3. Dimensions.—Various dimensions relating to the canal are as follows:

Length: 8 miles across isthmus.
Length of approach channel, Buzzards Bay: 5 miles.
Length of breakwater, Cape Cod Bay: 3,000 feet.

Bridges:
Highway (fixed):
Horizontal Clearance: 550 feet between channel piers.
Vertical Clearance: 135 feet above mean high water.

Bridges—Continued
Railroad (Vertical Lift):
Horizontal Clearance: 500 feet between channel piers.
Vertical Clearance:
Closed: 7 feet above mean high water.
Raised: 135 feet above mean high water.

The work of deepening and widening the canal is in progress. Information regarding the controlling depth and width may be obtained from the District Engineer, Boston, Massachusetts.

4. Signals.—

1. All vessels desiring to enter the canal may signal by three long blasts of the whistle when arriving at Wings Neck Light or Sandwich breakwater.

2. A vessel approaching the railroad bridge when the lift span is lowered shall signal by three long blasts of the whistle for raising the span. Vessels or other craft without steam power shall hail the bridge by horn or megaphone, or notify the operator by verbal communication of the desire to pass under the span.

3. The span shall be raised with the least possible delay upon receiving the signal: Provided, That the span shall not be raised when there is a train upon the bridge or approaching it so closely that the train cannot be stopped. If the span of the bridge is ready to be raised immediately, the operator shall so indicate by sounding one long blast of a whistle or horn; but, if it will not be raised immediately, he shall so indicate by sounding four short blasts in quick succession upon such whistle or horn. These signals shall be made as soon as possible after receiving the boat signal.

4. Vessels shall not attempt to pass the bridge until the span has been fully raised.

5. Precedence.—Ordinarily, vessels will be given precedence in order of arrival, but when several vessels are to be passed precedence shall be given:

FIRST. To vessels owned by the United States or employed on canal improvement work.

SECOND. To passenger vessels.

THIRD. To freight vessels and towboats.

FOURTH. To small boats and craft bent on pleasure only.

6. Mooring.—Anchorage or mooring basins are located at both the eastern and western terminals. The eastern basin is on the north side of the canal. It is 2,000 feet in length, 300 feet in width and dredged to a depth of 25 feet at mean low water. The western basin is on the southeast side of the Hog Island Channel, opposite the dredged cut to Onset Bay. It is 2,600 feet in length, 350 feet in width, and 32 feet in depth at mean low water. Mooring dolphins are provided. Vessels mooring or anchoring shall do so in such a manner as not to obstruct the canal channel nor to impede vessel movement to and from the basins.

7. Location of traffic lights—Eastern or Cape Cod Bay terminal.—Red, green, and purple electric lights, visible for a distance of about two miles in clear weather, day or night, are located at Sandwich on the south side of the entrance. The lights, which are at an elevation of about 30 feet above high water, are located on a pole structure.

Western or Buzzards Bay terminal.—Red, green, and purple electric lights, visible for a distance of about two miles in clear weather, day or night, are located near Wings Neck lighthouse, on the south side of the entrance. The lights, which are at an elevation of about 35 feet above high water, are located on a pole structure.

8. Westbound traffic.—When a green light is showing at the eastern or Cape Cod Bay terminal at Sandwich, vessels may proceed through the canal. The green light indicates that the canal and approaches are open to westbound traffic. When the purple light is showing, vessels may proceed as far as the mooring basin at the eastern entrance, where they must stop and await the green signal light at the Sandwich Terminal before passing west through the canal. The purple light indicates that the canal proper is not open to westbound traffic and that eastbound traffic may have to be passed in the Cape Cod Bay approach channel. The red light means that vessels must stop clear of the outer end of the Cape Cod Bay approach channel.

9. Eastbound traffic.—When a green light is showing at the western or Buzzards Bay signal block at Wings Neck, vessels may proceed through the canal unless later stopped by motor boat or other signal. The green light indicates that the canal and approaches are open to eastbound traffic. When the purple light is showing, vessels may proceed through the Buzzards Bay approach channel as far as the mooring basin near Hog Island, where they must stop and from whence clearance will be granted by motor boat or other signal. The purple light indicates that the canal proper is not open to eastbound traffic and that westbound traffic may have to be passed in the Buzzards Bay approach channel. The red light means that vessels must stop clear of the southern entrance to the Buzzards Bay approach channel and must not enter the Buzzards Bay approach channel. In daytime when sunshine obscures the signal lights, or if the electric current should be temporarily interrupted, a red ball or shape will be operated from a pole about 60 feet southwest of the traffic lights. When the ball is raised, vessels must stop; when the ball is lowered to the ground, full clearance is granted.

10. Warning lights.—At both terminals, vessels tied up at dolphins or anchored may be warned by the red light flashing three times, that about fifteen (15) minutes later they will be given a green light. If, on receiving the green light they do not proceed within fifteen (15) minutes, they may forfeit their priority to pass through the canal.

11. Meeting of vessels.—Vessels navigating the canal or its approaches in opposite directions at the same time under proper lights are subject to the usual customs, rules, and laws of navigation applicable to restricted channels.

12. Two-way traffic.—Two-way traffic through the canal will be allowed when, in the opinion of the representative of the United States Engineer Department charged with directing traffic, the conditions are suitable.

13. Obtaining clearance.—Vessels should not attempt to transit the canal until clearance has been obtained. When conditions render visibility poor, clearance should be procured by radio or other reliable medium.

14. Speed.—No boat in the canal shall be raced or crowded alongside another or moved at a speed which will cause excessive wash. Speed will be reduced to a minimum consistent with safe navigation. All vessels must pass mooring dolphins, wharves, landings, and dredging plants at minimum speed, with engines stopped, if practicable, to avoid wave and suction damage.

15. Management of boats.—The boat entering first shall have precedence. As a rule the vessel following shall keep at least 1,000 feet astern of the vessel ahead. Restricted passing is permissible, particularly when a leading, low-powered vessel is unable to stem the current, but extreme care to avoid collision is imperative.

16. Handling of tows.—Tows should be assembled outside the canal entrances when practicable, and vessels in tow should be securely fastened to the towing vessel and to each other. Long hawsers are not permitted. Vessels without engine motive power must not attempt to sail through the canal.

17. Unnecessary delay in canal.—Vessels must not obstruct navigation by unnecessary delay in entering or passing through the canal or by anchoring in the channel.

18. Landing of freight, etc.—Except in emergencies, vessels shall not stop to land passengers, freight or baggage or to transfer same to another vessel under such conditions as would in any way interfere with navigation.

19. Deposit of refuse.—No ashes, oil or other material or liquid of any kind shall be thrown, pumped, or swept into the canal or approaches, or deposited on canal grounds.

20. Statistics.—Masters or pursers of vessels shall furnish the District Engineer, or his authorized representative, on each passage through the canal, such written statement of passengers, freight, and registered tonnage as may be indicated by blanks furnished for the purpose. Failure to furnish this statement will result in the offending boats being refused passage through the canal or any part of it.

21. Persistent violation of regulations.—If the owner or master of any boat persistently violates these regulations after due notice of the same, legal proceedings may be instituted under the act or acts covering such violations.

22. Pilots.—The U. S. Engineer Department does not maintain pilot service. Pilots licensed by the Department of Commerce are usually available. Signals from vessels or requests by radio, etc., will be transmitted to pilots, but no responsibility therewith is assumed.

23. Trespass upon canal property.—Trespass upon the canal property or injury to the canal, lands, banks, bridges, breakwaters, dolphins, fences, culverts, trees, telephone lines, or to any other property of the United States pertaining to the canal, is prohibited.

24. Fish and game.—All persons are forbidden to enter upon the United States lands or canal for the purpose of fishing or hunting, or taking fish or game by any means, without a written permit from the District Engineer. The fish and game laws of the United States and of the State of Massachusetts will be enforced upon the canal and the lands of the United States pertaining thereto.

25. Effective Date.—These regulations shall take effect and be in force from and after January 1, 1938. All previous regulations are hereby rescinded.

Approved November 15, 1937.

[Amendment 4 to B. A. I. Order 357]

RULES AND REGULATIONS WITH RESPECT TO STOCKYARD OWNERS, MARKET AGENCIES, DEALERS, AND LICENSEES

[Effective on and after December 1, 1937]

NOVEMBER 26, 1937.

Under authority of the act of Congress approved August 15, 1921 (U. S. C., title 7, secs. 181-229), as amended by the act approved August 14, 1935 (U. S. C., sup. I, title 7, secs. 218-218d), amendment 4 to B. A. I. Order 357, effective December 1, 1937, amending the general rules and regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture with respect to stockyard owners, market agencies, dealers, and licensees, is hereby promulgated.

I

Regulation 3 (a) is hereby amended to read as follows:

3. (a) Each stockyard owner and market agency shall plainly state in the schedule of rates and charges (sec. 306, title III) filed by such stockyard owner or market agency, the date when effective, the stockyards at which it applies, the name and business address of the stockyard owner or market agency, the kind of livestock, the nature of the service, and the terms or conditions under which the service will be rendered.

Each licensee furnishing or conducting services or facilities for which a charge is made shall plainly state in the schedule of rates and charges (sec. 504, title V, which incorporates by reference sec. 306, title III) filed by such licensee, the date when effective, the city, place, or market at which it applies, the name and the business address of the licensee, the nature of the service or facilities furnished, and the terms or conditions under which the service will be rendered.

Schedules of rates and charges and amendments thereto of stockyard owners, market agencies, and licensees shall be printed or typed on paper which is approximately 8 by 11 inches in size, the lines of print or type being horizontal to the 8-inch dimension. Two copies of each such schedule or amendment shall be filed with the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington, D. C., at least one of which shall be signed by the market agency, stockyard owner, or licensee filing the same.

The schedules of each market agency, stockyard owner, and licensee shall be designated by successive numbers as filed. Each such schedule shall be divided into sections which shall provide for the various classes of services furnished by the market agency, stockyard owner, or licensee. Each amendment of such schedule shall be numbered, and shall show the number of the schedule of which it is an amendment. Each such amendment shall in its body make adequate reference to the section or sections of the schedule which is amended, and shall set forth such section or sections in full in the amended or supplemented form. Each amendment shall indicate the numbers of such amendments to the original schedule as are in effect. After a market agency, stockyard owner, or licensee has filed 30 amendments to its schedule, any further change in the rates or charges shall be embodied in a new schedule which shall contain all rates and charges then in effect: Provided, however, That not more than 10 amendments relating to charges other than for feed may be filed without filing and publishing a new schedule.

Each stockyard owner, market agency, and licensee shall also file with the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington, D. C., two copies of every rule or regulation, or set of rules or regulations, and of each amendment or supplement thereto, properly printed or typed, which in any manner change, affect, or determine any part or the aggregate of the rates or charges of such stockyard owner, market agency, or licensee, or the value of the services furnished.

All schedules and rules or regulations and amendments thereto required to be filed under this act shall be kept posted in a conspicuous public place by the market agency and stockyard owner filing same. Licensees shall post schedules of rates, charges, and rentals in a conspicuous location in their places of business where they may be readily observed by any interested person (sec. 504, title V). Unless the requirement as to filing and notice is specifically waived, as provided for in section 306 (c) (incorporated by reference in sec. 504, title V), all amendments to schedules or rules or regulations changing a rate or charge shall be filed with the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington, D. C., not less than 10 days before the effective date thereof and must be posted in a conspicuous public place by the market agency, stockyard owner, or licensee filing the amendment at least 10 days prior to the effective date.

II

Regulation 17 (b) is hereby amended to read as follows:

17. (b) Every market agency and dealer shall, on or before the date of commencement of operations, execute and thereafter maintain, or cause to be executed and thereafter maintained, reasonable bonds to suitable trustees to secure the performance of their obligations incurred as such market agency or dealer, and shall immediately file or cause to be filed with the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington, D. C., a fully executed duplicate of such bond. For the purpose of this regulation, "market agency" means any person engaged in the business of buying or selling in commerce livestock at a stockyard on a commission basis, and "dealer" means any person, not a market agency, engaged in the business of buying or selling in commerce livestock at a stockyard either on his own account or as the employee or agent of the vendor or purchaser.

Such bonds may contain such other terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between the parties thereto, not inconsistent with the requirements of this regulation. The surety on such bond shall be a surety company approved by the Treasury Department of the United States for bonds executed to the United States, or any other form of indemnity may be accepted in lieu thereof which is found by the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington, D. C., to afford substantially equivalent protection.

The amount of such bond shall be not less than the nearest multiple of $1,000 above the average amount of sales and/or purchases of livestock by such market agency or dealer during two business days, based on the total number of the business days, and the total amount of such sales and/or purchases in the preceding 12 months, or in such part thereof in which such market agency or dealer did business, if any. For the purpose of this computation, 308 shall be deemed the number of business days in a year, except that in those markets where livestock is offered for sale on not more than two days per week the actual number of days in the preceding 12 months on which livestock was offered for sale shall be deemed the number of business days. In such instances the amount of the bond shall be not less than the nearest multiple of $1,000 above the average amount of sales and/or purchases of livestock by such market agency or dealer during one business day. In any case, however, the amount of bond shall be not less than $2,000; and when the sales and/or purchases, calculated as hereinbefore specified, exceed $50,000 the amount of the bond need not exceed $50,000 plus 10 percent of the excess. Whenever the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington, D. C., finds any bond required hereunder to be inadequate, such bond, upon notice, shall be adjusted to meet the requirements of this regulation.

Two or more market agencies or dealers or the employees or agents of such dealers, if such market agencies or dealers are affiliated with the same association or local exchange, may be covered by a single bond in an amount based on their combined purchases and/or sales determined in accordance with this regulation.

All surety bonds, or their equivalents, shall contain a provision requiring that at least 10 days' prior notice in writing be given to the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington, D. C., by the party terminating such bonds or equivalents, in order to effect their termination.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 26th day of November, 1937. Witness my hand and the seal of the Department of Agriculture.

(1) Articles 401 and 402 are amended to read as follows:

"ART. 401. Returns for periods within the calendar year 1937—(a) Monthly tax returns.—Every employer (see article 4) shall make a monthly tax return on Form SS-1 for each calendar month of the calendar year 1937.

"(b) Periodical information returns.—Every employer shall make an information return on Forms SS-2 and SS-2a for the period January 1, 1937, to June 30, 1937, both dates inclusive, and for the period July 1, 1937, to December 31, 1937, both dates inclusive. The employer shall attach to Form SS-2 a separate Form SS-2a for each of his employees who received taxable wages during the period covered by the return. Form SS-2 shall be filed in duplicate but only one original Form SS-2a shall be filed for each employee.

"ART. 402. Returns for periods within the calendar year 1938 and subsequent years.—Every employer shall make a tax and information return on Form SS-1a for the first quarter after December 31, 1937, within which taxable wages are paid to his employee or employees, and for each subsequent quarter whether or not taxable wages are paid therein. (2) The parenthetical reference in article 403 is amended to read as follows:

"(See article 402 for the 3-month periods which constitute quarters within the meaning of provisions of these regulations relating to returns.)"

(3) Article 404 is amended to read as follows:

"ART. 404. Final returns.—The last return on Form SS-1a covering periods subsequent to December 21, 1937, or the last returns on Form SS-1, and on Forms SS-2 and SS-2a, covering periods within the calendar year 1937, for any person who ceases to be an employer, shall be marked 'Final return' by the employer or the person filing the return. Such final returns shall be filed with the collector on or before the thirtieth day after the date on which the final payment of wages subject to tax is made for services performed for the employer, and shall plainly show the period covered and also the date of the last payment of wages. There shall be executed as part of each final return a statement giving the address at which the records required by article 412 will be kept and the name of the person keeping the records. Persons whose status as employers is only temporarily suspended, including persons engaged in seasonal activities, shall not file final returns by reason of such temporary suspension."

(4) The first three sentences of article 406, relating to the use of numbers assigned to employers and employees under Title VIII, is amended to read as follows:

"Every employer shall enter on each return required under these regulations the identification number assigned to him under Title VIII of the Act. If no identification number has been assigned to the employer prior to the time he files such return, the employer shall enter on the return the date on which the application therefor on Form SS-4 was filed (or mailed) by him, and the name and address of the office to which the application was sent. The account number assigned under Title VIII of the Act to every employee with respect to whom information is required to be reported on Form SS-1a, Forms SS-2a or Form SS-3 shall be entered on such forms by the employer."

(5) The last two sentences of article 407, relating to execution of returns, are amended to read as follows:

If the amount of wages required to be reported in item 2 on Form SS-2 (covering a period within the calendar year 1937) is $500 or less, the return may be signed or acknowledged before two witnesses instead of under oath."

(6) The seventh sentence of article 408, relating to use of prescribed forms, is amended to read as follows:

"In case the prescribed tax return form is not available, a statement made by the employer disclosing for the period for which a return is required the amount of wages with respect to which the taxes are imposed, together with the amount of taxes due, may be accepted as a tentative return."

of mineral entry or claim under the public land mining laws, is hereby revoked and rescinded, and the lands of the said Papago Indian Reservation are hereby restored to exploration and location, under the existing mining laws of the United States, in accordance with the express terms and provisions declared and set forth in the Executive orders establishing said Papago Indian Reservation: Provided, That damages shall be paid to the superintendent or other officer in charge of the reservation for the credit of the owner thereof, for loss of any improvements on any land located for mining in such a sum as may be determined by the Secretary of the Interior to be the fair and reasonable value of such improvements: Provided further, That a yearly rental not to exceed 5 cents per acre shall be paid to the superintendent or other officer in charge of the reservation for deposit in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the Papago Tribe for loss of the use or occupancy of any land withdrawn by the requirements of mining operations.

(2) In the event any person or persons, partnership, corporation, or association desires a mineral patent, according to the mining laws of the United States, he or they shall first pay to the superintendent or other officer in charge of the reservation, for deposit in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the Papago Tribe, the sum of $1 per acre in lieu of annual rental, as hereinbefore provided, to compensate for the loss of the use or occupancy of the lands withdrawn by the requirements of mining operations; but the sum thus deposited, except for a deduction of rental at the annual rate hereinbefore provided, shall be refunded to the applicant in the event that patent is not acquired: Provided, That an applicant for patent shall also pay to the superintendent or other officer in charge of the said reservation for the credit of the owner thereof, damages for the loss of improvements not theretofore paid, in such a sum as may be determined by the Secretary of the Interior to be the fair value thereof.

(3) Water reservoirs, charcos, water holes, springs, wells, or any other form of water development by the United States or the Papago Indians shall not be used for mining purposes under the terms of this Act, except under permit from the Secretary of the Interior approved by the Papago Indian Council: Provided, That nothing herein shall be construed as interfering with or affecting the validity of the water rights of the Indians of this reservation: Provided further, That the appropriation of living water heretofore or hereafter affected by the Papago Indians is hereby recognized and validated subject to all the laws applicable thereto.

(4) Nothing herein contained shall restrict the granting or use of permits for easements or rights-of-way; or ingress or egress over the lands for all proper and lawful purposes; and nothing contained herein, except as expressly provided, shall be construed as authority for the Secretary of the Interior, or any other person, to issue or promulgate a rule or regulation in conflict with the Executive order of February 1, 1917, creating the Papago Indian Reservation in Arizona or the Act of February 21, 1931 (46 Stat. 1202)."

The act of June 18, 1934, as amended by the act of August 28, 1937, revokes departmental order of October 28, 1932, which temporarily withdrew from all forms of mineral entry or claim the lands within the Papago Indian Reservation and restores, as of June 18, 1934, such lands to exploration, location and purchase under the existing mining laws of the United States.

The procedure in the location of mining claims, performance of annual labor and the prosecution of patent proceedings therefor shall be the same as provided by the United States mining laws and regulations thereunder, Circular No. 430, with the additional requirements hereinafter prescribed.

In addition to complying with the existing laws and regulations governing the recording of mining locations with the proper local recording officer, the locator of a mining claim within the Papago Indian Reservation shall furnish to the superintendent or other officer in charge of the reservation, within 90 days of such location, a copy of the location notice, together with a sum amounting to 5 cents for each acre and 5 cents for each fractional part of an acre embraced in the location for deposit with the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the Papago Tribe as yearly rental. Failure to make the required annual rental payment in advance each year until an application for patent has been filed for the claim shall be deemed sufficient grounds for invalidating the claim. The payment of annual rental must be made to the superintendent or other officer in charge of the reservation each year on or prior to the anniversary date of the mining location.

Where a mining claim is located within the reservation, the locator shall pay to the superintendent or other officer in charge of the reservation damages for the loss of any improvements on the land in such a sum as may be determined by the Secretary of the Interior to be a fair and reasonable value of such improvements, for the credit of the owner thereof. The value of such improvements may be fixed by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and payment in accordance with such determination shall be made within one year from date thereof.

At the time of filing with the Register an application for mineral patent for lands within the Papago Indian Reservation the applicant shall furnish, in addition to the showing required under the general mining laws, a statement from the superintendent or other officer in charge of the reservation, that he has deposited with the proper official in charge of the reservation for deposit in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the Papago Tribe a sum equal to $1. for each acre and $1. for each fractional part of an acre embraced in the application for patent in lieu of annual rental, together with a statement from the superintendent or other officer in charge of the reservation that the annual rentals have been paid each year and that damages for loss of improvements, if any, have been paid.

Upon the filing in the office of the Register of an application for patent for land within the reservation, together with the evidence required in the preceding paragraph, the Register will, if no reason appears for rejecting the application, proceed to publish a notice as provided for by the mining regulations. The Register will forward copies of the notice of application for patent to the superintendent of the reservation and to the Special Agent in Charge at Albuquerque, New Mexico, endorsing thereon "within Papago Indian Reservation", requesting both to report in accordance with the instructions of December 5, 1916 (45 L. D. 539).

The act provides that in case patent is not acquired the sum deposited in lieu of annual rentals shall be refunded. Where patent is not acquired, such sums due as annual rentals but not paid during the period of patent application shall be deducted from the sum deposited in lieu of annual rental. Applications for refund shall be filed in the office of the Register and should follow the general procedure in applications for repayment, Circular No. 513.

Mining locations in the Papago Indian Reservation made subsequent to August 28, 1937, and prior hereto may be validated upon full compliance with the foregoing provisions within 90 days of the approval of these regulations.

Water reservoirs, charcos, water holes, springs, wells, or any other form of water development by the United States or the Papago Indians shall not be used for mining purposes under the terms of the said act of August 28, 1937, except under permit from the Secretary of the Interior approved by the Papago Indian Council.

A mining location may not be located on any portion of a ten acre legal subdivision containing water reservoirs, charcos, water holes, springs, wells or any other form of water development by the United States or the Papago Indians except under a permit from the Secretary of the Interior approved by the Papago Indian Council which permit shall contain such stipulations, restrictions, and limitations regarding the use of the land for mining purposes as may be deemed necessary and proper to permit the free use of the water thereon by the United States or the Papago Indians.

The term "locator" wherever used in these regulations shall include and mean his successors, assigns, grantees, heirs, and all others claiming under or through him.

You will give to the regulations the widest publicity possible without expense to the Government.

Very respectfully,

FRED W. JOHNSON, Commissioner.

I concur: November 6, 1937.

[Order No. 86]

AN ORDER PROVIDING FOR A HEARING TO DETERMINE THE NATURE AND EXTENT OF INTRASTATE COMMERCE IN BITUMINOUS COAL IN THE STATE OF KANSAS AND THE EFFECT OF SUCH COMMERCE UPON INTERSTATE COMMERCE IN SUCH COAL, TO BE HELD AT KANSAS CITY, KANSAS, ON DECEMBER 9, 1937, BEFORE AN EXAMINER, AND NOTICE THEREOF

Pursuant to act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes" (Public, No. 48, 75th Cong., 1st sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, the National Bituminous Coal Commission, upon being advised that substantially all transactions in bituminous coal in intrastate commerce within the State of Kansas directly affect interstate commerce in such coal and will cause undue and unreasonable advantage, preference or prejudice as between such commerce in Kansas on the one hand and interstate commerce in such coal on the other hand as such interstate commerce is provided to be regulated by the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, and that a hearing to determine the effect of intrastate transactions in bituminous coal upon interstate transactions in bituminous coal in the State of Kansas would be desirable, and upon investigation hereby orders:

1. That on December 9, 1937, commencing at the hour of ten (10) o'clock A. M., at the Hearing Room of the Commission in the Hotel Grund, Kansas City, Kansas, a public hearing will be held to determine the nature and extent of intrastate commerce in bituminous coal in the State of Kansas, and the effect of such commerce upon interstate commerce in such coal and to determine what, if any, undue or unreasonable advantage, preference or prejudice, will exist between localities in Kansas in such commerce on the one hand and interstate commerce as regulated by the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937 on the other hand and what, if any, undue, unreasonable or unjust discriminations against interstate commerce in coal have occurred or will occur under the administration of Section 4 of said Act to the end that the Commission may, after hearing, take such action as is necessary to give effect to the Bituminous Coal Code and to the provisions of Section 4-A of said Act.

2. That said hearing will be conducted by an Examiner designated by the Commission.

3. That interested parties may appear and present evidence at such hearing.

4. That any producer believing that particular transactions in intrastate commerce in bituminous coal are not subject to the provisions of the first paragraph of Section 4-A will, subsequent to the final order of the Commission in the proceeding herein noticed, be afforded full opportunity to file an application for exemption as provided in said section, upon which application a hearing will thereafter be held by the Commission upon proper notice given.

5. That failure of any producer to appear and present evidence at the hearing herein noticed to be held in Kansas City, Kansas, on December 9, 1937, will not prejudice the case of any producer to be heard upon such application.

6. That the Secretary of the Commission shall forthwith mail a copy of this notice to the Consumers' Counsel, to each known producer of bituminous coal in the State of Kansas, and to the secretaries of all of the district boards, and shall cause to be published at the expense of the Commission copy of this order and notice for three (3) days in newspapers of general circulation in the counties of Kansas in which bituminous coal is produced.

By order of the Commission.

I. Farmers' Cooperative Organizations as hereinbefore defined shall, in order to obtain the privileges granted by the second paragraph of Number 13, subsection (i) of Part II—Marketing—of Section 4 of the Act, be registered with the Coal Commission as herein required and no code member or his sales agent shall pay or allow any discount from minimum prices to any farmers' cooperative organization on or after the first day of February 1938, unless such farmers' cooperative organization shall be so registered at the time of the sale.

II. Each such farmers' cooperative organization desiring to obtain such privileges and discounts shall make application to the Coal Commission for registration as bona fide and legitimate farmers' cooperative organization. Such application shall among other things set forth:

"(1) The name and Post Office address of the applicant, date of organization and the names and addresses of the officers and directors, if any.

"(2) The names of the local farmers' cooperatives which are members of applicant organization.

"(3) The form of organization of applicant's business, with a reference to the law or laws under which such organization was formed.

"(4) A statement of the purpose for which such organization is formed, as set forth in its Charter or Articles of Association.

"(5) A statement of the qualifications for membership in such organization, as set forth in its Charter or Articles of Association, together with a specific statement as to whether membership is actually limited to bona fide local farmers' cooperatives.

"(6) A statement of the terms and conditions under which such organization grants rebates, discounts, patronage dividends or other similar benefits to its members and the amount of rate thereof.

"(7) A statement setting forth the territories in which applicant operates or proposes to operate.

"(8) A statement showing the tonnages of bituminous coal purchased and resold by applicant in the calendar years 1934; 1935; 1936 and the first six (6) months of 1937."

III. Each such application shall have attached thereto duplicate copies of the following agreement, duly authorized, executed and acknowledged on behalf of applicant:

"The undersigned Farmers' Cooperative Organization agrees, upon being registered as a Farmers' Cooperative Organization by the Coal Commission and thereby becoming entitled to discounts authorized by the Commission:

"(1) Not to sell, deliver, resell or offer for sale any coal at a price less than the minimum price nor greater than the maximum price established by the Coal Commission for such coal and in effect on the date of delivery.

"(2) To comply with the provisions of Section 4, Part II (i) of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937 relating to Unfair Methods of Competition.

"(3) To accept no discount on coal from a code member unless such coal is purchased for bona fide resale in conformity with the rules and regulations and orders of the Coal Commission.

"(4) To abide by the Marketing Rules and Regulations from time to time established by the Coal Commission governing the sale and distribution of coal.

"(5) To furnish or cause to be furnished to the Coal Commission at any time upon its direction, such information as to sales of coal made by applicant as the Coal Commission may require."

IV. After receipt of any such application the Coal Commission, upon a determination that the applicant is a bona fide and legitimate farmers' cooperative organization as defined in said Act and in these regulations, shall register such applicant as a Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organization and shall issue to the applicant a certificate of Registration accordingly. The Commission shall promptly notify each District Board of such registration and shall publish from time to time for the information of code members, a list of Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organizations, which list shall be amended from time to time as the Coal Commission may direct in order to show additions, withdrawals or removals.

V. At any time upon complaint or upon its own motion, the Coal Commission may investigate and determine whether a Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organization has violated the rules and regulations prescribed by the Coal Commission governing the resale of coal by such Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organization.

The registration of any such Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organization may be revoked by the Coal Commission after hearing, held upon twenty (20) days written notice by mail, upon proof that such Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organization no longer complies with the requirements of the Act and of the Coal Commission, and in case of failure or refusal to comply with any duty or requirement imposed upon the Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organization by reason of its Registration with the Coal Commission having been established, the Coal Commission may suspend the Registration for such period of time as the Coal Commission in its discretion may deem proper. Each District Board and all code members in which the Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organization has been purchasing coal for resale shall be notified by the Coal Commission of any revocation or suspension, including the effective date and the period of any suspension.

SECTION V. DISCOUNTS AND ALLOWANCES

Section 4, Part II, subsection (i) of the Act provides:

"(i) The following practices with respect to coal shall be unfair methods of competition and shall constitute violations of the code:

"1. The consignment of unordered coal, or the forwarding of coal which has not actually been sold, consigned to the producer or his agent: Provided, however, That coal which has not actually been sold may be forwarded, consigned to the producer or his agent at rail or track yards, tidewater ports, river ports, or lake ports, or docks beyond such ports, when for application to any of the following classes: Bunker coal, coal applicable against existing contracts, coal for storage (other than in railroad cars) by the producer or his agent in rail or track yards or on docks, wharves, or other yards for resale by the producer or his agent.

"2. The adjustment of claims with purchasers of coal in such manner as to grant secret allowances, secret rebates, or secret concessions, or other price discrimination.

"3. The prepayment of freight charges with intent to or having the effect of granting a discriminatory credit allowance.

"4. The granting in any form of adjustments, allowances, discounts, credits, or refunds to purchasers or sellers of coal, for the purposes or with the effect of altering retroactively a price previously agreed upon, in such manner as to create price discrimination.

"5. The predating or postdating of any invoice or contract for the purchase or sale of coal, except to conform to a bona fide agreement for the purchase or sale entered into on the predate.

"6. The payment or allowance in any form or by any device of rebates, refunds, credits, or unearned discounts, or the extension to certain purchasers of services or privileges not extended to all purchasers under like terms and conditions, or under similar circumstances.

"7. The attempt to purchase business, or to obtain information concerning a competitor's business by concession, gifts, or bribes.

"8. The intentional misrepresentation of any analysis or of analyses, or of sizes, or the intentional making, causing, or permitting to be made, or publishing, of any false, untrue, misleading, or deceptive statement by way of advertising, invoicing, or otherwise concerning the size, quality, character, nature, preparation, or origin of any coal bought, sold, or consigned.

"9. The unauthorized use, whether in written or oral form, of trade-marks, trade names, slogans, or advertising matter already adopted by a competitor, or any deceptive approximation thereof.

"10. Inducing or attempting to induce, by any means or device whatsoever, a breach of contract between a competitor and his customer during the term of such contract.

"11. Splitting or dividing commissions, brokers' fees, or brokerage discounts, or otherwise in any manner directly or indirectly using brokerage commissions or jobbers' arrangements or sales agencies for making discounts, allowances, or rebates, or prices other than those determined under this Act, to any industrial consumer or to any retailers, or to others, whether of a like or different class.

"12. Selling to, or through, any broker, jobber, commission account, or sales agency, which is in fact or in effect an agency or an instrumentality of a retailer or an industrial consumer or of any organization of retailers or industrial consumers, whereby they or any of them secure either directly or indirectly a discount, dividend, allowance, or rebates, or a price other than that determined in the manner prescribed by this Act.

"13. Employing any person or appointing any sales agent, at a compensation obviously disproportionate to the ordinary value of the service or services rendered, and whose employment or appointment is made with the primary intention and purpose of securing preferment with a purchaser or purchasers of coal."

1. Effective January 1, 1938, no code member or sales agent of a code member shall allow or pay, directly or indirectly, any compensation for the selling of coal, whether by way of commission or allowance, to any sales agent whose contract of agency shall not have been filed with the Coal Commission.

2. Effective January 1, 1938, no code member or sales agent of a code member shall pay or allow any discount to any wholesaler or farmers' cooperative organization who shall not have filed an application for registration with the Coal Commission in the manner provided in Sections III and IV of these Marketing Rules and Regulations.

3. Effective February 1, 1938, no code member or sales agent of a code member shall pay or allow any discount to any wholesaler or farmers' cooperative organization which shall not be registered with the Coal Commission in the manner provided in Sections III and IV of these Marketing Rules and Regulations.

4. No commission shall be paid or discount allowed by a code member on any coal sold for locomotive fuel purposes.

5. No discount from minimum or other prices shall be paid or allowed on coal sold to any person for retailing by him.

6. Subject to further order of the Coal Commission, the amount of commission to be paid by the code member to his sales agent and the amount of the discount to be allowed to a Registered Wholesaler or Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organization by a code member or his sales agent shall be fixed by agreement of the parties subject, however, to review as to the reasonableness of such commission or discount by the Coal Commission upon complaint or upon its own motion. In every case reviewed by the Coal Commission, the code member, sales agent or Registered Wholesaler or Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organization shall have the burden of establishing that the commission paid or discount allowed was a reasonable charge commensurate with the service actually rendered and did not exceed the fair cost of the service plus a reasonable profit on the transaction involved, and that the commission or discount so allowed was in conformity with the provisions of the Bituminous Coal Code and the Marketing Rules and Regulations of the Coal Commission.

7. No commission shall be paid to a sales agent or discount allowed to a wholesaler by a code member, where the coal is delivered or resold to any person who controls in whole or in part the sales agent or wholesaler.

SECTION VI. LIMITATIONS OF ORDERS, AGREEMENTS, AND QUOTATIONS

1. Until further order of the Coal Commission no code member or sales agent of a code member and no wholesaler or farmers' cooperative organization, registered or proposing to register shall enter into any agreement or order for the sale or delivery of coal for a period in excess of thirty (30) days from the date of such agreement or order, and no prices shall be less than the minimum prices in effect at the time of delivery; Provided, however; that contracts for periods not exceeding one (1) year at prices not less than the minimum prices established by the Coal Commission, in effect at the time of delivery, may be made with agencies of the Federal Government or with such agencies of State or local governments as are required by law to purchase coal for periods in excess of thirty (30) days. In the case of governmental agencies options may be given for a period not exceeding forty-five (45) days. No option for the sale of coal may be given, except as herein specifically provided.

2. All quotations shall be made or confirmed in writing, and shall, without notice, become null and void immediately upon the establishment by the Coal Commission of a revised minimum price for the coal covered by the quotation.

SECTION VII. SPOT ORDERS

1. Spot orders shall be acknowledged or accepted in writing within three (3) business days from the date of their receipt.

2. Every acceptance of a spot order shall contain the following clauses:

(b) "No shipment consigned to any destination point may be reconsigned en route or otherwise without the consent of the seller. In case of any reconsignment the seller shall charge and the buyer shall pay not less than the minimum price prescribed for such coal for delivery to the destination to which such shipment is actually delivered.

(c) "The coal shipped pursuant to this order is sold and purchased upon the condition that it shall be used in the plant or plants and at the destination named herein and for the use stated herein and is not to be sold or diverted by the buyer to other destinations or uses without the consent of the seller. In case of diversion the seller shall charge and the buyer shall pay not less than the minimum price prescribed for such coal for delivery at such other destinations and for the use to which actually applied.

(d) "If shipments called for by this order are not completed within thirty (30) days from the date of this order, the unfilled portion of the order shall be cancelled and no delivery of such tonnage shall be made."

3. In any case where a sale is made by a sales agent of a code member or by a Registered Wholesaler or Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organization, such sales agent or Registered Wholesaler or Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organization shall not exercise the rights of the seller as defined in items 2 (b) and 2 (c) of this section without first securing the consent in writing of the code member producing such coal.

4. All terms and conditions of a sale of coal must be fully and expressly set forth either in the order or in the acceptance. Any modification must be made in writing and filed in the same manner as an order.

SECTION VIII. USE OF COAL ANALYSES

1. No analysis of coal shall be utilized by a code member, sales agent, sales representative or wholesaler, or farmers' cooperative organization making a resale, in selling or offering for sale any coal produced by the code member, unless such code member shall have previously filed with the Statistical Bureau of the Coal Commission and the District Board for the district in which the coal is produced, copies of such analysis, together with a certificate setting forth the time and manner of obtaining the sample analyzed, the name and address of the person or firm making the analysis and stating that such analysis is truly representative of the grade and size of coal as regularly produced by the code member. Each such analysis shall be not less than a proximate analysis showing ash, volatile matter, fixed carbon, sulphur and British Thermal Units and ash softening temperature. Each analysis shall further show whether made on an "as received" or "moisture free" basis and if on an "as received" basis, the analysis shall include moisture content.

2. All analyses so filed shall be subject to inspection at the office of the Statistical Bureau at any time during office hours by any interested person, and may be used by the District Board and the Coal Commission in determining from time to time proper classifications of the coals produced by the code member.

3. Any analysis of the coal of a code member made by or on behalf of a consumer and accepted by the code member as the basis for an adjustment of price under any contract or order shall be filed by the code member with the proper Satistical Bureau and District Board, within ten (10) days after such adjustment is made and shall be subject to the provisions of Rule No. 2 herein.

4. No agreement or order for the sale of coal produced by a code member, made upon a premium and penalty basis, shall be entered into or accepted by a code member or wholesaler unless the analysis upon which the premium and penalty clause is based has been previously filed as required in Rule No. 1. Such analysis shall be accompanied by a statement setting forth in full the terms of the premium and penalty provisions of the proposed contract or order.

5. In the case of premium and penalty agreements entered into prior to the effective date of these regulations, and claimed to be continuing in effect, the code member, sales agent or wholesaler, party to the agreement, shall file a statement containing the information required under Rule No. 4, within fifteen (15) days from such effective date.

SECTION IX. TERMS OF PAYMENT

The price and fair trade practice provisions of the Act shall not be evaded or violated by a code member, his sales agent or any Registered Wholesaler or Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organization through the use of terms of payment, and in no instance shall terms of payment be more favorable than the following:

5. Payment shall be made in full and on a net cash basis. No portion of the invoice price may be withheld by agreement by reason of any unadjusted claim of the buyer nor shall any portion be withheld or deposited in escrow by reason of any alleged agreement relating to the constitutionality of any provision of the Act or the validity of any order of the Coal Commission.

6. Where payment is made by note, trade acceptance or other form of indebtedness, the seller shall charge and the buyer shall pay interest at the current market rate.

7. Freight on all-rail or ex-river shipments shall not be paid by a code member, his sales agent, or a Registered Wholesaler or Registered Farmers' Cooperative Organization, except to prepay stations as published in current railway tariffs or to the United States Government, States, or political subdivisions thereof. Where freight is thus prepaid, the amount thereof shall immediately upon receipt of freight bill or notice of sight draft payment, be invoiced to the buyer for immediate payment.

SECTION X. CRUSHING AND PULVERIZING COAL

1. Each code member who maintains and operates at his mine or at any facility used in preparing coals for market, any crushing or pulverizing device, shall register such device with the Statistical Bureau of the Coal Commission, on or before the Twentieth (20th) day of January 1938, on forms submitted by the Coal Commission.

(a) Number of tons of each size crushed or pulverized.
(b) Number of tons of each size resulting from crushing or pulverizing.

4. No code member shall sell any coal crushed or pulverized at a price less than the minimum price established for the grade and size of coal before the crushing or pulverizing process plus five cents (5¢) per net ton.

SECTION XI. MISCELLANEOUS

1. No deduction or allowance shall be granted from invoice prices by any code member or sales agent, wholesaler or farmers' cooperative organization to any purchaser for advertising.

2. The price and fair trade practice provisions of the Act shall not be evaded by any payment or allowance by a code member to any purchaser or purchaser's representative covering advertising and the amount of expenditures for advertising shall be subject to review by the Coal Commission as to the good faith of the transaction.

3. Where coal is refused by a consignee in transit or at destination the code member may, and in the case where the coal was sold by a sales agent or registered wholesaler or registered farmers' cooperative organization of the code member, such sales agent or registered wholesaler or registered farmers' cooperative organization, with the approval of the code member, may sell the same at the best obtainable price, provided that in each case the code member shall file with the statistical bureau of the Coal Commission, within five (5) days from the date of such resale, a statement giving the name and address of the consignee and the reasons for the refusal, the name and address of the purchaser upon resale and the price received by the seller upon resale, a copy of the carrier's notice of refusal or notice of reconsignment and such other pertinent facts as may be offered in proof of the necessity of such resale and that in making such resale, the provisions of the Code and the Marketing Rules and Regulations of the Coal Commission other than as to price have not been violated or evaded.

4. 5. Where any allowance is requested by a buyer of coal on any shipment claimed to be substandard in preparation or quality, the code member or the sales agent or registered wholesaler or registered farmers' cooperative organization, with the prior approval of the code member, may on or before the maturity date of the invoice, make settlement and agree with the buyer upon an amount reasonably to be deducted for such inferior coal and accept payment therefor at less than the minimum prices; provided, however, that in each such case the code member shall within five (5) days after granting such allowance file with the statistical bureau of the Coal Commission in the District in which the coal originates:

(a) A statement giving the name of the consignee and the reason for the request for the allowance.
(b) A formal claim duly executed by or on behalf of the buyer and verified by affidavit setting forth the amount claimed by way of deduction and the reasons for the complaint.
(c) The amount of allowance or adjustment made.
(d) A statement that the adjustment has not been made with the purpose or intent of evading the price provisions of the Act. All such adjustments and allowances shall be subject to review by the Coal Commission.

6. The screening of mine run or re-screening of other grades of coal sold and billed as such for the buyer's account for the purpose of keeping the resultant products separate in the shipment thereof is prohibited. All coal must be sold and invoiced under the designation shown therefor in the price schedule published by the Coal Commission.

COUNTERVAILING DUTIES—DRIED SALT FISH FROM NOVA SCOTIA

To Collectors of Customs and Others Concerned:

Reference is made to T. D. 49196, approved October 12, 1937, announcing the application of section 303 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (U. S. C., title 19, sec. 1303) to certain fish from Nova Scotia.

The Bureau has received official information that fish described in T. D. 49196 may be exported from Nova Scotia without the benefit of any bounty or grant because the fish have a moisture content of 43 per cent or more, or because of the price received for the fish. T. D. 49196 is accordingly amended by deleting from the last sentence thereof the words "the dried fish are not products of Nova Scotia and that."

A license may be renewed by endorsement at any port of documentation, but a notice of such renewal, Cat. No. 1302, must be sent to the port at which the license issued, to the port of last previous renewal, and to the home port.

Additional ports will be designated as ports of documentation when this action is required by the exigencies of the service.

National Bituminous Coal Commission.

[Order No. 89]

AN ORDER ESTABLISHING MINIMUM PRICES FOR COALS OF CODE MEMBERS PRODUCED WITHIN DISTRICT NUMBER ONE IN CONFORMITY WITH SECTION 4, PART II, SUBSECTION (A) AND (B) OF THE BITUMINOUS COAL ACT OF 1937

The National Bituminous Coal Commission having established in each of the districts under its jurisdiction, as an agency of the Commission, a statistical bureau, and having directed by its Order Number 15 producers of bituminous coal to file therewith cost data for the calendar year 1936; the district boards having been organized pursuant to Section 4, Part I (a), of the Act and such district boards having, from cost data submitted by the statistical bureaus for their respective districts, determined, pursuant to Order Number 55 of the Commission, the weighted average of the total costs of the ascertainable tonnage produced in their respective districts in the calendar year 1936 and having adjusted the average costs so determined, as was necessary to give effect to any changes in wage rates, hours of employment, or other factors substantially affecting costs, exclusive of seasonal changes, so as to reflect as accurately as possible any change or changes which had been established since January 1, 1936, and having submitted to the Commission such determinations and the computations upon which they were based; the Commission having thereupon determined by its Order Number 62 the weighted average of the total costs of the tonnage for Minimum Price Area One in the Calendar year 1936, adjusted as aforesaid, and having transmitted the same to the several district boards in such minimum price area; each district board in a minimum price area having proposed minimum prices free on board transportation facilities at the mines for the kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal produced in their respective districts, and classification of coals and price variations as to mines, consuming market areas, values as to uses and seasonal demand, said prices having been proposed so as to yield a return per net ton for each district, equal as nearly as may be to the weighted average of the total costs, per net ton, of the tonnage of such minimum price area, such total costs computed as provided by subsection (a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, the minimum prices having been proposed on tentative weighted average costs, with later adjustments thereof to reflect the actual adjusted weighted average costs; the Commission having by its Order Number 73 determined and established the initial classifications of coals of code members within said District One; the District Board for District Number One having failed to coordinate in common consuming market areas with other districts upon a fair competitive basis the said proposed minimum prices as found by Commission Order Number 60, and the Commission having acted in lieu of said District Board under the authority of Section 6 (a) of the Act in coordinating the said proposed minimum prices upon a fair competitive basis in common consuming market areas as determined by the Commission and set forth in the attached Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members within District Number One, hereinafter referred to; and

The Commission, in coordinating and establishing the prices, having taken into account, among other factors, the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal, and transportation charges upon coal, and having conformed to the standards that such prices (a) be just and equitable as between producers within each district, (b) do not permit dumping, (c) be just and equitable and not unduly prejudicial or preferential, as between and among districts, (d) reflect, as nearly as possible, the relative market values, at points of delivery in each common consuming market area, of the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coals produced in the various districts, taking into account values as to uses, seasonal demand, transportation methods and charges and their effect upon a reasonable opportunity to compete on a fair basis, and the competitive relationships between coal and other forms of fuel and energy, (e) preserve, as nearly as may be, existing fair competitive opportunities, and (f) have due regard for the interests of the consuming public; and

The Commission having accepted the proposed minimum prices as submitted by the District Board of District Number One, and having modified same so as to conform to the standards set forth in the Act, and having used said proposed prices as modified as a basis for coordination with other districts, has coordinated same in conformity with the provisions of the Act and in the manner aforesaid, and having determined that the minimum prices so coordinated do not, as to District Number One or any other district with which prices were so coordinated, reduce or increase the return per net ton upon all the coal produced within any of such districts below or above the minimum return as provided in subsection (a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, by an amount greater than necessary to accomplish such coordination, and that the return per net ton upon the entire tonnage of the minimum price area in which any such district is located, at such prices as coordinated, will approximate the weighted average of the total cost per net ton of the tonnage of such minimum price area.

Now, therefore, pursuant to Act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes" (Public, No. 48, 75th Cong., 1st sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, the National Bituminous Coal Commission hereby orders:

1. That the minimum prices of coals of code members produced within District Number One, set opposite the names of code members and their respective mines, as the same appear in the Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District Number One, filed this day in the office of the Secretary of the Commission and made a part hereof by reference as though fully set forth herein, shall be and hereby are determined and established as the minimum prices of coals of code members within the said District Number One and such minimum prices shall be and become effective at 12:01 o'clock A. M. on the 16th day of December, 1937.

2. That any code member or district board or member thereof, or any State or political subdivision of a State, or the Consumers' Counsel who shall be dissatisfied with the coordination of prices or by any minimum price established, may at any time after this date make complaint by petition to the Commission, pursuant to Section 4, Part II (d), and in conformity with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, and the Commission shall after notice and hearing make such further order as may be required to effectuate the purpose of subsection (b) of Part II of Section 4 of the Act. Pending final disposition of such petition and upon reasonable showing of necessity therefor, the Commission may at any time make such preliminary of temporary order as in its judgment may be appropriate, and not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act.

3. That the Secretary of the Commission shall forthwith mail copies of this order and Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District Number one to the Consumer's Counsel, the Secretaries of the Bituminous Coal Producers Board for the districts within Minimum Price Area One and to code members within District Number One, shall cause copies of this order and said Schedule and copies of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure to be made available for inspection by all interested parties at the Secretary's office of the Commission and at all statistical bureaus of the Commission, and shall cause to be published a copy of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By order of the Commission.

Dated this 30th day of November, 1937.

[SEAL] F. WITCHER MCCULLOUGH, Secretary.

AN ORDER ESTABLISHING MINIMUM PRICES FOR COALS OF CODE MEMBERS PRODUCED WITHIN DISTRICT NUMBER TWO IN CONFORMITY WITH SECTION 4, PART II, SUBSECTION (A) AND (B) OF THE BITUMINOUS COAL ACT OF 1937

The National Bituminous Coal Commission having established in each of the districts under its jurisdiction, as an agency of the Commission, a statistical bureau, and having directed by its Order Number 15 producers of bituminous coal to file therewith cost data for the calendar year 1936; the district boards having been organized pursuant to Section 4, Part I, (a), of the Act and such district boards having, from cost data submitted by the statistical bureaus for their respective districts, determined, pursuant to Order Number 55 of the Commission, the weighted average of the total costs of the ascertainable tonnage produced in their respective districts in the calendar year 1936 and having adjusted the average costs so determined, as was necessary to give effect to any changes in wage rates, hours of employment, or other factors substantially affecting costs, exclusive of seasonal changes, so as to reflect as accurately as possible any change or changes which had been established since January 1, 1936, and having submitted to the Commission such determinations and the computations upon which they were based; the Commission having thereupon determined by its Order Number 62 the weighted average of the total costs of the tonnage for Minimum Price Area One in the calendar year 1936, adjusted as aforesaid, and having transmitted the same to the several district boards in such minimum price area; each district board in a minimum price area having proposed minimum prices free on board transportation facilities at the mines for the kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal produced in their respective districts, and classifications of coals and price variations as to mines, consuming market areas, values as to uses and seasonal demand, said prices having been proposed so as to yield a return per net ton for each district, equal as nearly as may be to the weighted average of the total costs, per net ton, of the tonnage of such minimum price area, such total costs computed as provided by subsection (a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, the minimum prices having been proposed on tentative weighted average costs, with later adjustments thereof to reflect the actual adjusted weighted average costs; the Commission having by its Order Number 74 determined and established the initial classifications of coals of code members within said District Two; the District Board for District Number Two having failed to coordinate in common consuming market areas with other districts upon a fair competitive basis the said proposed minimum prices as found by Commission Order Number 60, and the Commission having acted in lieu of said District Board under the authority of Section 6 (a) of the Act in coordinating the said proposed minimum prices upon a fair competitive basis in common consuming market areas as determined by the Commission and set forth in the attached Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members within District Number Two, hereinafter referred to; and

The Commission, in coordinating and establishing the prices, having taken into account, among other factors, the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal, and transportation charges upon coal, and having conformed to the standards that such prices, (a) be just and equitable as between producers within each district (b) do not permit dumping, (c) be just and equitable and not unduly prejudicial or preferential, as between and among districts, (d) reflect, as nearly as possible, the relative market values, at points of delivery in each common consuming market area, of the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coals produced in the various districts, taking into account values as to uses, seasonal demand, transportation methods and charges and their effect upon a reasonable opportunity to compete on a fair basis, and the competitive relationships between coal and other forms of fuel and energy, (e) preserve, as nearly as may be, existing fair competitive opportunities, and (f) have due regard for the interests of the consuming public; and

The Commission having accepted the proposed minimum prices as submitted by the District Board of District Number Two, and having modified same so as to conform to the standards set forth in the Act, and having used said proposed prices as modified as a basis for coordination with other districts, has coordinated same in conformity with the provisions of the Act and in the manner aforesaid, and having determined that the minimum prices so coordinated do not, as to District Number Two or any other district with which prices were so coordinated, reduce or increase the return per net ton upon all the coal produced within any of such districts below or above the minimum return as provided in subsection (a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, by an amount greater than necessary to accomplish such coordination, and that the return per net ton upon the entire tonnage of the minimum price area in which any such district is located, at such prices as coordinated, will approximate the weighted average of the total cost per net ton of the tonnage of such minimum price area.

Now, therefore, pursuant to Act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes" (Public, No. 48, 75th Cong., 1st sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, the National Bituminous Coal Commission hereby orders:

1. That the minimum prices of coals of code members produced within District Number Two, set opposite the names of code members and their respective mines, as the same appear in the Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District Number Two, filed this day in the office of the Secretary of the Commission and made a part hereof by reference as though fully set forth herein, shall be and hereby are determined and established as the minimum prices of coals of code members within the said District Number Two and such minimum prices shall be and become effective at 12:01 o'clock A. M. on the 16th day of December, 1937.

2. That any code member or district board or member thereof, or any State or political subdivision of a State, or the Consumers' Counsel who shall be dissatisfied with the coordination of prices or by any minimum price established, may at any time after this date make complaint by petition to the Commission, pursuant to Section 4, Part II (d), and in conformity with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, and the Commission shall after notice and hearing make such further order as may be required to effectuate the purpose of subsection (b) of Part II of Section 4 of the Act. Pending final disposition of such petition and upon reasonable showing of necessity therefor, the Commission may at any time make such preliminary or temporary order as in its judgment may be appropriate, and not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act.

3. That the Secretary of the Commission shall forthwith mail copies of this order and Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals and Code Members Produced within District Number Two to the Consumers' Counsel, the Secretaries of the Bituminous Coal Producers Board for the districts within Minimum Price Area One and to code members within District Number Two, shall cause copies of this order and said Schedule and copies of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure to be made available for inspection by all interested parties at the Secretary's office of the Commission and at all statistical bureaus of the Commission, and shall cause to be published a copy of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By order of the Commission.

Dated this 30th day of November, 1937.

[SEAL] F. WITCHER MCCULLOUGH, Secretary.

[Order No. 91]

AN ORDER ESTABLISHING MINIMUM PRICES FOR COALS OF CODE MEMBERS PRODUCED WITHIN DISTRICT NUMBER THREE IN CONFORMITY WITH SECTION 4, PART II, SUBSECTIONS (A) AND (B) OF THE BITUMINOUS COAL ACT OF 1937

The National Bituminous Coal Commission having established in each of the districts under its jurisdiction, as an agency of the Commission, a statistical bureau, and having directed by its Order Number 15 producers of bituminous coal to file therewith cost data for the calendar year 1936; the district boards having been organized pursuant to Section 4, Part I, (a), of the Act and such district boards having, from cost data submitted by the statistical bureaus for their respective districts, determined, pursuant to Order Number 55 of the Commission, the weighted average of the total costs of the ascertainable tonnage produced in their respective districts in the calendar year 1936 and having adjusted the average costs so determined, as was necessary to give effect to any changes in wage rates, hours of employment, or other factors substantially affecting costs, exclusive of seasonal changes, so as to reflect as accurately as possible any change or changes which had been established since January 1, 1936, and having submitted to the Commission such determinations and the computations upon which they were based; the Commission having thereupon determined by its Order Number 62 the weighted average of the total costs of the tonnage for Minimum Price Area One in the calendar year 1936, adjusted as aforesaid, and having transmitted the same to the several district boards in such minimum price area; each district board in a minimum price area having proposed minimum prices free on board transportation facilities at the mines for the kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal produced in their respective districts, and classifications of coals and price variations as to mines, consuming market areas, values as to uses and seasonal demand, said prices having been proposed so as to yield a return per net ton for each district, equal as nearly as may be to the weighted average of the total costs, per net ton, of the tonnage of such minimum price area, such total costs computed as provided by subsection (a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, the minimum prices having been proposed on tentative weighted average costs, with labor adjustments thereof to reflect the actual adjusted weighted average costs; the Commission having by its Order Number 75 determined and established the initial classifications of coals of code members within said District 3; the District Board for District Number 3 having failed to coordinate in common consuming market areas with other districts upon a fair competitive basis the said proposed minimum prices as found by Commission Order Number 60, and the Commission having acted in lieu of said District Board under the authority of Section 6 (a) of the Act in coordinating the said proposed minimum prices upon a fair competitive basis in common consuming market areas as determined by the Commission and set forth in the attached Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members within District Number 3, hereinafter referred to; and

The Commission, in coordinating and establishing the prices, having taken into account, among other factors, the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal, and transportation charges upon coal, and having conformed to the standards that such prices (a) be just and equitable as between producers within each district, (b) do not permit dumping, (c) be just and equitable and not unduly prejudicial or preferential, as between and among districts, (d) reflect, as nearly as possible, the relative market values, at points of delivery in each common consuming market area, of the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coals produced in the various districts, taking into account values as to uses, seasonal demand, transportation methods and charges and their effect upon a reasonable opportunity to compete on a fair basis, and the competitive relationships between coal and other forms of fuel and energy, (e) preserve, as nearly as may be, existing fair competitive opportunities, and (f) have due regard for the interests of the consuming public; and

The Commission having accepted the proposed minimum prices as submitted by the District Board of District Number 3, and having modified same so as to conform to the standards set forth in the Act, and having used said proposed prices as modified as a basis for coordination with other districts, has coordinated same in conformity with the provisions of the Act and in the manner aforesaid, and having determined that the minimum prices so coordinated do not, as to District Number 3 or any other district with which prices were so coordinated, reduce or increase the return per net ton upon all the coal produced within any of such districts below or above the minimum return as provided in subsection (a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, by an amount greater than necessary to accomplish such coordination, and that the return per net ton upon the entire tonnage of the minimum price area in which any such district is located, at such prices as coordinated, will approximate the weighted average of the total cost per net ton of the tonnage of such minimum price area.

Now, therefore, pursuant to Act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes" (Public, No. 48, 75th Cong., 1st sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, the National Bituminous Coal Commission hereby orders:

1. That the minimum prices of coals of code members produced within District Number 3, set opposite the names of code members and their respective mines, as the same appear in the Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District Number 3, filed this day in the office of the Secretary of the Commission and made a part hereof by reference as though fully set forth herein, shall be and hereby are determined and established as the minimum prices of coals of code members within the said District Number 3 and such minimum prices shall be and become effective at 12:01 o'clock A. M. on the 16th day of December, 1937.

2. That any code member or district board or member thereof, or any State or political subdivision of a State, or the Consumers' Counsel who shall be dissatisfied with the coordination of prices or by any minimum price established, may at any time after this date make complaint by petition to the Commission, pursuant to Section 4, Part II (d), and in conformity with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, and the Commission shall after notice and hearing make such further order as may be required to effectuate the purpose of subsection (b) of Part II of Section 4 of the Act. Pending final disposition of such petition and upon reasonable showing of necessity therefor, the Commission may at any time make such preliminary or temporary order as in its judgment may be appropriate, and not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act.

3. That the Secretary of the Commission shall forthwith mail copies of this order and Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District Number 3 to the Consumers' Counsel, the Secretaries of the Bituminous Coal Producers Board for the districts within Minimum Price Area One and to code members within District Number 3, shall cause copies of this order and said Schedule and copies of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure to be made available for inspection by all interested parties at the Secretary's office of the Commission and at all statistical bureaus of the Commission, and shall cause to be published a copy of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By order of the Commission.

Dated this 30th day of November, 1937.

[SEAL] F. WITCHER MCCULLOUGH,
Secretary.

[Order No. 92]

AN ORDER ESTABLISHING MINIMUM PRICES FOR COALS OF CODE MEMBERS PRODUCED WITHIN DISTRICT NUMBER FOUR IN CONFORMITY WITH SECTION 4, PART II, SUBSECTION (A) AND (B) OF THE BITUMINOUS COAL ACT OF 1937

The National Bituminous Coal Commission having established in each of the districts under its jurisdiction, as an agency of the Commission, a statistical bureau, and having directed by its Order Number 15 producers of bituminous coal to file therewith cost data for the calendar year 1936; the district boards having been organized pursuant to Section 4, Part I, (a), of the Act and such district boards having, from cost data submitted by the statistical bureaus for their respective districts, determined, pursuant to Order Number 55 of the Commission, the weighted average of the total costs of the ascertainable tonnage produced in their respective districts in the calendar year 1936 and having adjusted the average costs so determined, as was necessary to give effect to any changes in wage rates, hours of employment, or other factors substantially affecting costs, exclusive of seasonal changes, so as to reflect as accurately as possible any change or changes which had been established since January 1, 1936, and having submitted to the Commission such determinations and the computations upon which they were based; the Commission having thereupon determined by its Order Number 62 the weighted average of the total costs of the tonnage for Minimum Price Area One in the calendar year 1936, adjusted as aforesaid, and having transmitted the same to the several district boards in such minimum price area; each district board in a minimum price area having proposed minimum prices free on board transportation facilities at the mines for the kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal produced in their respective districts, and classifications of coals and price variations as to mines, consuming market areas, values as to uses and seasonal demand, said prices having been proposed so as to yield a return per net ton for each district, equal as nearly as may be to the weighted average of the total costs, per net ton, of the tonnage of such minimum price area, such total costs computed as provided by subsection (a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, the minimum prices having been proposed on tentative weighted average costs, with later adjustments thereof to reflect the actual adjusted weighted average costs; the Commission having by its Order Number 76 determined and established the initial classifications of coals of code members within said District Four; the District Board for District Number Four having failed to coordinate in common consuming market areas with other districts upon a fair competitive basis the said proposed minimum prices as found by Commission Order Number 60, and the Commission having acted in lieu of said District Board under the authority of Section 6 (a) of the Act in coordinating the said proposed minimum prices upon a fair competitive basis in common consuming market areas as determined by the Commission and set forth in the attached Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members within District Number Four, hereinafter referred to; and

The Commission, in coordinating and establishing the prices, having taken into account, among other factors, the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal, and transportation charges upon coal, and having conformed to the standards that such prices (a) be just and equitable as between producers within each district (b) do not permit dumping, (c) be just and equitable and not unduly prejudicial or preferential, as between and among districts, (d) reflect, as nearly as possible, the relative market values, at points of delivery in each common consuming market area, of the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coals produced in the various districts, taking into account values as to uses, seasonal demand, transportation methods and charges and their effect upon a reasonable opportunity to compete on a fair basis, and the competitive relationships between coal and other forms of fuel and energy, (e) preserve, as nearly as may be, existing fair competitive opportunities, and (f) have due regard for the interests of the consuming public; and

The Commission having accepted the proposed minimum prices as submitted by the District Board of District Number Four, and having modified same so as to conform to the standards set forth in the Act, and having used said proposed prices as modified as a basis for coordination with other districts, has coordinated same in conformity with the provisions of the Act and in the manner aforesaid, and having determined that the minimum prices so coordinated do not, as to District Number Four or any other district with which prices were so coordinated, reduce or increase the return per net ton upon all the coal produced within any of such districts below or above the minimum return as provided in subsection (a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, by an amount greater than necessary to accomplish such coordination, and that the return per net ton upon the entire tonnage of the minimum price area in which any such district is located, at such prices as coordinated, will approximate the weighted average of the total cost per net ton of the tonnage of such minimum price area.

Now, therefore, pursuant to Act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes" (Public, No. 48, 75th Cong., 1st sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, the National Bituminous Coal Commission hereby orders:

1. That the minimum prices of coals of code members produced within District Number Four, set opposite the names of code members and their respective mines, as the same appear in the Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District Number Four, filed this day in the office of the Secretary of the Commission and made a part hereof by reference as though fully set forth herein, shall be and hereby are determined and established as the minimum prices of coals of code members within the said District Number Four and such minimum prices shall be and become effective at 12:01 o'clock A. M. on the 16th day of December, 1937.

2. That any code member or district board or member thereof, or any State or political subdivision of a State, or the Consumers' Counsel who shall be dissatisfied with the coordination of prices or by any minimum price established, may at any time after this date make complaint by petition to the Commission, pursuant to Section 4, Part II (d), and in conformity with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, and the Commission shall after notice and hearing make such further order as may be required to effectuate the purpose of subsection (b) of Part II of Section 4 of the Act. Pending final disposition of such petition and upon reasonable showing of necessity therefor, the Commission may at any time make such preliminary or temporary order as in its judgment may be appropriate, and not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act.

3. That the Secretary of the Commission shall forthwith mail copies of this order and Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District Number Four to the Consumers' Counsel, the Secretaries of the Bituminous Coal Producers Board for the districts within Minimum Price Area One and to code members within District Number Four, shall cause copies of this order and said Schedule and copies of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure to be made available for inspection by all interested parties at the Secretary's office of the Commission and at all statistical bureaus of the Commission, and shall cause to be published a copy of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By order of the Commission.

Dated this 30th day of November, 1937.

[SEAL] F. WITCHER MCCULLOUGH,
Secretary.

[Order No. 93]

AN ORDER ESTABLISHING MINIMUM PRICES FOR COALS OF CODE MEMBERS PRODUCED WITHIN DISTRICT NUMBER FIVE IN CONFORMITY WITH SECTION 4, PART II, SUBSECTIONS (a) AND (b) OF THE BITUMINOUS COAL ACT OF 1937

The National Bituminous Coal Commission having established in each of the districts under its jurisdiction, as an agency of the Commission, a statistical bureau, and having directed by its Order Number 15 producers of bituminous coal to file therewith cost data for the calendar year 1936; the district boards having been organized pursuant to Section 4, Part I, (a), of the Act and such district boards having, from cost data submitted by the statistical bureaus for their respective districts, determined, pursuant to Order Number 55 of the Commission, the weighted average of the total costs of the ascertainable tonnage produced in their respective districts in the calendar year 1936 and having adjusted the average costs so determined, as was necessary to give effect to any changes in wage rates, hours of employment, or other factors substantially affecting costs, exclusive of seasonal changes, so as to reflect as accurately as possible any change or changes which had been established since January 1, 1936, and having submitted to the Commission such determinations and the computations upon which they were based; the Commission having thereupon determined by its Order Number 62 the weighted average of the total costs of the tonnage for Minimum Price Area One in the calendar year 1936, adjusted as aforesaid, and having transmitted the same to the several district boards in such minimum price area; each district board in a minimum price area having proposed minimum prices free on board transportation facilities at the mines for the kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal produced in their respective districts, and classifications of coals and price variations as to mines, consuming market areas, values as to uses and seasonal demand, said prices having been proposed so as to yield a return per net ton for each district, equal as nearly as may be to the weighted average of the total costs, per net ton, of the tonnage of such minimum price area, such total costs computed as provided by subsection (a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, the minimum prices having been proposed on tentative weighted average costs, with later adjustments thereof to reflect the actual adjusted weighted average costs; the Commission having by its Order Number 77 determined and established the initial classifications of coals of code members within said District Five; the District Board for District Number Five having failed to coordinate in common consuming market areas with other districts upon a fair competitive basis the said proposed minimum prices as found by Commission Order Number 60, and the Commission having acted in lieu of said District Board under the authority of Section 6 (a) of the Act in coordinating the said proposed minimum prices upon a fair competitive basis in common consuming market areas as determined by the Commission and set forth in the attached Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members within District Number Five, hereinafter referred to; and

The Commission, in coordinating and establishing the prices, having taken into account, among other factors, the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal, and transportation charges upon coal, and having conformed to the standards that such prices (a) be just and equitable as between producers within each district, (b) do not permit dumping, (c) be just and equitable and not unduly prejudicial or preferential, as between and among districts, (d) reflect, as nearly as possible, the relative market values, at points of delivery in each common consuming market area, of the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coals produced in the various districts, taking into account values as to uses, seasonal demand, transportation methods and charges and their effect upon a reasonable opportunity to compete on a fair basis, and the competitive relationships between coal and other forms of fuel and energy, (e) preserve, as nearly as may be, existing fair competitive opportunities, and (f) have due regard for the interests of the consuming public; and

The Commission having accepted the proposed minimum prices as submitted by the District Board of District Number Five, and having modified same so as to conform to the standards set forth in the Act, and having used said proposed prices as modified as a basis for coordination with other districts, has coordinated same in conformity with the provisions of the Act and in the manner aforesaid, and having determined that the minimum prices so coordinated do not, as to District Number Five or any other district with which prices were so coordinated, reduce or increase the return per net ton upon all the coal produced within any of such districts below or above the minimum return as provided in subsection (a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, by an amount greater than necessary to accomplish such coordination, and that the return per net ton upon the entire tonnage of the minimum price area in which any such district is located, at such prices as coordinated, will approximate the weighted average of the total cost per net ton of the tonnage of such minimum price area.

Now, therefore, pursuant to Act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes" (Public, No. 48, 75th Cong., 1st sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, the National Bituminous Coal Commission hereby orders:

1. That the minimum prices of coals of code members produced within District Number Five set opposite the names of code members and their respective mines, as the same appear in the Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District Number Five, filed this day in the office of the Secretary of the Commission and made a part hereof by reference as though fully set forth herein, shall be and hereby are determined and established as the minimum prices of coals of code members within the said District Number Five and such minimum prices shall be and become effective at 12: 01 o'clock A. M. on the 16th day of December, 1937.

2. That any code member or district board or member thereof, or any State or political subdivision of a State, or the Consumers' Counsel who shall be dissatisfied with the coordination of prices or by any minimum price established, may at any time after this date make complaint by petition to the Commission, pursuant to Section 4, Part II (d), and in conformity with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, and the Commission shall after notice and hearing make such further order as may be required to effectuate the purpose of subsection (b) of Part II of Section 4 of the Act. Pending final disposition of such petition and upon reasonable showing of necessity therefor, the Commission may at any time make such preliminary or temporary order as in its judgment may be appropriate, and not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act.

3. That the Secretary of the Commission shall forthwith mail copies of this order and Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District Number Five to the Consumers' Counsel, the Secretaries of the Bituminous Coal Producers Board for the districts within Minimum Price Area One and to code members within District Number Five, shall cause copies of this order and said Schedule and copies of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure to be made available for inspection by all interested parties at the Secretary's office of the Commission and at all statistical bureaus of the Commission, and shall cause to be published a copy of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By order of the Commission.

Dated this 30th day of November, 1937.

[SEAL] F. WITCHER MCCULLOUGH, Secretary.

[Order No. 94]

AN ORDER ESTABLISHING MINIMUM PRICES FOR COALS OF CODE MEMBERS PRODUCED WITHIN DISTRICT NUMBER SIX IN CONFORMITY WITH SECTION 4, PART II, SUBSECTIONS (A) AND (B) OF THE BITUMINOUS COAL ACT OF 1937

The National Bituminous Coal Commission having established in each of the districts under its jurisdiction, as an agency of the Commission, a statistical bureau, and having directed by its Order Number 15 producers of bituminous coal to file therewith cost data for the calendar year 1936; the district boards having been organized pursuant to Section 4, Part I, (a), of the Act and such district boards having, from cost data submitted by the statisical bureaus for their respective districts, determined, pursuant to Order Number 55 of the Commission, the weighted average of the total costs of the ascertainable tonnage produced in their respective districts in the calendar year 1936 and having adjusted the average costs so determined, as was necessary to give effect to any changes in wage rates, hours of employment, or other factors substantially affecting costs, exclusive of seasonal changes, so as to reflect as accurately as possible any change or changes which had been established since January 1, 1936, and having submitted to the Commission such determinations and the computations upon which they were based, the Commission having thereupon determined by its Order Number 62 the weighted average of the total costs of the tonnage for Minimum Price Area One in the calendar year 1936, adjusted as aforesaid, and having transmitted the same to the several district boards in such minimum price area; each district board in a minimum price area having proposed minimum prices free on board transportation facilities at the mines for the kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal produced in their respective districts, and classifications of coals and price variations as to mines, consuming market areas, values as to uses and seasonal demand, said prices having been proposed so as to yield a return per net ton for each district, equal as nearly as may be to the weighted average of the total costs, per net ton, of the tonnage of such minimum price area, such total costs computed as provided by subsection (a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, the minimum prices having been proposed on tentative weighted average costs, with later adjustments thereof to reflect the actual adjusted weighted average costs; the Commission having by its Order Number Six determined and established the initial classifications of coals of code members within said District Six; the District Board for District Number Six having failed to coordinate in common consuming market areas with other districts upon a fair competitive basis the said proposed minimum prices as found by Commission Order Number 60, and the Commission having acted in lieu of said District Board under the authority of Section 6 (a) of the Act in coordinating the said proposed minimum prices upon a fair competitive basis in common consuming market areas as determined by the Commission and set forth in the attached Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members within District Number Six, hereinafter referred to; and

The Commission, in coordinating and establishing the prices, having taken into account, among other factors, the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal, and transportation charges upon coal, and having conformed to the standards that such prices (a) be just and equitable as between producers within each district (b) do not permit dumping, (c) be just and equitable and not unduly prejudicial or preferential, as between and among districts, (d) reflect, as nearly as possible, the relative market values, as points of delivery in each common consuming market area, of the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coals produced in the various districts, taking into account values as to uses, seasonal demand, transportation methods and charges and their effect upon a reasonable opportunity to compete on a fair basis, and the competitive relationships between coal and other forms of fuel and energy, (e) preserve, as nearly as may be, existing fair competitive opportunities, and (f) have due regard for the interests of the consuming public; and

The Commission having accepted the proposed minimum prices as submitted by the District Board of District Number Six, and having modified same so as to conform to the standards set forth in the Act, and having used said proposed prices as modified as a basis for coordination with other districts, has coordinated same in conformity with the provisions of the Act and in the manner aforesaid, and having determined that the minimum prices so coordinated do not, as to District Number Six or any other district with which prices were so coordinated, reduce or increase the return per net ton upon all the coal produced within any of such districts below or above the minimum return as provided in subsection (a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, by an amount greater than necessary to accomplish such coordination, and that the return per net ton upon the entire tonnage of the minimum price area in which any such district is located, at such prices as coordinated, will approximate the weighted average of the total cost per net ton of the tonnage of such minimum price area.

Now, therefore, pursuant to Act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes" (Public, No. 48, 75th Cong., 1st sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, the National Bituminous Coal Commission hereby orders:

1. That the minimum prices of coals of code members produced within District Number Six, set opposite the names of code members and their respective mines, as the same appear in the Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District Number Six, filed this day in the office of the Secretary of the Commission and made a part hereof by reference as though fully set forth herein, shall be and hereby are determined and established as the minimum prices of coals of code members within the said District Number Six and such minimum prices shall be and become effective at 12:01 o'clock A. M. on the 16th day of December, 1937.

2. That any code member or district board or member thereof, or any State or political subdivision of a State, or the Consumers' Counsel who shall be dissatisfied with the coordination of prices or by any minimum price established, may at any time after this date make complaint by petition to the Commission, pursuant to Section 4, Part II (d), and in conformity with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, and the Commission shall after notice and hearing make such further order as may be required to effectuate the purpose of subsection (b) of Part II of Section 4 of the Act. Pending final disposition of such petition and upon reasonable showing of necessity therefor, the Commission may at any time make such preliminary or temporary order as in its judgment may be appropriate, and not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act.

3. That the Secretary of the Commission shall forthwith mail copies of this order and Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District Number Six to the Consumers' Counsel, the Secretaries of the Bituminous Coal Producers Board for the districts within Minimum Price Area One and to code members within District Number Six, shall cause copies of this order and said Schedule and copies of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure to be made available for inspection by all interested parties at the Secretary's office of the Commission and at all statistical bureaus of the Commission, and shall cause to be published a copy of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By order of the Commission.

Dated this 30th day of November, 1937.

[Order No. 95]

AN ORDER ESTABLISHING MINIMUM PRICES FOR COALS OF CODE MEMBERS PRODUCED WITHIN DISTRICT NUMBER SEVEN IN CONFORMITY WITH SECTION 4, PART II, SUBSECTIONS (A) AND (B) OF THE BITUMINOUS COAL ACT OF 1937

The National Bituminous Coal Commission having established in each of the districts under its jurisdiction, as an agency of the Commission, a statistical bureau, and having directed by its Order Number 15 producers of bituminous coal to file therewith cost data for the calendar year 1936; the district boards having been organized pursuant to Section 4, Part I, (a), of the Act and such district boards having, from cost data submitted by the statistical bureaus for their respective districts, determined, pursuant to Order Number 55 of the Commission, the weighted average of the total costs of the ascertainable tonnage produced in their respective districts in the calendar year 1936 and having adjusted the average costs so determined, as was necessary to give effect to any changes in wage rates, hours of employment, or other factors substantially affecting costs, exclusive of seasonal changes, so as to reflect as accurately as possible any change or changes which had been established since January 1, 1936, and having submitted to the Commission such determination and the computations upon which they were based; the Commission having thereupon determined by its Order Number 62 the weighted average of the total costs of the tonnage for Minimum Price Area One in the calendar year 1936, adjusted as aforesaid, and having transmitted the same to the several district boards in such minimum price area; each district board in a minimum price area having proposed minimum prices free on board transportation facilities at the mines for the kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal produced in their respective districts, and classifications of coals and price variations as to mines, consuming market areas, values as to uses and seasonal demand, said prices having been proposed so as to yield a return per net ton for each district, equal as nearly as may be to the weighted average of the total costs, per net ton, of the tonnage of such minimum price area, such total costs computed as provided by subsection

(a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, the minimum prices having been proposed on tentative weighted average costs, with later adjustments thereof to reflect the actual adjusted weighted average costs. the Commission having by its Order Number 82 determined and established the initial classifications of coals of code members within said District 7; the District Board for District Number 7 having failed to coordinate in common consuming market areas with other districts upon a fair competitive basis the said proposed minimum prices as found by Commission Order Number 60, and the Commission having acted in lieu of said District Board under the authority of Section 6 (a) of the Act in coordinating the said proposed minimum prices upon a fair competitive basis in common consuming market areas as determined by the Commission and set forth in the attached Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members within District Number 7, hereinafter referred to: and

The Commission, in coordinating and establishing the prices, having taken into account, among other factors, the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coal, and transportation charges upon coal, and having conformed to the standards that such prices (a) be just and equitable as between producers within each district, (b) do not permit dumping, (c) be just and equitable and not unduly prejudicial or preferential, as between and among districts, (d) reflect, as nearly as possible, the relative market values, at points of delivery in each common consuming market area, of the various kinds, qualities, and sizes of coals produced in the various districts, taking into account values as to uses, seasonal demand, transportation methods and charges and their effect upon a reasonable opportunity to compete on a fair basis, and the competitive relationships between coal and other forms of fuel and energy, (e) preserve, as nearly as may be, existing fair competitive opportunities, and (f) have due regard for the interests of the consuming public; and

The Commission having accepted the proposed minimum prices as submitted by the District Board of District Number 7, and having modified same so as to conform to the standards set forth in the Act, and having used said proposed prices as modified as a basis for coordination with other districts, has coordinated same in conformity with the provisions of the Act and in the manner aforesaid, and having determined that the minimum prices so coordinated do not, as to District Number 7 or any other district with which prices were so coordinated, reduce or increase the return per net ton upon all the coal produced within any of such districts below or above the minimum return as provided in subsection (a), Part II, Section 4, of the Act, by an amount greater than necessary to accomplish such coordination, and that the return per net ton upon the entire tonnage of the minimum price area in which any such district is located, at such prices as coordinated, will approximate the weighted average of the total cost per net ton of the tonnage of such minimum price area.

Now, therefore, pursuant to Act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes" (Public, No. 48, 75th Cong., 1st sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, the National Bituminous Coal Commission hereby orders:

1. That the minimum prices of coals of code members produced within District Number 7, set opposite the names of code members and their respective mines, as the same appear in the Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District Number 7, filed this day in the office of the Secretary of the Commission and made a part hereof by reference as though fully set forth herein, shall be and hereby are determined and established as the minimum prices of coals of code members within the said District Number 7 and such minimum prices shall be and become effective at 12:01 o'clock A. M. on the 16th day of December, 1937.

2. That any code member or district board or member thereof, or any State or political subdivision of a State, or the Consumers' Counsel who shall be dissatisfied with the coordination of prices or by any minimum price established, may at any time after this date make complaint by petition to the Commission, pursuant to Section 4, Part II (d), and in conformity with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, and the Commission shall after notice and hearing make such further order as may be required to effectuate the purpose of subsection (b) of Part II of Section 4 of the Act. Pending final disposition of such petition and upon reasonable showing of necessity therefor, the Commission may at any time make such preliminary or temporary order as in its judgment may be appropriate, and not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act.

3. That the Secretary of the Commission shall forthwith mail copies of this order and Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District Number 7 to the Consumers' Counsel, the Secretaries of the Bituminous Coal Producers Board for the districts within Minimum Price Area One and to code members within District Number 7, shall cause copies of this order and said Schedule and copies of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure to be made available for inspection by all interested parties at the Secretary's office of the Commission and at all statistical bureaus of the Commission, and shall cause to be published a copy of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By order of the Commission.

[SEAL] F. WITCHER MCCULLOUGH,
Secretary.
